REDS SEIZE 320 VILLAGES ALONG WAY TO POLAND

Gain on 2 Fronts in White Russia.

LONDON, Oct. 3 [Sunday]—(AP).—Battling mounting German resistance in their smash down the road to Poland, soviet forces yesterday routed the Nazis from 320 villages in White Russia, Moscow announced today, while far to the south the Nazis were pushed back to the last few miles of marshes in the Caucasus.

Russia's midnight war report said the Red army repulsed 10 German counter-attacks in gaining up to 11 miles toward Mogilev. More Nazi blows were crushed as the soviet forces crashed nine miles closer to Gomel and moved nearer to Vitebsk. All three are Nazi fortresses barring the way to the old Russo-Polish border. In this region the Red army is only a little more than 100 miles from the former frontier.

Paving the way for the soviet advance, Russian bombers pounded Mogilev, Vitebsk, and Orsha, another rail junction.

While Russia was telling of advances at both ends of the front, Berlin reported a renewal of a mighty Russian thrust in the south Ukraine aimed at clearing the Crimea.

Seize Kuban Strongholds.

Moscow's war bulletin said that on the German Kuban bridgehead in the Caucasus three strong defense points were captured as the Germans fell back toward the Kerch strait escape route to the Crimea. The report was recorded here by the soviet radio monitor.

A Berlin broadcast reported fresh Russian attacks in the Kuban area, "as well as enveloping attempts undertaken from the sea" which failed.

In the south Ukraine around Zaporozhe, at the Dnieper river's great bend, a Berlin broadcast said the Russians attacked early today with three armies, or about 12 divisions, plus special troops, tank formations, and motorized units.

[Altho the Moscow war report made no mention of such a massive attack at the Dnieper bend, Germany frequently has made the first announcement of Russian offensives, which later are confirmed by Moscow.]

Admit Reds Hold Bridgehead.

The German high command mentioned fighting on the middle Dnieper "for soviet bridgeheads" without making clear which bank of the stream was meant.

A Berlin broadcast, however, told of fresh Russian attempts to cross the river and added: "Apart from the smallish Russian bridgehead, the entire western bank of the Dnieper still is firmly in German hands."

Moscow made no claims of Dnieper crossings but told of mopping up the last centers of German resistance on the low east bank. Russia also made no report on the battle for the major Dnieper fortress of Kiev, which is under siege by soviet forces.

Germany belatedly announced that it had evacuated Kremenchug, important east bank town 170 miles southeast of Kiev, three days after the Russians disclosed its capture.

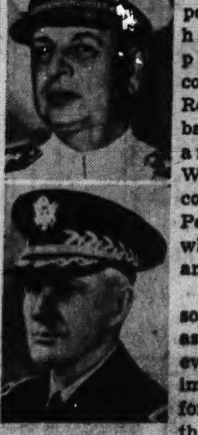
Trial of Short, Kimmel Held 'Unwise' Now

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—Secretaries Frank Knox of the navy and Henry L. Stimson of the war department reported today they have postponed plans for the court-martial of Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, commanders at Pearl Harbor when the Japanese attacked.



Adm. H. E. Kimmel [top] and Gen. W. C. Short.

Knox and Stimson gave their assurance, however, there is no immediate cause for apprehension that proceedings against the two will be permitted to lapse thru the statute of limitations. The secretaries said in a joint statement that both Short and Kimmel voluntarily have waived the protection of the statute for the duration of the war and six months thereafter.

Thus the true story of the causes of the disaster at Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, may yet be told in a court-martial.

Held "Undesirable."

The reason Knox and Stimson gave today is that "it is undesirable in the public interest to proceed at this time with the trial." Their announcement did not say the trial would divulge information to the enemy and did not comment on assertions that evidence which a trial would bring out might reflect upon men higher up than the two commanders.

The announcement said the postponement will not affect the existing rights of the government or the men concerned, but did not explain how those rights would be protected in event an airing of the case is still held undesirable within six months after the war.

After the Japanese attack Kimmel and Short were accused of dereliction in duty by a board of inquiry headed by Justice Owen J. Roberts of the Supreme court. The board found the navy defenses, under Kimmel, and the army defenses, under Short, were not on the alert.

Supply Question Ignored.

The board's report passed over the asserted inaccurate information of the naval intelligence on the movement of the Japanese fleet and accusations that inadequate plans had been made for the protection of Hawaii and that the administration had failed to supply sufficient ships, planes, and guns to defend the islands.

Both Kimmel and Short applied for retirement, which their respective departments approved Feb. 28 of last year with the comment that approval was "without condonation of any offense or prejudice to any further disciplinary action."

Both commanders were given three-quarters pay, or $6,000 a year. Knox and Stimson then ordered the preparation of charges.

Expiration Date Discovered.

Little was heard of the case from that time on until legal authorities discovered that the charges would expire two years after the Pearl Harbor attack unless the men were ordered to trial meanwhile. The deadline was Dec. 7, 1943. Before Knox and Stimson made their announcement today there had been frequent demands that a trial be set.

Kimmel and Short have remained silent since Pearl Harbor, and the public never has learned their story. Some on Capitol hill have said their silence is natural in view of their failure to prevent the catastrophe.

A SUPER-EMERGENCY OPERATION MAY BE NECESSARY

Assailant of 2 at Graveside Is Found Slain

The search for Paul Topp, who shot his brother and sister-in-law in a cemetery Friday in the wake of a family estate dispute, came to an end in northwestern Wisconsin last night when Topp was found shot to death in his car on a lonely road. Apparently he had killed himself.

The end of the search came in a routine way. State Highway Policeman Clarence Walter was patroling route 12, four miles west of Menomonie, about 400 miles from Chicago, when he noticed a car on the shoulder. Investigating, he found Topp dead, a bullet wound in his head and a gun at his side.

Woman Critically Wounded.

Victims of Topp's shooting foray were his brother, Arthur, and the latter's wife, of 1636 Thorndale avenue. With other relatives and friends, they had attended the burial of the Topp brothers' mother. It was not known that Paul was hiding in the bushes near by. As the mourners left the graveside, Topp leaped out and fired several shots. One grazed his brother. Another hit the latter's wife in the head. At Evanston hospital it was said if she recovers she may be blind.

Paul Topp was 53 years old, a bachelor, and lived at 2514 Bernard street. He and his brother had been quarreling over money received from the sale of the family home. Topp was a veteran of World War I., a block captain, coast guard auxiliary member, and veteran employe of the rapid transit lines.

Employers Praises Record.

Officials of the Chicago Rapid Transit Lines, by whom the assailant has been employed for 31 years, expressed amazement at the paradox revealed by the shooting. Topp's work record reveals that he has not had one demerit for an infraction of any kind since he began work for the company on July 11, 1912, as an extra guard.

In February, 1918, Topp took a leave of absence to enter the World war, serving in the engineers corps. The company rehired him in August of 1919, and in September promoted him to conductor on the elevated lines, a position he has held ever since, without one complaint ever being filed against him.

Arthur Topp told police his brother had quarreled with him over division of $6,000 received recently from the sale of the family home at 5325 Warwick avenue. The home had been deeded to Arthur by their father, Herman, who died in August.

Avoids Kin at Bier.

H. W. Matz, the funeral director, said Paul Topp had appeared at the funeral home Thursday night in his coast guard uniform, but had not mingled with the other relatives.

Topp's landlady described him as mild and quiet, a tenant who neither drinks nor smokes. When last seen he was wearing a brown suit and blue hat. He was driving a 1936 blue Chrysler sedan bearing Illinois license No. 1-115-892.

Witnesses said the bullets fired by Topp narrowly missed hitting the Rev. Earl W. Johnson, a Swedish Lutheran pastor, who had conducted the services for Topp's mother.

GANDHI 75; HIS FOLLOWERS OPEN NEW CAMPAIGN

BOMBAY, Oct. 2 (AP).—Mohandas K. Gandhi was 75 years old today and his birthday was the signal for a nation-wide celebration by his followers under considerable handicaps.

The All-India congress leader still is detained at the palace of the Aga Kahn at Poona, where he has been held since Aug. 9, 1942, and authorities banned public demonstrations at Madras, Bombay, and many other sections.

While the anniversary was marked today by a renewal of demands for Gandhi's release in the Indian owned press, it also was the signal for the start of weeks of pro-congress demonstrations.

Goal of Bond Drive Passed by 1.8 Billion

SALES BY STATES.

A table showing the rating of the various states in the war bond drive appears on page 12.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—The 24 day third war loan campaign ended tonight, with its $15,000,000,000 goal oversubscribed and Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau voicing his satisfaction for a job well done.

Tonight the drive was over the top by $1,887,000,000—and the final count is yet to come. There was an increase of $667,000,000 over the previous day.

Morgenthau said reports from various states indicated there was a last minute buying rush. Reports will continue to come in for the next 10 days or two weeks and a final tally is expected Oct. 18.

"The American people deserve a great deal of credit for what they have done," Morgenthau said in a statement.

Added to Tax Burden.

"We gave them a job so large that a less patriotic people would simply have given it up as impossible. We gave them this job to do at the same time they were making income tax payments of almost five billion dollars—and still they came thru.

"In my estimation it proves beyond a question of doubt that the American people know what the war is about, and are really in it wholeheartedly, and are determined to do whatever they can to win it quickly and decisively."

The latest treasury tabulations, based on Oct. 1 reports, showed corporations and investors with a quota of $10,000,000,000 had purchased $11,826,000,000, or 118 per cent of their goal. In addition, federal trust funds of $630,000,000 had been invested in bonds.

Individuals Behind Quota.

Individuals, however, had bought only 75 per cent of their allotted total. Sales in this classification were $3,764,000,000, while the goal for individuals, partnerships, and personal trust funds was $5,000,000.

Maryland continued to hold first place in the list of states for largest purchases beyond the quotas. It had subscribed 146 per cent of its quota of $196,000,000, with sales of $285,000,000.

Routed by Flames, Loses Dog, Injured—All in Day

Misfortune struck three times yesterday at Ole Sorenson, 66 years old. Early in the day fire drove him from his room at 2318 Washington boulevard. Not long afterward the household pet, Mickey, a dog was killed by an automobile. A few hours later a large section of sidewalk approximately in front of 12 North Oakley boulevard on which he was walking caved in. Sorenson suffered a possible skull fracture and was taken to County hospital.

ALLIES BATTLE FLEEING NAZIS ON ROME ROAD

British Gain 30 Mi. Along Adriatic.

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Oct. 2 (AP).—Brisk fighting raged north of Naples and north of Avellino in Italy today as American and British troops pursued the fiercely resisting rear guard of Marshal Erwin Rommel along the roads to Rome.

Enemy ground troops and armored forces were battling vigorously beyond Naples and giving ground only foot by foot in the face of the allies' dogged pursuit. The Germans obviously were determined to hold back the hard hitting, high speed columns of Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark until a new defense line could be prepared.

The same brand of resistance was being encountered by American troops advancing thru the mountains north and northeast of Avellino. An allied military spokesman said there was slight chance that many prisoners would be taken.

Planes Blast Bridges.

"It should be a masterly retreat," he conceded. "They have got Rommel in Italy, and he is a master at rearguard fighting. He ought to be. He's done more of it than any one else."

Marshals Rommel and Albert Kesselring were withdrawing their troops in good order and so far they had given no hint where they hoped to make a real stand.

Hitting furiously to block the Germans' retreat, allied bombers last night attacked pontoon bridges at Grazzanise, 20 miles north of Naples, where there is a crossing of the Volturno river. Formia, a coastal city along the ancient Appian way to Rome, also was heavily attacked.

On the Adriatic coast Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery's British 8th army met only light opposition and surged 30 miles northward to occupy the Gargano promontory. The island towns of San Severo and Lucera also were seized.

Tighter Grip in Oil Fields.

San Severo is 18 miles north of the great aerial base of Foggia, and Lucera is 12 miles northwest. Their capture tightened the allied hold on the 13 air fields in the Foggia area, from which heavy bombers can attack the Balkans and southern Germany.

[Berlin dispatches to Stockholm said Adolf Hitler had ordered his marshals to establish a "blood wall" in northern Italy and there to defend the fortress of Europe with the "last drop of blood." A Nazi military spokesman was quoted as declaring the German army could hold such a wall many years. Swiss dispatches to Stockholm quoted Italian sources as saying the Nazis were taking up strong positions in the historic Castelli Romani region along the Appian way southeast of Rome. The Pope's summer residence at Castel Gandolfo is in the area.]

YANKS WIN LAST NAPLES BATTLE: AGAINST SNIPERS

BY HAL BOYLE.

NAPLES, Italy, Oct. 1 [Delayed]—(AP).—Italian guerrillas and American doughboys in a thrilling battle of the rooftops overcrowded Neopolitan streets, shot it out for an hour with the last pocket of enemy resistance in Naples late today and captured 18 trapped Germans and 15 Italian Fascists.

The main Nazi forces had pulled out early in the morning after seven days of street rioting and clashes with armed Badoglio followers who rebelled against German attempts to draft 30,000 Italian workers.

"We thought the last enemy troops had gone when an English-speaking Italian came up to our command post and said he and friends had some Nazis and Fascists cornered in an old temple," said Pvt. James H. Smart of Los Angeles, Cal.

"When we got there they opened up on us with rifles, machineguns, and carbines, potato masher grenades—everything you could ask for."

Hundreds in Hospital.

The entrenched enemy for a time pinned down the attackers who picked back at them from around street corners. The young Italian guerrillas, fighting with collars open and no helmets, fired thru holes in concrete rails bordering the hospital Incurabili, where hundreds of wounded and unburied dead—victims of the week-long street fighting and German executions—lay inside. Two hundred dead men, women, and children—some dead for a week—lay alongside one of the walls of the hospital and on the other side were wailing survivors and 600 wounded persons. These were just a fraction of the toll in the fighting and rioting.

Crowds Threaten Prisoners.

"After we knocked them out of the temple they took to the roofs," Smart said. "We kept right after them and finally cornered them and forced them to give up."

It then became a problem of protecting the prisoners from the threatening crowd and the more fanatical members of the guerrilla bands, Smart added. The whole battle was fought without the American troops suffering a single casualty.

After the firing died out the friendly Italians surged around our jeep and begged for food and water. An old man in the crowd pointed proudly at a group of dirty little Italian boys and said "they killed Germans too." Pointing at one boy, who was no more than 12 years old, he pantomimed how the lad had slipped up behind a German soldier at night and stabbed him to death. The boy smiled and nodded and those in the crowd patted his head.

"Prisoner," Is Dead Nazi.

In the hospital courtyard an Italian jerked open a door and said "prisoner inside." Grinning, he pointed to the corpse of a German soldier.

Inside the hospital, frantic men and weeping women beat with bare knuckles on one closed door. Attendants, who let them pass thru a few at a time, admitted us into this storehouse of the dead, where the bodies of those who were killed in the street fighting or who died of wounds in the hospital lay awaiting identification.

"We were unable to bury them

'Miss Chicago' Goes to Naples

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE 5TH ARMY ON THE ROAD TO NAPLES, Sept. 30 [Delayed]. — "Miss Chicago" was among the leaders today as the allies drove thru Torre Annunziata on the way to Naples. "Miss Chicago," with her olive drab complexion, battered chassis, and four wheel drive, is no beauty contest winner, but she is one of the most serviceable jeeps in the American army.

Pvt. R. C. Wilder.

Riddled by German Shell.

Her name was painted in yellow along her side by her driver, Pvt. Raymond C. Wilder, 5951 South Winchester avenue, Chicago. She has taken him over mountains and across plains since he christened her last April 13 at Oran. Italy was the scene of her first combat action and she carries scars.

"One day near Maiori on the Mediterranean coast," Wilder said, "she was standing idle in a motor pool. The Germans hurled an 88 mm. shell nearby. Two of her tires were wrecked, her radio equipment smashed, her motor damaged and shrapnel ripped her front seat.

"I fixed her up and she is just about as good as new. I hope I make Berlin in her. Meanwhile, I am trying to learn if there is an equivalent of the Purple Heart for a jeep wounded in battle."

"Miss Quincy" Does Well.

Close behind "Miss Chicago" in the line of jeeps traveled "Miss Quincy," driven by Pvt. Harold Winfield, 619 Spruce street, Quincy, Ill. "Miss Quincy" reported that her contours were unharmed.

Among the other Illinois lads in this contingent was Corp. Kenneth Reidelberger, 261 Longview place, Decatur, Ill.; and Privates Clement Hahn, 321 South Main street, Wheaton, Ill., and Charles S. Tulin of Galesburg, Ill.

ALLIED HDQ. IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Oct. 3 [Sunday]—(AP).—The bitterly defended air and sea base at Finschhafen, New Guinea, was captured at 11 o'clock Saturday morning by Australia's famed 9th division in a final charge that drove the Japanese defenders before them.

Supported by a damaging aerial assault by American attack and dive bombers, the Australians attacked the village from two directions and overcame opposition from the enemy's pillbox defenses.

Japanese marines who defended the base held on as long as possible and then scattered before the Australians' rifle and machine gun fire. Some Japanese took to the hills and jungle and others fell on the field.

Prisoners Not Mentioned.

There was no mention of the Australian "diggers" taking any prisoners in their final assault. No official estimate had been given of the size of the garrison defending Finschhafen.

Elements of the Australian division which took Finschhafen originally landed 12 miles east of Lae on Sept. 4. Another force which landed only 10 days ago 6 miles north of Finschhafen was held on the northern outskirts of the village by fixed defenses. The Lae force fought thru 48 miles of the worst jungle country in New Guinea to make the capture.

Finschhafen is the third major Jap position in New Guinea to fall since Sept. 12, when Salamaua was captured by the allies. Lae was captured Sept. 16.

Find 100 Jap Dead.

The Australian 9th division won fame for its action at El Alamein. Later it was brought from the desert in Egypt and given extensive training in jungle warfare.

The capture of Finschhafen gave the allies complete control of Huon gulf, which overlooks Japanese held New Britain only 70 miles away.

MacArthur's spokesman said 100 bodies of Japanese marines, considered the enemy's best troops, were found at Finschhafen.

The capture of Finschhafen in 10 days was MacArthur's shortest operation yet against a major Japanese position. Lae fell in 12 days.

Entire Area Taken.

In other campaigns, at Buna, Gona, and Munda, weeks were required to rout the Japanese from their machine gun emplacements such as were encountered at Finschhafen, a one time German missionary village.

The official bulletin said:

"Our ground forces have captured Finschhafen. All organized enemy resistance has been overcome and the entire area is now in our hands. The final onslaught was preceded by air preparation of attack and dive bombers on the enemy's positions near Kakakog, following which our ground forces took them by assault.

"Finschhafen itself fell on Saturday morning to troops of the 9th Australian division at 11 o'clock."

Aussies Scale Heights.

The Aussies braved heavy Japanese fire and silenced the Nipponese machine guns with hand grenades. The Japanese pulled back, taking advantage of each height and stubbornly contesting every yard. At times the Australians were forced to scale perpendicular heights to get at the foe. Allied losses have been much lighter than the enemy's.

The Australians described the Japanese as much easier foes than the Germans in the desert. One Australian officer said allied troops would have been unable to cross the Bumi river two miles north of Finschhafen if the Germans had been opposing them.

Japanese forces, the spokesman said, are now scattered over a wide area and the Australians are in hot pursuit. He said there had been particularly sharp fighting around Sattelberg the last few days.

American surface units, presumably P-T boats, caught a fleet of Jap barges moving toward Kolombangara in the New Georgia group the night of Sept. 29 and sank nine.

TRIB-BUNA TIRES FOR TRUCKS ARE HOLDING UP WELL

Less than One-Seventh of Tread Now Worn.

BY HAL FOUST.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 2.—The Trib-buna truck tires, on a one and a half ton Chevrolet are standing up. We'll give you some figures, if you're interested, but the O. K. report seems to satisfy most of the curbstone inquiries we receive at every stop on this Chicago Tribune tire test tour.

The inquiries, in villages, cities and from men and women in all walks of life, are first directed to the passenger car tires. We've told readers about the favorable performance of passenger car tires in recent dispatches. But there's also much apparent interest in the truck, even from folks who never owned one, because the public is dependent upon truck transportation for groceries, laundry, milk, and practically all necessities.

Little Tread Worn Off.

Six truck tires have now covered 4,549 miles. The average wear has been less than one-seventh of the original tread design. The precise figures are: Original design depth .374 of an inch; present average depth, .324 of an inch, and average loss .050 of an inch.

These figures indicate that at the average rate of wear during the last 4,549 miles the tires would cover a total 34,036 miles before becoming bald.

The wear has not been uniform on all six tires. The four tires on the rear have worn more rapidly than the two fronts. However, we compensated for this difference for the sake of longevity for the set of six, by shifting the tires.

One Tire Not So Good.

One of these six tires is not holding up as well as the other five. This tire, whether on front or rear, wobbles just a bit when the speed reaches 40 miles an hour. Floyd White, Tribune garage foreman and the driver, said he doesn't notice this irregularity while on the road. I can see it when trailing him in the Tribune Buick coupe. He has tried without success at three garages to have this wobble corrected.

The wear on this faulty tire is .065 of an inch as compared with the average of .047 of an inch for the other five tires. The life expectancy of the tread on the faulty tire, based on the rate of wear to date, is 26,243 miles as compared with a life expectancy of 36,196 miles for the other five tires.

SEEKS ENOUGH NEWSPRINT FOR SOLVENT PRESS

Boren Asks Nelson to State Views.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—Sufficient newsprint "to maintain the services and solvency of the free press in America" as asked by Chairman Lyle H. Boren [D., Okla.] of a special house committee investigating the newsprint shortage.

In a letter to Donald Nelson, Boren questioned the war production chief's recent statement that "further curtailments of newsprint are inevitable thru a large port of 1944."

"We do not wish to accept the inevitability of further curtailments without closest consideration of all the facts and without being convinced that every proper thing which can be done is being done to maintain the supply," Boren stated.

Nelson Asked to Hearing.

In this connection he asked Nelson to appear before the committee next Thursday, when it resumes hearings. Boren's letter stressed the possibilities of reduction of consumption by less essential users, and asked about government agency requirements, particularly on overseas shipments.

"It is our understanding that the lend-lease administration expected to ship 20,000 tons and the bureau of economic warfare 28,000 tone in 1943," Boren said. "We should like to know, if possible, the destination of this newsprint and why, in view of Canada's greater resources, it is felt necessary for the United States to export 48,000 tons."

He requested Nelson's opinion, too on "the particability of reducing the weight of newsprint to the end that a larger number of newspaper pages could be printed from the total tonnage available."

Six Questions Asked.

Nelson also was asked to explain:

1. Results of attempts to prevent further migration of woods labor.
2. The steps taken to designate manufacture of newsprint as an essential activity.
3. When a decision may be expected regarding use of war prisoners for wood cutting.
4. Whether WPB has any recommendations for increasing our domestic supply.
5. Whether facilities for reconversion of waste paper are being used to maximum capacity, and if a revival of the waste paper collection drive could relieve the situation.
6. Whether adjustments in price in pulpwood would increase the over-all supply.

ILLINOIS HOUSE EXPENSES IN '43 SET AT $106,000

Figures made public yesterday by John T. Daniels, secretary to Speaker Elmer J. Schnackenberg, show the Illinois house of representatives expenditures were approximately $12,000 less in 1941 and $6,000 less in 1943, compared with the house expenses of the 1939 session.

Daniels reported 1941 expenses of the house were $100,549.67 and in the 1943 session, $106,505.32, as compared with 1939 costs of $112,378.76. Schnackenberg presided over the 1941 and 1943 sessions.

Expenses of this year's session included employes' salaries and wages, $60,915; incidentals, $4,270.33; committee expenses, $6,614.40, and printing and binding, $34,705.50. The 1941 session costs included salaries and wages, $57,105; incidentals, $5,062.39; committees, $5,543.66, and printing and binding, $32,838.62. In the 1939 session salaries and wages cost $62,762.25; incidentals, $6,498.09; committees, $7,675.46, and printing and binding, $35,442.96.

SECOND COUSIN OF HESS SEIZED AS ENEMY ALIEN

New York, Oct. 2 (AP).—A middle aged woman, described by the federal bureau of investigation as a second cousin of Rudolf Hess, former Hitler aid, has been arrested with 41 other German aliens, E. E. Conroy, special agent in charge of the FBI office, announced today.

Conroy said the woman, whose name was not made public, is the daughter of a former colonel in the German army and has a brother who is a German officer. He said she admitted her relationship to Hess.

STATE STREET DIMS ITS LIGHTS TO HELP CONSERVE ON POWER

State street's intensified lighting system, the brightest in the world, was dimmed 50 per cent last night to comply with the power conservation program of the war production board.

The reduction was made by cutting out one of the two 2,000 watt globes in each of the 70 light standards between Lake and Van Buren streets, H. W. Rieger, assistant to the president of the State Street Lighting association, announced. In each case, the globe on the building side was shut off to leave street illumination for safety purposes.

It had been planned to dim the lights on Sept. 15 but the delay was requested by the United States treasury department for full lighting during the State street display of war material in connection with the third war bond drive.

GEN. HARTMAN GETS COMMAND OF CAMP ELLIS

Brig. Gen. George E. Hartman was named yesterday by Gen. H. S. Aurand, commanding general of the 6th service command, to succeed Maj. Gen. Russell L. Maxwell in command of Camp Ellis, Ill, Gen. Maxwell on Friday was ordered to Washington as assistant chief of the army general staff and assigned to the supply service.

QUOTA OF CREAM IN RESTAURANTS CUT TOMORROW

Beginning tomorrow restaurants will be under cream restrictions quotas fixing their consumption at 75 per cent of the equanity used last June. Donald Kiesau, executive secretary of the Chicago Restaurant association, said this would mean an actual reduction of 40 to 45 per cent in the amount usually consumed in October.

Kiesau commented that to operate within their quotas, eating establishments either would have to serve smaller portions of cream or serve milk and cream mixed. He added that butter would be "really restricted" by the increased point value and the continued supply shortage. Restaurants will eliminate butter servings whenever possible, he said, and many undoubtedly will serve it only with complete meals.

Buttermilk, chocolate milk, and cottage cheese, in addition to cream, sold to civilians beginning tomorrow will be held to 75 per cent of June levels in Chicago and 12 other urban areas. Civilian milk sales are limited to quantities sold in June.

NAVY IDENTIFIES CRUISER SINKER, 'BATTLESHIP X'

S. Dakota's Guns Send 3 Jap Vessels Down.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—The famous "Battleship X," which shot down 32 planes in one engagement and then sank three Japanese cruisers was identified today by the navy as the U. S. S. South Dakota.

Under command of Capt. Thomas L. Gatch, now Rear Adm. Gatch, judge advocate general of the navy, the South Dakota bagged the cruisers the night of Nov. 14 off Salvo Island in the Solomons.

She was prowling in search of enemy shipping when the three cruisers came into sight. The first Salvo from the South Dakota set ablaze one of the cruisers. Before the other enemy warships could get within range, the South Dakota had sunk them all. On Oct. 26 in the battle of Santa Cruz she had slugged her way thru a heavy air attack, shooting down 32 planes.

Ship of New Class.

The navy said the battleship's identity had been kept a secret for nearly a year because she was the first ship of a new class bearing new armament and with greatly increased fire power. To have identified her, the navy said, would have given the enemy valuable information.

The South Dakota's sister ships in the hard slugging class are the U. S. S. Massachusetts, U. S. S. Indiana, and U. S. S. Alabama.

Gatch told of the battle in a formal report which said, "I was more afraid of ramming the carrier we were protecting than of the attacking planes."

The carrier protected by the South Dakota was the Enterprise, which accounted for 33 Japanese planes including those knocked down by her own flyers.

Gatch said only a single torpedo plane of a group of 40 Japanese bombers did not fall or turn back from the South Dakota's fire.

Torpedo Misses Ship.

"It came at the stern of the ship," he reported. "It appeared that millions of tracer shells went right past that plane without hitting it, but some did strike it just before the pilot released his torpedo."

The torpedo missed and the plane struck the water and sank. Earlier 20 enemy dive bombers had been shot down in the first of three attacks on the battleship.

The third attack brought 24 dive bombers and torpedo planes. One bomb landed on top of a turret. "That was the only hit we took and it was the one that got me," said Gatch. A fragment of the bomb struck him in the neck.

Jap Trap Misfires.

Gatch said the Japanese thought they had set a trap for American war vessels between the islands of Guadalcanal and Savo. "We wanted to get caught," Gatch added. "They weren't expecting us; they had set this trap for foxes and we didn't think it would hold bears."

The battleship's lookouts spotted the enemy war craft. "They never knew just what sank them," Gatch said.

Subsequently the American force turned south in a passage west of Savo Island. Japanese cruisers and destroyers dashed out to attack with torpedoes. But again the Japanese "trap" backfired. And when the battle ended, the United States vessels had sunk one Japanese battleship or heavy cruiser, three cruisers, and one destroyer, and damaged other vessels.

Scene during battle of Santa Cruz last October, just released by the navy, shows the U. S. S. South Dakota and the carrier Enterprise in action which accounted for 65 Jap planes. The South Dakota's guns shot down 33, and planes off the Enterprise got 32. Splash at left (circle) is thought to be Jap torpedo plane hitting water. # 4 WACS COMING BACK TO U. S. FOR OFFICERS STUDY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—The war department announced today that members of the women's army corps serving overseas will be given an opportunity to return home for officers' training school, and four WACs already have been selected.

While there are officer candidate schools abroad for enlisted men, no such schools have been established for WACs, making it necessary that they be returned to this country for such training, the war department said.

The first WACs to be returned for the training will be enrolled at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., Oct. 11. They are Tech. Sgt. Gertrude Lund of Los Angeles, Calif.; Tech. 3d Gr. Frances M. Garland of Woodstock, Ill.; Tech. 3d Gr. Miriam K. Watson of Stephens City, Va.; and Tech. 5th Gr. Margaret M. Hartnett of Bethesda, Md.

Sgt. Lund was a member of the Los Angeles philharmonic symphony chorus from 1925 to 1933 and has sung in Hollywood bowl under the baton of Arturo Rodzinski.

Nazi Submarine Rammed, Sunk in Mediterranean

LONDON, Oct. 2 (AP).—A German submarine, depth-charged to the surface in an attack by allied destroyers in the Mediterranean recently, was rammed and sunk by one of the destroyers when it attempted to escape, the admiralty announced today. Five officers and 38 Nazi crew members were picked up. The British destroyer Easton rammed the craft.

FEAR ROME TO SUFFER FATE OF NAPLES AS NAZIS LEAVE CAPITAL

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

BERNE, Switzerland, Oct. 2.—Increasing fear that Rome will to a large extent suffer the same fate as Naples by next week-end was expressed in informed Catholic circles here tonight following the first "authorized" communications from the capital since its capitulation.

The Germans, according to this information, are rushing demolition preparations to destroy the city sewage system as well as its water supply by mining the main feed line from the reservoir in the hills. Early this week, it was said, German sappers completed preparations to destroy the Tiber river bridges, all of which were at separate times closed for two day periods while engineers "surveyed" them.

The first "advance guards" of Marshal Albert Kesselring's Neapolitan forces were said to have reached Rome late this morning after a 90 mile drive from the Naples area.

British Landing Ship Sunk at Boulogne, Berlin Says

LONDON, Oct. 2 (AP).—DNB, German news agency, said in a broadcast today that a British landing craft had been sunk by coastal guns in the harbor of Boulogne. The broadcast said the 200 ton vessel was set on fire and sank. There was no comment from official quarters in London.

DUTCH CO-ED, 22, HELD AS KILLER OF POLICE CHIEF

LONDON, Oct. 2 (AP).—The Berlin radio today said a three-gun Dutch co-ed, 22 year old Gertrude Van Lier, had been arrested by German occupation troops for the assassination on Sept. 3 of Col. Gerrit Jan Kerlen, police president of Utrecht.

The broadcast said she admitted participation in another assassination and was carrying three pistols when arrested.

Kerlen was described by Aneta, official Netherlands news agency, as a retired officer of the Netherlands Indies army who became a Nazi collaborationist after the German invasion. The agency said the Nazis had offered a reward of $5,400 for the girl's arrest.

Air Force Pounds Targets North of Naples.

ing which may dwarf any yet seen outside the Russian front must yet be undertaken before all Italy will be free of the Germans.

The Nazis have sacrificed a relatively small proportion of their combat troops, tanks, planes, and guns in resisting the invasion of Italy so far.

Allied troops found that only a few buildings near the Naples waterfront were habitable, the result of heavy bombings of the industrial area and the port when they were being used by the enemy. The greater part of the city, however, had been spared severe damage by the bombers.

Italian officers and civilians who had been in Naples thruout the German occupation declared that most of the damage to the central and eastern parts of the city was caused by the Nazis, who mined many buildings and set fire to others.

Port in Ruins.

An official report said: "The port and railway station are in ruins. The port is a graveyard of axis shipping. Some of the craft had been salvaged and repaired by the Germans, only to be scuttled a few days ago.

"Warehouses, docks and all harbor installations had been bombed so often that repairs became futile. Under German orders, however, the Italians had to work day and night to clear away the rubble and reconstruct the landing quays. They had to defy our bombs and carry on to provide port facilities for the Germans."

The number of Neopolitans who met death during the Germans' reign over their city probably never will be known. Italian officers reported that complete casualty figures were destroyed when the Nazis blew up police headquarters.

The Germans even mined the streets of Naples as they withdrew, according to reports given allied occupation troops, but these did little damage. Many were said to have been dug up by the citizens of Naples and then replanted on the road north out of Naples over which the Nazis were retreating.

Nazis Destroy Equipment.

A dispatch from the front disclosed that furious allied bombing in the days immediately preceding the occupation of Naples so disrupted German communications that the enemy was forced to destroy or abandon huge dumps of vehicles and war supplies of every kind.

At Castellamare, one of the bombers' last targets on the road to Naples, the Nazis put the torch to great piles of material and to gasoline stores, and at Torre Annunziata, about 10 miles from Naples, the advancing allies came on fires that had been raging for several days. At the latter point the Germans were forced to abandon some 40 trucks fully loaded with the aircraft parts, including four trucks filled with aircraft machine guns.

Today dozens of German cars were reported stranded on the road north of Naples because they had run out of gasoline.

JAP SUBMARINE THAT SHELLED U. S. COAST SUNK

LONDON, Oct. 2 (AP).—The sinking of a large Japanese submarine which six survivors said was the one which bombarded the Santa Barbara, Cal., coast in February, 1942, was announced by New Zealand's minister of defense, M. F. Jones, a Reuters dispatch reported today.

The New Zealand corvette Tui damaged the Japanese submarine with depth charges, and other charges from planes sent the craft to the bottom as it tried to escape, the announcement said.

The submersible displaced 2,653 tons and normally carried a crew of 97. The announcement did not say where the action took place.

Italians Help to Chase Out Foe.

because we have no carts to remove the bodies," said the director of the hospital, Prof. Josef Martinelli.

In the first of three great halls of misery a third of the patients had been stretched out on mattresses on the floor between double rows of beds. Each sick or wounded person was surrounded by relatives who had found the hospital the only sanctuary from danger.

Nazis Take Supplies.

Thru his secretary, Mme. Maleville Lucienne, who translated for him into English, Martinelli said bitterly:

"We have nothing with which to treat them—no morphine, no serums, no more gauze or adhesive tape, no medicines of any kind, no food, no water even. Before they left the Germans took all of our supplies. All we can do is put them down in rows here."

Candles were lit in the shrine at one end of the room and serene faced nuns moved about comforting the ill and wounded or helping care for their families. All those in the largest room, Marinelli said, "were brought in today—wounded." Some had lain in the street all night after being shot by the retreating Germans.

We were the first persons wearing American uniforms that these sick and wounded people had seen. They cheered, and tried to sit up in bed. They tried to grasp and kiss our hands.

One man on the floor smiled and waved. You had to look close at the soiled blanket across his body to notice that both his legs had been blown away.

Boy Blinded by Bullet.

A middle aged woman held up her small boy to "see" the "Americani." There was a white cloth wrapped around his freshly-blinded eyes.

One girl thought I was an American doctor and pulled me over to look at her dying mother whose arm was blown off. The woman's face was turning visibly white with the pallor of death.

One elderly woman with her left shoulder shot away silently motioned me to bend over. When I did she reached up and kissed me on the cheek.

Occasionally some woman in the room would moan softly. Others would take it up and soon their sadness would wash down the long line of patients like a wave.

Side by side on the floor lay two brothers, 6 and 8 years old, and guarding them was a 16 year old brother with a bandage around a skull wound left by a German rifle bullet.

A 6 year old boy had his right arm blown off and his 8 year old brother had lost his left arm and suffered a smashed leg, which the doctor said "will have to come off tomorrow—as soon as we can operate."

Brother, Father Killed.

"These boys' father was killed, their mother shot in the eye, and their 10 year old brother was killed," he said, adding "this family will always have something to remember the Germans by."

Prof. Marinelli said he knew of no cases of cholera in Naples but that a few cases of typhus had been reported and that the whole population was suffering from malnutrition. Supplies of food and water were essential immediately—especially water to avoid an epidemic from the lack of sanitation—he said, and added wistfully "these people also would appreciate greatly a little coffee if it could be given them."

"We have been without much water for months," said Mme. Lucienne, who is a Frenchwoman. "There is none in the hospital. Many people have been drinking sewer water."

"The civil war," she continued, "started last Saturday while the Germans were burning and looting the city of everything they could take. The people took up guns, knives, and anything they could and fought the Germans and the fascisti who still supported them. There have been hundreds and hundreds of persons wounded."

R. A. F. TRIPLES BOMB TONNAGE PER MINUTE IN 16 MOS. OF RAIDS

LONDON, Oct. 3 [Sunday]—(AP).—In 16 months the royal air force has boosted its concentration of bombing—the amount dropped in a given time whch is regarded as a major factor in the success of a demolition raid—from 17½ to more than 50 long tons per minute, the air ministry revealed today. [A British long ton is 2,240 pounds.]

The following summary released by the air ministry shows the date of the attack, the target city, and the weight of bombs dropped per minute:

May 30, 1942—Cologne, 17½ tons.
March 5, 1943—Essen, 25.
April 26, 1943—Diusberg, 30.
May 23, 1943—Dortmund, nearly 35.
June 11, 1943—Duesseldorf, nearly 35.
July 24, 1943—Hamburg, more than 45.
July 25, 1943—Essen, 40.
July 27, 1943—Hamburg, more than 50.
Sept. 3, 1943—Berlin, 50.

3 U. S. PRISON CAMP FUGITIVES STILL AT LARGE

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Three United States soldiers who escaped from a detention camp in Staffordshire early yesterday were still at large tonight despite an intensive search over several counties by American military police, aided by home guards and British civil police. The men, described as "dangerous characters" and reported to be armed, were all under long sentences. They were scheduled to be transferred to another place of detention soon. The fugitives are Charles B. Poteet, 22 years old, under life sentence; Warren G. Nelson, 23, serving five years, and Russell Fazio, two years.

NAZIS 'INHUMANE ENEMY,' ITALY'S KING DECLARES

Condemns Duce; Seeks Support of Badoglio.

LONDON, Oct. 2 (AP).—King Victor Emmanuel tonight denounced the Germans as an "inhumane enemy"; condemned the "illegitimate shadow government" of Benito Mussolini and appealed to the Italian people to rally to Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio, "the interpreter of my will."

In the first direct appeal to the Italian people since the establishment of Mussolini's "fascist republic," the king, broadcasting from Bari, declared: "The fatherland's sacred soil must be freed as soon as possible from a secular enemy who has been unable to conceal his natural instinct of oppression and hatred."

Hints War Declaration.

Hinting at a possible Italian declaration of war against Germany, the king said Italian troops, the air force and navy had taken up the fight against the Germans "with renewed enthusiasm."

[Marshal Badoglio, in a press interview reported by the allied nations radio at Algiers, voiced "satisfaction" over the allies' capture of Naples and said he was happy "to see Italy and her traditional friends marching side by side in the right direction." The broadcast added that Badoglio said political participation would be extended "over a wide basis" when the Italian government is reëstablished in Rome.]

Son with King.

The king declared that "our navy, after proof of the conscientious loyalty and discipline required by the armistice, is again sailing the seas of the fatherland, with the tricolor flying as high as ever."

He explained at the outset of his broadcast that he had gone to a "free part" of Italy with his son [Prince Humbert] and the government "in the hope of preventing more serious damage to Rome . . . the intangible capital of the fatherland."

NAZIS USE NEW LAND TORPEDO, RUSSIA REPORTS

LONDON, Oct. 2 (AP).—The Germans are using a new anti-tank land torpedo that resembles a small tank about the size of a motorcycle sidecar and is operated by remote control, the Moscow radio said today.

The broadcast, recorded by the soviet monitor here, said the torpedo carried about 150 pounds of explosive and had a reel of cable at the rear leading back to an operator who might be in a shelter 1,500 yards away. The operator guides the machine and sets off the explosive by electricity.

The Russians have found that the best defense is to cut the cable, the broadcast said.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD.

Mrs. Mary Hirsch, 35 years old, 5465 Ingleside avenue, was found dead with her throat slashed in the basement of her home yesterday. A bloodstained piece of glass jar was found near-by, police said. She had been reported missing by her husband, Harry, since 6 p. m. Friday.

SERBS ATTACK NAZIS MOVING TOWARD COAST

Delay Troops Sent from Italy.

LONDON, Oct. 2 (AP).—Croat and Slovene guerrilla units are attacking German reënforcements moving from Italy toward the Jugo-Slav coast, especially along the Pola-Trieste road, a liberation army radio bulletin announced today.

Partisan forces are still holding out against Nazi attacks inside the Adriatic port of Susak and are fighting the Germans behind the port of Split, the report continued.

Berlin Admits Difficulty.

A Berlin broadcast admitted today that Split had been held for 16 days by Jugo-Slav partisans and "Badoglio troops" who expected an allied landing on the Adriatic coast. Tanks and artillery eventually broke the resistance, however, and German troops occupied the Dalmatian capital, it said.

Struggles continue around the northern Italian communications center of Gorizia and the northern Jugo-Slav city of Ljubljana, the liberation army's broadcast concluded.

Mihailovich Waits Signal.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 2 (AP).—A dispatch reaching here from Switzerland today quoted Gen. Draja Mihailovich, the Jugo-Slav guerrilla chieftain, as declaring his army was "ready and waiting the promised signal from the allies" to attack Nazi occupation forces.

The dispatch quoted him further as saying his troops are not at present participating in the battles being waged against the axis in northeastern Italy and along the Adriatic coast.

Tells of Meeting General.

The dispatch was from the Dagens Nyheter's Zurich correspondent, who said Mihailovich had sent him a personal letter by a traveler recently arrived from the Balkans. The correspondent, whose name was given as Singer, said he had become personally acquainted with the general while working in Jugo-Slavia some years ago.

"I already have told the British and Americans my army is ready and will begin to fight when the first allied division lands in Jugo-Slavia," the letter said.

Discredits Partisans.

"What we are going to do then will completely put in the shade the efforts of the partisans [led by Gen. Josip Broz, known as "Tito"] because it will not be an improvised partisan war but a battle by well organized and equipped regular army to liberate the country."

The letter declared that participation now along with "Tito's" partisans would lead to "unnecessary shedding of blood."

German dispatches to Swedish newspapers said a Berlin military spokesman had expressed the belief that large contingents of allied troops pouring into the Italian ports of Brindisi and Taranto may be intended for an invasion of the Balkans.

Butch leads a "double" life

Butch would rather play football than eat. But he's crazy about music, too. So the gang'll just have to wait 'til he's through practicing. You've gotta humor a triple-threat backfield ace. And better not holler "sissy" or you'll get a sock on the nose!

Butch is typical of many active, athletic youngsters who enjoy the study of music, thanks to modern instruction methods. Progressive teachers no longer insist on endless hours of tedious exercises. Easy, yet interesting pieces are introduced very early in the course. As a result, learning to play is fun instead of drudgery. Skill is often acquired in months instead of years. Wurlitzer Schools of Music pioneered these modern teaching methods. They have contributed much toward progressive music education.

Wurlitzer factories are now engaged 100% in war production. Meanwhile Wurlitzer Music Schools continue to teach thousands of youngsters. After the war, Wurlitzer will resume manufacturing instruments of peace . . . will, more than ever, help the youth of America make music a vital part of their lives.

AXIS TELLS NEW GERMAN PEACE OFFER TO REDS

Budapest Report Hints at Political Surprise.

BERNE, Switzerland, Oct. 2 (AP).—A Budapest dispatch to La Suisse today brought into the open reports of axis origin that Germany offered Russia an armistice in June, 1942, and that Russia now is expected to take surprising new political measures in relation to Germany, comparable with those of 1939.

In 1939 Russia and Germany signed a nonaggression pact, a move which proved a prelude to Germany's hostilities against Poland.

[For several weeks Berlin propagandists have been circulating "denials" of rumors of a separate peace with Russia. The latest came from Berlin yesterday. In a dispatch to Stockholm, a German foreign office commentator was quoted as saying: "The German and Russian war is a battle between two revolutionary systems and there can be no compromise when such gigantic forces are matched."]

Official Label on Report.

The Budapest dispatch attributed its information to a Rumanian foreign office press conference.

Similar stories from Berlin, Bucharest, and Vichy last week spoke of Russian negotiations thru Japan.

The Budapest dispatch said official German denials served to increase rather than halt the rumors thruout the Balkans.

The Budapest dispatch said Rumanian informants did not believe in an armistice in the full sense of the word, but "in an event of a political nature which could surprise world opinion."

La Suisse said the German armistice offer on June 17, 1942, included a withdrawal of German troops to the frontier of Sept. 29, 1939, across Poland, the resignation of Adolf Hitler, and the assumption of power by Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering, Grand Adm. Karl Doenitz, and Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the high command.

What Russia Asked.

It reported that there were similar offers now, but that the triumvirate was not mentioned.

The Budapest report said the 1942 armistice talks broke down because Russia wanted, in addition to the Baltic territories, Memel and Koenigsberg in East Prussia as bases, occupation of Danzig, and all territories she held on June 21, 1941.

Furthermore, Russia "refused to treat with a National Socialist [Nazi] government of whatever nature," the Budapest dispatch said.

The reports of negotiations had become of such a serious nature that the Rumanian premier, Marshal Ion Antonescu, was said to information and was assured that the German high command was "firmly determined to defend Rumanian territory."

STRUCK BY SWITCH ENGINE.

Michael Maskasewicz, 51 years old, 1133 Conkey street, Hammond, Ind., was injured critically yesterday when struck by a switch engine in the yards of the Pressed Steel Car company, 136th street and Brandon avenue.

Fight for Islands Near Turkey

REPORT BATTLES UNDER WAY FOR AEGEAN ISLANDS

Hear Allies Occupy Chios Isle.

ANKARA, Turkey, Oct. 1 [Delayed]—(AP).—A large-scale military campaign for control of the inner islands of the Aegean is in progress just out of earshot of Turkey, but amazingly few details of the battle reach these neutral shores.

Passengers on a Turkish steamer returning from Izmir on a voyage along the Turkish Aegean coast today told of rumors that allied forces had occupied the Greek island of Chios, and said they heard cannonading from the direction of Mytilene [Lesbos], another Greek island near the Turkish shore.

Chios is about midway between the Italian Dodecanese islands and the Dardanelles, and Mytilene is only about 50 miles south of the Dardanelles.

Hear German Bombs.

Watchers along Turkey's eastern coastline are able to hear the distant rumble as the Germans bomb islands already in allied hands and as the allies concentrate on new objectives in the island-dotted sea.

The campaign apparently is a joint effort of the British and Greeks who have been trained in the middle east. There are no reports of American participation.

British military personnel stationed in Turkey became indignant over reports from Turkey that Leros and Cos in the Dodecanese and the Greek island of Samos to the north had been captured almost a week before the occupation was announced by the allied middle east command at Cairo.

Watch Big Air Raid.

Watchers along the coast south of Izmar witnessed a heavy German air raid on Cos and Leros three days ago in which it was estimated at least 60 German bombers participated.

Air activity over the Aegean has grown tremendously. A British Spitfire crashed on Turkish soil yesterday, while three others came down earlier in the week.

The Istanbul press reported all the occupants were killed when another plane crashed, while 14 crew members were interned when their planes were forced to land. Two of the latter crew members were wounded.

In addition a troop transport is known to have crashed in the water just off shore, leaving 16 more British soldiers to be interned.

Allied troops apparently have been brought into the islands almost entirely by air, as the Germans still control an island screen based on Crete and Rhodes at the entrance to the Aegean.

Bomb Rhodes Airdromes.

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 2 (AP).—German-held airdromes at Kattavia, Calato and Maritza on Rhodes, largest of the Dodecanese islands in the eastern Mediterranean, were blasted by middle-east based R. A. F. Beaufighters Thursday night, it was announced today.

FORTS HAMMER EMDEN, GERMAN SHIPPING BASE

LONDON, Oct. 3 [Sunday]—(AP).—American Flying Fortresses, escorted by long-range Thunderbolts, blasted port and U-boat installations at Emden, Germany, yesterday and with their hard-hitting escorts shot down 19 German fighters, an official report said early today. Two Fortresses were lost.

The Fortresses bagged 14 of the 19 enemy planes.

More Raids Indicated.

These latest blows came a scant 12 hours after the Germans reported that the United States 8th air force Fortresses had joined the R. A. F. in a big raid on the Ruhr Friday night. The German claim was not confirmed here.

There were indications of continuing attacks early Sunday against Europe. A raid alarm sounded in Berne, Switzerland, the usual sign of allied aerial activity, and radio stations in Berlin, Munich, and other German cities went off the air.

A few German raiders dropped bombs near two East Anglia towns early today causing a brief alarm in London, the first since Sept. 15.

Emden, the Nazis' prime North sea merchant shipping port, was an allied target two days last week. Fortresses hit the city Monday and the R. A. F. continued the hammering that night. In yesterday's attack, as on Monday, the single engined Thunderbolts went all the way to guard the Fortresses, a round trip of approximately 800 miles.

Chicagoans on Raid.

Returning pilots described the Emden attack as successful.

Among the Emden raiders were Staff Sgts. Charles J. Fulanovich of 1511 West 19th street, and Robert W. Hofman of 3043 New England avenue both of Chicago and gunners in the same Fortress, "Satan's Workshop."

The Emden assault followed an R. A. F. assault Friday night on the Ruhr industrial city of Hagen. It was in this raid that the Germans claimed American planes also participated.

4 Forts Downed in Switzerland.

BERNE, Switzerland, Oct. 2 (AP).—Four American bombers were shot down yesterday over Swiss territory during a battle with German fighter planes, including one definitely downed by Swiss anti-aircraft fire, an official report announced today.

The report said that the bodies of seven flyers had been found and that other crew members had parachuted to safety.

The planes were part of a formation of from 60 to 100 which encountered Nazi opposition during the raid on German objectives and battled it out over the St. Moritz resort area in eastern Switzerland, near the Austrian-Italian frontier.

REVEAL BRITISH LINER SUNK WITH 500 PASSENGERS

Torpedoed on Way to Capetown Last Year.

CAPETOWN, South Africa, Oct. 2 (AP).—News of one of the worst ocean tragedies of the war—the sinking without a trace of the 18,700 ton British liner Ceramic with more than 500 passengers aboard last November—was officially released today by naval authorities.

The Ceramic was sunk, presumably by an enemy submarine, somewhere in the Atlantic while en route to Capetown from England. The official announcement was withheld almost a year because of uncertainty over the fate of passengers and crew.

The exact number of casualties was not known but it was reported the ship carried more than 500 persons, and authorities are still without official news of any survivors.

"One Survivor"—Nazis.

The Germans announced last December they had sunk the Ceramic with a torpedo in heavy seas and claimed to have picked up one survivor. A person representing himself as the survivor later broadcast over the German radio a version of his rescue by a U-boat.

According to the German version the Ceramic sank quickly and lifeboats could not be launched. The passenger list included many South American and Australian families. The Germans had said the ship was carrying troops to North Africa.

Once Sank a Sub.

The Ceramic, owned by Shaw, Savill and Albion company, had its home port at Southampton, England. It was built in 1913 at Belfast and was 655 feet long. It normally ran between Australia and England.

The ship battled a submarine in the south Atlantic in 1942, and was said to have probably sunk the submarine.

GAUNT REFUGEES TELL OF GERMAN TERROR IN ITALY

Thousands Plod Across Swiss Frontier.

BY P. E. BRIQUET.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERNE, Switzerland, Oct. 2. — From Chiasso, on the Italian border, Italian fugitives are flocking into many towns in central Switzerland, marching in large numbers thru the cities under military guard. Most of them are downcast, pale, and thin. Most of them are too lightly dressed to bear the cold of the Swiss autumn. The pitiful sight recalls similar scenes at the time of the French collapse in 1940.

Their numbers are particularly impressive near the Italian border. There the army's Red Cross units follow them, while military patrols armed with machine guns watch them. Many of the fugitives carry little suitcases fastened with leather straps or string.

Here is a young woman carrying her precious musical instrument. Here are soldiers wearing tattered Italian uniforms. Some others possibly are British, French, or colonials escaping from prison camps. Here is an old woman in mountain shoes carrying a fur coat. She evidently once was well to do, but now is as poor as the poorest. Some wear straw shoes. Even the French fugitives did not show such misery.

Tell of Grim Experiences.

They tell of their experiences in Italy.

"Many shots rang out nightly," said one, "when plundering parties were at work. We lived quite near the Swiss border, but, with my wife, it took me three days to get there. We got there, but others did not. We avoided the main roads. Once a German patrol motored past with their guns held ready to shoot. They were looking for escaped prisoners. They paid no attention to us. We held our heads down and looked downcast."

"We were at Valtellina, near the Swiss border," said a dashing young officer with spotless boots and a Neapolitan accent. "At first the Germans were friendly and offered cigarets when they came. They were reconnoitering. Later they came in numbers and attacked without warning. We were overwhelmed.

Nazis Isolated Italians.

"As a matter of fact, it seems the Germans controlled the telephone lines before the armistice. The Italians at that time were isolated in disconnected groups and were unable to act together.

"Marshall Pietro Badoglio's order was not clear and did not designate the enemy by name. Each commander thus was obliged to interpret this uncertain radio order in his own way. Some of our leaders favored the regular Badoglio government; others rather inclined toward the Fascists. The armistice move was too sudden and caught us unprepared. The Milan commander betrayed us, or we could have resisted better. Now many of our soldiers have fled to the mountains to join the guerrillas. Others have rid themselves of their uniforms to avoid being made prisoners."

"In the beginning," said a sergeant who had fled from Naples, "the Germans had 10,000 men in Naples. They held all the strategic points and the telephone lines. They arrested all our officers and shot more than 100, together with our general, when he refused to continue the war against the British and Americans. I was imprisoned with many officers, but was freed after three days and told to return home in civilian clothes. Instead I fled. It was easy enough between Rome and Florence, which the Italians still hold."

Two Enemies Developed.

"Rumors, suppositions, dissatisfaction with the conduct of the war and the war itself, which never was wanted and never was expected to bring any good, bewildered us," said another. "After the fall of fascism, being unaccustomed to liberty, we did not believe the truth when it was printed in our newspapers. With the capitulation came a wave of insecurity, topped by fear of bombardment. There were two countries and two enemies in the land and it was sunk in chaos. We lost both our country and our honor."

This feeling of shame seems to have come not from a sense of the abandonment of the German alliance, which was hated, nor from any sense of guilt for "the stab in the back" against France and Britain in 1940. Rather, the fugitives seemed to be ashamed of the miscalculation which led to their present state of helplessness. Many when queried answered:

"We are faithful to the king. Badoglio could not do better. Our gain already has been lost, but the king should have acted more quickly."

Italian refugees in Switzerland now number more than 21,000, as was pointed out in the Swiss parliament. Since Sept. 17 $1,000,000 has been spent on new barracks. Blankets and clothing are being collected.

LEGION DEMANDS RED CLEANUP AT U. OF CALIFORNIA

Says Faculty Is Packed with Communists.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 2 [Special].—A legislative investigation and the ouster of reputed communistic members of the faculties of the University of California, both at Los Angeles and at Berkeley, were demanded here today in a resolution adopted unanimously by the county council of the American Legion in a militant meeting at Patriotic hall.

The resolution condemned the use of tax supported schools and facilities for such a meeting as that of the so-called "writers' congress" on the Los Angeles campus of the university.

Soviet Coup Feared.

In urging adoption of the resolution, Sen. Jack Tenney, who has repeatedly denounced the writers' congress meeting, said:

"The Communist party is more active now than ever before. The American Legion seems to be the only organization brave enough to place itself between the Communist party and its platform. We don't want a soviet government in America, but if we don't do something about it quickly that's just what we will have."

The resolution read:

"Whereas, there is being held at the University of California at Los Angeles a meeting of the writers' congress:

Whereas, certain leaders of this congress have been reported to be actual members of the communist movement;

"And whereas, such a meeting tends to promote dissension at a time when national unity is more desired than ever;

Meetings Un-American.

"Now, therefore, be it resolved that the Los Angeles county council of the American Legion, representing 25,000 Legionnaires, condemns the use of tax supported schools and facilities for meetings which can be viewed only as un-American."

An addenda, also adopted unanimously, read:

"Whereas, at the University of California there have been employed repeatedly and consistently professors and members of the faculties who are notoriously anti-American in their ideals and are determinedly communistic in their teachings, writings, and public statements and have permitted and encouraged student bodies to engage in anti-American and communistic activities;

"Now, therefore, be it further resolved that the American Legion be petitioned to institute an immediate and thoro investigation of the faculties of the said institutions to the end that those responsible for these conditions be removed, and further, that the American Legion be urged to call this matter to the attention of the California legislature for appropriate action."

GERMANS MOVE PEASANT ARMY IN THE UKRAINE

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 2 (AP).—The Germans are conducting a mass removal of peasants from the eastern to the western farming districts of the Ukraine to produce foodstuffs for Nazi armies and to help relieve Germany's shortage of agricultural workers, it was reported today.

Thousands of Russians are crowding the Ukrainian roads, the Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm Tidningen said. One German war correspondent reported seeing from 40,000 to 50,000 wagons and a quarter of a million peasants headed westward.

With the farmlands of the eastern Ukraine now in the battle zone, the Germans hope to compensate by intensifying farming in the western area, known as the "breadbasket." A German spokesman stressed that much Ukraine territory has not been exploited agriculturally, and said evacuated peasants are to be assigned to cultivate these areas.

CICERO SOLDIER DISPROVES THAT JUNGLE SLOGAN

U. S. ARMY HDQS. IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC (AP).—That old South Pacific slogan, "the only thing that moves at night is a Jap," nearly cost the life of Albert E. Mareska of Cicero, Ill.

After a day's rapid advance during fighting in New Georgia Island, a battalion found friendly artillery fire was endangering its positions. The only alternative was to send a messenger by foot to a higher command, informing it of the battalion's position. Mareska was given the message.

He covered more than a mile in the darkness. He was fired at by not only the Japanese, but his own men. Mareska tried to identify himself by yelling, but the Americans had been warned about the crafty Japanese who speak English. The soldier kept on, however, until he came face to face with several Americans with automatic weapons. Just as they were about to fire, he was recognized and allowed to advance.

40,000 RUSSIANS SLAIN BY NAZIS FOUND IN MINE

LONDON, Oct. 2 (AP).—The bodies of more than 40,000 Russians slain by the Germans have been found crammed into the shaft of a mine near Stalino, Alexei Tolstoi charged in an article entitled "I demand vengeance," which the Moscow radio broadcast in English tonight.

The broadcast quoted Tolstoi as saying a special state commission to investigate German crimes "is now investigating whether the Germans threw their victims down the shaft alive or whether they shot them first."

Tolstoi also charged that the Germans inaugurated their rule of Kharkov in December, 1941, "by slaughtering literally the whole Jewish population of the city, some 23,000 to 24,000 persons including babies. The bodies were piled into two big pits." He said 100,000 persons starved to death in Kharkov in the winter of 1941-42.

MOTHER LEARNS SON IS PRISONER IN GERMAN CAMP

Mrs. Stella Jastrzemski, 2104 West Cullerton street, has received information from the provost marshal general that her son, Staff Sgt. Walter F. Jastrzemski, 20 years old, is a prisoner of war of the German government. She previously had been informed that he was missing in action since Aug. 19.

WHEN HOOSIERS MEET IN GUINEA, THERE'S A CLUB

15 Indiana U. Students Get Together.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Sept. 30 [Delayed].—Fifteen former students or graduates of Indiana university tonight held their first alumni meeting of the Hoosier school in this area. The group ranged from private first class to captain, but rank was forgotten for the evening as college songs were sung and school scenes were relived.

Sgt. Dave Richardson, a redheaded Yank correspondent, whose home is in Maplewood, N. J., but who was smart enough to attend a midwestern school, took a photo of fellow Indianans against a background reading, "Gus's New Guinea Annex." Gus ran a popular gathering place in Bloomington.

Others present were Sgt. John Bartlett, '41, Bloomington; Staff Sgt. Max Scherer, '42, Bloomington; Lt. Earl Haines, '42, Loogootee; Staff Sgt. Harry Nichols, '40, Bloomington; Pvt. Gil Hoffman, '40, Dyer; Corp. Chester W. Ferguson, '45, Frankfort; Lt. Harry N. Young, '38, 7555 South Shore drive, Chicago; Corp William E. Franklin, '35, Versailles; Staff Sgt. John J. Baldwin, '42, Crown Point, and Corp. John Gunning, '42, Bloomington, Ill. Staff Staff Sgt. William Simpson, '26, Indianapolis, was unable to attend tonight's meeting.

The next meeting will be held the night after the Purdue-Indiana annual football game, with Purdue alumni invited as honorary guests.

JAP DEFENSE OF BURMA SMASHED BY U. S. BOMBERS

Supply Shipments Almost Stopped.

TENTH U. S. ARMY AIR FORCE HDQ., INDIA, Oct. 2 (AP).—United States air forces, by pounding Burma at an increasing pace, already have made a "successful defense by the Japanese nearly impossible," Brig. Gen. Howard C. Davidson said today.

"We have seriously hampered the movement of all Japanese supplies and reënforcements," the commander of the 10th U. S. army air force said. "In many cases we have stopped them altogether. Shipping at Rangoon has been disrupted to a point that supplies entering that primary point are far below the level required to maintain the Japanese adequately in Burma."

"Time Is Not Far Off."

Pointing out that the air blows had been mostly of a strategic nature to disrupt supply lines, he said: "We have been busy getting prepared adequately to do this job right, once we start," and he added:

"The formation of the southeast Asia command and the appointment of Adm. Louis Mountbatten as allied commander are definite indications that the time is not far off when our enemy will begin to feel the weight of these preparations."

He said the month of September was the 10th air force's "record for the monsoon season and the second largest month in our history from the standpoint of tonnage of bombs dropped. It exceeded the previous month of August by 50 per cent."

Approximately 1,000 tons of bombs were dropped. Combat crews went on missions on every day of the month except two. Four American planes were lost.

"Our job has been to prevent the Japanese from making preparations to withstand the forthcoming allied assault," Davidson said. "We believe we have succeeded—that the offensive will confirm this without doubt. We already can afford fighter support for ground operations about 200 miles radius from our bases."

Drop 26 Tons.

NEW DELHI, India, Oct. 2 (AP).—American Mitchell bombers dumped more than 26 tons of explosives on Japanese troop concentrations and rail installations at Thazi, 60 miles south of Mandalay, yesterday without losing a plane, United States 10th air force headquarters announced today.

The bombers destroyed much rolling stock and trackage and leveled nearby buildings with direct hits. One formation destroyed enemy occupied barracks west of the yards.

R. A. F. Wellington bombers raided the town of Akyab on the western coast of Burma last night, starting fires visible for 50 miles.

YANK BOMBERS HIT 2 JAP SHIPS OFF INDO-CHINA

CHUNGKING, China, Oct. 2 (AP).—American Liberator bombers carried out two attacks against Japanese shipping Thursday, damaging a 100 foot gunboat near Fort Bayard, Indo-China, and bombing a 100 foot freighter in the South China sea. The announcement, from Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters, said results of the China sea attack were not observed. The Americans suffered no losses.

Chinese reports said a reinforced Japanese advance from the Fu river region of Kiangsi province had been halted by a Chinese counter-attack Wednesday, but that heavy fighting was still in progress. Japanese launches loaded with troops attempted to attack Chinese positions near Nanyang, Kwangtung province, but were beaten off, the bulletin said.

CZECHS REJECT EDEN PLEA TO POSTPONE TREATY WITH RUSSIA

LONDON, Oct. 2 (AP). The Czecho-Slovak government in exile announced today its desire for a mutual assistance pact with Russia despite the desires of both Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and the Polish government for a delay.

Eden has asked Eduard Benes, president of the provisional Czech government, to hold off his trip to Moscow until Eden has another opportunity to confer with Soviet Foreign Commissioner Molotov.

The Czech government's stand has been that close collaboration among Russia, Britain, and the United States is imperative to end forever any German hopes of another drive toward the east.

U. S. WHITE STAR AWARD GIVEN TO PRESS WIRELESS

New York, Oct. 2 [Special].—Press Wireless, Inc., set up after the first World war by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and other newspapers as a carrier of press messages today announced its Hicksville, N. Y., manufacturing plant has been awarded the White Star to add to its Army-Navy E flag. The company received the flag last March 20, for excellency in turning out vital war equipment.

Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson Jr. informed the company of the new award in a letter. The White Star, he said, was awarded in recognition of the company's achievement in maintaining in the last six months its standard of excellence in producing equipment for the army and navy.

Brig. Gen. Frank E. Stoner, chief of the operating service of the chief signal officer, also notified the company of the award. Both Gen. Stoner and Patterson complimented the staff of the Hicksville plant.

The Hicksville plant is one of three operated by Press Wireless. Until the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor the company had manufactured equipment only for its own use. It swung into war production, however, when the army and navy indicated urgent need for its products.

GUNMEN ROB HOTEL OF $200.

CORSICA LOOMS AS PATTERN FOR FRENCH LIBERTY

De Gaulle Aid Outlines Governmental Plan.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Oct. 2.—On the French island of Corsica, from which allied forces are rapidly driving the last vestiges of German occupation, plans are being shaped which are expected to serve as a pattern for the post-war reorganization of all France, it was disclosed today b Andre Philip, commissioner of the interior in the French committee of national liberation, on his return from the island.

Philip, an eloquent De Gaulliste spokesman, indicates the islanders were ready to accept the French committee as the supreme governing authority. This has heartened the Fighting French leaders now in Africa and they are now confident France proper will do likewise when the Nazi invaders are driven back across the Rhine. Meanwhile, according to Philip's reports, Corsican patriots are preoccupied with ridding themselves of the Italian occupation forces and with purging their own ranks of axis sympathizers.

Italians Deeply Hated.

Philip declared the feeling against the Italians, altho many of them are being employed in the present fighting, is stronger than that against the Germans. He said many former members of the Italian occupation garrisons were wandering thru the island's highways and byways, still carrying their weapons, eating off the countryside and "living in the best houses." Corsica's economic conditions are bad, he said, and many of the natives have been on a starvation diet for the last six months.

Philip emphasized that plans being drawn by the French committee for the return to normal of the island are in a small way exactly what is envisioned for the entire French nation. Briefly, they entail punishment under international law of occupation chieftains guilty of torturing and otherwise abusing the native population and the trial by a special commission of natives who joined hands with the enemy as informers.

Philip said the island commission would be composed of former judges who had retired in Corsica prior to the outbreak of the war. Under the plan all complaints and claims for reparation must be filed by Nov. 1 and the group would be required to render all divisions by Nov. 10.

Thereafter, he continued, the slate will be wiped clean. All islanders not charged or not convicted will start on a free footing.

Offensive Reported Favorable.

Today's announcement on the Corsican fighting said the offensive action west of Bastia was progressing favorably. The allied fighters are as odd a mixture of forces as was ever seen anywhere in modern times. Besides the secretly armed patriots who rose up prematurely when the Italian armistice was announced, they include Americans, French and Moroccan Goums [French irregular native troops] dispatched by Gen. Henri Giraud to support the revolt.

Philip disclosed Italian artillery was in use by the Germans and added that the islanders are insisting that these weapons and the Italian trucks must be left behind when the former occupation troops are evacuated. He said the trucks were necessary for the transportation and distribution of food which, he urged, should be sent immediately.

GROCER LOSES $100 IN HOLDUP.
Two men held up Robert Weiner in his grocery at 5519 South Ashland avenue last night and took $100, he told police.

AWOL SOLDIER HELD BY U. S. ON KIDNAP CHARGE

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 2 (AP).—Charles T. Lievers, 17 years old, of Evansville, Ind., pleaded guilty today to a federal kidnaping charge in the abduction and beating of Charles T. Monroe, 31, of Western Springs, Ill., who had given him a lift in his automobile.

U. S. Commissioner J. Paul Geoghegan, holding Lievers in $50,000 bond, told him: "This is one of the most heinous, atrocious, and vicious crimes that has come to the attention of this court."

The prisoner appeared for arraignment in the uniform of the Canadian army, which he said he joined to get foreign service. He said he was absent without leave.

Monroe told police yesterday he had been beaten, bound, and stuffed into the trunk of his car and brought here from Western Springs. He is suffering from a fractured skull.

Waukegan Flyer Missing Over India, Parents Told

DE GAULLISTS LAUNCH DAILY ALGIERS PAPER

Bigger than Rest Despite Newsprint Shortage.

ALGIERS, Algeria, Oct. 2 (AP).—Despite a shortage of newsprint which is holding Algiers newspapers to a single page, the De Gaullist sponsored "Republican" daily made its first appearance today on a full eight column sheet twice the size of the other Algiers dailies.

The other newspapers—three French dailies, the British Union Jack, and the American Stars and Stripes—have been appearing in the regular tabloid size.

Move for Control Seen.

Some French journalists say the De Gaullist members of the French committee of national liberation desire to extend the government's control, thru the ministry of information, over French news agencies, perhaps by consolidating them as official government agencies similar to the German DNB, the Japanese Domei, and the Russian Tass, and intervention in the daily newspaper field might be an opening step in this direction.

There are at present two French agencies operating outside of France, the Agence Française Independente of London, which serves French colonials outside of North Africa, and France Afrique, with headquarters in Algiers, which serves French newspapers in Algeria, Morocco, and Tunisia.

Partially Subsidized.

Both oppose establishment of a government news agency and are hopeful they will be able themselves to form a post-war news gathering organization owned and operated by French newspapers and modeled along the line of the Associated Press.

They believe this plan, plus higher newspaper salaries, is the only way to create and maintain an independent free press.

The agencies France Afrique and A. F. I. both have operated partly by subsidies. France Afrique receives support from the French committee and A. F. I. receives grants from the British treasury, reportedly with no strings attached.

GERMANS START PURGE OF JEWS FROM DENMARK

Swedes Warn Berlin; Offer Haven.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 2 (AP).—The Germans have launched a purge of Denmark's 6,000 Jews, it was announced officially in Berlin and Copenhagen today, opening a gestapo-storm troop reign of terror which prompted Sweden to intercede quickly tonight with an offer of haven for the victims and a warning for the Nazi oppressors.

The Swedish government announced formally that it had asked Germany to permit Danish Jews to take refuge in Sweden, but a Swedish spokesman said there were strong rumors that the Germans already had begun to deport the Jews to Germany and Poland.

Warn of Repercussions.

German officials announced that the Jews were being "removed from public life" in Denmark. Widespread arrests, made only after storm troop and gestapo reënforcements had been sent into Denmark, were begun on the night of Sept. 30 and early yesterday morning, coinciding with the Jewish holidays. The raids were reported to have continued thru yesterday.

The Swedish minister to Berlin, the Swedish government's announcement said, formally offered refuge for Danish Jews, at the same time telling Nazi officials that the purge would have what he described as "serious repercussions" in Sweden.

A foreign office spokesman said he was not prepared to comment on the nature of the repercussions. So far, he said, Berlin has failed to reply to the offer.

The Swedish government is providing care for Jewish refugees who already have fled to Sweden. Three hundred reached Sweden yesterday.

Altho the state of siege in Denmark has continued in full force for more than a month, Danish resistance appeared to be hardening.

Today's German announcement in Copenhagen said:

"Interned Danish soldiers will be released within a few days by order of competent German quarters. An official German statement Saturday emphasized that it is now possible to fulfil the wish of the Danish poulation for the friends of the interned soldiers, because elements have been removed which, continually poisoned the atmosphere.

Release Conditional.

"The speed of the release depends upon technical conditions. The German measures mentioned in the statement refer to Jews who are accused of having considerably accentuated the situation in Denmark by their anti-German agitation and their moral and material support of terror and sabotage actions. By the German measures they will be deprived of the possibility of further affecting public life."

The German announcement failed to make clear whether the Jews were being interned in Denmark, Germany or Poland, or whether they were being deported to eastern Europe to work on German fortifications and roads—the possibilities regarded here as most likely.

Critics Charge Doctors' Draft Wastes Skills; Services Reply

Controversy has developed over the nation's growing shortage of physicians. Charges have been made that thousands of uniformed doctors are killing time at home bases, that many physicians have been conscripted illegally into the army and navy, that military demands for more and more doctors soon may endanger the health of civilian war workers, and that refugee doctors are usurping the medical practices of men entering the service.

THE TRIBUNE has interviewed spokesmen for both sides in the disputes, and presents their statements herewith:

The Charges

Overworked physicians in Chicago say they constantly get letters from friends in medical units, who are chafing because they have nothing to do. Hospital units, organized here, have been held in the United States for more than a year before being sent overseas. This waste of medical man power is called indefensible by former members of the medical corps, who say hospital units can learn the "paper work" of military duties in a few weeks.

Chicago doctors hear so many reports of the easy life in home based medical corps units that they have adopted a standard jest: "I think I'll join the army and get a rest." They ask, "Why not take medical men into the army and navy, and then leave them at home until they are really needed?"

Board Pressure Charged.

Draft boards have been accused of coöperating with the army-navy procurement and assignment service to force physicians into service, even tho they are between the ages of 38 and 45, and thus entitled to deferment by Presidential order.

Dr. Raymond O. Beher, 227 Menomonee street, is 44 years old, but he was reclassified 1A[H] by draft board No. 143. He has appealed the ruling. Dr. Beher received several letters pronouncing him "available" for army duty, offering him commissions, and directing him to appear for physical examinations.

One letter told him: "In the event you decline to apply for a commission, or if your papers are returned 'incomplete,' further governmental action will be taken."

Moved Up in Draft.

Dr. W. Mayo Larson of Stockton, Jo Davies county, said he also was invited to accept a commission.

"Shortly afterward my draft board was notified to induct me at its next call," he said. "This was done, mind you, without consideration of lottery number, order number, or family status."

Several doctors cited an article in the Journal of the American Medical Association of Aug. 7, which said recruiting of 6,000 more physicians by Jan. 1 will be met "by the enactment of necessary legislation if required." Procurement boards are conducting their calls as tho they had the necessary powers now, the complainants asserted, describing the methods used as imposing involuntary servitude.

The war man power commission listed 135,932 physicians in the United States on Sept. 30, 1942, with 38,573 of the total in the military services. By next Jan. 1, the army and navy seek to have 53,000 doctors in uniform, and ultimately they want a total of 67,000.

Civilian Casualties Cited.

With 53,000 doctors withdrawn from civilian practice, there will be only 83,000 left to care for 120,800,000 civilians, including 30 million workers in war industries. The most vigorous doctors—those able to pass rigorous physical tests—already have gone into service. Most of those who remain are in the older age brackets, quite unable to withstand the hardships and nervous strain of a heavy practice.

Since Pearl Harbor, army and navy casualties in killed, wounded, missing and imprisoned have totaled 115,204. The National Safety council reports casualties to American workers since Pearl Harbor have been 80,000 dead and 7 million injured, on and off the job.

Another burden on physicians at home is the increasing birth rate. This advanced from 18.7 per thousand in 1941 to 20.7 in 1942. Chicago's birth rate jumped from 13.6 in 1939 to 19.5 in 1942.

Warns Against Waste.

Dr. Anton J. Carlson, noted professor of physiology at the University of Chicago, who served with the A. E. F. in France in 1918, warned against wasting medical care by creating a surplus of doctors in uniform.

Another physician with experience in the medical corps in the last war contrasted the British and American army practices. The British medical corps has only one physician for the same number of men as that to which the American army assigns two physicians.

Critics of the procurement boards' policies charged that in many cases doctors with established practices have been put into uniform, and soon have found their patients taken over by refugee doctors from Europe, many of whom came to this country shortly before the war.

Another charge is that the war program for meeting civilian medical needs places too great dependence on the 15,000 public health officers. Some physicians asserted that Surgeon General Thomas Parran is using the war as a cloak to move toward socialized medicine.

The Replies

The best judges of army-navy medical needs are the army and navy, procurement officials said. They quoted Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, surgeon general of the army, as predicting a greater need for medical officers in this war than in the last, and said the army and navy are planning their medical programs so no American boys will die for lack of medical care that might have been provided.

The officials declined to make any further comment on the charges that medical man power is being wasted.

The system of selecting physicians for service was defended by Dr. Harold M. Camp of Monmouth, secretary of the Illinois State Medical society.

Care in Selection Claimed.

"Men taken into the army and navy by procurement boards have been the ones who could best be spared," he said. "We are trying to see that each area in the state has medical attention. A recent survey showed that rural districts lack doctors. For example, Calhoun county has only two doctors to care for 8,500 persons."

Dr. Camp said Paul G. Armstrong, state selective service director, has given effective aid by making available draft registrants' records. About 2,800 doctors, not members of medical societies, were found in this way, Dr. Camp said.

Dr. Charles H. Phifer, professor of surgery at the University of Illinois college of medicine, chairman of the procurement and assignment service in the 6th service command [Illinois, Wisconsin, and Michigan], also defended the methods used to select doctors for army-navy service.

Some doctors who make appeals to his board are allergic to military service, Dr. Phifer said.

83,000 Held Adequate.

Dr. Oscar Hawkinson, president of the Chicago Medical society, and Dr. George W. Post, president of the Illinois State Medical society, also said the methods used in meeting medical and civilian needs were equitable.

If 53,000 doctors are serving in the army and navy by Jan. 1, the nation's civilians can be cared for on the basis of one physican for each 1,500 civilians, procurement officials estimate. Their figures take into account 83,000 physicians, surgeons, and general practitioners; 15,000 public health doctors, and 8,000 hospital resident physicians and interns.

On the charges that physicians between the ages of 38 and 45 were intimidated into joining the army and navy, officials of the procurement and assignment service had only this comment: "A directive has gone to generals of the various service commands authorizing them to induct into the service physicians between the ages of 38 and 45 who have been declared available."

Availability Rules Told.

At the office of Dr. Ralph A. Kordenant, vice chairman for Illinois of the procurement service, a spokesman explained the rules set up to determine which doctors are deemed "available" for military service. He said the rules exempt from service teachers of the science of medicine, pathologists, X-ray men, and others vital to the conduct of laboratories, and the staffs of outlying hospitals and charitable institutions which soon must carry heavier loads.

The spokesmen said members of procurement and assignment boards were named at Washington, D. C., thru Dr. Maxwell E. Lapham, executive officer for the directing board, and names of the members of the board are not disclosed to avoid "pressure."

Procurement officials said the charges relating to refugee doctors are ill founded. Fewer than 400 such doctors now are practicing in Illinois, according to records of the state department of registration and education.

Refugees One-Twentieth.

There were 12,500 licensed physicians in the state in 1941. A recent survey showed 4,200 Illinois doctors in army-navy service, leaving 8,300 still practicing in the state. Refugee doctors thus make up less than one-twentieth of the total.

At the start of the war there was one physician for every 500 persons in Cook county and one for every 1,000 in the remainder of the state. With 4,200 Illinois doctors in the services, there is now one to every 700 in Cook county and one to every 1,350 in the state, according to Secretary Camp of the Illinois State Medical society.

"Illinois therefore has a much better ratio than the national standard of one physician to every 1,500 civilians," he said.

RED CROSS AUTO CORPS REWARDED BY ADM. DOWNES

The Chicago Red Cross chapter's motor corps yesterday received a certificate of gratitude from Rear Adm. John Downes, commandant of the 9th naval district, for its "diligent, unselfish, and devoted" work in the interests of the navy.

Miss Harriet McLaughlin, chairman of the corps, received the award. Special mention certificates were given to Mrs. Robert McKenna, Miss Elizabeth von Hagen, Mrs. Miller Dixon, and Mrs. H. F. Straw, in charge of the motor corps work with the navy.

Adm. Downes on June 30 requested the corps to relieve navy men who drove cars used on official business. All members are volunteers and are graduates of first aid, safety driving, and mechanics' study courses.

5 NEW PARALYSIS CASES AND ONE DEATH REPORTED

Five new cases of infantile paralysis and one death were reported yesterday by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, for the 24 hours ended at 9 a. m. This brought the Chicago toll in the epidemic to 824 cases and 77 deaths.

Three of the new cases are on the south side, one on the west side, and one on the north. Three are boys and two are girls. Two are over 15, three are under. The fatality was that of an 8 year old boy in the 8700 block on Harper avenue.

Aurora yesterday reported its first case of the year, that of a 25 year old woman in the 400 block on South Lake street. The first death from the disease this year in the Fox river valley occurred Friday in St. Charles. Elgin has had nine cases.

Boy She Helped Now Is Lt. Gen. Clark.

Mrs. John I. Marshall.

Mrs. Marshall yesterday told how she had helped obtain the appointment to West Point. "One day in 1913 the adjutant at West Point wired me that Wayne had passed his entrance exam and could enter the military school," she recalled. "The president had been permitted 14 appointments and Wayne who was the 14th, was terribly excited as he cabled his father, who was stationed in Tientsin, China.

A Crestfallen Boy.

"The next day the adjutant wired that Wayne was 15th instead of 14th, and therefore his appointment was canceled. I have never seen such a crestfallen boy. He'd had his heart set on an army career. I said to Wayne, 'What would you do if you were in the army and in battle, and things were not going right?' Wayne promptly replied, 'I certainly would fight!' So I said, 'That's just what we're going to do.'"

Mrs. Marshall then took the next train for Washington, she said, where she was referred by the secretary of war to Dudley Field Malone, third assistant secretary of state. "Tears streamed down my face as I described Wayne's disappointment to Mr. Malone," said Mrs. Marshall recounted, and as he pledged his aid in obtaining the appointment he remarked, "Some day we will hear that Wayne is a general."

Lt. Gen. Clark, when he was wounded in the last war, was a captain serving in France under Mrs. Marshall's son, Maj. William A. Rafferty, who now operates a large farm near Morocco, Ind. Also in the same camp was Mrs. Marshall's son-in-law, Col. E. G. McCleave, now of Grossmont, Cal., whose wife was Valencia Rafferty before their marriage.

Devoted to His Mother.

"The most beautiful thing I have ever seen is Wayne's devotion to his mother, whom he always addresses as 'my sweetheart,'" Mrs. Marshall said. "I remember how he used to gather wild flowers out here while his father was stationed at Fort Sheridan. He always said they were for his sweetheart, his mother." His mother, Mrs. Charles Carr Clark, now lives in Washington, D. C., as does his wife, Maurine, who currently is on a bond selling tour.

Mrs. Marshall, whose husband was president and owner of the Middleby, Marshall Oven company until his death, recalls that her famous nephew always was mischievous, full of fun, romantic, and democratic, as is attested by the sign which now hangs over the door of his headquarters in Italy, "Enter; don't knock."

Lt. Gen. Clark's father twice was stationed at Fort Sheridan and once in the army commissary department in Chicago, Mrs. Marshall said. During those years her nephew attended Elm Place grammar school in Highland Park, and Racine college in Racine, Wis.

"Wayne always was as close to me as one of my own children," Mrs. Marshall said. "I always loved him for his do-or-die nature and the way he would get his objective."

Mrs. Marshall's first husband was the late Col. William A. Rafferty of the cavalry.

FIRE DAMAGES FLAT BUILDING.

200 NAZI PLANES SHOT DOWN BY POLISH FLYERS

Youngest Pilot in Group Gets Last One.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Mr. Smith of Chicago never turned up with the watch he had promised, but Pilot Officer Wladyslaw Sliwinski, 22 year old Pole, who shot down the Kisciuzko squadron's 200th Nazi plane, got his timepiece anyway. It was presented by his squadron mates at a London ceremony Friday night.

Some time ago a middle aged man who identified himself as "Mr. Smith of Chicago" offered to present a watch to the Pole who bagged the 200th Nazi plane, but when the deed was done last week "Smith" was nowhere to be found.

In addition to giving this Spitfire squadron's youngest pilot a well earned watch, the ceremony provided an opportunity for Flying Fortress crews to meet for the first time the men who have provided a fighter umbrella over many of their missions. Old friends in the air, the Poles and the Americans had never met on the ground.

Last U. S. Member There.

The last remaining American member of the Polish air force, Lt. William Tapp of Louisville, Ky., was on hand for the presentation. His mother, Mrs. Guy Scott, lives in Evanston, Ill., and his sister, Mrs. William Barrowe Leggett, lives in Winnetka. Tapp joined the Polish unit of the R. A. F. at Windsor, Canada, in 1941. Two hundred and fifty-six other Americans formerly with the Poles already have transferred to the United States air force.

Maj. Gen. William E. Kepner of the 8th American air force gave tribute to the Polish airmen in a brief talk following the presentation.

Have American Connections.

Some of the Poles present had American connections. Pilot Officer Ludwik Barr, who has not heard from his mother, father and two sisters since they were deported by the Russians after the occupation of Poland in 1939, asked THE TRIBUNE correspondent if he knew of his uncle, Victor Runiak of Chicago, from whom he has not heard in 10 years. He said he thought his uncle worked for the Polish paper, American Echo.

COUNTY EXCEEDS WAR BOND GOAL BY 114 MILLIONS

Cook county went about 114 million dollars over its third war loan quota of $746,348,400 and subscribed for more than 860 million dollars' worth of war securities, Irvin L. Porter, chairman of the county war finance committee, indicated yesterday in the closing hours of the drive. Complete figures will not be available for some days.

There was no letdown on the last day of the drive in Chicago. The Chicago Junior Association of Commerce sold $1,053,418 worth of bonds yesterday afternoon at the Victory matinee in the WBBM studios.

Cook county's outstanding record was recognized by Harold H. Swift, chairman of the Illinois war finance committee, at a reception for bond workers in Hotel Sherman yesterday. He conferred a treasury department citation on Porter.

Illinois bought $985,470,000 worth of bonds during the drive, 107 per cent of its quota, with Friday and Saturday sales still to be counted.

Manitowoc County Over Bond Goal by $25,000

Manitowoc, Wis., Oct. 2 [Special].—A checkup today showed that Manitowoc county went over the top in the third war loan drive with $25,000 to spare. Today the sales totaled $3,770,500. Leo Brownell said the total does not include complete sales from Two Rivers and Kiel nor late purchases from 11 banks and other issuing agents.

Assails New Deal Waste of Man Power.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—The responsibility for drafting fathers lies only with President Roosevelt, Sen. Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], sponsor of the bill to postpone the induction of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers until after Jan. 1, said today.

Sen. Wheeler, who spoke for 10 hours during senate sessions last week in what appears to be a futile battle to postpone the draft of fathers until man power tangles are straightened out, warned in an interview today that the administration is headef for historical disgrace unless waste of materials and men is stopped.

"Whether members of the senate realize it, the country knows about the waste that is going on," Wheeler said. "If the administration doesn't stop it, it will go down in history as the most profligate and wasteful administration this nation ever has had.

People No Longer Fooled.

"The people are no longer fooled by fine phrases manufactured by paid propagandists at the expense of taxpayers, or by fireside chats. They know that the responsibility for the drafting of fathers, the breaking up of homes, the consequent encouragement of juvenile delinquency and crime, rests solely upon the President."

Wheeler repeated his assertion that he is not particularly interested in passage of his own measure, which admittedly faces defeat next week, but it vitally concerned over the man power waste which hearings on his bill have brought to light.

"I will support any bill which will put a stop to these wastes," he said, "and which will assure that childless young men in draftproof jobs be driven into the army. If this is accomplished and the army any navy reconsider their high physical standards which are keeping able men from serving in noncombatant positions, the draft of fathers will be unnecessary."

Rebukes His Smearers.

The Montana senator sharply rebuked administration spokesmen who have attempted to smear him and others who have been carrying on the fight against the draft of fathers.

"I don't care what they say about me, personally," he said. "This is not my fight, it is the fight of the American home.

"Because I took a stand against administration extravagance and called attention to wasteful use of man power which will ruin the country, some New Dealers have criticized me and set out to smear every one who attempts to stop these wasteful practices.

Guam Case Explained.

"A typical example of their methods is that they are now attempting to say that those who are criticizing them were responsible for the failure to fortify Guam. The facts of the case are that the administration asked for $5,000,000 to deepen the harbor of that island, and got it, but it wasn't used properly because at that time the administration was attempting to appease Japan. The matter was not debated in the senate."

"I still believe that a thoro investigation of man power usage is needed, along with a complete examination of the comparative contributions by the allies in this war.

"If the people could be enlightened on these things the morale of the nation would be greatly strengthened."

Hill to Lead Opposition.

Sen. Lister Hill [D., Ala.], majority whip, is expected to take the floor Monday in the first of several speeches by administration spokesmen, ostensibly aimed at defeating the Wheeler bill, but certain to be designed more to refute the arguments of government and army waste and extravagance which have featured debate on the Wheeler measure.

Many are backing the proposed substitute measure advanced by Sen. Robert A. Taft [R., O.] which would ban deferments for occupational reasons of men under 30, except when such deferment is agreed upon jointly by the registrant's local board, the board in the area where he is employed, and the national director of selective service.

In addition the Taft plan would call for the induction of fathers by age categories, so that men between the ages of 30 and 38 who have children would be the last to be called. It also would provide that all inductions shall be made on a nation-wide quota system, to assure that all single men in all local draft boards have been taken before any fathers from any local draft board would be taken.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Oct. 2 (AP).—Three year old Bobby Northrup abandoned a bath today to set out to see the world. As it turned out, the world saw a great deal of Bobby. When his mother left him momentarily he hurried off—in his birthday suit. Bobby headed up the street, turned a corner, and soon crossed the railroad tracks. Amazed citizens gaped in his wake. But at length, in the downtown area, Alex Fidler—a boxing official—halted and rejacketed the lad. Police added a turkish towel to the ensemble and treated him to candy and pop until Mrs. Northrup arrived and pronounced sentence: "Bobby, you'll have to have another bath."

OL' DAN'L BOONE ON PROWL AGAIN, AT DRAFT QUIZ

So Is Dizzy Dean, Ickes and St. Louis Browns.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—Daniel Boone finally got into the draft controversy today, along with Dizzy Dean, the St. Louis Browns, Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, and Draft Director Lewis B. Hershey.

Gen. Hershey was the only one of them there. But he and the house military affairs subcommittee investigating man power discussed the others, and also the case of several hundred government workers said to have responsible jobs for which they got deferred on grounds of mental quirks.

Gen. Hershey told about Daniel Boone. He said Daniel wouldn't have been able to hold Booneville if he'd listened to women who said their husbands had dishes to wash when the Indians were attacking.

Athletes Star in 4-F.

Dizzy Dean and the Browns' infield were brought up by Rep. Charles H. Elston [R., O.], who mentioned Dizzy had been deferred because of a bad ear drum, and that St. Louis wes celebrating the fact that the Browns' entire infield was in 4-F. The congressman wondered whether people would understand why journeyman athletes weren't in shape to serve in the army.

Rep. John J. Sparkman [D., Ala.] asked about the pay rollers with the mental quirks. He said he understood several hundred of them were still able to hold responsible government jobs, after deferment, and suggested that they be reëxamined.

Gen. Hershey agreed that there may be many among those deferred because of mental abnormalities who could be inducted. He added that mental illness is relatively easy to fake. Committee members said heart disease is too.

Reëxamination Favored.

Hershey said it would be an excellent idea to reëxamine all the 4-Fs. The army and navy won't accept verdicts of selective service physicians, he added, but he said he is constantly resubmitting men rejected by the services and that a number of these are being accepted upon second examination.

Ickes was mentioned by Chairman John M. Costello [D., Cal.], who said the secretary had objected to previous testimony by Col. Elward A. Fitzgerald of the man power review committee, set up to pass on deferments made by government agencies thru establishment of so-called key positions. Edwards recently complained about Ickes' geological survey map makers, and Ickes replied that they were making war maps.

The colonel told Costello that the geological survey maps only the western hemisphere, and that the army in North Africa now has 510 tons of maps. And that isn't all. Col. Fitzgerald said Ickes listed 39 key positions in one office and 37 of them were vacant.

A woman attended the hearing, too. She tried to make a speech, but they stopped her. Later she explained that she's running for President.

32D SAFETY PARLEY MEETS TUESDAY TO HELP WIN THE WAR

The 32d annual National Safety congress, dedicated to reducing accidents that delay winning the war, will be held in the Sherman, Morrison, and La Salle hotels for three days, beginning Tuesday. Civilian and military leaders from all parts of the country will attend.

Robert A. Lovett, assistant secretary of war for air, will speak at a banquet Wednesday evening. In addition to 12 generals and a vice admiral and rear admiral, approximately 200 officers will participate in the convention's technical sessions.

Ned H. Dearborn, executive vice president of the National Safety council, which has its headquarters in Chicago and which sponsors the congress, has announced that programs will include talks by industrial medical directors, personnel directors, production superintendents, city, state, and highway police, educators, and agricultural experts.

DISPUTE ENDED, U. S. MAY GET WRIGHTS' PLANE

It's Up to Orville, British Museum Head Says.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Oct. 2.—The frail airplane which the Wright brothers lifted off the sands of Kittyhawk, N. C., almost 40 years ago in man's first controled flight in a power-driven machine, may be returned to the United States, it was learned here today.

This historic plane, which has occupied a place of honor in the science museum at South Kensington for more than 20 years, still is the property of Orville Wright, who lives in Dayton, O. It does not belong to the museum which displayed it all these years and Col. Feb Mackintosh, director of the institution, is reported to have said, "it's up to Orville Wright. It is his property. If he wishes it to go back to America, it will do so."

Dispute Over First Flight.

Talk of returning the plane to America revolves around the action of the Smithsonian Institution last October in altering its old claim that the first plane to fly was Samuel Langley's "Aerodrome."

Several months before the cold December in 1903 when the Wright brothers made their first successful flight, Langley's catapult launched "Aerodrome" attempted to fly. The Smithsonian Institution chose to call Langley's flight the first by a man in a power driven, controled airplane. It exhibited his aircraft in the institution as man's first successful flying machine.

The Wright brothers took this as a reflection against their work and personal honesty. Subsequently they turned their original plane over to the British who, along with the French, had shown a much greater interest in it than the United States.

Recognize Wright Flight.

According to some reports, Langley's plane crashed when it reached the end of its catapult impetus and therefore did not make a real power driven flight.

Orville Wright frequently has been cited as saying that the original Wright plane never would return to America so long as the Langley plane was described by the Smithsonian Institution as the first successful aircraft. Now that the institution has changed its stand and recognized his flight as the first, there is some feeling here that the next move will be to have the plane returned for a place of honor in America.

Actress Is Mother

Hollywood, Oct. 2 (AP).—A four-and-a-half pound boy was born today to actress Cobina Wright Jr., former society girl, the wife of 1st Lt. Palmer Beaudette of the army. The boy has been named Palmer Beaudette Jr. His father is in the South Pacific.

CEILING PRICES FIXED ON FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

Class A Eggs Advanced One Cent a Dozen.

Dollar and cents ceiling prices for the most common fresh fruits and vegetables were announced yesterday to go into effect tomorrow in Cook, Du Page, and Lake counties, and Lake county, Indiana.

Michael F. Mulcahy, Chicago metropolitan area OPA director, said a recent survey showed that the new top prices approximate the average now being charged.

Fresh fruits and vegetables for which flat maximums were set include grapes, lemons, oranges, green and wax beans, cabbage, lettuce, peas, onions, potatoes, spinach, and tomatoes.

Prices Changeable Weekly.

The ceilings will be changeable every week. Changes will be announced at the week-end to become effective on Mondays. Oranges and lemons, Mulcahy said, hereafter will be priced by the pound rather than the dozen.

The OPA director also announced that ceiling prices of class "A" eggs will advance 1 cent a dozen tomorrow. Prices will range from 53 to 70 cents a dozen, according to the size of the eggs and the type of store in which purchased.

Mulcahy urged consumers to become acquainted with the dollar and cents ceilings and refuse to pay more. Violators should be reported to the OPA, he said.

table maximums were for stores in the two groups, which the OPA define as independents with a business volume of less than $250,000 a year.

Mucahy said this does not exempt stores in other groups, since no store may charge more than the ceilings indicated for group 2 stores.

Subsidize Peanut Butter.

A subsidy program to reduce the price of peanut butter to consumers from a level of 33.1 cents a pound to about 26.5 cents was announced jointly in Washington, D. C., yesterday by the OPA and the war food administration. The 26.5 cents figure is an average price, altho Chester Bowles, general manager of the OPA, said recently that a top price of about 26 cents was being sought.

OPA spokesmen estimated that the new prices will range from about 23 to 30 cents a pound. Rebates of 4½ cents a pound on peanut butter sold for home consumption will be made to manufacturers by the Commodity Credit corporation, which is the sole buyer and seller of farmers' stock peanuts. The program will become effective as soon as administrative details are completed.

INSULATION

Department—Nationally Famous Insulations Engineered and Installed by Hines Own Experts

Now you can be sure your Insulation Dollars will be well invested! Phone Hines tomorrow for Free Fuel Saving Survey. Insulate now before the rush and take advantage of new FHA terms to save fuel this winter.

NO MONEY DOWN - EASY TERMS!
LOW AS $5 PER MONTH — 36 MONTHS TO PAY

3 REASONS for Buying from HINES

1. Hines Knows
The best is always the cheapest in the long run—and when it comes to insulation, your first cost is the only cost when the work is done by Hines. Phone Hines for an estimate today, and place your order before the winter rush.

2. Hines Is Responsible
The Edward Hines Lumber Co. was one of the first companies to introduce insulation to Chicago, and in past years has sold more insulation than any other company in Chicago. Knowledge, built up by years of experience, cannot be duplicated.

3. Hines Is Economical
For over fifty years the Edward Hines Lumber Co. has been a neighbor of yours, and we will be here long after others have gone. With Hines, your satisfaction is assured. We use quality materials, and apply them in a workman-like manner.

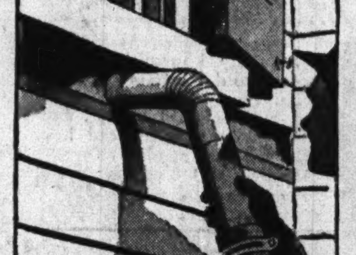
Balsam Wool

applied by Hines skilled craftsmen, is the most efficient insulation you can buy. With Hines insulation service, you have a choice of insulations and the expert advice of qualified insulation engineers who will recommend the right type of material to give you the best results.

HINES ALSO APPLIES
- Storm Sash
- Weather Stripping
- Caulking
- Ventilating

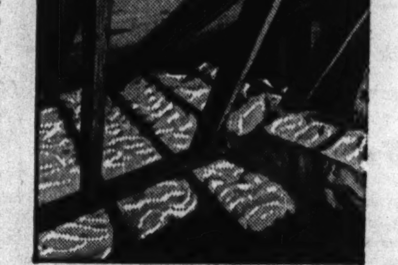
Hines is the only large, responsible company offering this complete insulation service. One contract and everything is taken care of on convenient FHA terms, if you so desire.

Hines Positive Application of ROCK WOOL



Hines application of Rock Wool, either blow-in or batt type, is the finest work done in the city. All jobs are carefully studied by Hines Insulation Engineers, and blow-in Rock Wool is used only in places, such as under flat roofs of apartment buildings, and other spots that can't be reached by positive, sure-hand application of the full thickness of quality Rock Wool batts, or other insulation materials suited to the job.

Hines has found that only one in a hundred jobs can be positively insulated with one type of material. The other ninety-nine jobs require the use of two, three, and even four different insulations to insure the best results. Hines can give you this service, and when your house is insulated by Hines you can be sure that you have invested in fuel-saving insulation—not just a certain type of insulation that may or may not be suited for the job. Be sure with Hines! Phone tomorrow for a fuel saving survey which will insure positive satisfaction.



Extra Attic Rooms

You may or may not want to finish off extra attic rooms now, but it is well to insulate so that you can use your attic later on for extra living quarters. By placing the insulation between the roof rafters and providing adequate ventilation, attics can be made comfortable both summer and winter.

Hines offers you a choice of many attractive wallboards for finishing off attic rooms that provide wall-covering, decoration as well as extra insulation. Phone the Insulation Division for free samples of wallboards and idea booklets showing you what can be done with economical, no-priority materials on new FHA terms of no money down and three years to pay.

DICTATOR RULE OF HEALTH SEEN IN SECURITY BILL

A campaign to distribute 20 million pamphlets thruout the United States to acquaint Americans with the revolutionary medical provisions of the Wagner-Murray senate bill for a unified social insurance system is well under way, John M. Pratt, administrator for the National Physicians' committee for the extension of medical service, said yesterday at national headquarters in Chicago.

The bill, introduced last June to amend and greatly broaden the scope of the social security act, makes provisions for free medical, laboratory, and hospitalization benefits for more than 110 million persons, and proposes placing in the hands of one man, the surgeon general of the public health service, dictator powers over doctors, hospitals, and patients, the physicians' committee said.

Branded Sinister Menace.

"If the recommendations are enacted into law," Pratt asserted, "they will destroy the private practice of medicine in the United States. The proposals are of such magnitude, and of such sinister menace that, practically, they are incomprehensible to an American."

The National Physicians' committee is aiming at arousing a "tidal wave of protest" to congress by making Americans familiar with the bill's totalitarian implications. The committee is disseminating printed matter thru physicians, dentists, druggists, attorneys, newspapers, and business groups. It also sponsors talks on the subject before civic groups.

Incentive to Incompetence.

Among the many criticisms of the bill the pamphlets make is this: "Doctors would be paid by the government. There would be little incentive for the doctor to become skilled in the art of medical practice. His advancement would depend upon his influence with politicians rather than on his skill or the character of his work. For the doctor political control of medical care means incompetence, professional deterioration, and the forfeiture of self-respect."

The committee is making a nation-wide survey of public opinion in relation to the status of physicians in the community, medical service plans, the adequacy of medical care, and compulsory health insurance.

Marines Get Flag and Recruit

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

Joins 5 Brothers

The Chicago marine corps recruiting office yesterday accepted a flag, the gift of the Chicago post of the Marine Corps league, as an 18 year old youth, the sixth brother in one family to join the corps, was sworn in. The new recruit was Thomas Jenkins of 902 Belden avenue, four of whose brothers joined the corps immediately after Pearl Harbor and the fifth a month later. Thomas was 18 a few days ago. Capt. S. H. Cook, head of the recruiting office, accepted the colors from Joseph D. Probst, commandant of the post, an organization of present and former marines.

Dinner Date Releases Clerk Locked in Store

Ben Banghart, 45 years old, 19 North Clark street, inadvertently was locked in the shoe store at 144 North Dearborn street where he is a clerk at closing time last night. There he remained for two hours, until he was released by the store owner, B. M. Cox, 817 Lake street, Oak Park, who was called at his home by Miss Ann White, 422 Melrose street. She had a dinner appointment with Banghart.

CHUTIST VICTOR WHO LOST ARMS KEEPS UP FIGHT

Africa Veteran Aids in Bond Drives.

Henry L. Higginbotham, 18 year old paratroop veteran of the North Africa campaign, who has given two arms in the service of his country, paused yesterday in Chicago, to "get a glimpse of Lake Michigan." He is en route to his home in Spokane, Wash., and is giving his services in bond drives along the way.

H. L. Higginbotham

Henry, whose smiling face shows little trace of the searing effects of the battles he has experienced, plans to enter college next January and become a lawyer. He was graduated from North Central High school in Spokane when he was 16 years old. The youthful veteran brushed aside the suggestion that loss of two arms might be a handicap.

"I've learned a lot more in the last year than if I had stayed at home," he said.

Veteran of Tunisia Drive.

He enlisted in January, 1942, when he was 17 years old, received his basic training in Georgia, and finished with water jumps at Miami, Fla., before going overseas with the parachute infantry. His battalion arrived in North Africa in time to take part in the closing stages of the allied drive in Tunisia.

Henry's big day came on March 6, when he was selected as one of a squad to wipe out an ammunition dump behind the German lines. It was his 74th jump.

"When we went after that ammunition dump," Henry said, "we just didn't figure on coming back. We figured if any of us did, it was so much to the good.

Four of 24 Survive.

"We got the dump and I got a few Germans before they got me." He lifted his two artificial arms. A hand grenade went off too close and Henry spent two months in a hospital in Algiers before being sent back to the army hospital at Atlanta, where he has been since. One lung collapsed and there were more than a score of shrapnel wounds on his body.

He was one of four survivors of the squad of 24 detailed to destroy the dump. Of nearly 1,000 men who went overseas in his unit, he said fewer than 100 survived the campaign.

Praised by Commander.

One of his most prized possessions is a letter from Maj. Gen. E. G. Chapman, commanding officer of the air borne command, who wrote him, "You are one of our outstanding parachutists whose spirit can never be curtailed, for these men such as yourself will always carry on the fight."

Henry is a member of a fighting family. An older brother, Ray, is in the air force now serving in England.

12 COUPLES, WED 50 YRS. OR MORE, ATTEND REUNION

Twelve couples, all of whom said their wedding vows 50 years or more ago, attended the fourth annual meeting of the National Golden Wedding Band, Inc., yesterday in the Morrison hotel. The president and organizer, Mrs. Ida R. Voliva of Zion, announced the establishment of a Chicago chapter under the direction of Mrs. Dorothea Sullivan, former president of the Chicago Grandmothers' club.

In a roll call of grandchildren, great-grandchildren and other relatives in service, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nichols, 1835 182d place, Homewood, reported they had four grandsons serving in this war. Mr. Nichols observed that in a few more years the 31 Nichols great-grandchildren should make up some kind of military unit by themselves.

Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Cranmer, 2340 West 113th place, have celebrated 68 anniversaries. Mr. Cranmer, 91, the oldest member at the meeting, has written a book, "The Evolution of Life." He said of his long married life: "Well, if I have to live another 68 years with a woman, I want it to be the same one."

DEMOCRATS GIVE 76 CONVENTION VOTING BONUSES

38 States Will Have 2 Additional Delegates.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—The 38 states which gave President Roosevelt and Vice President Wallace 449 electoral votes in the last Presidential election will be rewarded with an additional two delegates each at the 1944 Democratic national convention, Chairman Frank C. Walker of the party's national committee announced today.

This will mean that the voting strength of the convention next summer will be greater by 76 than the 1940 convention which nominated Roosevelt for a third term, with the new votes drawn from the strongest Roosevelt states. The 1940 convention had 1,100 votes and the 1944 convention will have 1,176.

Change Fixed by Convention.

Walker said the change was decided at the last convention. In some measure it compensates the southern states for power they lost when the 1936 convention abandoned the rule requiring a two-thirds vote to nominate a candidate.

All the southern states will gain two votes, as will the other states which went for Roosevelt in the election. The 10 states which failed to produce for Roosevelt last time—Colorado, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Maine, and Vermont—will have relatively less voting strength when the 1944 candidate is selected.

Delegates to Be Fewer.

Walker said that while the voting strength of the next convention will be increased, the number of delegates will be reduced, because the 1940 meeting also decided to do away with fractional delegates representing less than half a vote.

It has been the custon in the past to split votes into fractions as small as thirty-seconds. This increased the number of delegates, altho the total voting strength remained the same. The total number of delegates at the 1940 convention was 1,500. There also were 1,500 alternates.

Walker predicted the total number of delegates and alternates at the 1944 convention will be substantially less than the 3,000 in 1940.

Capt. Harlan H. Olson and bride after ceremony yesterday.

Capt. Harlan H. Olson of Ia Grange, an army flyer who returned from New Guinea two weeks ago, and Miss Joan Lynch, daughter of Mrs. Grace Martin Lynch, 222 East Delaware place, were married yesterday afternoon in Holy Name rectory. There was a reception in the Drake hotel. Capt. Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Olson of 409 North Waiola avenue, La Grange, has been decorated for actions in which his bomber crew participated in the southwest Pacific.

CHUTES DELIVER JEEPS TO TROOPS CUT OFF IN 'WAR'

Landing in Right Spot Is Main Problem.

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

With the 2d Army in Tennessee, Oct. 2.—Army units continually are being cut off from their supplies in highly mobile war. Re-supplying such outfits in combat zones until contact can be reëstablished has been a major problem.

The 2d army, with more than 90,000 men participating in a training war on a 25 county battlefield, has tackled this problem. For the last two weeks the staff had picked one regiment daily, designated it as cut off, and given the air corps the job of getting thru supplies for the 1,500 men.

First difficulty is packaging. Gasoline and water are put in reinforced five gallon canvas bags. Food goes into heavy wooden boxes wrapped in thick quilts. Artillery and even jeeps have been landed by large parachutes. The cars frequently land upside down, but nearly always can be righted and driven off. The biggest problem here is locating the right delivery spot. On two days the planes unloaded and cotton chutes floated the supplies to earth safely—right in the hands of the "enemy."

Wives Follow Manuevers.

Hundreds, maybe thousands, of army wives have followed their husbands into middle Tennessee, even tho discouraged by high army officials.

With no ceilings, rents in middle Tennessee towns have leap frogged in typical boom town fashion. A two room apartment that rented for a few dollars brought $60 last month and now is up to $80. Coal is scarce. Dealers haven't filled all orders placed by their regular civilian customers last spring and when army wives will get coal for their stoves and fireplaces is a question. Stores run out of food. Cafes and drug store fountains are closed much of the time and bear signs: "No food." Beer is dried up like a bucket of water poured on Death Valley.

Some army wives began eating at officers' kitchens as "hardship" cases, paying the $1.35 daily board fee assessed officers, decidedly a bargain rate. Civilian housewives quoted some army wives as bragging that since neither they nor their husbands had to surrender ration points to the army, they could splurge when marketing for week-ends away from the post.

Banned from Officer Kitchens.

The civilian wives boiled. A private feminine war threatened. The army called a truce, banning army wives from officers' kitchens.

When the 2d army presented its weekly radio show last night two Chicago boys were in the 15 piece band, happily blowing their lungs out. Both, Judd Przygocki, 4868 Warner avenue, and Edward Davison, 7633 East End avenue, had their own bands in peacetime.

"We played even at the Edgewater Beach," said Davison.

Przygocki told of an 18 month stay at a country club.

Saddened by being separated from their instruments and careers when drafted, the two boys cheered when they were assigned to a paratroop regiment band.

Crooner? Why, Certainly!

Presenting an army show has problems of its own. The opening announcement in rehearsals read: "Presenting music of the paratroop regiment band, with talented soloists of the armored corps."

A major attached to the corps, which is higher than a regiment, began throwing his gold leaves around. When the show went on the announcer said: "Presenting soloists of the armored corps, assisted by the paratroop regiment band."

Most disheartened Chicagoan in the maneuver area is Sgt. James E. Mackey Jr. A military policeman stopped him, scolded him for a minor traffic offense, then borrowed Mackey's pencil to fill out the ticket.

Aircraft Plant Employe Held to Jury in Theft

Earl Mardin Ulfeng, 36 years old, 7825 Sunset drive, Elmwood Park, was held to the federal grand jury yesterday by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on a charge of stealing government property from the Douglas Aircraft company, which employed him as a mechanic last June. Federal bureau of investigation agents reported finding tools and precision instruments valued at $155, taken from the Douglas plant, in Ulfeng's home basement workshop.

INFLATION PROMOTER.

John Maynard Keynes, a newcomer to the British peerage, is still in Washington, where he is directing the preparation of a revised draft of an international post-war monetary plan. About six months ago two versions of the proposal were released simultaneously. The one given out by the British exchequer was called the Keynes plan and the other, released by the treasury at Washington, is known as the White plan. The Keynes and White plans have differences, but, as Dr. B. M. Anderson, an American financial authority of the highest rank, recently pointed out, they are "in essence very similar and their objectives are essentially the same." They come from the brain of Keynes, from which flowed almost all the other mischievous economic schemes the New Deal has followed.

Keynes, until lately, had no great influence in his own country, altho he has had an answer for every problem that has confronted the world in the last 25 years. He referred to himself as a "Cassandra who could never influence the course of events in time."

While this Englishman was no great shakes in London, he has been the dominant economic brain at Washington since May, 1933, when Mr. Roosevelt became infatuated with his ideas. Adolph Berle in the state department, Lauchlin Currie of the President's personal staff, and Alvin Hansen, who is now in one department and now another in an important advisory capacity, are all faithful followers of Keynes.

A few illustrations will show the amazing power this Briton has exercised over Mr. Roosevelt. In an article published in the New York Times in 1934 Keynes said that if the American government would spend 400 million dollars per month more than was necessary to carry on its ordinary functions an upward spiral of business would be generated. Mr. Roosevelt expanded spending at once and in the first fiscal year after he had received Keynes' advice the government had a deficit averaging 412 million dollars per month. When have a doctor's orders been followed more faithfully?

Keynes thought that expansion to "full employment," a term from the Keynes vocabulary which Mr. Roosevelt has used freely, could best be promoted by lowering interest rates. Every one with a savings account knows what Mr. Roosevelt did to interest. The depositor in a Chicago savings bank always got a return of 3 per cent until Mr. Roosevelt came under the spell of Mr. Keynes. He now gets 1¼ per cent or thereabouts.

Keynes argues that the rate ought to be reduced considerably more, "there being nothing in this which is unattainable." It is attainable by inflation. "Whilst," says the learned doctor, "there may be intrinsic reasons for the scarcity of land, there are no intrinsic reasons for the scarcity of capital"—thanks to Cadmus or whoever it was who invented printing.

Mr. Keynes asserted that an outstanding fault of our economic society was "its arbitrary and inequitable distribution of wealth." Soon after this was published Mr. Roosevelt sent a message to congress asking for an increase in death duties and of taxes in the higher income brackets. Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau practically admitted the falsity of such statements about the concentration of incomes when he said in a speech on Sept. 6: "Seven-eighths of our national income this year will go to people earning less than $5,000." Nevertheless, he did not speak out earlier, and congress obediently followed the President's request for legislation carrying the Keynesian ideas into effect.

The foregoing is submitted by way of background for a consideration of the latest Keynesian scheme. The proposal is to set up a bank which can extend credit to countries whose exports are not adequate to pay for the goods they want to buy. The country which will be principally in need of this service is England, as the London Economist recently pointed out. And the country to supply the capital, or credit base, for the bank is the United States.

Thus the plan contemplates the expansion of credit by the United States to enable England to acquire our goods after the war. The brain of Keynes, which conceived the American prewar inflation which resulted in cutting interest rates in two, now offers its masterpiece.

Thru this institution for inflating credit Britain will be enabled to buy American goods after the war. This artificially created demand for all our products will reach us at the same time that Americans will seek to buy the same things, since they did without them during the war. What is going to happen to the price level when foreign buyers, fortified with American created credit, compete in our market with American citizens in need of goods and fortified with the 50 billion dollars they saved during the war?

We have a suggestion of the answer in the experience after the last war. The wildest advance in prices this country ever saw came in 1919 and 1920. It resulted from the competition for goods between foreigners, using money loaned by our government, and our own people, who sold their Liberty bonds to supply themselves with the things they had been denied while war was on.

Heretofore, as we pointed out at the beginning, London has opposed, denounced, ignored, or merely laughed at Keynes' schemes. But the British government now embraces his maximum opus. Why? The conclusion is inescapable that it is because we are Britain's creditor and the British government is seeking to wipe out its debts to us by bringing on inflation here. "The Englishman who rules America" is the man who can succeed in putting over this diabolical measure if any one can. And he will succeed in this unless the vast majority of our citizens sense their danger in time and see that our government throws off the yoke of our titled ruler.

PUERTO RICO.

The administration has finally submitted to congress a bill to give the people of Puerto Rico a larger measure of control over their government than they have enjoyed in the past. The Puerto Ricans would elect their own governor and write their own laws. The President of the United States would retain a veto power to "prevent enactment of laws conflicting with the security and international relations of the United States or affecting the fundamental relations of the United States and Puerto Rico." The President would appoint a commissioner general with power to enforce laws of the United States applicable to Puerto Rico.

The bill certainly does not go too far in the desired direction of freedom for the Puerto Ricans. Our country acquired the island from Spain in 1899 and in 1917 extended full American citizenship to the inhabitants. Within our theory of government there is no place for semi-citizens to be ruled as inferior colonial peoples. We can still grant them full independence if they want it, but if they remain within our system they must have the right of all Americans to rule themselves under the Constitution. For our part we must recognize that the status which this bill provides cannot be regarded as the final solution. The day is nearing when the choice must be made between complete independence and statehood.

THE TRIBUNE takes pride in the knowledge that it played a leading part in bringing about a reconsideration of colonial policy in this country. As we said again and again in arguing for Philippine independence, a nation dedicated to the principles laid down in the Declaration of Independence cannot hold great numbers of alien peoples in subjection against their wills. We can recognize that the defense of this country requires the possession of island bases off our shores, but the bases we now hold in the Caribbean and the others we must have [in addition to Hawaii] in the Pacific can be and must be held without compromise of this country's fundamental principles.

BETTER SEE MR. STALIN SOON.

Mr. Churchill in his survey of the war indorsed the view that not only nazilsm but Prussian militarism must be extirpated in Germany. It is apparent he does not intend a general disarmament such as was proposed after the other war, in part to justify the attempt to disarm Germany and subsequently became one of the great post-war failures in collective action. The collapse of the arms conference was as resounding as that of the economic conference.

In his talk to parliament Mr. Churchill said "It is one of the main and enduring interests of Great Britain that there should be a strong France and a strong French army." Plowshares for swords apparently are not on the British program nor, it would seem, is the international army. Mr. Churchill proposes alliances, not a military power exercised by a super-state as favored by most of our peace planners. The prime minister's vision as a dreamer is limited and well disciplined.

Of the enemy he said: "The core of Germany is Prussia. There is the source of the recurring pestilence. . . . The Nazi tyranny and Prussian militarism are the two main elements in German life which must be absolutely destroyed." Both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill have said that two meetings with soviet Russia are to be held; first, and almost immediately, one of the foreign secretaries; then, before the end of the year, Josef Stalin will meet the British prime minister again and Mr. Roosevelt for the first time. If a meeting of men will bring a meeting of minds these directors of destiny had best hurry to the caviar and vodka. Josef will set the smorgasbord wherever the meeting is held.

The divergence regarding Germany is great and Mr. Churchill's recent utterances have not lessened it. Russia has encouraged Germans to believe that they will be permitted to remain a military power. The opposite policy has full sway with Germany's other opponents.

In the last two years everything else has been marginal to the death struggle of Russia and Germany. The Russians have won back two-thirds of their overrun territory in the last nine months. If the German retreat is not now out of control it might soon be. There may not be much time in which to discover what are the Russian intentions regarding not so much the Nazis, but the German people and their future. If there is a German collapse soon the killer will be Russia and Stalin may claim the hunter's right to his trophy. Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt, or their agents, can ask him what he proposes to do. When he replies they might object and he might consider their objections.

It must be quite apparent that post-war settlement hangs upon the Russian intentions regarding Germany. When Mr. Churchill speaks of totally destroying a military power on the continent he is in the best tradition of English policy. There may have been other reasons than Drake, Hawkins, Frobisher & Co. for the destruction of Spain's power but Drake, Hawkins, Frobisher & Co. were enough. There may have been other reasons than Pitt & Nelson for the destruction of Napoleon but Pitt & Nelson were enough.

Now Mr. Churchill doing his part in this successful strangulation of Europeans by the islanders proposes the extermination of an entire caste not unlike the old English county family caste except that the army into which the first son went was larger and better. He may get by with this and it would be no loss to the world if the junker idea could be extirpated. It's a large order but the first stage in the plan is the discovery of the Russian purpose.

If the Russians, now conducting an unremitting offensive against an unrelieved German retreat, sweeping over the bastions of the Nazi defense system, say no, then what? Who then is the boss of central Europe? If this can be discovered over the caviar and vodka it would be a discovery well made soon.

DUTCH REPUBLIC'S HISTORY

[Following is the address delivered last night by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, on the Chicago Theater of the Air, over W-G-N, W59C, and the Mutual Broadcasting system.]

BY COL. ROBERT R. McCORMICK.

The Dutch revolution and republic were quite similar to our own. In each case provinces and colonies at a distance from the central government sought their constitutional rights, first peaceably, and then by resort to arms. Both produced military and naval commanders so superior to those of the old governments as to offset the discrepancy in military power. Both issued declarations of independence, and both set up revolutionary governments.

Here the similarity ended. The Dutch carried on with their provincial institutions and their revolutionary form of government to the end, while, as we know, our military government first developed the Confederation, then the government of the Northwest Territory, and finally the Constitution of the United States.

Let us run over the principal incidents in the history of the Dutch republic. The Netherlands, substantially the territory comprising modern Holland and Belgium, became more predominantly urban in the middle ages than any other part of Europe. And municipal charters were the forerunners of our cities, our private corporations, our state and national constitutions, and, in fact, of modern civilization.

Cities built walls and raised troops for their defense. The townsmen of the Netherlands defeated an invading army of a king of France as early as the 14th century, and in the 15th century, in common with the local nobility, wrested a Magna Charta from Queen Mary of Burgundy. It provided that war could not be waged, taxes raised, or the sovereign married without consent of the States General, and that only natives should be eligible to office. State charters were issued to the provinces.

These conditions were observed until the throne of the Netherlands passed to the house of Hapsburg. King Charles V. and Philip II. of that house, commanding the Spanish army, at that time the strongest in the world, sought to reimpose arbitrary government on the Netherlands. Civil war followed.

By massacre and compromise, the 10 southern provinces, now Belgium, were pacified in the early years of the war, but under the leadership of the stadtholder, prince of Orange and Nassau, known as William the Silent, the seven other provinces carried on a desperate but losing war on land.

In 1854 King Philip of Spain succeeded in having William the Silent assassinated. By poetic justice, his son and successor, Maurice, turned out to be a military genius. He won three great victories in the open field and recaptured 18 cities from the Spanish. However, he boasted no qualifications of statesmanship. The actual government of the country passed from the stadtholder to the states general, led by a genius named John of Barnevelt.

When differences arose between the soldier and the statesman, the former, commanding the army, succeeded in having the latter judicially murdered.

Thus began the long struggle between the republic and the house of Orange, which ended with the imposition of the military monarchy by the allied kingdoms after the fall of Napoleon.

Of the first three stadtholders from the house of Orange, William organized the Dutch resistance; Maurice and Frederick Henry, his younger brother, drove the Spaniards out of Holland and created the best military machine of that time.

If their house had remained in the ascendant, however, it appears that Holland would have been just another small military monarchy.

It was precisely because the merchants were freed from a court and an aristocracy that the Dutch republic was able far to surpass the monarchies of Europe. During the civil war, the Dutch were cut off from Europe, and forced to take to the sea. Here they developed the most efficient merchant and naval fleets of the time. It was the Dutch republic that destroyed the power of Spain, both on land and sea. In the teeth of Spain, the Dutch conquered their empire in the western Pacific.

During the years that the states general ruled, under the leadership of John De Witt, the Dutch also were the leading civil engineers of their time—draining marshes in England and building canals in Germany. They originated banking and for a while were bankers for the entire world. On their canals they organized the first systematic transportation, with schedules as dependable as those of our railroads today. They first introduced machines in manufacture, obtaining power from the historic Dutch windmills.

During the reigns of Charles I. of England and Louis XIII. of France, they dominated the sea. Several wars with England ensued.

With everything prospering overseas, and at home, the Dutch republic neglected the army, which was favorable to the stadtholders whom they feared.

When in 1672, the army built up by Louis XIV. of France invaded the Low Countries, William III. who had been dispossessed by act of the states general was hurriedly summoned to become the stadtholder. The DeWitts were assassinated in a riot which he is supposed to have instigated, and William assumed full powers.

Seeing that Holland alone was not strong enough to resist France, he took part in English politics and landed a Dutch army in England to support the element which opposed King James II. The army of King James broke into rout and its principal leaders passed over to William.

The British parliament wished to name Mary, daughter of King James II., and wife of William, queen of England, but upon William's insistence named the couple king and queen, the exercise of royal power accruing to William.

He was now the head of the two greatest empires in the world. If he had possessed an heir, it is quite possible that he could have left both empires to him, and in that event appears to have been capable enough to have turned both of the governments into autocracies. He died childless, however, and in effect left the government of both countries to the duke of Marlborough [an ancestor of the present Winston Churchill], whose diplomacy and military genius destroyed the power of Louis XIV.

No great statesmen rose to take the place of Barnevelt and De Witt, without whose genius the clumsy political instrument of the republic could not function. No great political philosophers such as produced the American Constitution ever arose in Holland.

Water power, and afterwards steam, became more efficient than windmills, and Holland had neither waterfalls nor coal. Wars had sapped the wealth of the republic. Other countries had learned her methods.

Commerce shrank. Enterprise disappeared. It was a decadent state that the monarchs of Europe entered in order to attack revolutionary France. The French drove them out and organized a republic on French lines. Napoleon overthrew this state and plundered Holland of her riches and conscripted her sons as soldiers.

Upon his final defeat, the kings set up the house of Nassau as an hereditary monarchy.

So it has been that of the four great countries that tried to set up republics, only the United States succeeded. That is why we, having the only free people, have surpassed all other people in wealth, happiness, and power. If we can retain our own freedom, perhaps we can teach our principles to the world.

THERE IS A REASON FOR FATIGUE.

IS fatigue contagious? Certainly some of its manifestations are. Observe the members of a group following an animated discussion. If one yawns, the symptom will be repeated—covertly perhaps—by every one. Unless the session adjourns promptly, all may be indulging every few minutes.

But the one who is chronically tired is usually ill. In other words, rest and sleep fail to rebuild the wear and tear of the day. Perhaps the fault lies in the fact that the individual tosses about restlessly at night, wasting more energy than can be recovered.

The most careful physical examination may fail to reveal a single disorder. But, like the dropping of water which erodes a stone, there may be scores of minor deficiencies which, when totaled, will account for the condition. An abscessed tooth or a type of indigestion which presents no pain may explain that "tired feeling." A shortage of one or more vitamins, unscientific menus, or various other factors may be responsible.

The program of rehabilitation may involve a score of relatively simple procedures, no one of which is particularly significant. Not infrequently, a balanced food regime means more than all the medicine in the apothecary shop.

I well recall the case of a well built, active man who complained that he was weary constantly. Decidedly overweight, his appetite was enormous. When his food intake was limited to the needs of his system, he experienced two or three weeks of well nigh prostration. Shortly thereafter, however, he began to regain his aforetime energy. Within six months he was, as he put it, "hitting the ball every time it was pitched." We must admit that clogging the figurative flues within the digestive tract is just about as certain to produce weakness as overwork or undernourishment.

But if it is found that the meals are well planned, and if physical demands are not beyond capacity, we may look to organic causes. Many of these individuals are really suffering from a mild form of heart failure. The liver may be somewhat enlarged and digestion below par. Only a moderate amount of attention to the cardiac muscle will bring about restoration of power within that organ, with the disappearance of all signs of prostration.

Then, too, we must not forget that the one who is endeavoring to preserve a sylphlike figure may be undergoing actual starvation. Subsisting on salads three times a day will neither coax nor oblige the cells of the body to remove surplus fat. That operation requires activity and exercise. Under too abrupt dieting, enervation may be so profound that the objective will be defeated. The sufferer simply cannot carry on.

One woman who experienced persistent ennui had been constipated for years. With the establishment of good bowel hygiene her troubles vanished. There was probably something mental about the situation because the chances are that she was not absorbing enough poison to explain her pronounced lassitude. She was so happy when she overcame her long standing difficulty that all her vital organs shared her gratitude.

FOOD THEORIES.

A. C. writes: I have an acquaintance who believes that meat has no nutritional value. She says eating potatoes is equivalent to taking poison. Ice cream and candy are taboo while bread with meat is like signing your own death warrant. How do people get this way?

REPLY.

Food faddists merit pity. If they follow their delusions long enough, friends will be called upon to send flowers. Safety lies in adopting a balanced diet.

NOISY SWALLOWING.

F. C. writes: I have a large Adam's apple and wonder if this could be responsible for the fact that a loud noise is made in swallowing either food or liquid.

REPLY.

Adam's namesake is not responsible for gurgling. The chances are that you are gulping air along with your liquids and edibles, which quarrel in their race to reach the gullet [esophagus]. This results in bubbling sounds. Eat slowly and masticate thoroly.

RED NECK.

E. A. T. writes: Very often the outside of my throat becomes red and I am embarrassed when friends call it to my attention. Is this due to nervousness?

REPLY.

This is a second cousin to a blush—but misplaced. The condition is a nervous phenomenon and may follow embarrassment, excitement, etc. Cultivation of poise is the answer.

HEART SITE.

Mrs. R. J. writes: I was recently kicked in the chest by a horse and learned incidentally, thru an X-ray, that my heart is misplaced. Is this condition dangerous?

REPLY.

Many vital organs, including the heart, will function efficiently regardless of position. If pressure is not a factor, there is no occasion for worry.

QUALITY NOT QUANTITY.

J. & A. writes: Can a person who has had tuberculosis or who is taking pneumo treatments be a radio announcer?

REPLY.

No hindrance, if other qualifications are present. You can be stoutwinded but not longwinded.

LAKE FRONT AIRPORT.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—I was deeply interested in reading in THE TRIBUNE that the Chicago Plan commission had asked navy meteorologists for weather data on the lake front in connection with the proposed airport there.

During 1934, 1935, and 1936, while I was managing director of the Stevens hotel, I observed weather conditions daily from the windows of my office on the fourth floor. At that time Comdr. E. F. McDonald Jr. was living aboard his yacht, the Mizpah. Each day he drove from the lake front to his plant, which took him past the proposed site of the new airport and into the vicinity of the municipal airport. It was his custom to telephone me upon arrival at his office so that we might determine if weather changes had occurred after he had left the lake front. Altho our observations were not recorded in detail we made an amazing discovery. On almost every occasion visibility at the lake front was better than at the municipal airport. This condition was true both of smoke and of fog.

The late Amelia Earhart, after viewing the proposed site of a lake front airport from the 25th floor of the Stevens, said to me: "Chicago is the only large city in the world that has such a splendid opportunity to build a really ideal airport which will permit expansion to accommodate any future planes which cannot be even anticipated today. The question of fog will cease to be a factor in a few years' time and my observations have been that it is actually windier at the municipal airport than it is on the lake front."

Aviation experts agree that present civilian airports will be obsolete soon after the war. With air speeds increasing so tremendously, travelers face the problem of spending a major part of their travel time going to and from airports, unless future air fields are located closer to the center, and particularly the hotel section of our city.

OTTO K. EITEL.

SHOTGUN WEDDING.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24.—For the attention of those who believe we should have a post-war alliance with the British empire.

Since 1917 the British empire has not been able successfully to defend itself without the assistance of the United States. Since a few years later, the British empire has not been able to maintain a stable currency without the assistance of the United States. Since the passage of the lend-lease act Great Britain has not been able properly to clothe and feed itself without the assistance of the United States.

Can it not be seen that the British empire has outlived its usefulness and is now merely existing on borrowed time? Just what are we to do after the war? Take the British empire for better or for worse, to have and to hold, to honor and obey, love and cherish, defend and feed, until disintegration or defeat do us part?

H. O. WEISS.

ANOTHER SOURCE.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—After reading C. H. S.'s article, "Tax Exemptions," I want to bring to attention another potential source of income tax which the government is overlooking. Waiters, waitresses, cigaret girls, checkroom girls, "26" girls, and others pursuing kindred lines of endeavor are hired at low nominal salaries which are recorded in the employers' books. Commissions and tips are invariably never recorded in the books kept. This enables both employers and employes to avoid income tax and social security payments on true earnings and profits.

SEPARATE MAINTENANCE.

Sturgis, Mich., Sept. 27.—Quite often I read in THE TRIBUNE about good men being held up for large sums of money by unscrupulous women and their lawyers thru the separate maintenance racket. I would like very much to hear of the outright repeal of the Illinois separate maintenance law at the next sessioh of the Illinois assembly. I also would like to hear of a law against court judges compelling men in separate maintenance and divorce cases to pay lawyer fees either large or small. I say these rackets should be stopped.

ARTHUR RAYMOND.

NOTE TO MR. GARRETT.

Clear Lake, Ia., Sept. 26.—You are to be heartily congratulated for publication of "The Mortification of History," by Garet Garrett. People who don't like THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE have something very definitely the matter with their Americanism.

BURN IT, OR RUB IT ON?

Chicago, Sept. 24.—I am not a chemist, but it came to my mind, would there not be a possibility to extract oil from sunflower seed, of which there are plenty anywhere?

ANDREW VAN PAGE.

THE NEW DEAL AND THE FARMER.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—I have been greatly impressed by the letter from H. G. Bowers of Elmwood, Ill., wherein he states that he has been a farmer for 60 years, and in the next breath lauds the New Deal for teaching him how to farm. Any one worthy of the name of "farmer" would not need to be told how to combat erosion, how to build up soil, and how to make a farm more productive. I was reared on the farm and we knew all about that at least 40 years ago. When the farmer doesn't do it in his own interests it is just because it is too much trouble.

Mr. Bowers gives the New Deal all the credit for "good prices, improved farm machinery, and better living conditions." He apparently is not able to understand that all these things came about in spite of the New Deal. American ingenuity and inventiveness and general progress produced the better prices, the improved machinery, and the better living conditions, in the face of continual harassment of all business by Roosevelt and his un-American gang. These are the same things that make it possible for us to win this war in spite of all the bungling and mismanagement that Washington has been able to think up.

I am particularly interested in Mr. Bowers' boast that in spite of the criminal destruction of crops and live stock by Henry Wallace, and because of all the things the New Deal has done for the farmer, "we are now able to feed our home folks, our vast armies, and millions in the old world." Before he elaborates any further on that theme, I respectfully invite him to come to my neighborhood and try to buy a pound of butter, a decent steak, a little bacon, or a slice of ham—and if he should be lucky enough to find them he will no longer need any "safe" deposit place for his earnings, as they will all have been completely wiped out.

OUTLOOK FOR PEACE.

Austin, Tex., Sept. 24.—In the 1940 campaign, President Roosevelt made the statement that the first purpose of his administration's foreign policy was to keep the United States at peace.

By the course of events which have since become history, the New Deal is confronted with a difficult and embarrassing choice. It must be admitted either that the policy was a miserable failure, or that Candidate Roosevelt was dispensing campaign oratory to allay the apprehension of the vast majority of Americans who wanted to stay out of the war, and who feared that Mr. Roosevelt's policy would result in exactly what it did.

The same people now assure us that the world union and super-state schemes they are cooking up for the future have for their principal purpose to keep the United States at peace. Does their record invite confidence?

It becomes more apparent daily that Mr. Roosevelt's policies and decisions are determined more by his personal ambitions than by his interest in democracy or the welfare of this nation. In no other way can his third term or his projected fourth term be explained. It would be nothing but colossal and unspeakable conceit for a man to presume that he and he alone was the only man in the country capable of being President.

MRS. D. L. EVANS.

UNSPENT WAR APPROPRIATIONS.

Pasadena, Cal., Sept. 22.—Congress has approved 200 billions of dollars for war appropriations which are unexpended as of date, and 40 billions of dollars for appropriations which have not even been allocated.

The people have a right to be advised by congress why such a state of affairs exists, and why additional appropriations are requested and granted before the appropriations already made are allocated. What would a modern business institution do if it had practically two years of appropriations unspent and six months' appropriations not even allocated? It would call in its budget committee and demand forthwith a cancellation of all appropriations not expended within a given period of time, and cancel at once appropriations which have not been allocated and require that no new appropriations be approved for any purpose for which appropriations are outstanding on which no expenditures have been made or which have not been allocated. It would require that a balance sheet on war appropriations be made at once based upon the actual needs, and in conformity with existing and prospective conditions.

The military affairs committee of congress should at once appoint an appropriate committee to analyze this situation and report promptly. This committee should be composed of the ablest civilian and military representatives available. At least 100 billions of unexpended appropriations and 20 billions of unallocated appropriations could be canceled.

L. C. FRITCH.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS.

Marion, Ind., Sept. 26.—Your recent articles "describing activities of local groups of internationalists" are written in a vein implying that any one holding the view that world coöperation is necessary, is guilty of treason.

May I point out that the League of Women Voters is a nonpartisan organization which has had for its purpose since its founding in 1920, the promotion of the responsible participation of women in government? The league believes that a continuing political education is necessary to the success of a democratic form of government in order that an increasing number of citizens shall base their opinions on facts and use their opportunity as voters to make those opinions effective. Membership is open to women who support the democratic theory of government, whatever their party affiliation, but the organization is strictly nonpartisan. The league is not and has never been a bloc for a special interest. Measures are judged on the basis of the public interest.

The present war resulted from lack of coöperation among the world powers to stop aggression. The league does not dictate a specific foreign policy. It does believe, however, that some foreign policy must be evolved and that the entire electorate should be made aware of that fact. What could be more American?

POSTSCRIPT ON MACKINAC.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—The spelling of Mackinac was changed to facilitate the delivery of mail. Mail intended for Mackinac Island often went to Mackinaw city and vice versa. Hence, the spelling was changed. But Mackinac [Mackinaw] by any other spelling is still Mackinac [Mackinaw].

PORK FROM THE FARM.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My mother lives on a farm about 300 miles from here and it has been her practice to send us pork sausage, spareribs, and possibly a ham or shoulder of hog at butchering time. She has been told it will be unlawful to do this now, because of meat rationing. Will it be contrary to rules and regulations or unpatriotic for her to send us pork this winter? It grieves her to think she may not be able to share with us but we want to do the right thing.

O. H.

The rationing volume of the CCH war law service says in sec. 54,867.13 that while a farmer's home slaughtered meat may be consumed point free on his farm, "point free gifts are not permitted by ration order 16" of April 24, 1943.

In order to give the meat to you, your mother must be licensed as a producer and must comply with the ration point requirements. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

Enright Booked as Killer; Williams Hunt Goes On.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

When information reached Capt. Dan Gilbert of the state's attorney's office yesterday that John Williams and James Fawcett might be hiding in a roadhouse near Romeo, Will county, he organized four squads of police armed with rifles, shotguns, machine guns and tear gas, called upon Capt. Wilbert Kennedy of the state highway police for more help, then personally led the raiding party to the tavern.

Williams and Fawcett, who were named in confessions as implicated in the murder on Sept. 18 of Martin [Sonny Boy] Quirk, south side agent of the Guzik gambling syndicate, were not there.

Mother Promises Surrender.

Williams' mother, Mrs. Ann Williams, told First Asst. State's Atty. Wilbert F. Crowley that her son would surrender tomorrow. Mrs. Williams is a policewoman sometimes assigned to guard women prisoners for the state's attorney's office. She also is 13th ward Democratic committeewoman.

The size of the raiding party was an indication of the importance attached to the fugitives' arrest and emphasized Gilbert's warning that the authorities are at war with a host of ex-convicts, killers all, who are fighting with their backs to the wall.

State's Attorney Courtney and Crowley said it is apparent the south side handbook racket was staffed with hundreds of ex-convicts. The confessions they obtained from James Egan and Anthony De Lordo, they said, give startling details of the operation of this regiment of desperadoes who have been living softly on handbook easy money.

Enright Refused Writ.

Egan and De Lordo, who are ex-convicts, related that Quirk arranged and carried out the murder of Danny Stanton last May, and that in turn Quirk was slain, the prosecutors said. In addition the two, who said they had been employed in a gambling house operated by Williams near 63d street and Kedzie avenue, gave the authorities new data on the Guzik gang's financial affairs.

They named John Enright, another convict and a dice dealer for the Williams joint, as a participant in the murder of Stanton, according to the prosecutors. Enright, who already was in custody, appeared during the day before Acting Chief Justice Harold G. Ward of the criminal court on a writ of habeas corpus which was dismissed when the suspect was formally charged with murder. Enright had given the officials valuable information, they said, but had refused to implicate himself in the murder.

Profits Slaying Motive.

Courtney said the motive for the two killings was found in the enormous profits of 34 handbooks operated on the south side, and protection tribute exacted by Stanton, and later by Quirk, from independent handbook operators. To operate the various handbooks, Courtney pointed out, Stanton—and then Quirk—had to employ between 150 and 200 men, and they recruited their employes from the ranks of ex-convicts, many of whom were put on the gambling syndicate's pay roll before their parole periods were completed.

It is with the army of criminals that Courtney is at war, his aids said yesterday. The enemy has money and power, the prosecutor's staff asserted, and fierce opposition is expected. Courtney had eight policemen guarding Egan from a possible attempt by the crime-gambling syndicate to still him forever.

Courtney expects to present evidence about this ex-convict south side battle front to the grand jury Wednesday.

CHIETO PLEDGES JOBS FOR ALL CHICAGO YANKS

BY LARRY RUE.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—The board of directors of Chicagoans in the European theater of operations organization [CHIETO] met in London last night and formally adopted the constitution drawn up Aug 2.

The club, which now has 1,008 members, will confine its activities to social functions until after the war. Then it will be revamped in Chicago to include all veterans from the Chicago area and a new policy formulated. The main point will be to see that every returning soldier gets a job under private enterprise. The board reaffirmed the CHIETO platform, "For God, for country, for Chicago."

Lt. Col. Harry J. Dooley presided at the meeting at which were appointed the heads of the committee to arrange for the Nov. 2 Flag day celebration. United States Ambassador John G. Winant is to be asked to present a flag donated by Chicago's mayor, Edward J. Kelly.

The mayor and Mrs. Kelly have been made the first honorary members of the CHIETO organization. They were selected for this honor in recognition of their efforts in arranging for the comfort and entertainment of men of all services in Chicago.

25 SCHOLARSHIPS ESTABLISHED BY FIELD COMPANY

Twenty-five scholarships, each for a year's tuition at the University of Chicago, have been provided by Marshall Field & Co., it was announced yesterday by Hughston M. McBain, president of the company. Winners of the awards will be selected by the university committee on scholarships.

McBain said the company also plans to provide part time work for students in addition to the scholarships.

"We believe the answers to new problems in business can be reached only thru a close coördination of effort between educators and business men," he said. "If we find these scholarship plans as constructive as we think they will be, similar steps are planned in other institutions of the community."

Marshall Field & Co. already is coöperating with the University of Chicago in its executive training program of evening classes, and the company has an arrangement with Northwestern university by which graduate students in marketing and business administration have part time work in the store.

FOUR ROBBERIES IN 70 MINUTES NET PAIR $500

Four robberies in 70 minutes on the south side yielded two bandits armed with revolvers $500, according to police reports early yesterday. The victims and their losses were Robert Weiner and his wife, Minerva, owners of a delicatessen, 5519 South Ashland avenue, $100; Steve Boulukos, owner of a fruit store at 2541 West 63d street, $150; Frank E. Zalud, 6155 South Francisco avenue, owner of a tavern, 2919 59th street, $125 [12 customers had to stand with their hands elevated], and Sylvester Moebs, liquor store, 1822 West 63d street, $125.

EPISCOPALIANS' 54TH CONVENTION WEIGHS MERGER

Delegates Open Parleys in Cleveland, Ohio.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Episcopal bishops and clerical and lay delegates known as deputies from all section of the nation assembled yesterday in Cleveland, O., where the 54th triennial general convention of the American Episcopal church opened under the leadership of the Rt. Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, presiding bishop of the church.

While it is likely that the most vigorous debate and widest general interest will center in the proposed merger with the parent body of the Presbyterian groups of the country, no action is sought under the joint committee's report other than to continue studies. The same report, known as "basic principles" of unity between the two churches, was read before the general assembly of the Presbyterian church last spring in Detroit, Mich.

Minority in Opposition.

Bishop Wallace E. Conkling of Chicago will read a minority report of the unity commission which opposes many points in the basic principles. Bishop Conkling was outspoken against the plan at the last convention of the diocese of Chicago, and the entire Chicago delegation to the present meeting was elected at that time in support of the bishop's stand. Bishop Conkling will represent Bishop Frank E. Wilson of Eau Claire, Wis., in reading the report.

Most deputies assert that at best only a very small step may be made at Cleveland, adding, in effect, that the road to the Presbyterian merger will be a long one with considerable heavy going.

Vote on Retirement Plan.

A constitutional amendment calling for compulsory retirement of bishops at the age of 72 will come up for final ratification. Bishop Tucker, who also is president of the Federal Council of Churches, comes to the expiration of his term of office as presiding bishop. The present law calls for the retirement of the presiding bishop at a general convention nearest his 68th birthday. The convention may act on an amendment modifying this rule.

OSGOOD ELECTED PRESIDENT.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 2 (AP).—The Rev. Phillips Osgood of Boston, Mass., was elected president of the Episcopal church's house of deputies as the 54th annual convention opened here today.

The first major resolution introduced in the house of bishops denounced present immigration laws as discriminating against Chinese.

Bishop John S. Moyes of Armidale, Australia, spoke briefly before the house, lauding Gen. Douglas MacArthur, "a member of your church," for protecting the Australian continent from invasion.

Friend of the YANKS

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with queries.]

P. S. T. writes: "I have had 11 years experience in foreign trade and have acted as foreign branch manager for a firm doing an international business. Can this experience be used by the army?"

ANSWER: There may be a place for you in the allied military government program as an economic specialist. Within your particular line of experience, the men they want are: [1] Those who have had executive experience in a substantial industrial or commercial organization, particularly those with experience in foreign trade; [2] Men who have had experience in natural resources, such as economist, engineer, or geologist with experience in surveying and planning the conservation, development, and use of natural resources; [3] Persons who have acted as labor consultants in labor relations as executive officer of a corporation in charge of industrial personnel, or an official of a labor union or a public official with experience in labor legislation or administration of labor laws, who may qualify for a commission; [4] Men who are experienced administrators in the field of distribution and consumption control, such as chain store executives and others with extensive merchandising experience. A college education and a knowledge of one or more foreign languages is desirable. For further information we suggest you apply to the Chicago district office of officer procurement, 20 North Wacker drive.

R. N. T. writes: "I was in 3-A until Sept. 9 when I was reclassified to 1-A. I immediately wrote to my board for a hearing and a few days later I received a letter signed by the clerk of the board stating that an appointment had been made for me to see the appeal agent. I talked with the appeal agent for a few minutes and all he did was ask me a couple of questions. I asked the clerk why I had not been granted a hearing before the board and I was told, 'They're simply too busy.' Am I not entitled to such a hearing?"

ANSWER: You are not only entitled to a hearing before your board, but you can appeal from its decision, if you like, by going to your local board and signing on the back of your questionaire under the space, "Appeal to the Board of Appeals." After a hearing before the local board, the registrant is advised by mail if he is to be reclassified to a deferred classification or held in 1-A, and he can appeal an unfavorable decision within 10 days.

G. M. C. writes: "My son writes and asks me to send him my $375 war bond so he can pay for equipment lost during a flood on maneuvers. Does he really have to pay for army equipment lost as a result of a flood, which is an act of God?"

ANSWER: No. A man in service is not required to pay for equipment unless it is lost or stolen because of his own negligence. Write to the commanding officer and ask for the details.

JOSEPH BRANDT NAMED U. OF C. PRESS DIRECTOR

President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago yesterday announced the appointment of Joseph A. Brandt, president of the University of Oklahoma, as director of the University of Chicago Press, the oldest and largest noncommercial publishing enterprise in the country.

Joseph A. Brandt.

Brandt, a Rhodes scholar from Oklahoma in 1921, has served as city editor of the Tulsa [Okla.] Tribune, director of the University of Oklahoma Press and director of the Princeton University Press. He left the Princeton post three years ago to return to the University of Oklahoma and has been president since 1941.

He received his bachelor of arts degree from Lincoln college, Oxford university, in 1923, where he later received M. A. and bachelor of literature degrees, and in 1941 received an honorary LL. D. from Temple university. He is 44 years old, married, and father of two children.

119 BILLION POUNDS OF MILK
. . . and what's happening to it!

America's wartime production of milk has topped all previous records . . . yet it's not enough.

Civilian supplies must be controlled in order to meet the growing needs of our fighting men, our allies, and our newly won friends in liberated countries.

Use of Fresh Milk Increases Sharply!

Although total milk production has been increasing steadily in recent years—from 101 billion pounds in 1935 to 119 billion pounds in 1942—the demand for fresh milk has been proportionately greater. This has resulted in less milk available for manufactured dairy products. (See charts above.)

The WHY of Controlled Supply! To maintain production of manufactured dairy products, such as butter, cheese, dry milk, etc., the War Food Administration will regulate the use of fresh Grade A milk, not through "point rationing," but through a system of dealer quotas. This will mean some curtailment so that more milk and cream can be allocated to these other dairy products, for military and war needs.

No Hardship for Anyone. Civilian supplies of fresh Grade A milk will be greater than in 1942 and considerably more than in previous years, as it is planned to still make available the quantity being used at this time. No further increases will be allowed, however.

PUBLIC ASKED TO COOPERATE

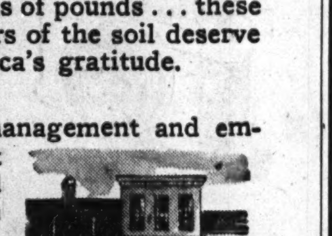
How Supply Will Be Allocated. The War Food Administration Order No. 79.7 requires that quotas be set up for consumers based on the amount used in June 1943, and all will be restricted on this basis. Remember, if your supply of cream, cottage cheese, buttermilk and other fresh milk products is slightly curtailed, so is your neighbor's. (You are asked to cooperate by continuing to get your supply as in the past, whether you receive it delivered at your home or buy it from a store.) Hospitals, expectant mothers, infants, welfare organizations and others especially needing milk will be given preference.

MILK . . . America's Vital Food for Victory. Milk is accepted as the most valuable protective food because it surpasses all others in supplying vitamins, minerals, and high quality proteins that build and maintain sound physical fitness. No wonder our fighting forces are the best fed in the world . . . their milk consumption is exceptionally high . . . and no wonder America's home front, too, is by far the best fed!

Milk Industry Goes All Out for Wartime Production. Dairy farmers, in the face of shortages of manpower, machinery, and supplies, have ably shouldered the task of increasing milk production by billions of pounds . . . these soldiers of the soil deserve America's gratitude.

Milk distributors—both management and employees—despite the fact that many have been called to the colors, and new men must be trained—are keeping plants operating, and trucks and wagons rolling at top efficiency.



The Milk Foundation, a non-profit organization, endowed to help bring about higher standards of nutrition, brings you this message so that all may clearly understand the reasons for this controlled supply of fresh milk and its products. Today the Foundation is recognized for its service to the community, not only among food authorities, professional and welfare groups, but with thousands of homemakers as well.

If you wish help in planning more nutritious wartime meals for your family, drop a penny card in the mail, and we'll forward recipes and menus without charge.

SPECIAL MUSIC FEATURES NAVY EXHIBIT TONIGHT

Program to Be Given at Tribune Square.

BOND SALES AT SHOW.

Sales of war bonds at the Navy-Tribune-Treasury show in the 24 hours ended at 4 p. m. yesterday totaled $76,755, sending the total for the first 10 days of the show to $649,480. The day's attendance was 17,680, making the 10 day total 207,731.

A half-hour show packed with entertainment and instruction will be put on by the navy at 8 o'clock tonight in the music tent on the grounds of the "Back the Attack" navy exhibit in Tribune Square and will be broadcast by W-G-N. The show, like the complete navy exhibit, is free.

There will be martial music by the Glenview naval air base band, directed by Musician Second Class Gus Bivona, a violin solo by Specialist Sol Bobrov, and brief, interest-filled talks on naval air training and on the show's most spectacular exhibits.

Among the events of yesterday was the arrival of a mine sweeper built in Chicago by Henry C. Grebe & Co., Inc.

Thirteen manufacturers producing war material for the navy are coöperating with the navy department in presenting the show under sponsorship of the treasury department in coöperation with THE TRIBUNE.

The largest piece on exhibition is the full size replica of a submarine chaser PCE, built in Nathan Hale court, north of Tribune Tower, by the Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing company.

Gun Built In Chicago.

The one item included in the ship display which was not supplied by the Pullman company is the three inch anti-aircraft gun. This gun, identical with those placed aboard many United States warships, is built in part by the Miehle Printing Press company of Chicago.

Two divisions of the Chrysler corporation are represented in the show. In the lobby of Tribune Tower the Dodge division has on display a Sperry gyroscope compass, with which every fighting ship of any size is equipped.

The Plymouth division is represented by a landing gear such as is used on the Vought Corsair fighter plane, one of which is on display elsewhere in the show.

The next largest item on display is an amphibian tank, known as the "water buffalo." Manufactured by the Ingersoll Steel and Disc division of the Borg-Warner corporation in its Kalamazoo [Mich.] plant, the "water buffalo" is on public exhibition for the first time.

New Type Diesel Engine.

The Electro-Motive corporation, a division of General Motors, is showing for the first time its new "pancake" Diesel marine engine and the submarine chaser propeller which it drives.

In a near-by tent booth is shown a 12 cylinder Packard airplane type super-charged marine engine, which the Packard Motor Car company is building for use in the navy's PT boats.

The Stewart-Warner corporation of Chicago has a display of airplane heaters. These heaters operate on the same principle as the gasoline fired heaters for automobiles which the company introduced some years ago.

Exhibit Goes to "Front."

Two Great Lakes shipbuilders already have had their product on display in the navy show. They are the Henry C. Grebe Shipbuilding company, 3250 North Washtenaw avenue, which was building pleasure craft for yachtsmen, and the Defoe Shipbuilding company, Bay City, Mich., which had a destroyer escort ship tied up at the show dock for three days last week and plans to have another later in the show. The Defoe company also expects to be able to show a submarine chaser. This company has built more than three dozen steel ships for the navy.

Two other Great Lakes builders who expect to participate in the show are the Truscott Boat and Dock company of St. Joseph, Mich., and the Dachel-Carter Shipbuilding company of Benton Harbor, Mich.

BIGGEST CHARITY CAMPAIGN UNDER WAY TOMORROW

Opens with Rally of 4,000 Workers.

That's the National Community and War fund campaign, which will be started tomorrow evening with a rally for 4,000 workers in the Civic Opera house.

The goal of the drive is to collect $12,806,424 in Cook, Lake, and Du Page counties this month and next. Depending on it for support are 187 welfare agencies, 15 foreign war relief groups, and the United Service organizations. The drive will eliminate individual organization pleas formerly made at various times thruout the year.

Elmer T. Stevens, general chairman of the campaign, said yesterday it cannot fail if the people of Chicago area realize what it means. He described it as the answer to requests that something be done to eliminate the multitude of appeals for money being made thruout the year.

Rockefeller to Speak.

John D. Rockefeller, a director of the National War fund, will make his only public appearance of the drive at the rally tomorrow evening. He heads an impressive cast of speakers and entertainers. Other speakers will be Mayor Kelly; Abraham Bluestein, executive director of the Labor League for Human Rights, American Federation of Labor, and Irving Abramson, chairman of the committee on war relief activities for the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Maj. Lenox Lohr, chairman of the rally committee, said a war fund prolog will be staged by Howard Willey under the direction of Jules Herbuveaux, both of NBC, while music will be supplied by the Chicago Symphony orchestra; Josephine Antoine, Metropolitan Opera singer, and the Great Lakes Naval Training station choir of 150 voices. Don McNeil, NBC announcer, will be master of ceremonies. Quartets from radio programs will provide swing numbers.

During the prolog, Maj. Lohr announced, citations for heroism will be given to personnel of the army, navy and marine corps.

Previous Gifts Tripled.

Some progress already has been made in the drive. Aubrey H. Mellinger, president of the fund, said early solicitations among corporations have shown an understanding and a will to give beyond any previous experience.

For example, he explained that 12 Chicago industries which gave a total of $315,000 to the Community fund a year ago have subscribed in excess of $1,000,000 to this drive, and that corporate gifts generally have averaged more than three to one over a year ago.

The campaign has the enthusiastic backing of the AFL, CIO, railroad brotherhoods, and independent unions.

More than 60,000 volunteer workers are making final preparations for the drive this week-end.

EX-PRESIDENTS TO BE HONORED AT ILLINI DINNER

Twenty-nine past presidents, 23 of whom are living, will be honored by the Illini Club of Chicago at a dinner Oct. 22, in the La Salle hotel on the eve of the Notre Dame-Illinois football game at South Bend, Ind. The club has more than 15,000 members in the Chicago area, but this year, because of war conditions, the dinner will be limited to 500 persons.

Dr. Arthur C. Willard, president of the university; Gov. Green, Mayor Kelly, and several state legislators are expected to be guests. William T. Greene, president of the club, and Scott C. Greene, chairman of the committee on arrangements, are in charge of the dinner.

A technicolor film of the university's war work will be previewed.

Can Vitamins Change GRAY HAIR?
Impartial investigators have found vitamin Calcium Pantothenate of some value in changing gray hair, where a deficiency of this vitamin may have caused gray or graying hair.
For example, one test conducted by Good Housekeeping magazine on a number of people, showed 88% of those tested (all ages were included) had positive evidence of a return of some hair color.
Now thousands use GRAYVITA, which contains 10 mgm. of Calcium Pantothenate (the same amounts used in above tests) PLUS 450 U.S.P. units of $B_1$, the vitamin necessary to healthy nerves. Try GRAYVITA. See what a difference it may make in the way you look. 30 day supply, $1.50; 100 day supply, $4.00.

CHICAGO CADET AND DETROITER KILLED IN CRASH

Hondo, Tex., Oct. 2 (AP).—The names of five army air forces men killed Thursday night in the crash of a twin-engine training plane 45 miles northeast of Marfa were released today by the public relations officer of the Hondo navigation school.

They included Air Cadet Elford A. Hedlund, 20 years old, son of S. L. Hedlund of 5828 North Talman avenue, Chicago, and Air Cadet Roy C. Hicks Jr., 27 years old, son of Mrs. Marguerite B. Hicks of 465 Merrick, Detroit, and whose widow, Lucy, lives at 16712 Harlow, Detroit.

Wisconsin Pilot Killed.

Manchester, N. H., Oct. 2 (AP).—The commanding officer at Grenier field announced today Lt. William C. Curtiss, pilot, son of Ward C. Curtiss of Beloit, Wis., was killed in a plane crash Thursday at Londonderry.

Bomber Falls, Nine Killed.

Great Falls, Mont., Oct. 2 (AP).—Nine crew members of a heavy bomber from the Great Falls army air base were killed yesterday in the crash of their ship near Big Sandy.

NAVY REPORTS 2 CHICAGOANS AMONG MISSING

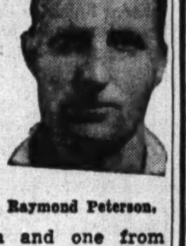
Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—Two sailors from Chicago were reported missing in a casualty list made public today by the navy. They were Raymond Harold Peterson, brother of Roland Peterson, 115 North Parkside avenue, and Richard Harry Snyders, son of Mrs. Dorothy Snyders, 228 West 109th street.



Raymond Peterson.

Two from Iowa and one from Michigan also were on the list. They were John Franklin Donahoo, missing, son of Mrs. Frank Gansemer, Sioux City, Ia.; M. L. Hilliard, wounded, son of Mrs. Gladys Hilliard, Spirit Lake, Ia., and Guy Franklin McCormick, wounded, son of Frank McCormick, Reed City, Mich.

The list brought to 30,246 the total navy, marine corps, and coast guard casualties reported to next of kin since Pearl Harbor. It includes 11,278 dead, 9,470 missing, 5,355 wounded, and 4,143 prisoners.

OVERSEAS VETS GET SLIM HOPE OF RELIEF SOON

Replacement Plan Is Being Studied.

Washington, Oct. 2 (AP).—The men who run the army think the idea of bringing troops long on overseas stations back for a stay in this country is splendid—but too difficult to apply in any broad scale program.

A group of senators, recently returned from a tour of world battlefronts, advanced today the suggestion that troops who had been overseas for long periods be brought home and replaced by fresh, trained units now in this country.

One of the group, Sen. Russell [D., Ga.], said the most pressing question of American soldiers interviewed was "when do we go home?"

In Iceland Two Years.

Some of the men he talked with in Iceland, he said, had been there 24 months without seeing action.

"That's too long to keep men in a place like that," Russell added.

Sen. McCarran [D., Nev.] noted that it was the policy to relieve bomber crews in England after they have made 25 combat missions.

Sen. George [D., Ga.] said he thought no soldiers should be kept in an active combat zone more than a year, or less in some particularly difficult area, if there is a trained man to replace him.

Power Goal Explained.

Because the idea came from Capitol hill there was a disinclination at the war department toward making any immediate formal expressions, but informally the general view seemed to be this:

The urgent need is to build up to still greater strength the fighting forces overseas and when thoroly trained troops here go abroad they should represent reinforcements rather than replacements. Augmented strength at the front will shorten the war—and then every one will come home.

Altho the United States is well on the way to building a bridge of ships, overseas transportation remains one of the big problems of the war.

1,200 New OCD Police Will Be Sworn In Today

Mayor Kelly will administer the oath of office to 1,200 new auxiliary policemen of the office of civilian defense at ceremonies in Grant park at 2 o'clock today. The new policemen have completed a 28 week course given by the city police training school. After the induction ceremony, in which 8,800 old members will also take the oath, elimination drills will be held with army, navy, city, and police officials as judges.

Kidneys May Need Help to Clean Out Excess Acids

If you're feeling out o'sorts, Get Up Nights or suffer from Burning Passages, Backache, Swollen Ankles, Nervousness, Rheumatic Pains, Dizziness, Circles Under Eyes and feel worn-out, the cause may be non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles. Worry, Colds, working too hard, or over-eating or drinking may create an excess of Acids and overload your Kidneys so that they need help to flush out poisonous wastes that might otherwise undermine your health.

Help Kidneys Remove Acids

Nature provides the Kidneys to clean and purify your blood and to remove excess Acids. The Kidneys contain about nine million tiny tubes or filters through which the heart pumps blood about 200 times an hour, night and day, so it's easy to see that they may get tired and slow down when overloaded.

Sixteen years ago a practicing physician's prescription called Cystex was made available to the public through drug stores, making it easy and inexpensive to help thousands suffering from non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles in these three simple ways: 1. Help the Kidneys remove excess acids which may become poisoning and irritating. 2. To palliate burning and smarting of the urinary passages, and bladder irritation. 3. Help the Kidneys flush out wastes which may become poisonous if allowed to accumulate, thus aiding nature in stimulating an increase of energy, which may easily make you feel years younger.

Guaranteed Trial Offer

Usually, in non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder disorders the very first dose of Cystex goes right to work helping the Kidneys flush out excess Acids, poisons and wastes. And this cleansing, purifying Kidney action, in just a day or so, may easily make you feel younger, stronger and better than in years. An iron clad guarantee insures an immediate refund of all your money unless you are completely satisfied. Get Cystex from your druggist today for only 35c.

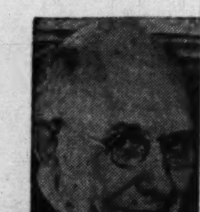
PICK 11 LEADERS TO GUIDE N. U.'S TECH INSTITUTE

Kettering to Head Group on Post-War Needs.



C. F. Kettering.

The development of Northwestern university's new technological institute will be guided by an advisory committee of 11 of the nation's best known leaders in business, industry, and technical education, Dr. Franklyn Bliss Snyder, president of the university, announced yesterday.

The committee, which will be presided over by Charles F. Kettering, vice president of General Motors corporation, will hold its first meeting in December and will concern itself primarily with the institute's activities in the post-war era.

Realizes Murphy's Dream.

The institute was the dream of the late Walter P. Murphy, a railway supply manufacturer, who founded it in 1939 at a cost of $6,000,000. Upon his death in December, 1942, Murphy bequeathed the institute an endowment of another $20,000,000.

Besides Kettering, members of the committee from business and industry include Henry J. Kaiser, shipbuilder and industrialist; Juan Trippe, president of Pan American Airways; James S. Knowlson, president of Stewart-Warner corporation and former assistant chairman of the war production board; Gen. Robert E. Wood, chairman of the board of Sears, Roebuck and company; Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington railroad, and Paul E. Klopsteg, president of the Central Scientific company.

Four Educators Included.

In the field of technical education the committee includes four presidents of engineering schools: Karl T. Compton, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Robert A. Millikan, California Institute of Technology; William A. Wickenden, Case School of Applied Science, and Robert E. Dohersy, Carnegie Institute of Technology.

CHICAGO OPENS WEEK CAMPAIGN AGAINST FIRES

Chicago's annual Fire Prevention week was officially opened yesterday as Mayor Kelly and several thousand students from city schools participated in a program at a fire show presented at the Peoples Gas, Light and Coke company building, 122 South Michigan avenue.

The show, to be open from 9:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. daily for the next two weeks, except Sundays, is almost 100 per cent animated with actually working exhibits and firemen on hand to conduct a colorful series of fire fighting demonstrations. The army and navy also will show what they are doing to overcome incendiary bombs and other fire dangers, as well as their precautions against sabotage in the nation's big war plants.

Members of the Retired Firemen's Association of Chicago will meet this afternoon in La Salle hotel to hear discriptions of the great fire of 1871.

The campaign will take on a citywide aspect Wednesday. On that day the Chicago Association of Commerce will conduct a fire prevention week luncheon meeting in the Morrison hotel, with the National Safety council and Junior Association of Commerce coöperating. In Chicago's outlying districts, the same day, special community fire prevention meetings will be held.

SKOKIE POLICE REJECT VERDICT IN AUTO DEATH

Norman F. Scott, 35 years old, 1460 Sherman avenue, Evanston, an undertaker, was charged with manslaughter yesterday by Skokie village police in the death Thursday of Carl E. Nelson, 76, of 10915 Hale avenue, Chicago, who was injured Sept. 25 in an automobile accident.

Nelson was riding with his son, Leslie, a Salvation army captain. The car was struck at Church street and East Prairie road by a machine driven by Scott, who was charged with reckless driving and driving thru a stop sign. The elder Nelson was taken to St. Francis hospital in Evanston, and died later.

At an inquest held Friday at 4821 North Damen avenue, a coroner's jury decided Nelson's death was accidental.

A woman believed to be Mrs. Lucy Mannix, 65, 1234 North Dearborn street, was killed yesterday by a motor truck at Halsted and Division streets. The driver was Charles Green, 26, of 246 West 69th street. He told police that the accident was unavoidable.

Mrs. Myrtle Snyder and Mrs. Mattie B. Snyder, twin sisters of 535 North Waller avenue, yesterday celebrated their 80th birthday at a party in their home. The guests were more than 100 relatives and friends, many of them members of the Zephyr Twin club and the Austin West Side Twin club. Myrtle married Sylvester Snyder in 1885. Mattie married Sylvester's brother, Edward, in 1900. The husbands of both are dead. They wear identical clothes.

POINT TO HIGHER PAY FOR POLICE IN OTHER CITIES

Plan Chart to Show Various Scales.

In support of a campaign to obtain an increase in pay for police and firemen, Harry Larson, president of the Chicago Patrolmen's club, yesterday began the preparation of a chart to show city officials that the Chicago departments are not paid so well as are departments in other cities.

Larson revealed that he had written the heads of police and fire organizations in numerous cities. In eight answers he learned that in only one case was the salary paid lower than the $2,802 base pay for the Chicago departments.

Some Pay War Bonus.

Larson learned that the police and firemen in Detroit, Mich., are paid $3,036 yearly plus a 7½ per cent premium for the duration of the war and $100 yearly for uniform allowance. New York pays $3,000 yearly and Cleveland, O., $2,945. A study on living costs in cities of more than 500,000 population also is being prepared.

Numerous phone calls to the office of Ald. Robert C. Quirk [48th] vice chairman of the police and municipal affairs committee of the city council, from individuals and civic groups expressing interest in a campaign for the pay raises were reported to aldermen by Quirk yesterday.

Quirk Outlines Program.

Quirk said that in addition to asking that his committee consider the raises he would bring the matter to the attention of the finance committee at its next meeting. Among the points he wished to discuss besides raises, he said, are war bonuses and the recent ruling of both the police and fire commissioners forbidding the extra employment of department members in war industries.

Other aldermen, altho they expressed sympathy with the move to raise salaries, doubted that the council could do so because of the financial condition of the city. They said that 10 per cent raises would mean that $2,634,558 would have to be added to police and fire pay rolls. Combined pay rolls of the departments now total $26,345,587.

Chicago Engineer Private Killed by Alabama Truck

Pvt. John F. Mulkerrin, 20 years old, 5812 Carpenter street, member of the army air force engineer corps, was fatally injured at Brookley field, Alabama, when he fell under a truck Friday night, dying a few hours afterward, relatives were notified yesterday. He attended Gage Park High school and was employed by the Kellogg Switchboard and Supply company before entering the army last March. Surviving are his parents, Coleman and Mary Foley Mulkerrin; four sisters, and a brother.

FRIENDS HONOR PARKE BROWN AT SIMPLE FUNERAL

Hundreds Attend Service for Tribune Writer.

A brief, simple funeral service, attended by hundreds of friends, was held yesterday for Parke Brown, political editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

The Rev. Harrison Ray Anderson, pastor, opened the service in the Fourth Presbyterian church with the invocation and prayers for the bereaved. The Rev. John Evans, religion editor of THE TRIBUNE, followed with the scriptural lessons and the 23d and 121st Psalms and 13th chapter of Corinthians I.

Moment of Silence Held.

The Rev. Dr. Anderson then led the funeral prayers with emphasis upon thanksgiving for Mr. Brown's character and contributions to the community. An unusual touch near the end of the brief and simple service was the moment of silence in which Dr. Anderson asked each member of the congregation to reflect upon what Mr. Brown had meant to him or her.

Many public officials were in the throng at the church. They knew Mr. Brown well during his employment of nearly 40 years on THE TRIBUNE. Among them were Mayor Kelly, Lt. Gov. Hugh W. Cross, President Clayton F. Smith of the county board, President James B. McCahey of the board of education, Police Commissioner James P. Allman, Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett, Werner W. Schroeder, Republican national committeeman for Illinois; Mrs. Bertha Baur, Republican national committeewoman; Richard J. Lyons, a G. O. P. leader; John F. Tyrrell, vice chairman of the G. O. P. state central committee, and Chairman John T. Dempsey of the Republican central committee of Cook county.

Death Follows Operation.

Dr. Anderson conducted a short committal service at the mausoleum of the Memorial Park cemetery near Evanston, attended chiefly by relatives and co-workers. Six of Mr. Brown's associates at THE TRIBUNE were pallbearers.

Mr. Brown was 60 years old. His death was caused by a heart attack following an operation Thursday. He attended to his regular duties as recently as last Sunday despite poor health.

Surviving Mr. Brown are his widow, May; a sister, Mrs. Loyl Bigelow of Evanston, and a brother, Harry Hamilton Brown of Detroit, Mich.

A. J. TOMLINSON, CHURCH OF GOD ORGANIZER, DIES

Cleveland, Tenn., Oct. 2 (AP).—The Rev. A. J. Tomlinson, 78 years old, overseer of the Tomlinson branch of the Church of God, died today at his home here. He had been ill since Sept. 6.

Bishop Tomlinson had lived to see the work of years split by a faction fight; himself, after a three year court battle, deposed as general overseer of the church and the property of the large organization removed from his control.

After the Supreme court of Tennessee ruled he no longer controlled his organization, he started over again and in 20 years built an organization with a financial status of many millions of dollars and followers all over the world.

Born near Elwood, Ind., Bishop Tomlinson as a young man came south and about 38 years ago began perfecting a formal organization which grew rapidly. After a misunderstanding arose in 1923 he was deposed as general overseer by the Church of God's board of 12 elders and 70 associate elders.

Surviving besides her husband are a son, Alvin, an attorney, and three daughters, Mrs. Sylvia Dribin, Mrs. Isabel P. Miller, and Mrs. Lila Morrow. Mrs. Edelman was a daughter of the late Henry Kramer, head of a firm of smelters. Services will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. in the chapel at 1300 Devon avenue.

Mrs. Sue Hill Trapp.

Services for Mrs. Sue Hill Trapp, 51 years old, 936 North Monticello avenue, will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. in the chapel at 412 North Austin avenue, Oak Park. She was a member of the college of regents, Women of the Moose, in 1940 and belonged to Cicero chapter of that order. She died Friday in Franklin boulevard hospital. Surviving are her husband, Ernest J.; a daughter, Mrs. Thelma Mecklenburg; two brothers, and a sister.

Mrs. Katherine Calvin.

Services for Mrs. Katherine Calvin, 79 years old, 7016 Cregier avenue, a resident of Chicago more than 50 years, will be held tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. from the chapel at 1817 East 71st street to St. Philip Neri church. Mrs. Calvin was the mother of George Calvin, a veteran passenger conductor of the Illinois Central railroad. She was killed last Thursday by an Illinois Central suburban train at 71st street and Cregier avenue.

William M. Traquair.

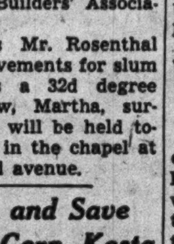
Services for William M. Traquair, about 80 years old, a resident of the west side more than 45 years, will be held at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 5708 Madison street. He died of a heart attack Friday in his home, 3506 Adams street. Surviving are his widow, Gertrude, and a sister, Janet, of Montreal, Que. When he retired in 1923 Mr. Traquair was secretary and treasurer of the F. H. Hill Company, Inc., casket manufacturers.

O. W. ROSENTHAL DIES; CHICAGO BUILDERS' HEAD

Oscar W. Rosenthal, president of the Builders Association of Chicago for 20 years and president of the National Association of Building Trades Employers, died Friday night in his home at 5510 Sheridan road. He was 67 years old.



O. W. Rosenthal.

Mr. Rosenthal had been head of Rosenthal, Cornell & Co., building contractors, since 1913, and was president of O. W. Rosenthall Investment company. He also served as president of the Illinois State Housing board and the Chicago Building congress, chairman of the joint conference board for settlement of jurisdictional disputes, and chairman of six separate arbitration boards. Two months ago he retired from the presidency of the Builders' Association of Chicago.

For many years Mr. Rosenthal was a leader in movements for slum clearance. He was a 32d degree Mason. His widow, Martha, survives. The funeral will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. in the chapel at 5501 North Ashland avenue.

Police Step In and Save the Day for Corp. Kosta

Corp. Frank Kosta, 27 years old, of Algonquin, McHenry county, requested a three day extension of leave from his camp at New Bern, N. C. Receiving no reply, he left for Elgin to board a train. Soon afterward word came to his home that the extra leave had been granted. State Policeman Ralph Barry telephoned the Elgin district office, which notified Elgin city police, who gave the good news to Kosta just as he was about to board the train.

MARKED MONEY TRAPS 4 IN FAKE UNION RACKET

Employers and Employes Both Victimized.

New York, Oct. 2 [Special].—How a quartet of racketeers victimized both employers and employes by means of fake labor unions and illegal picketing was described today by the state attorney general's office following the arrest of the four men on charges of extortion.

Those seized were Solomon Massarsky, 50 years old, of the Bronx, leader of the ring; J. J. Cohen, 60, of Queens, operator of a private detective agency; Joseph Schiavo, 33, Freeport, N. Y., an organizer for Massarsky's bogus unions, and Robert de Fillipo, 53, New York City, who is employed by the army as a patrolman in Brooklyn.

Cohen, Schiavo, and De Fillipo pleaded not guilty before Magistrate Samuel Orr in Felony court today and were held for hearing Monday. Massarsky, arrested late today, will be arraigned tomorrow morning.

Atty. Gen. Nathaniel L. Goldstein related that Massarsky and Schiavo put a picket outside the Wheelan studios in New York City each day of the last two weeks, altho no labor dispute existed there.

Operating as the "Congress of Industrial Unions," which has no connection with the Congress of Industrial Organizations and is branded by the state as a fake union, they informed the employer that the "dispute" could be settled thru the Washington Detective Bureau, Inc., for $15,000. Cohen, who is treasurer and principal operator of the agency, finally came down to $6,000.

Robert B. Wheelan, proprietor of the studio which manufactures mountings for photographs and has 500 workers, acting under police instructions, handed Cohen $1,000 in marked bills Friday in the lobby of an office building. Detectives pounced on Cohen and De Fillipo, who, they said, was acting as a lookout, but not before the money had been passed to Massarsky and Schiavo, who fled. Both were arrested later, but the money had not been recovered.

Expelled by AFL.

Massarsky, formerly an organizer for the AFL paper box makers' union, was expelled by the AFL in 1938 for strike-breaking against his own union and taking bribes from employers, Goldstein said. He was convicted in 1918 of receiving stolen goods, but was given a suspended sentence. In 1919 he was sentenced to two and a half years in Sing Sing prison for grand larceny.

The "Congress of Industrial Unions," Asst. Atty. Gen. William F. McNulty charged had been preying upon business concerns for the last year and a half. Sometimes, he said, it went thru the motions of chartering a local union and signing a contract with the employer. In such cases, not only was money extorted from the employer, but dues were collected from the workers without any benefits given in return.

COURT CONVICTS 4TH OFFICER AT SELFRIDGE FIELD

Selfridge Field, Mich., Oct. 2 [Special].—Warrant Officer Fred Lalone, former chief clerk in the adjutant's office at the army air base here, was found guilty today by a general court-martial of seven charges of violating the articles of war, and his dismissal from service was recommended.

Defendant in the fourth of the series of military trials here, Lalone was charged with fraud in connection with transfers and enlistments of military personnel at Selfridge field.

One specific charge was that Lalone conspired with two Detroit constables to obtain the transfer of a Detroit youth to Selfridge field as a volunteer the day before he was to have been inducted into the army. This youth, Donald J. Primeau, notified federal agents of the deal, which was to have involved the payment of a $200 bribe, and was instrumental in bringing about the arrest of the constables, Hubert Marx and Charles Behrman, both of whom face trial in federal court at Detroit.

Freed in Hearing

For an hour yesterday Vito Marasa, 48 years old, 402 West Elm street, faced the prospect of spending his wedding day in the county jail. A moment after he had been married in the county building to Mrs. Mary Carbona of 1219 Larrabee street, a widow, he was taken into custody by deputy sheriffs on a writ obtained by his former wife, Annette, 43, of 1410 Cleveland avenue, charging him with failure to pay $250 support for their son, Bernard, 6. Later he was taken before Superior Judge Ulysses S. Schwartz and was released on the promise of his attorney that he would be in court Monday for a hearing before Judge Joseph Sabath.

BARE REMOVALS OF FOREIGN BORN IN WAR PLANTS

Some Get Jobs Back, Others Do Not.

Scores of highly skilled war workers, most of them foremen, engineers, designers, and even department superintendents, have been removed from their jobs in Chicago and Milwaukee because of their foreign birth, the army admitted yesterday.

Spokesmen for the continuous security branch of the 6th service command said their division has been following for nearly two years a practice denying foreign born American citizens their jobs on suspicions usually voiced by disgruntled fellow workers and subordinates. Some of the workers became naturalized Americans 20 years ago and were never identified with the Nazi regime or German sponsored organizations in this country.

Some Barred Permanently.

As a result, it was admitted, many such citizens not only have been removed from their jobs, but banned from jobs requiring employment on, or access to, war or navy department contracts or anything relating to such work. Some have been reinstated after weeks or months without compensation for lost time.

The army procedure, the spokesman said, is to remove workmen, regardless of their records, how long they have been employed or how long they have been citizens, if cursory and preliminary investigation of complaints appears to warrant such action. The ousted workers said nearly all complaints were unfounded and resulted from imaginary mistreatment of subordinates.

The worker receives a written notice that he has been laid off. Later he gets a letter stating he has 30 days in which to appeal, either by letter or appearance before a review board of three army officers in Washington, D. C. Several have gone to the expense of appearing. Of these some have been reinstated and some have not.

Some Lose Lay-Off Pay.

Sometime later the worker may be notified that he has been reinstated and may resume his old job. In this event, he is either notified that his removal was "unjustified" and that he will be reimbursed at his regular salary for the time he lost, or that it was "unjustified" and that the two or three months' pay he has been deprived of cannot be recovered. The army men did not reveal why some removals are "justified" and others not. Or, as is more frequently the case, the worker is told his suspension is permanent.

Cause of removal is never revealed to the victim. If he is removed permanently his name is placed on a blacklist sent regularly to every war plant in the command area. Employers knowingly taking on blacklisted men may lose their contracts.

The federal bureau of investigation in most cases makes a separate investigation of the worker. In at least one case, revealed to THE TRIBUNE, the army made the worker's severance permanent despite the fact that the FBI informed both the worker and the army review board that it had found his actions to be above suspicion after a lengthy investigation covering his actions during the last decade.

Some Trained in Germany.

Many of the workers are middle aged men who received some of their early technical training in Germany and came to this country with their knowledge before the Hitler regime. One superintended the design of intricate aerial equipment used both by the army and the navy which is said to be superior to that of any other country. Another had been foreman over 75 men for eight years, for the last two years turning out precision instruments which had earned the plant the army-navy "E" award.

Woodstock WAC Returns to U. S. from N. Africa

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Oct. 2 (AP).—Staff Sgt. Technician Frances M. Garland, Woodstock, Ill., who was one of the first contingent of WACs to arrive in North Africa, will return to the United States by Oct. 12 for officer training.

ASHES OF HOME SIFTED IN HUNT FOR DEATH CLEW

Hillsdale, Mich., Oct. 2 [Special].—Sheriff's aids today were sifting the ashes of a burned farmhouse, searching for clews that might explain how Edward Ely, 55 years old, a bachelor farmer, met his death early today.

Sheriff William Marshall of Hillsdale county said indications pointed to murder and robbery. He and Undersheriff Herman Kochendorfer are in charge of the investigation.

Joseph Grohman, a farmer living half a mile from the Ely place, which is 9 nine miles east of here, told the sheriff that he saw smoke coming from the Ely farm at 7:30 a. m. Hurrying to the scene with his son, Joseph Jr., he found the Ely home ablaze. They entered the building, saw the battered body on the floor, and dragged it outside.

Besides gashes and bruises, the head had a hole resembling a bullet wound just below the cheekbone. Sheriff Marshall has summoned a state pathologist from Lansing to examine the body to determine, if possible, how the wounds were inflicted.

WOMAN PLEADS GUILTY IN PLOT TO AID GERMANY

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 2 (AP).—Mrs. Theresa Behrens, one of a group of eight persons accused of conspiring to supply war information to Nazi Germany, pleaded guilty in federal court here today.

She is the fourth of the group to admit violation of the wartime espionage act. She appeared in court without counsel and informed Judge Edward J. Moinet that she did not desire an attorney.

Mrs. Behens, who has been on a modified hunger strike, collapsed in court when arraigned Sept. 2. Others who have pleaded guilty are Mrs. Emma Elise Leonhardt, her husband, Carl John William Leonhardt, and Walter Joseph Abt, a research engineer.

Protect Your Health through United Medical Service

Individuals, old and young alike, will encounter greater hazards to health during the next four or five months than at any other season of the year. Persons who are physically fit will suffer the least. Those whose body resistance has been lowered by beginning disease may face a dangerous illness. Such a possibility can be largely prevented if proper protective measures are taken before the full force of winter prevails. The following precautions should be taken now.

Have all ailments or abnormal conditions which you know exist, such as headaches, nervousness, insomnia, dyspepsia or pain and discomfort of any kind carefully examined so that the source of the trouble can be diagnosed and properly treated.

Have a thorough physical examination even though no symptoms are apparent, especially if you are past forty years of age. This is very important as conditions often exist in the body which if neglected can lead to heart disease, cancer, tuberculosis, kidney trouble, diabetes or other serious ailments. With the aid of the X-ray and clinical laboratory procedures the examining physicians can make an early diagnosis of these beginning disease conditions when they can be more easily controlled. Therefore to be fully protective these examinations must include X-ray studies and pictures of the heart, lungs, teeth and other vital organs of the body when indicated, as well as an electrocardiogram of the heart and laboratory examinations of the blood, urine, discharges, secretions, tissues, abnormal growths and suspicious ulcers. Every year at this time hundreds of persons come to United Medical Service for these protective examinations and care. This year even greater numbers are expected because of the many physicians now serving the armed forces. Here you will find an efficient staff of competent physicians representing all departments of medicine, ably supported by extensive X-ray, clinical laboratory and other necessary medical facilities. Medical care is available for all who need it. Appointments are not necessary. Come when most convenient for you.

Our offices are conveniently located and readily accessible by means of street cars, buses, elevated and railroad trains and automobiles. Information furnished upon request. Write for booklet.

Teeth X-rayed UNDER MEDICAL DIRECTION

Many infections that create serious damage in the body originate in diseased teeth and gums. That is why no physical examination is complete and fully protective without an X-ray of all the teeth. An X-ray examination at regular intervals will disclose infection before serious damage to teeth or health has occurred. It is the only way to save your teeth and protect your health. Highly trained technicians, unexcelled facilities, insure good service and accurate interpretations. Full mouth X-ray, 14 films and a report, are only.......... $2.00

Medical Protection at Moderate Cost

HERE is a group of medical procedures that will disclose hidden infection or beginning disease which proper treatment can repair before the strain of winter causes serious trouble. A complete physical check-up by the physician, an X-ray of the chest showing condition of heart and lungs, and electrocardiogram of heart, blood pressure, a basal metabolism test, a urological or gynecological exmination, and laboratory tests of the blood, urine and other secretions. These combined services, $14.50

Medical Care for Women's Complaints

Women who have persistent headache, pain in the abdomen, irregular menstruation, bleeding or discharges, frequent or painful urination, should seek prompt medical attention. Obstetrical Care including services of the physician, delivery, prenatal and postnatal care and hospitalization at low fixed cost.

Piles, Fistula

Nearly all rectal ailments in men and women can be successfully treated in our offices and pain relieved without loss of time from work.

Why suffer from rectal trouble with cancer a grave possibility when early medical attention will bring relief? We have physicians with special knowledge and experience in this field of medicine in whom you can have the utmost confidence. Let them give you a complete rectal examination and prescribe proper treatment. The examination, including urinalysis, blood and serological tests, is only $3.50

DALEY PROVIDES WINNING MARGIN AS MICHIGAN DEFEATS WILDCATS

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Big Bill Daley twice escaped all of Northwestern's players yesterday afternoon in Dyche stadium as Michigan's undefeated football men proved their superiority over the Wildcats, 21 to 7, in the first Western conference contest for the victors.

Michigan's men closely followed the script which had predicted a two touchdown triumph, but while the point totals possibly were correct, the manner of accomplishment was a surprise to the loyal Northwestern partisans in the throng of 40,000. Daley bombed the Wildcat line consistently, as his average gain of more than 8 yards for the 26 times he carried the ball attests, but his two touchdown runs were the blows from which the Wildcats never recovered.

Daley swept around Northwestern's right flank for a touchdown run of 37 yards on Michigan's first play from scrimmage. Seven minutes later the Wolverines scored again for a 14 to 0 advantage they maintained for three periods against an increasingly powerful Northwestern team.

N. U. Offense Improve.

Northwestern's steadily improving offense culminated in a touchdown at the start of the final period, but again, as the Wildcats were in position to bid at least for a tied score, Daley crushed all hope as easily as he had delivered his initial coup de grace.

This time, on second down after Northwestern had purposely kicked off out of bounds, Daley exploded thru the Wildcat line, rolled over the supporting backs, and finished a 64 yard sprint by outmaneuvering Otto Graham at safety with a sharp shift in direction.

Merv Pregulman, as he had after the other touchdowns, place kicked the point for the final tabulation of Michigan's conquest. The placement gave the huge tackle a season record of 12 points after touchdowns in 13 attempts.

Daley Dominates Offense.

The difference between victory and defeat yesterday was Daley. Few players ever have so thoroly dominated an offense and for Daley, his first touchdown run was a replay of a bit of personal history.

In his sophomore season at Minnesota—Daley is a military transfer student at Michigan—Bill was accorded conference honors at full back. That season he opened Minnesota's victory over Illinois with a touchdown run on the first play from scrimmage as devastating as his repeat performance yesterday.

Northwestern's line could handle any Michigan back except Bomber Bill. Capt. Paul White, principally because he fumbled three times, had a minus 8 yards to show for his ball carrying. Elroy Hirsch, Wisconsin's limber legged half back of a year ago, only gained 19 yards in 14 attempts. And, while the Wildcats finally stopped Daley and his mates in the last quarter after Michigan had reached the 1 yard line, Bill finished with 216 yards to his credit.

Played Into Condition.

Northwestern's line practically played itself into condition in the first half yesterday as their lack of practice time literally has left them unready for an opponent as strong as Michigan. Here was the happiest note of the game for the Wildcats.

Northwestern not only mustered the power to stop Daley in the closing minutes, but its seven first downs in the second half and its scoring drive against the Wolverine varsity portend a formidable team for later games. By the second half, however, yesterday's contest was irretrievably lost.

Northwestern got off on the wrong foot when Capt. White of Michigan correctly called the toss of the coin and chose to defend with the wind at his back. With this advantage Pregulman kicked off deep into Northwestern's end zone where Herman Frickey received and chose to run the ball. He managed only to reach his 9 yard line. Frickey and Don Buffmire picked up 6 yards and then, punting against the wind, Frickey got 31 yards on his kick and lost 9 yards of that on White's return.

Daley Delivers Early.

Thus, one minute after the start of the game, the Wildcats were defending on their own 37 yard line. Daley immediately delivered. Bill took the ball at the tail back position, swept wide around Northwestern's Bob Wallis at right end, and went down the east side line behind two blockers. He left these escorts at the 16 yard line and cut back to run over Frickey who had a clear shot to tackle but couldn't hold his one time Minnesota teammate.

Northwestern still was impotent after the kickoff and then Hirsch put the Wildcats in the hole with a 67 yard third down quick kick which finally rolled dead on Northwestern's 1 yard line. Frickey again kicked into the wind and Hirsch returned 6 yards to the Wildcats' 29. Four plays later and the Wolverines had scored what eventually was the winning touchdown.

Hirsch went over Dick Eggers for 3 yards and then Daley roared straight thru guard for 18 yards. Bill plunged again for 5 and Hirsch went wide around defensive left end

Butkovich's 4 Scores Beat Former Mates

BY HOWARD BARRY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 2.—Purdue has that cannon now and it's o. k. for the Boilermakers to load and fire in celebration. They beat Illinois, 40 to 21, today in a helter-skelter game, thereby acquiring the trophy which is scheduled to take its place with the Old Oaken Bucket, the Little Brown Jug and other mementoes of victory in Western conference football rivalries.

The 15,000 spectators had just about as busy a time as the players in keeping up with the game. Things moved so fast it was unsafe to look aside to light a cigaret for fear of missing a touchdown play, or a fumble or an intercepted pass or a blocked kick.

Some genuinly wacky statistics developed. Purdue didn't punt until the fourth quarter. During that period the Boilermakers attempted it twice but both were blocked—one for an Illinois touchdown.

20 Fumbles in Game.

One reason for the scarcity of punts was the fact the ball changed hands often enough anyway because of fumbles. There were 20 bobbles in all—each team making 10, possession of the ball changing 16 times by this method. Illinois lost it seven times and Purdue nine.

The Illini didn't feel so badly about losing that cannon, which until today had been secreted since 1905, when some of their fraternity boys swiped it from the Boilermakers. The pain of loss was eased by the fact Tony Butkovich, Alex Agase, John Genis and other former Illinois lads now training with the marines had plenty to do with the Purdue victory. Butkovich made four of the touchdowns. He netted 207 yards in 12 attempts for an average of better than 17.

BADGERS SCORE FOURTH PERIOD TOUCHDOWN TO DEFEAT IOWA, 7-5

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 2.—Iowa's 1943 football Hawkeyes fought the good fight today as all Hawkeye elevens do, but Wisconsin's Badgers did a spot of fighting also, and as a result the visitors went home with the unusual victory margin of 7 to 5. The triumph not only redeemed the 6 to 0 defeat the Iowans had handed the Badgers last year, but also ran their all-time series advantage to a game edge of 14 to 7. A crowd of 11,000, brought roaring to their feet by an Iowa rally which forced the Badgers to play an intentional safety, left with the knowledge that these teen age kids are going to play an interesting passel of football ere this strange season is over.

The Badgers revealed that they, too, will be heard from, particularly thru the air, wherein they hurled 17 forward passes with a fine, prep school abandon. For nearly 50 minutes these Badgers had a right discouraging time of it, for it appeared that the obdurate young Hawkeyes might be out to frustrate them entirely. Five times Wisconsin was in a scoring postion and five times the Iowans turned them back, once on the two yard line in the third quarter. Meanwhile Iowa, in the fifth minute of the third period was going into a 3 to 0 lead off the elegant 35 yard placement shot made by Co-Captain Bill Barbour from a difficult angle.

Badgers Finally Click.

The Badgers then made a sixth sortie against the Iowa goal and this time it clicked. Paul McLaughlin, a shifty back who was a 1941 substitute on the University of Detroit eleven, ignited this business with a 20 yard return of a Hawkeye punt to the Iowa 32 yard line. Don Kindt of Milwaukee, one of the victors' top men of the day, finally climaxed the drive by going over from the three yard line. Right End John Eulberg added the extra point.

Iowa still refused to be beaten. The Hawkeyes, paced by speedy Dale Thompson, drove down to the Badger 34 yard line, and then a completed pass on the Wisconsin 15 yard mark was fumbled and recovered by the visitors. Penalties, including one assessed against Wisconsin because of the appearance of an ambitious 12th man, forced the Badgers back and Kindt finally placed the ball on the turf in the end zone for the aforesaid safety.

Hawkeyes Fight On.

This left only 100 seconds of play, but the Hawkeyes continued to fight

Lach Leads Bluejackets to 3d Victory

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Clark Shaughnessy's famed T formation was little more than a man in motion yesterday afternoon as the Great Lakes Bluejackets made their fourth football cruise of the season a goal line target practice and left the scene with a 40 to 0 victory over the University of Pittsburgh Panthers. The crowd was composed of 22,000 of the Bluejackets' shipmates.

The sailor gunners, in racking up their third victory against one defeat, scored direct hits for six touchdowns. They counted two each in the first, second, and fourth periods and never were in danger of having to clear their own decks of enemy damage as the Panthers only once reached the Bluejackets' side of the 50 yard stripe. The 36 yard line was their deepest penetration and that was accomplished in the last couple of seconds of the contest.

Almost all of Coach Paul [Tony] Hinkle's men saw duty as he dipped deep into the fourth string in the fourth period, but it was his first and second teams that found their mark with almost monotonous regularity for the first three periods.

Lach Scores Early.

The Bluejacket backs were clicking all afternoon, but it was Steve Lach, Duke's great alumnus, who first found the range and laid in two touchdown shots before the first period was half completed, one on a short end run and the other on a 65 yard dash thru a broken field. That was all the Sailors field. That was all the sailors needed. Little Emil Sitko, former Notre Dame star, and Buist Warren, late of Tennessee, carried on from there, the former with some sprightly running and Warren with several salvos of effective passes.

The game was just 10 minutes old when Lach racked up his first touchdown on a 12 yard end run during which he eluded several

NOTRE DAME ROLLS UP 55 TO 13 TRIUMPH OVER YELLOWJACKETS

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 2.—Notre Dame, whose 41 to 0 victory over Pitt a week ago, was taken lightly by future foes of the Irish, this afternoon served a real warning on the football universe, when it poured a 55 to 13 defeat on the highly touted Georgia Tech Yellowjackets. The carnival of scoring in the Notre Dame home opener was witnessed by 30,000, many of whom probably will try to get to Ann Arbor for the big clash with Michigan next Saturday.

The Irish may have been holding back some of their trick stuff for the Wolverines—but you'd never prove it by Tech, 13 to 6 conqueror of Notre Dame only a year ago. Today the Irish produced their crushing total with a variety of techniques—there were touchdowns on passes, touchdowns on runs, touchdowns on plunges and one on a recovered fumble in the Tech end zone. The Irish were so point hungry that they didn't even sacrifice a conversion marker until after they had made their eighth and final touchdown.

Irish Start Slowly.

The Irish started modestly. The score was only to 7 to 0 at the end of the first period. Jim Mello, big workhorse of the afternoon, a sailor from West Warwick, R. I., went over from the 6 yard line after the opening session was two-thirds gone and Angelo Bertelli gracefully added the point from placement. The touchdown climaxed a determined march immediately after Julie Rykovich had wasted a 61 yard run—nullified by an offside. Mello, Creighton Miller, and Rykovich executed the advance and the ball was placed on the 6 yard line on a 16 yard pass, Bertelli to Miller.

Near the end of the first period, the Irish started a new advance, when Rykovich intercepted Eddie Prokop's pass on Notre Dame's 35 yard line. A pair of Bertelli passes, one to Paul Limont and one to Johnny Lujack, were good for gains of 17 and 6 yards. On the last play of the opening period, Lujack ripped thru to the Tech 20 yard line. On the first play of second period, Bertelli passed to Rykovich, who went over the goal line standing up. Bertelli kicked the point.

Tech Climbs to 14-13.

Before the Irish scored their next touchdown the Yellowjackets had lifted the score to a 14 to 13 ratio—on a 1 yard plunge by Ed Scharfschwerdt following a surge that got under way when a Prokop pass was ruled complete on Notre Dame's 21 yard line and again on a 26 yard pass, Frank Broyles to Mickey Logan, immediately after Capt. George Manning had blocked a punt by Bertelli. Broyles converted after the first touchdown but failed to tie the score after the second.

The Irish started to pull away immediately after the kickoff subsequent to the second Tech touchdown. After Rykovich returned the kickoff 30 yards, Lujack, Mello, Fred Earley, and Rykovich ganged up in a nicely varied parade which ended with Mello ramming over from the 3 yard line. Bertelli converted. Near the end of the half Tech got to the Irish 5 but four passes were incomplete and Notre Dame took the ball and waited for the clock to tick to the end of the half on three safe plays.

Three More for Irish.

The engineers were busy boys defensively most of the second half. The Irish scored three times and converted thrice in the third period. Mello galloped 39 yards to a touchdown on the first play after a punt had bounced in the wrong direction, from the Tech point of view. Miller tallied on a short pass from Bertelli, a net gain of 11 yards, and Bertelli

YANKEES, CARDS AWAIT START OF WORLD SERIES

Play Opening Game in New York Tuesday.

World Series Facts

Principals—New York Yankees of the American league and St. Louis Cardinals of the National.

Schedule—Yankee stadium Oct. 5, 6 and 7; Sportsman's park, St. Louis, Oct. 10, 11, 12 and 13 [if necessary].

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 2.—The New York Yankees, who invariably are around whenever there is any world series money to be split up, will be paying another call this week—their 14th in the last 24 seasons of American league competition. On a similar money getting mission from the National league will be the Cardinals, who will be operating on the theory that, having copped the bulk of the dough from the same foes last fall, they can do it again.

As Tuesday's Yankee stadium opener of the so-called world championship approaches, the Yanks, if the smart-money guys are correct, don't have to wait to be officially crowned the new champs. They already have the title. They are favorites, a strange state of affairs if you allow for the ragged show they put on a year ago. But behind them the Yanks have a series record that no other club can even approach and the bettors naturally dismiss last fall's outcome as a mere accident.

Look at Yanks' Record.

The Cards probably are entitled to feel a bit cocky over their chances of doing a repeater of their 1942 job but to avoid disturbance of this confidence they had best not scan the records of Yankee world series achievements.

The Yanks skimmed the cream off the money pot in nine of their 14 post-season bids. Between 1927 and 1941 inclusive, they took eight titles, grinding up six different National league clubs, the Cubs and Giants going back for a second dose. They swept five of these series in four straight. In two of them they lost one game.

Take Your Pick.

The experts will continue to labor right up to the last minute to prove which is going to win and why. It is no trick at all to point out why the Cards should repeat. It is equally simple to work up an open and shut case for the Yanks. But the only thing definite is that the team scoring the most runs will win. It has always been that way in baseball. After all, a world series is just so many ball games. It takes a 154 game schedule to decide a big league pennant so a world title on four out of seven really doesn't answer anything except that it brings in the dough.

Some of the National league adherents are a bit fidgety because the schedule alteration, aimed at reducing rail travel, gives the Yanks a shot at the first three games in their own park. The Joe McCarthy gang is mighty tough on its own lot but didn't the Cardinals wind up the series successfully in that same place last season? To quote from the unmatchable Diz Dean: "It don't make no difference; a good team can win any place." And Diz, being the Cards' No. 1 fan, hasn't hesitated to name the winner.

READY FOR FIRST HOME GAME

Conway Baker, one of the old standbys of the Chicago Cardinals, who will be at guard in the Cards' first home game of the season against the Green Bay Packers in Comiskey park this afternoon. He formerly played tackle.

BOSTON HALTS CUBS' WINNING STREAK, 2 TO 0

Veteran Al Javery snapped the Cubs' longest winning streak of the season, six victories in seven starts, when he set the north side organization down with three hits in Wrigley field yesterday to enable the Boston Braves to win, 2 to 0.

Javery thus brought Manager Jimmy Wilson's noble experiment with rookie Cub athletes to an unhappy state, but the north side board of strategy plans to use a greater part of its importees today in a double header with the Braves, an attraction that will close the organized baseball season in Chicago.

Rookie Dale Anderson started for the Cubs yesterday and he was succeeded in turn by Paul Erickson and Ray Prim who gave up a total of 11 hits to Boston.

Boston scored its first run in the fifth inning yesterday on Bill Wietelmann's double and Connie Ryan's single. Eddie Joost opened the Boston sixth with a single, went to third on Charley Workman's single, and scored on Butch Nieman's fly to Billy Nicholson.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 2.—Not one, but more than 50,000 will come into the Lions' den tomorrow, including the Chicago Bears. This afternoon more than 35,000 tickets had been sold for the battle in Briggs stadium between the upstart Detroit Lions and the vengeful Chicago Bears, who have been denied victory in their last two big games.

The Detroit management seems stunned, tho very much on the happy side, by the turn of events from the dreary 1942 season, when the Lions had as much vitality as an old rubber heel. They were walloped 11 times in 11 National Football league games last year. But tonight they were ready to spring on the Bears and weigh them down with more grief. The Chicago team hasn't quite gotten over losing to Washington in last season's title game, and that 21 to 21 tie in Green Bay last Sunday didn't set very well with them, either.

Gus Dorais, a tricky coach from 'way back when, sat in the Lions' downtown office today, unwilling to take the part of a master mind or a man of destiny.

Dorais Isn't Sure.

Back of the wickets, Fred Mandel Jr., club president, publicity director, and secretary, was one of three fellows dispensing tickets to excited Detroiters. The business office hasn't overlooked a single bet. Standing room tickets have been printed. If the pleasant weather holds, the attendance will approach 55,000, including 3,500 service men who are admitted free weekly. The record paid crowd for the Lions is 41,300 here, against the New York Giants in 1939.

Dorais, a slight, dapper figure, and a big man in Detroit, says frankly the Lions' whirlwind start in the league race has him worried.

"I'm a newcomer in this league," said the fellow who brought football success for many years to the University of Detroit, "but as an old coach, I know it's better to start slowly and gradually improve. I wasn't too high on my team while we were in training. I made up my mind that I'd settle for five victories. And here we're already being tagged as a wonder team. You don't know how good you are until you meet the Bears, and I can hardly wait until tomorrow to find out."

Sinkwich's Feet Hurt.

Flatfoot Frankie Sinkwich, the All-American from Georgia via Youngstown, O., who can do just about everything on a football field, will not start. Dorais says Frankie's feet are hurting him, but it may be that the coach prefers to save the young man for the right spot as the game develops.

The Lions walloped the Cardinals 35 to 17 and followed this up with a 27 to 0 triumph over the Dodgers. Dorais credits their success largely to a fighting spirit and eagerness to play. He has them hustling. He has developed an offense which combines forward and lateral passes, with smashes, slants and sweeps.

This is the kind of a team which an aroused Bear eleven will meet.

Louisiana State Defeats Rice Institute, 20 to 7

Baton Rouge, La., Oct. 2 (AP).—Louisiana State—mostly half back Steve Van Buren—rolled over Rice institute, 20 to 7, before 22,000 fans tonight, as an improved Tiger line bottled up the Texans' star back, Bucky Sheffield, and broke up the visitors' aerials.

CARDS PROMISE SCORING FRACAS WITH GREEN BAY

Cards Try Again

| CHICAGO. | | GREEN BAY. |
|---|---|---|
| Martin | L.E. | Hutson |
| Duggan | L.T. | Ray |
| Baker | L.G. | Kuusisto |
| Stewart | C. | C. Brock |
| Ghersanich | R.G. | Tinsley |
| Bulger | R.T. | Berezney |
| Currivan | R.E. | Jacunski |
| Morrow | Q.B. | Craig |
| Hall | R.H. | L. Brock |
| Grigas | F.B. | Fritsch |

The Chicago Cardinals have found a scoring punch, as attested by the 38 points they've made against the Washington Redskins and the Detroit Lions so far this season, and they'll shoot the works against the Green Bay Packers today in Comiskey park in their National Football league home opener.

Coach Phil Handler promises plenty of scoring, with the reminder that the Cardinals will continue to play a wide open game—and anyone knows there's likely to be a touchdown or two made with the Packers' Don Hutson on the field.

Hall Takes Goldberg's Place.

"Maybe we can stop Hutson," says Handler, "and maybe we'll get the breaks for a change." At any rate, the loss of Marshall Goldberg, who suffered a broken ankle in last Sunday's game with the Redskins, has brought fleet Johnny Hall the assignment of covering the elusive Packer end. That was Goldberg's job, one he handled quite efficiently.

The Cardinals have a talented back field and three pass catching ends to guarantee explosive action against Curly Lambeau's troops. The Chicagoans will be outmatched in the line and the Packers will be in bad humor after having gained only a tie with the Bears last week after expecting a victory.

Cahill, Bukant Are Good Passers.

The Cardinals have two fellows who can pitch the ball, Ronnie Cahill, the little man from Holy Cross, and Joe Bukant. Ronnie can run a bit, too. Hall is a long distance running threat. Johnny Grigas was a ground gaining demon at Holy Cross last season and tomorrow may be the day that he will break loose in a big way.

Don Currivan, Boston college end; Ed Rucinski, former Purdue star, obtained this season from Brooklyn, and Johnny Martin, the old Oklahoman, are good targets for the pass throwers. Martin made two diving catches in the losing game against the Lions.

Cahill's trouble as a passer has been a tendency to wait too long before releasing the ball. At Detroit he was spilled several times, but he showed improvement at Buffalo when he outshone Sam Baugh of the Redskins in a passing duel.

Other New Men in Lineup.

Cardinal fans will see several other new Cardinals. Walt Masters, half back, and Clint Wager, 6 foot 6 inch end obtained from the Bears for Al Babartsky, will be in there against the Packers. Vaughn Stewart, bought this week from Brooklyn, will start at center. Marshall Robnett, who played at Texas A. & M. when John Kimbrough was going strong, will stand by for guard duty. Cal Purdin, Texas Tech quarter back, is another new Cardinal.

All these fellows will have to make up for the loss of Goldberg, who was all of these: a running threat, defensive specialist against Hutson, safety man, and signal caller.

Last year, also in Comiskey park, the Cards held the Packers to a 17 to 13 score and were ahead until the final couple of minutes when Lou Brock stole the ball from Bob Morrow and ran for a touchdown. The year before, the Packers were held to 14 to 13 and 17 to 9 victories. Not since 1937, however, have the Cardinals beaten their Green Bay rivals. They turned the trick by the score of 14 to 7, but since then Green Bay has won 10 in a row.

WEST. MICHIGAN WALLOPS ALMA ELEVEN, 54 TO 0

Kalamazoo, Mich., Oct. 2 [Special].—The Broncos of Western Michigan today ran over Alma college, 40 to 0, with the Scots able to get into Alma territory only twice, both times on long passes, hitting the 10 yard line just as the game ended.

The Broncos went into the air for four touchdowns on long passes, with Nick Milosevich, formerly of Carbondale [Ill.] Teachers, tossing them all. One to End Carl Schiller was for 41 yards, another to Schiller for 35 yards, one to Carroll Kyser, end, for 25 yards, and the fourth also to Kyser for 52 yards.

PHIL-PITTS BEAT DODGER ELEVEN, 17-0 ON T PLAYS

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 2 (AP).—The Philadelphia-Pittsburgh combine defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers tonight, 17 to 0, in their first National Football league game before 11,131. Ripping the Dodger line with quick opening T formation plays, the Eagles did all their scoring in the first half.

Browns Lose 2 to Yankees; Record Is Set

New York, Oct. 2 (AP).—The Yankees set a new American league record today by taking a double header from the St. Louis Browns, 5 to 1 and 7 to 6, for their 14th twin triumph this season.

The previous American league record for winning double headers was 13, held jointly by the Yanks and the Browns.

TIGERS BEAT SENATORS, 12-5.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—The Detroit Tigers walloped the Washington Senators, 12 to 5, tonight, with every Tiger hitting safely on the offerings of Buck Newsom and Jim Mertz who relieved Newsom in the fifth.

George Case, speedy Senator outfielder, grabbed the league's base stealing lead again by pilfering two bases, putting him two up on Wally Moses of Chicago.

Sox, Boston Meet in Two Games Today

Boston, Mass., Oct. 2 [Special].—The Chicago White Sox tonight were confronted with a last ditch fight if they are to give any serious consideration to their late season drive for third place in the American league standings.

The Sox's single game with the Boston Red Sox was called off today because of weather conditions, necessitating a double header tomorrow as the season's finale. White Sox hopes for an assist from Philadelphia in the matter of their third place ambitions went awry today when the Cleveland Indians defeated the Athletics twice and thus greatly increased their grip on third place.

Manager Jimmy Dykes announced tonight that he will send Orval Grove and Bill Dietrich to the mound against the Red Sox and they will be opposed by Emmet O'Neil and George Woods.

SKOKIE INDIANS WILL SEEK 15TH STRAIGHT TODAY

Their 15th straight Midwest Baseball league victory will be the goal today of Krier's Skokie Indians, 1943 league champions, when they encounter Oaklawn for the second time this season in Oakton park, Cicero avenue and Oakton street, Skokie. Al Piechota will pitch for the Indians against Johnny Orr of Oaklawn.

The Chicago Firemen will invade Hoskins, Ill., to meet the Cole-Lenzes.

Probable Major League Pitchers in Games Today

New York, Oct. 2 (AP).—Probable pitchers in the major leagues tomorrow with won-lost records:

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Philadelphia at Pittsburgh [2]—Barrett [9-13] and Gerheauser [10-19] or McKee [0-0] vs. Gee [4-3] and Klinger [11-8].

Brooklyn at Cincinnati—Wyatt [14-5] vs. Shoun [14-5] or Vander Meer [14-16].

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

St. Louis at New York—Potter [10-5] vs. Breuer [0-1] or Donald [6-4].

Detroit at Washington—Trout [19-12] vs. Leonard [11-13] or Newson [13-12].

Chicago at Boston [2]—Ross [11-7] and Humphries [11-11] vs. O'Neill [1-3] and Dobson [7-11].

DE PAUW, PLUS STEUBER, BEATS NORMAL, 50 TO 0

Greencastle, Ind., Oct. 2 (AP).—Bob Steuber turned in what probably was one of the greatest individual performances by a DePauw football player today as the Tigers swamped Illinois Normal, 50 to 0.

Starting at left half back after arriving here for naval pre-flight training earlier in the week, the former Missouri star scored 25 points in 30 minutes of action, gaining 225 yards in 22 plays.

Carnegie Tech Defeated by U. of Rochester, 16-0

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 2 (AP).—The University of Rochester rang up its third football victory in four starts today by scoring an easy 16 to 0 win over the inexperienced Carnegie Tech.

INDIANS TOP A'S TWICE, 8-3, 6-2; CLING TO THIRD

Maintain One Game Lead Over White Sox.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 2 (AP).—The Cleveland Indians took a one-game lead over the Chicago White Sox in their battle for third place in the American league today by drubbing the tail end Philadelphia Athletics in a double header, 8 to 3 and 6 to 2. The White Sox were idle.

A crowd of 1,368 saw the Indians hammer Rookie Talmadge Abernathy for eight runs in the second inning of the first game and then coast to victory while Allie Reynolds blanked the home forces until the ninth. Reynolds fanned seven to raise his league leading season total to 152.

In the second game Lefty Al Smith hung up his 17th triumph of the season against seven defeats as his mates bunched the 10 hits they collected off Charles Bowles.

Army Delays Major League Pacific Tour

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—An indefinite delay in the major leagues' projected All-Star tour of the Pacific war area was imposed today by the war department, which said conditions made the mission "inadvisable at this time."

The department made public a communication from Maj. Gen. Alexander D. Surles, director of the bureau of public relations, to Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis which said:

"I regret the necessity of informing you that the war department is forced to delay the date of departure of the overseas group for a considerable period.

Transportation Problem.

"Increased activities in the Pacific have created greater demands upon transportation than was anticipated. The uncertainties which have resulted seem to make the tour inadvisable at this time.

"Let me assure you again, however, of the war department's appreciation of the desire of the baseball players and officials to be of service to the troops overseas."

To this Landis replied:

"Of course we all greatly regret that conditions beyond control have rendered the tour inadvisable at this time.

"I know the war department has given this thing earnest cooperation in an effort to provide the transportation and facilities which would have been required to accomplish its objectives. We are deeply appreciative of these efforts."

Cancellation Possible.

While the war department's ruling said only that there would be a considerable delay, the action appeared likely to forestall any trip of the proposed proportions this winter.

The season ends tomorrow and major league officials pointed out that the players would scatter to their homes immediately. They not only would not be in condition to play a major league brand of baseball if the tour were restored later, but many of them are expected to take war jobs and some seem certain to be inducted into military service in the "father draft."

POWERFUL NAVY TEAM WALLOPS CORNELL, 46 TO 7

Big Red No Match for Middies' Speed.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 2 (AP).—The navy packed too many guns tonight and decisively whipped Cornell's Big Red eleven, 46 to 7, before 33,000 fans.

Carl Snavely's Ithacans staved off the Middies' first team for five minutes of the opening period but the flood gates opened wide before navy speed and power. The sailors got under way from their 34 yard marker and marched 66 yards across the Cornell goal.

After that it was merely a succession of navy players and navy touchdowns.

Cornell's only score came early in the third period on a sensational pass from Bill Maceyko to Jimmy Carrington, covering 48 yards, 16 thru the air and the rest on fancy running. The score was the first against the middies this season.

PENN ROUTS YALE, 41-7.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 2 (AP).—Pennsylvania's football team, manned largely by navy trainees, whipped Yale today for the sixth successive year, 41 to 7.

Carrying out the promise they showed in their opening against Princeton last week, the Penn boys rolled up a total of 442 yards by rushing and passing against Yale's 312 yards and scored at least once in every period.

Yale was completely outclassed by the heavy and experienced Penn line, and if it hadn't been for the brilliant running of Tim Hoopes and Ray [Scooter] Scussel they wouldn't have even come near the goal. The Penn forwards opened up huge holes, thru which a flock of good backs ran for long gains, and on defense they smothered nearly everything the Elis sent at them.

TIGERS BEAT LIONS, 26-7.

New York, Oct. 2 (AP).—Princeton pushed aside a young Columbia line today and romped to a 26 to 7 triumph over the Lions.

Columbia offered a line that had only one veteran, Capt. Tom Rock, at end. The Lion forwards offered little interference for their own backs and absolutely none to the Tiger ball carriers who gathered in 345 yards on the ground during the afternoon.

ARMY WHIPS COLGATE.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 2 (AP).—Army's offensive minded football team completely crushed a well rated Colgate eleven today, 42 to 0, dominating the play so completely that Andy Kerr's Red Raiders never were even a vague threat and their most effective offensive was the faculty of pouncing on numerous Army fumbles.

Holy Cross Tops Brown.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 2 (AP).—The elusive Stan Koslowski who managed to regain his passing form during the week, figured in all of the scoring plays while the durable Holy Cross football team was overwhelming Brown for a 20 to 0 victory today before a skimpy 8,000 crowd at Fitton field.

DARTMOUTH WINS, 47-0.

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 2 (AP).—Dartmouth's well stocked football force swung from the heels early and often today to batter a game but outclassed Coast Guard academy eleven by a 47 to 0 score today before 5,000 at Memorial field.

Independent League Plans Seventh Season

The Greater Chicago Independent Football league is planning its seventh year of operation. Wrightwood A. C., the 1942 champion; Waters playground, Northwest Tigers, and St. Aloysius have applied for places in the league. All games will be played in Weber park. Franchises may be secured by contacting Jim McDonald.

Full Back James Mello, Notre Dame, going over the goal line in the first quarter of yesterday's game with Georgia Tech at South Bend, which the Fighting Irish won easily, 55 to 13. The Irish scored in every quarter, for a total of eight touchdowns, crossing the goal line three times in the third period. The team also succeeded in scoring seven points after touchdown, failing only after its last counter. Both Georgia Tech touchdowns were scored in the second period.

on, Barbour essaying two more field goals. The first of these was attempted from the 41 yard line, and at another tough angle. The ball sped true toward the goal posts, but dropped about a yard short of the cross bar into the arms of Field Judge John Wilson. The final gun saw Bill make another frantic effort, this time from the 43 yard stripe, but it didn't match its predecessor for accuracy.

The statistics gave the Badgers a first down margin of 11 to 8, 6 of those being gained in the first half. They completed 5 of their 17 passes while the Hawkeyes clicked on as many in 15 tries. Iowa's most glaring fault was revealed in 8 of the 10 fumbles committed during the game, 4 of them being recovered by their foes, and 5 of them occurring in the first half.

PENN STATE IS 19-0 VICTIM OF NORTH CAROLINA

Chapel Hill, N. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—Bouncing back from its loss to Georgia Tech, the University of North Carolina played straight football today, and defeated Penn State 19 to 0, before 13,500 fans here in the Tar Heels' home opener.

North Carolina scored in the last three quarters, on a six yard plunge by Billy Myers, a 7 yard pass from Myers to Eddie Bryant and a 6 yard end run by Hugh Cox. George Grigs, made good his last try for the extra point.

Penn State never threatened. The closest the Lions came to pay dirt was in the last quarter when Harold Mouch made 32 yards on three successive tries to the 23. There he collaborated with Allen Richards in moving to the 11. But John Maskas and Capt. Craven Turner threw Mouch for a 3 yard loss and a time out penalty served to end the threat and State kicked out.

Hilltoppers and Warriors Battle Today

Rockford, Ill., Oct. 2 [Special].—Victor over Wisconsin but beaten by Purdue, the navy-laden Marquette university football team will continue its campaign, tomorrow afternoon, when it will battle the Camp Grant eleven in the 15th Avenue stadium here. The kickoff is scheduled for 2:30 o'clock, and the game will be open to civilians as well as to Camp Grant soldiers.

Altho Marquette has size enough on its first team this season, the Blue and Gold eleven will be outweighed 10 pounds to the man. The Hilltoppers' success will depend on the results of an important change in their lineup. Because of an injury suffered in the Purdue game by Paul Copoulos, veteran right half back, his place will be taken by a freshman, Frankie Aschenbrenner, who until now has been understudy to John Rudan at left half.

Camp Grant, which has won from Illinois and Wisconsin and lost to Michigan, is in its third week under the civilian tutelage of Charley Bachman. The Warriors are well fortified with former professional and college stars, and their line will

LAWRENCE BEATS ST. MARYS, 14-0, IN HOME OPENER

Appleton, Wis., Oct. 2.—Lawrence college opened its home football season this afternoon with a victory over St. Mary's of Minnesota by a score of 14 to 0.

Following a first half in which they were badly outplayed by St. Mary's, the Vikings started on their own 45 and carried to a touchdown in nine plays. Robert Dionne carried the ball over.

After losing the ball on the 5 the Vikings came back after a short punt out and scored on a 30 yard pass, Dionne to Jim Hesselman, into the end zone. Jack Kibbe kicked both goals.

St. Mary's threatened late the second quarter but could get no closer than the 5. Lineups:

converted. A little later the Irish got to the goal's edge only to be tossed back to the 31 on two 15 yard penalties. The reaction to this was a touchdown pass—Bertelli to Vic Kulbitski. Bertelli's toe again was accurate for the point.

Bob Hanley, the 19 year old navy lad from Chicago, registered the first of two touchdowns the Irish made in the fourth period. He got it from the 3 yard line and Lujack converted.

The day's last touchdown came when Prokop fumbled and 17 year old George Sullivan of Walpole, Mass., fell on the ball in the end zone. Ed Krupa executed the Irish's only failure in the conversion department.

Busy Day for Mello.

As previously remarked, Mello was the Irish workhorse. He carried the ball 18 times, gained 167 yards. Bertelli threw 7 passes, completing 6 of them for an even 100 yards. The Irish made 24 first downs to 13 by the southerners. They made 439 yards from rushing to 90 by Tech.

It was the worst drubbing absorbed by Tech at the hands of Notre Dame since the Irish went down to Atlanta to jolt Tech, 55 to 7, in 1929. We saw that one too, and the Irish didn't seem nearly so saucy then as they were this afternoon. Statistics:

Dawson and Spencer Meet at Marigold

Fred Dawson, 1941 Catholic Youth organization featherweight champion, will be in quest of his 13th victory in 15 starts when he meets Gene Spencer of South Chicago in a 10 round bout in Marigold Gardens tomorrow.

Spencer has not been beaten since last June. During the interim he has scored three victories and boxed a draw. Gene held Pvt. Dave Bruce of Baer field, Fort Wayne, Ind., to the deadlock, but in a rematch he defeated the soldier. Spencer also conquered Eddie [Kid] Carson twice, once on a third round technical knockout.

McWhorter vs. Gee.

While registering his 12th triumph at the expense of Jimmy Joyce on Aug. 30, Dawson suffered a cut eye which forced him into temporary retirement. The injury is reported to be thoroly healed, but it probably will be a target for Spencer's swift left jab.

Art McWhorter, former Gary sectional Golden Gloves winner, who made a success of his professional debut by beating Mel Workman of South Bend, in the Marigold arena a month ago, will return for a six round semi-windup on the card again Forrest Gee, Milwaukee middleweight.

Hunt to Meet Newcomer.

Danny Freeman, Astabula, O., middleweight will be given a tough nut to crack in his first local appearance in a five round preliminary match. His foe will be Charley Wells, the fellow who upset Jimmy Hunt Monday.

Ed [Strangler] Lewis, former wrestling champion, will arrive today for an engagement against Flash Gordon in White City tomorrow.

Amateur cards this week will include those in Chicago arena Tuesday, and Milwaukee Wednesday. Boxers from Chicago and Gary will meet in the arena, while Catholic Youth organization boxers will face a Milwaukee team in Wisconsin.

RESTRICT CROWD FOR ARMY-NAVY GAME TO 15,000

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—The White House today cut down the army-navy football game from a spectacle to a small-town contest.

The colorful contest which formerly drew 100,000 to the vast municipal stadium in Philadelphia will be shown this year, the White House decreed, to a restricted West Point [N. Y.] clientele of approximately 15,000.

William D. Hassett, a White House secretary, announced that because of war-time curtailment on travel attendance at the Nov. 27 game will be limited to military academy personnel and "bona fide" residents within a 10 mile radius of the southeastern New York village.

Army Gets Even.

And to remove any temptation from distant fans, Hassett observed that "every precaution will be taken to prevent persons outside the 10 mile radius from obtaining tickets."

The announcement made the game strictly an army affair with the 2,496 cadets and their instructors on the preferred list of spectators. While the Point's Michie stadium has a capacity of nearly 30,000, only about 12,000 in addition to the cadets are expected to be able to attend.

Not even the midshipmen will be allowed to see the game. This evens up for last year when the game was held in Annapolis, Md., before home town spectators. That contest, won 14 to 0 by the navy, produced for the first time an all-navy cheering section with some midshipmen rooting for their own team and the others delegated to cheer for the army.

President Approves Game.

The White House thus ended speculation that the game would be played in Philadelphia or New York City. Sen. James Mead [D., N. Y.], who had agitated for a metropolitan site, previously expressed belief it would be restored to a large stadium as a boost to home front morale.

Buckeyes Gain 27-6 Decision Over Missouri

Columbus, O., Oct. 2 [Special].—Ernie Parks, huge 17 year old Negro freshman from Canton, O., demonstrated before 27,525 fans in Ohio's stadium today how he became the state's 100 and 220 yard high school sprint champion.

Parks scored three touchdowns and played a great defensive game as Ohio State defeated the University of Missouri, 27 to 6. Thus Parks, who last week against the Iowa Seahawks "froze" several times and fumbled his team out of a couple of scoring chances, substantiated the faith placed in him by Coach Paul Brown.

Intercepts Two Passes.

The 190 pound, 6 foot 2 inch speedster carried the ball 27 times for a total of 207 yards and scored his three touchdowns on runs of 10, 25, and 61 yards. In addition he intercepted a couple of passes and backed up his side of the line in a commendable manner.

Parks had plenty of help. Sensational Dean Sensanbaugher, Uhrichsville, O., freshman, gained 152 yards in 23 attempts, the two ball carrying yearlings accounting for 357 of Ohio's 451 gross yards. Sensanbaugher's touchdown run was for 23 yards.

Ohio was fortunate its ground attack was working, for the Buckeyes failed to connect on any of 11 passes attempted, while Missouri intercepted three and ran them back for 51 yards.

Move 80 Yards in 4 Plays.

Missouri made good on only 5 of 18 aerials, but one was a long pass by Bill Dellastatious to end John Morton which covered 59 yards and was good for the Tigers' lone touchdown. On their scoring run, including return of the kickoff after Ohio's third touchdown, Missouri moved 80 yards in four plays to score.

Ohio had a big edge in first downs, 19 to 4, and outgained the Tigers, 430 to 72 [illegible]. Missouri showed a stiff defense at times, halting Ohio once on the four and again on the 10 yard line.

them the ball on the Illinois 12 yard line. On the second play thereafter, Sam Vacanti whipped a pass to his left end, Joe Buscemi, who took it in the clear and pranced over the goal line. Stan Dubicki kicked the extra point and Purdue led, 7 to 0.

Fumble Sets Up Score.

Another Illinois fumble late in the same period was the starting point of the second Purdue scoring drive. The Illini had possession on their own 35 when the ball popped out of Eddie Bray's hands and rolled back to the 15 before it was captured by Alex Agase of Purdue. Tony Butkovich drove to the 8 as the quarter ended, then took it over on two smashes immediately after the second period began. Dubicki's kick made it 14 to 0 for Purdue.

Butkovich, who had made a 13 yard run in the first period, found an opening in the right side of the Illinois line, twisted clear of tacklers and ran 80 yards for the third Purdue touchdown before the second quarter was half over. Purdue had just taken the ball on its 20 following an Illini punt over the goal line. After Butkovich's spectacular gallop, Dubicki's kick brought it to 21 to 0.

Late in the first half, with the Boilermakers' second team on the field, Illinois recovered a fumbled lateral on the Purdue 30. With Don Greenwood and Eddie McGovern doing some adept ball carrying, the Illini advanced to the 11 with 28 seconds to go. Then interference on a pass gave them the ball on the 1, after which Greenwood plunged for a touchdown. McGovern's kick brought the score to Purdue, 21; Illinois, 7, as the half ended.

Touchdown Called Back.

Immediately after the second half kick-off, Illinois had the ball on Purdue's 27 following the recovery of a fumble. On the second play thereafter, McGovern passed to Lee Alberts for a touchdown but the score was nullified when Illinois was penalized for clipping.

A couple of minutes later, Walter Poremba intercepted one of McGovern's passes and went 50 yards for a Purdue touchdown, but this also was nullified when the Boilermakers were dealt a clipping penalty. On the next play, however, Dubicki intercepted another of McGovern's passes and went 53 yards for a touchdown. When Kasap missed the try for point the score was, Purdue, 27; Illinois, 7.

Shortly thereafter another of the numerous fumbles gave Purdue the ball on the Illini 22. It took just two plays for Butkovich to put it over. He went 15 yards on the first and then plunged the remaining 7 with two Illini tacklers hanging on to him in the last couple of yards. Dubicki's kick made it 34 to 7 for Purdue.

MICHIGAN DEALS NORTHWESTERN A 21-7 DEFEAT

Third Score Nullified.

Only eight minutes had been played and the thousands had visions of a rout. They had not counted on the Wildcats' determination nor on Michigan's excess zeal which nullified a third touchdown in the first quarter.

White ran 44 yards to the Northwestern goal on this play but a Wolverine blocker clipped at the 12 and Michigan was set back to Northwestern's 27 yard line. It was first down at this point, however, but Northwestern refused to panic and finally took over on downs on its 31. This was the first indication that the Wildcats had come out of their trance.

By the end of the half Northwestern was on the move and had a first down on Michigan's 39 as time was called. The Wildcats took up their work in the third period with the same vigor but their first drive, starting from Michigan's 36, fizzled out on downs four yards from the goal. Bob Wiese—he now had the wind in his face—kicked out and the Wildcats started anew on the Wolverine 32 yard line.

Graham Scores for N. U.

Frickey went outside of Michigan's left tackle on a reverse for 11 yards and followed with a beautiful cut back over left guard on the same play to reach the Michigan 13. Vic Schwall plunged for a yard as the third period ended.

With one yard required for a first down and with the Wolverines jammed into a seven man line with the full back only a step back, Graham crossed up the defenders on the first play of the last quarter. Otto faked a reverse and kept the ball hitting outside of left tackle. With Frickey blocking two men, Graham sprinted into the northeast corner of the end zone. Schwall's placement cut Michigan's lead to 14 to 7.

Then came Daley. Alex Kapter had kicked off out of bounds purposely so Michigan put the ball in play on its own 35. Hirsch lateraled to White who was brought down at defensive right end by Schwall after a yard gain. Daley plunged, faking the ball to Wiese, and burst thru the Wildcat line. He was beyond the secondary before these backs realized Wiese did not have the ball. Daley outran these belated pursuers, plunged straight up to Graham and then cut away cleanly to continue to the goal.

Wildcat Threats Late.

Northwestern contributed to its own predicament in the last quarter when an offside gave Michigan a first down on the Northwestern 2 yard line. Here the embattled Wildcats yielded a yard to Daley and Hirsch but tossed the latter for a 3 yard loss and then Buffmire ran White to earth on a wide end run on Northwestern's 12.

The Wildcats twice penetrated Michigan territory in the waning minutes but by this time one more touchdown, which Graham's passes couldn't get anyway, would not have changed the verdict. Daley already had cast the winning votes with his 226 yards from scrimmage.

31,336 Fans Purchase $30,000,000 Bonds.

New York, Oct. 2 (AP).—Occupy kept the Belmont Futurity in the family today.

A young brother of Occupation, who won this richest of all races for 2 year olds a year ago, this latest Chicago speedster led from end to end to finish a half length in front of Harry Lamontagne's Rodney Stone in the feature of Belmont's War Bond day, which drew 31,336 customers and who bought $30,000,-000 in bonds.

As Occupy splashed thru to the wire in the six and a half furlong trip, it was the first time in history that two full brothers had won the Futurity. What's more, with today's impressive victory, on top of his earlier score in the Washington Park Futurity this summer, this latest son of Bulldog from John Marsch's barn moved up in this year's scramble for the juvenile championship.

Beats Best Juveniles.

For, with Warren Wright's previously unbeaten Pensive and Lt. Col. Sonny Whitney's filly, Boojiana, behind him, as well as a couple of other stake winners of lesser caliber, Occupy took on just about the best of them today and win.

A $22.20 for $2 long shot, Occupy earned $55,635 and thereby boosted his total to $109,960 for the year, far and away the season's biggest money winner among the youngsters. He did it the hard way, too, packing top weight of 126 pounds and cutting out all his own pace under the rapid ride of Georgie Woolf, who also rode a year ago when Occupation beat off Count Fleet in this same stake.

Princequillo Wins Gold Cup.

There was no catching Occupy today as he scampered the distance in 1:17 4-5.

The Jockey Club Gold Cup, 2 mile classic for older horses, was the day's secondary feature, and was taken by the Irish-born Princequillo. Dance team, from the barn of Henry Lustig, New York restaurateur, led all the way to win the $10,000 El Alamein handicap for 2 year olds and Louis Mayer's Thumbs Up, roaring up the stretch, captured the $10,000 Tunisia handicap.

The crowd bet a total of $2,567,280 on the eight race card for the second time during the current meeting.

Daily Trouble Is Winner at Hawthorne

David Straus' Daily Trouble stepped out yesterday at Hawthorne and captured the $5,000 Hawthorne handicap, winning the event over six others. The race was the sixth and feature of a nine race card before a crowd of 17,000, which wagered $939,566.

The Straus color bearer broke well and was rated in a favorable position thruout the first half mile. He responded when called upon, turning into the stretch, and overhauled Night Shadow, the early pace setter, to score by a half length. Parasang, the favorite for the race, was third. Parasang raced in the third spot all the way in the mile and a furlong test, but could never improve his position.

The winner ran third to Parasang and Rounders two weeks ago and was second choice in the wagering yesterday. He paid $8.60, $4.00, and $2.80 across the board.

Calumet Jolts Fenger, 6 to 0, in Prep Race

Calumet High school defeated Fenger, 6 to 0, yesterday in a south section football game in the City league to become the outstanding contender for the sectional title.

The defeat probably will end Fenger's string of consecutive south section titles at seven. It was only the third time Calumet has beat Fenger, the last victory coming in 1935, 7 to 6.

The only score came in the second quarter when Al Zimmerman circled right end for 5 yards and a touchdown to climax a march that began on Calumet's 40 yard line. Fenger threatened twice late in the fourth quarter only to lose the ball once on a fumble and the other time on downs.

Morgan Park Wins, 14-0.

Morgan Park launched its south section schedule with a 14 to 0 victory over Bowen at 83d street and Yates avenue. It was Bowen's second straight league defeat. Burt Schmidt scored both touchdowns, one on a short pass from Wally Teninga and the other when he intercepted a pass and raced 30 yards. Johnny Foyer kicked both extra points.

Hyde Park beat Parker, 7 to 6, at 83d street and Yates avenue and remained undefeated in the south section race. Last week Hyde Park battled Harper to a scoreless tie. Johnny Conway passed 30 yards to Bob Buit who ran 30 more for a touchdown to give Parker the lead in the second quarter. Hyde Park won the game in the third period when Ed Williams smashed over from the 4 yard line and then passed to Tom Lanin for the winning point.

Lindblom Routs Englewood.

Lindblom opened its central section campaign by routing Englewood, 40 to 6, in Shewbridge field. Larry Teeling, substitute full back, scored two of Lindblom's six touchdowns.

TAFT TITLE BID BOOSTED BY 27-0 ROUT OF SENN

The Eagles from Taft High school, defending north section champions and runners-up to Tilden Tech for the City league title, put in a serious bid for a second straight crown by routing Senn, 27 to 0, yesterday in Winnemac park.

It was the league opener for Taft and the first defeat in two games for Senn. The Eagles' four touchdowns were distributed among Julian Byrdy, Lefty Johnson, Cliff Kero, and Jack Congdon. Dan Filmore converted three times.

Bizzotto Scores Twice.

Lane Tech roared to its second straight north section victory, overpowering Lake View, 40 to 6, in Lane Tech stadium. Aldo Bizzotto and Ed Staab each scored twice and Bob Jensen and Ted Swierad once for Lane. Bill Lesher scored Lake View's touchdown, his third of the season.

Schurz reached the .500 mark in the north section by winning its first league game of the season from Roosevelt, 13 to 0, in Winnemac park. Len Wahl and Norman Wilson scored for Schurz, the latter's touchdown coming on a 75 yard return of an intercepted pass.

Austin Wins, 39-0.

Austin, Harrison, and Crane opened their west section schedules over Tuley, Kelvyn Park, and Marshall respectively. Austin, defending sectional champion, routed Tuley, 39 to 0; Harrison overpowered Kelvyn Park, 30 to 0, and Crane smothered Marshall, 25 to 6.

Dick Stanek passed 20 yards to Ted Stefanski in the end zone and Gage Park defeated Kelly, 6 to 0, last night in Shewbridge field in a central section game.

Riverside Whips Maine; Hinsdale Wins.

La Grange, defending West Suburban High School league football champion, defeated Glenbard, 18 to 0, yesterday in La Grange for its second straight league victory. Art Sandusky continued his touchdown rampage by scoring all three of the champion's markers. Glenbard won the lightweight game, 7 to 0.

In other West Suburban varsity games, Riverside beat Maine of Des Plaines, 6 to 0, and Hinsdale shut out York of Elmhurst, 6 to 0. In lightweight games, Riverside defeated Maine, 7 to 0, and York routed Hinsdale, 33 to 0.

Blue Island came from behind to defeat Calumet City, 7 to 2, in a South Suburban league opener for both teams. Calumet City scored on a safety when a lateral pass bounded into the end zone and Harvey Freeland fell on it. Joe Kozina scored Blue Island's touchdown on a 6 inch plunge which climaxed a 65 yard drive.

Naperville, defending Little Seven conference champion, scored its second straight league victory by defeating Dundee, 13 to 0, on Mike Wehrli's two touchdowns. Wheaton remained undefeated by winning its second straight, 27 to 0, over Sycamore. Geneva beat Batavia, 19 to 0, and West Chicago defeated St. Charles, 6 to 0, in other league games.

The Home Front

BY MARK COX.

NOT so many winters back, massive Mike Novak of Loyola was performing a simple little trick which was the envy of every sandlot and neighborhood gym gathering. It was the ability to grasp a basketball in each of his hands and extend them straight out from his sides, palms facing down. Now Mike has found a more constructive use for those famous hands in operating a turret lathe in the machine shop of the newly christened Mills Industries, which formerly dealt exclusively in novelties.

However, there's another advantage Mike possesses which probably is even more coveted by his fellow war workers. That is his 6 feet 9 inches in height that enables him to merely peer over the top of his lathe to keep a watchful eye on both sides without having to make a tour around it, which is the normal procedure.

These physical attributes of the athlete turned industrialist also came in handy during the softball season when he played first base for the Mills team that won the Irving Park Industrial league championship. Before taking his turn at bat, he would casually swing five bats in an arc above his head to get properly loosened up. The batter never had a chance on a close play at first when the towering Novak was playing the position, for he could stretch well into the infield to take the throw. And he whipped the 12 inch softball around as tho it belonged in the tennis species.

Mike can pick up a 16 pound bowling ball with one hand without benefit of the holes, but here's the joker in his bowling. He likes to watch the tenpin game, but seldom participates. That's because he's never found a ball with the holes spaced far enough apart for him to grip.

The squeeze of a rivet gun trigger is no novelty to Mrs. Helen Van Gaston at the Pullman-Standard Car aircraft plant, for only last year she captured the national women's rifle championship in competition from prone, kneeling and standing positions with iron sights at 50 feet. She also holds two National Rifle association medals and has won additional honors in the Illinois and Midwest rifle matches.

Before joining Pullman-Standard, Mrs. Van Gaston served as an instructor in small arms firing for possible army recruits. Five feet 5 inches tall and auburn haired, she is the mother of a 17 year old son.

"There absolutely is no element of self defense involved in reserving special courts for women," declares W. F. Schroll, who is horseshoe chairman for Western Electric's employe's organization, the Hawthorne club. The barnyard golf activity has become so popular at the Hawthorne works that no longer is it necessary for the girls to bolt their lunches in order to be assured of a court on the first come, first served basis, for four of the 14 courts now are reserved for them.

Many of the girls already have become as adept as the men pitchers and some of them insist on the men's 40 foot pitch, scorning the women's 30 foot standard as strictly a distance for sissies.

Steel Workers Gain Most of Golf Honors at Calumet.

The Gary Sheet No. 1 team carried off most of the laurels in the 13th annual Calumet Industrial golf tournament, sponsored last week by the Inland Steel Athletic association at Wicker park in Hammond. Medalists in the 38 fourman team participation were A. Zgorka, Youngstown No. 1; J. Mislan, Gary Sheet No. 1, and M. Stefanchik, Gary Sheet No. 1, all with 74s. The Gary Sheet No. 1 foursome also gained the Class A title, while Nipsco won Class B, and Gary Screw and Bolt captured Class C.

Expert on Fists

Charles Henry [Chuck] Benoit, who hammered his way to the 1928 160 pound Golden Gloves title, still is an expert in usage of the hands at the Aluminum Co. of America. The former Brookfield policeman and boxing instructor at the Medinah club is a member of the plant protection department, and as such, takes care of the finger printing for identification and credentials.

The Riding club of the Douglas Aircraft corporation wanted to hold a horse show this fall, but it didn't want the amateurism of the contestants to be too apparent, so held what it chose to call a preliminary horse show recently at the Four Seasons Riding academy at 8551 Lawrence avenue. Approximately 200 applauded the 43 entries, the majority of whom were taking part in their first riding competition. Winners and runners-up in the five classes were: Tenderfoot—John Knook, June Wagner; bridle path—Louise Thompson, Marion Kirchoff; pair—Jerry Calderone and Richard Whelton, Marion Scott and Mary Austin; equitation—Marty Martinson, Mary Austin; jumping—Marion Kirchoff, Marty Martinson. Riding master of the club of several hundred members is Johnny Kleppie, lead man on the major sub assembly.

ROBERT YOUNG, industrial relations department screener at the American Can company torpedo plant, found it no trick to shift from a baseball to a softball star. Young, who played with Terre Haute in the Three-Eye league and Johnson City in the Middle Atlantic, now manages the stylish Match Corporation of America softball team. During three seasons with Auto Specialty Manufacturing company in St. Joseph, Mich., he directed his representatives to three state titles and into the subsequent national tournaments.

Girls' basketball season can't be far in the future. . . . Lyle Bennett, the impressario of recreation at Illinois Tool works who doubles as a cafeteria consultant, already has booked the Rockford Industries and Peoria Caterpillars on home and home dates. . . . John Wezlowski, who tutors the Standard Transformer championship lasses, also has booked a trip to Peoria. . . . Mike Priami of the Seeburg's Employes association, who has been making big plans for the girls' basketball campaign, will leave the season's work in some one else's hands for he was inducted into the army last week.

Steve Barak to Take New Job in Recreational Field.

Steve Barak, the ex-Chicago Bruin who was mentioned here two weeks ago as the gent who handled the industrial program at the Division Y, will take a new post Oct. 15 as the recreation director and associate personnel man at the E. J. Katzinger company. . . . To Manager Bob Callender went the privilege of leading the batting averages in Minneapolis-Honeywell's first softball team with a fancy figure of .544 with 31 hits in 57 trips to the plate. . . . Unhappiness prevails in the home of Windy Wemlinger for the former member of the Acme Steel Central A. A. U. basketball championship quintet, who made four trips in a row to the national tourney, was shipped to England with the army engineers without even a furlough.

Mike Cavarretta, brother of the Cubs' famous Phil, who will wind up his most successful season today, is a shipping clerk in the Revere Copper and Brass company as well as one of the better pro basketball officials in the city. . . . He recently devoted most of his vacation to trying to get lined up with the army or navy. . . . The Horseback Riding club of the Bendix Aviation corporation is making plans for the second class in precision riding under the direction of Larry Kollath, president of the club. . . . The 13 hex holds no terror for the Buffers of the day shift, who recently captured the Chicago Screw company softball title as the climax to a season which found 24 teams drawing 3,000 spectators in Garfield park. . . . There were 13 on the roster of the Buffers, which won 13 games as the No. 13 team in the day shift league, taking the semi-final contest, 13 to 3, and the championship over the Headers of the second shift, 13 to 6.

Five Catholic League Games Booked Today

The Catholic High School Football league will really swing into action this afternoon when 10 more members are scheduled to open their conference schedules. Loyola and St. Philip stole a march on their rivals by opening Friday night in St. Philip stadium. Today's card will have three south section games and two in the north.

The north section offers a natural in the Fenwick-St. George contest in Winnemac park. Fenwick's Friars are the defending sectional champions and the Dragons are considered the team to beat in this year's race. Max Burnell, former Notre Dame star, will be making his league debut as St. George's coach. He replaced Dr. Eddie Norton.

Dragons Lose Alcock.

The Dragons are pre-game favorites altho they will be hampered by the loss of Johnny Alcock, speedy left half. He sustained an arm injury in the St. Rita game last week when the Dragons lost a 13 to 7 decision to the Mustangs. Prior to that, St. George romped over De La Salle, 26 to 7, and Catholic High of Joliet, 26 to 0.

Fenwick appears somewhat weaker than last year, having lost its two practice games. St. Rita trounced the Friars, 26 to 7, and Austin of the City league scored a 14 to 12 victory over them a week ago yesterday. Despite early season losses, Coach Tony Lawless usually manages to have the Friars in a fighting mood when the conference season opens.

Expect Crowd of 5,000.

The St. Rita-St. Mel conflict at 63d street and Oakley avenue will be the outstanding attraction of the three south section games. A capacity crowd of 5,000 is expected to witness St. Mel's return to the south section race after competing in the north section for the last five years. The Mustangs, off their victories over Fenwick and St. George, figure to have too much power for the Cadets from St. Mel.

Mount Carmel appears to be two touchdowns too strong for De Paul academy, another transfer from the north section, in their south section battle in Lane Tech stadium. De La Salle expects little trouble from Catholic High of Joliet in the third south section game and St. Patrick and St. Ignatius will battle it out for the north section cellar in Key Branch stadium.

Navy Sailing Team Beats Stevens Institute, 170-103

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 2 (AP).—Navy's sailing team opened its fall racing season today with a 170-103 victory over Stevens Institute of Technology of Hoboken, N. J.

Spotting the Pins

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

THE Classic league, as talented a bowling organization as the game knows, returns to the scene of its 1943 debut tonight, when the group opens its famed Chicago Sunday sweepstakes at Matty Faetz' Recreation, 5961 North Ridge avenue.

The Classic league formerly was divided into two competitive sessions—Wednesday and Sunday. Last year officials decided to confine the actual league activities to Wednesdays, while experimenting with the sweepstakes idea on Sundays. The venture was so successful that they have set out to repeat it with tonight's opening. Five of the squads bowling tonight are members of the regular Wednesday troupe, which held its first session at Faetz's.

Girls Bleach Hair So They Can Qualify for Team.

The sweepstakes is an invitational event, open to the top teams of our town. Tonight's schedule calls for a 7 p. m. delegation that includes the Gep-Rods, Lemon Kings, Mineralites, Edelweiss Beers, Congress Arcades, and Washington Shirts. The 9 o'clock line will witness the Keeley Beers, Monarch Beers [1942 champions of the league]; Meister Braus, Thompson's Restaurants, United States Brewery, Chapin & Gore, Schamberger-Schlitz, and Monarch Encores.

Lou Petersen, the Bridgeport boy who has been one of the main factors in bowling's rise in the national sports picture, celebrated his 60th birthday last week. The five members of the Ruth's Beauty Shop in the Pla-Mor Ladies' league are decided blondes. This was the request of the sponsor, with the result that two of the quintet revised the hue of their coiffures to meet the requirement.

Rose Bowl Team Leads in Pla-Mor Ladies' Major.

The fast-stepping Rose Bowl five continues to set the pace in the 16 team Pla-Mor Ladies' Major league. In last week's roll down, it took three from the Vic Schlaeger team to bring its total to eight won and one lost. Other teams to score slams were the K. Millers, Green Diamond Golfs, Park Manor Recreations, and Loretta O'Garas. The O'Garas and the Park Manors piled up identical totals of 2,222. Clara Skovie of De Luxe Trailways had high series with a tidy 567, and Southern Limited posted high team series of 2,474. Among those who moved into the magic circle of 500 or better were:

Millie Paka Has High Score at Bowling Lanes.

Speaking of scores, there were a few chalked up last week in the Ladies' Major at Bowling Lanes. Not the least of these was the 611 submitted by Millie Paka, who had a high game of 221. Irene Engel followed that with a 234 game and a series aggregate of 566. Mary Mansch's 591 included a 209. Vaughn Sagert had a 580 with a 224, and Kay Freitag knocked over a 537 series. The Windy City Major league finds such high scorers as Babe Papke, 545; F. Gabriel, 542; M. Weinert, 538; May Lukes, 536, and Ruth Wagner, 589, against Esther Weidenhoft's 573. May Luke's 224 for high game is closely followed by Hank Wilman's 222.

Clinton, Ia., Proprietor Gives His Pin Boys Added Incentive.

Leo P. McElney, operator of the Olds Bowl in Clinton, Ia., brings up a suggestion which other alley proprietors might consider in the present pin boy crisis. He says:

"We operate only six lanes, and after selecting a group of boys we are anxious to hold, we give them five free lines of bowling every Saturday morning, provided they did not violate any of our rules during the week. Any boy violating the code forfeits his right to bowl for a week. We also are giving the boy obtaining the highest score a prize of $1, and the second highest 50 cents."

The Sunday night mixed league at Ray Schalk's Evergreen Towers has Jack Thompson leading the series department with 614, with a 240 high game. Dorothy Mullen heads the ladies with a 566 and a 226. In the ladies' Wednesday league bowling at the southwest side establishment, Frieda Tanner's 548, carrying a best game of 210, is in front—Charlotte Caswell is next with 512 and 202, followed by Pearl Algar with 502 and Dorette Sievers with 501. Les Francis, A. B. C. executive board member from Spokane, Wash., has issued a challenge to 29 other cities with populations comparable to Spokane. The only condition involved in the defi is that the challenged cities must collect more money for the bowlers' victory legion overseas fund and the national infantile paralysis foundation.

Minnesota Displays Old Time Power.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 2 [Special]. — Minnesota made it two straight over Big Six opposition by frolicking to a 54 to 0 victory over a pitifully undermanned Nebraska team this afternoon.

The Cornhuskers had only the familiar red shirts and white helmets to remind 30,000 spectators of past Nebraska might. It was the worst defeat in Nebraska's 52 year football history. It marked the fourth straight year Minnesota has turned back the one time powerhouse of the midlands and gave the Gophers their 19th victory in 25 games with the Huskers.

Minnesota used 46 players in the rout of Nebraska to gain almost at will. They were forced to punt only once as they ran up the tremendous total of 566 yards by rushing along with 21 first downs.

Indiana Beats Weak Wabash Eleven, 52 to 0

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 2 [Special].—Indiana university went on a scoring rampage in Memorial stadium this afternoon to trounce a weak Wabash eleven, 52 to 0.

The Hoosier's, relying on a smashing running attack, scored once in the first quarter, three times in the second, once in the third and three more times in the last, altho the game but overpowered little Giants made them work for each one.

MEMPHIS BLUES ARE TOO HOT FOR TULANE—41 TO 7

New Orleans, La., Oct. 7 (AP).—The powerful Blues of Memphis Naval Air Tech, paced by Frank [Chuck] Filchock's passing, smothered a green Tulane team, 41 to 7, here today before 25,000.

Filchock, former Indiana university and Washington Redskins full back, tossed four touchdown passes and battered the Tulane line with his power smashes.

SOCCER LEAGUE LEADERS START CUP PLAY TODAY

BY OFFSIDE.

The Vikings and Swedish-Americans, both undefeated in International Soccer league competition thus far this season, will meet today in the feature match of the first round of the Mayor Kelly cup series. Opening the day's program in Hanson park stadium, Long and Fullerton avenues, will be a clash between the Schwabens and Hakoah-Centers at 12:30 p. m.

The International league, sponsor of the/ Kelly cup matches, has adopted a new plan in conducting the series this season. The top ranking teams in last season's final rankings in the Major and First divisions are paired in the Vikings-Swedes match, with the runnersup paired in the game between the Schwabens and Hakoahs.

Swedes Win Four in Row.

The clash between the Vikings and Swedes will be the first test between last season's Major division champions, the Vikings, and the Swedes, who have come up from the First division to become their chief challengers this season.

Bill List, who has transferred to the Vikings from the Chicago Sports club, will be in action along with Jimmy McDermott, formerly of the Spartas, and Jock Johannson, who is doing a fine job at goal for the Vikings while their regular defense man is absent. The Swedes will depend on a well balanced team which includes a number of Chicago's top veteran players, among them Art and Al Waldrom, Billy Fraser, and Enid Pearson.

Service Members to Help.

The Schwabens will be aided by three of their players who are now in the service, but are stationed in Chicago, these being Adolph Strang, Kenny Bowman, and Bruno Zubko. The Hakoahs, who have combined forces with the Center Sports club, have a strong side which includes Max Pearlman, Eric Klaber, Eddie Linderman, and Leo Honey.

TEXAS BEATEN BY OWN FORMER STALWARTS, 14-7

Austin, Tex., Oct. 2 (AP).—Southwestern university defeated the University of Texas, 14 to 7, today, with both its touchdowns scored by former Texas stars. There were 15,000 spectators. The former University of Texas players, Jackie Field and Ken Matthews, were transplanted to Southwestern under the marine training program.

South Bend Riley Runs Over John Adams, 26-6

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 2 [Special].—Riley High of South Bend overpowered John Adams, 26 to 6, tonight and went into a first place tie in the eastern division of the Northern Indiana conference football race with Washington High of South Bend and Goshen. Each has won two straight league games. Riley scored its four touchdowns on straight football. Adams' consolation touchdown came in the fourth period when John Goldsberry, son of Coach Alonzo Goldsberry of Adams, fell on a blocked punt in Riley's end zone.

tacklers. His opportunity came after George Perpich, former Georgetown star, had recovered a fumble by Bill Abromitis on the Pitt 27. Dewey Proctor of Furman picked up 9 yards in three tries and Juzwik set up the touchdown play for Lach with a first down on the 12. Rogers' kick was good.

Just a minute later, after Rogers had received Gary Fienello's kick and returned it 10 yards to the sailors' 35, Lach ran thru a broken field 65 yards to his second touchdown. Rogers' kick was wide.

Second Team Scores.

The second team took the field for the Bluejackets in the second quarter and, spearheaded by Sitko and Warren, it also marched to a pair of touchdowns, Sitko carrying one over and Vrabec of Ohio university scoring the other.

The third touchdown drive started when Rogers took a Pitt punt on the Panthers' 41. Sitko made 6 thru the line and Warren tossed to Vrabac, who was stopped on the 32. Ken Roskie made 5 and Warren passed to Vrabac on the 20. Roskie made it a first down on the 11 and after Roskie had picked up 2 Sitko slipped thru tackle and scored. Rogers' kick was wide.

After Rogers had kicked out of bounds on the Pitt 35, Stacy Mosser, former Cornell end, intercepted Mocha's pass and was downed on the Panthers' 25. Warren passed to Mosser on the 12, and Roskie picked up a couple, but Sitko fumbled the pass from center on the next play, recovering on the 23. From there Warren passed to Vrabec in the end zone and Rogers kicked the extra point, making the score: Great Lakes, 26; Pittsburgh, 0, at the half.

Reserves Carry On.

The second team again took the field for the Bluejackets as the third quarter opened. Pitt made a better stand and prevented scoring, altho when the period ended the Bluejackets again were knocking at the door with the ball only six inches from their fifth touchdown as the result of Evan Vogds' recovery of a fumble on the Pitt 18. Juzwik and Roskie took it up to goal line as the quarter ended.

By the time three minutes of the fourth quarter had been used, Great Lakes had added two more touchdowns, the first scored on the second play from six yards out by Roskie over tackle. Rogers' kick again was good, making the score Great Lakes, 33; Pittsburgh, 0. After Don Matthews had fumbled, Jack Coleman recovered for Great Lakes on the Pitt 24. Warren opened up a passing attack which took the ball to Pitt's 1 and Art Murakowski of East Chicago High school took it over. Frank Yokas of Rock Island High kicked the point after touchdown and the Sailors led, 40 to 0.

Against third and fourth string Bluejackets, the Pitt ground attack began to function in the waning moments of the game and the ball was on the sailors' 45 as the game ended.

Asks Hunters to Save Down for Aviators

BY BOB BECKER.

America's sportsmen can contribute to the safety of war time flyers this fall by saving the down and small body feathers of ducks and geese for lining high altitude flying suits, Ducks Unlimited announces in launching a nation-wide campaign to collect waterfowl feathers. Best available substitute for commercial eiderdown, imports of which have been cut off by the war, the down of 10 mallard ducks, for example, not only will provide a flying suit with protective warmth against subzero temperatures but with buoyancy to keep its wearer afloat for 24 hours.

Experts say enough of this material is to be had from the annual national waterfowl bag [obtainable only during the legal hunting season thru the coöperation of duck hunters] to make 300,000 flying suits, 500,000 zeroproof parkas, or 150,000 sleeping bags for troops in colder parts of the world.

Follows Last Year's Plan.

All feathers less than 2½ inches long can be used. They should be kept dry. Sportsmen are urged to donate shipments, transportation collect, to Ducks Unlimited, 83 Columbia street, Seattle, Wash. Name and address of donor and "waterfowl feathers" should be written on the packages.

Last year Ducks Unlimited did a fine job in promoting this campaign to save waterfowl feathers and many sporting goods stores and other shops helped to collect shipments. This year Ducks Unlimited again is asking for that coöperation. Many feather receiving stations are needed in cities and towns.

When a duck hunter donates waterfowl feathers in this campaign he not only is aiding the war effort but also helping to grow more ducks and geese. Manufacturers will pay Ducks Unlimited for the material at government-established prices and all proceeds are placed in a fund for establishment of waterfowl nesting refuges in line with the work that Ducks Unlimited is doing in Canada to rehabilitate marshes for the use of ducks and geese.

Record Flight Is Expected.

There is every indication [as forecast in this department months ago] that we are going to see a waterfowl flight that IS a flight this fall. In fact, it looks like the biggest migration in many a year. Out in South Dakota where the sportsmen opened the duck and pheasant season Sept. 25, the hundreds of ponds and lakes had an 80 per cent increase in the hatch of local ducks. Up in Canada there has been a general 25 per cent increase over last year when about 100,000,000 birds came south.

Duck hunting in the central zone of states which includes Illinois opens Oct. 15 and continues for 70 days. At least 50 per cent of the hunters who have talked to us about the Oct. 15 opening have said they have some shells left over from last year and thus can get one or two hunts this fall. But there are quite a few hunters who have no ammunition at all.

No Sellout As Yet for Yanks' Series Games

New York, Oct. 2 (AP). — Frantic baseball fans who have been trying unsuccessfully to round up box and reserved seats for the world series may be glad to learn that the big Yankee stadium never has been sold out for a series game—and is not yet for the contests with the St. Louis Cardinals next week.

The Yankee management, besieged by pleas for boxes and reserved seats, all of which are gone, pointed out today that 28,000 tickets would be on sale on the morning of each game for all comers.

Last year when the world series record of 69,902 for one game was set, all bleacher space was sold but many seats in the upper grandstand were left vacant. The stadium attendance record is 84,041 for a double header between the Yankees and Boston Red Sox on May 30, 1938.

20,000 See Texas Aggies Beat Texas Tech, 13 to 0

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 2 (AP).—The Texas Aggies hauled out two scoring punches in the third period tonight to defeat the Texas Tech Red Raiders, 13 to 0, before a capacity crowd of more than 20,000.

3 YOUNG DOGS SCORE UPSETS IN ARENA SHOW

A trio of young dogs upset purebreds yesterday in the opening sessions of the Western Specialty Clubs association's 33d annual dog show in the Chicago arena. The show continues thru this evening.

Champion Rolew Rhyme, a 3 year old pointer owned by Sam B. Sullivan, De Kalb, was named best of breed, defeating among others Champion Moscow's Moonbeam, an older dog owned by James Garman, Evansville, Ind. It marked the first time in several shows that Rolew Rhyme had bested Moonbeam. She won on her excellent condition and ring manners.

Champion Another Norah, a Pennsylvania owned Irish terrier, won the best of breed title in competition which included a surprising winner male award to an 8 month old puppy. The puppy, Aristocrat of Dauphin, is owned by William J. Creighton, 603 East 90th street, and is listed in the show catalogue as being "for sale." But after yesterday's victory his owners may change their minds.

Mr. and Mrs. Orrin H. Baker, veteran Chicago breeders of Kerry Blue terriers, garnered another best of breed ribbon by the victory of their 20 month old dog, Corvett of Orr-Mur. Corvett, daughter of another famous Baker dog—Champion Sallu O'Shea Oriskany—was competing in her third show. She was best of breed in the Skokie Valley Kennel club event in Des Plaines last June and reserve winner in the Hammond, Ind., show the following day. In the final judging she defeated six Kerry champions, including three titlists from the Sirarno kennels, Rye, N. Y.

POINTERS—Winner male: Rolew Startler, owned by S. B. Sullivan, De Kalb, Ill.; winner female and best of winners: Judith of Retlair, owned by Mrs. W. E. Armstrong, Sherburne, N. Y.; best of breed: Champion Rolew Rhyme, owned by S. B. Sullivan.

Trojans Defeat Bears, 7-0, for Second Victory

Berkeley, Cal., Oct. 2 (AP).—For a few minutes late in the first period, Southern California's T formation baffled the University of California Bears today, enabling the Trojans to gain a 7 to 0 football victory before 35,000.

The Trojans, who previously defeated U. C. L. A., now have whipped the only two other playing members of the Pacific Coast conference's southern division.

The visitors put their scoring plays together swiftly with only seconds left in the opening period. They drove from the Bears' 41 yard line to the 7, from where Howard Callahan darted thru left tackle for the touchdown. Dick Jamison kicked the extra point. Lineup:

PACIFIC BEATS U. C. L. A.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 2 (AP).—U. C. L. A., Pacific Coast conference champion in 1942, suffered its second straight beating today as Amos Alonzo Stagg's College of the Pacific took a 19 to 7 victory before a crowd of 20,000. Stagg's boys outplayed the Bruins most of the way but missed several scoring chances and had to capitalize on U. C. L. A. mistakes for the winning margin.

NEWS FROM ARMY AND NAVY POSTS

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Navy Pier.

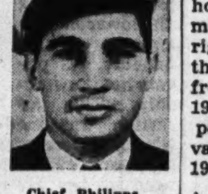
CHIEF SPECIALIST PETER PHILIPPE has been named to succeed Ensign Joe Walker as boxing coach at this station, it was announced last week by Lt. Comdr. Jim McMillen, pier athletic officer. . . . Ensign Walker was detached after receiving a promotion from chief petty officer. . . . Philippe, native of Arlington Heights, Ill., formerly boxed as a middleweight in the Golden Gloves and Catholic Youth organization tournaments. . . . Before being transferred to this establishment a month ago, Chief Philippe was a boxing instructor at Great Lakes. . . . The Pier boxers won the C. Y. O. team championship last winter, and are defending title holders in the Service Men's Amateur Boxing league. . . . Whether the league competition will be resumed during the 1943-'44 season will be determined at a meeting of representatives of the circuit in the Board of Trade building Nov. 4. . . . At the same session plans will be discussed to conduct wrestling, track and field, and cross country meets for army and navy personnel of the 6th Service command and the 9th Naval district. . . . The Ship's company bowling team, last season's champion of the Arena House league, has started practicing for the new winter campaign. . . . Lt. John Murphy, former assistant athletic officer here, has been instrumental in developing a new, improved type life jacket in connection with his new duties as welfare and recreational officer at the station in New Orleans.



Chief Philippe.

Glenview Air Station.

SAM GRAF, Al Valentino, Mike Stack, J. Bach, and R. Neilson have qualified as members of the station No. 1 bowling team by beating out other topnotch players in an elimination series . . . Last season's tenpin standard bearers captured the national service men's team championship. . . . Only Stack and Valentino of that squad were able to survive the qualifying tests this time. . . . In their first match the sailor bowlers will meet the Meister Braus of the Chicago Classic league on the station alleys on Oct. 14. . . . Sixteen teams will compete in a pre-season basketball tournament starting here tomorrow. . . . The Engine Overhauls and the four quintets entered from the Tarmac regiment are expected to be the big noises. . . . The Tarmacs are pre-aviation cadets undergoing boot training.

Truax Field.

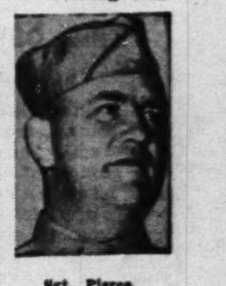
STAFF SGT. WILLIAM C. PIERCE, who helped make football history at Notre Dame under the late Knute Rockne, is a physical training director at this army air forces training command radio school near Madison, Wis. . . . Pierce, whose home is in Sherman, Tex., played right guard on the Notre Dame frosh eleven in 1929 and appeared on the varsity teams of 1930, '31, and '32. . . . He was under Rockne's tutelage in 1930, the last year he coached before his tragic death in the spring of 1931. . . . The 1930 squad captured the national championship, among its victims being both Pitt and Southern California, which met in the Rose Bowl that year.



Sgt. Pierce.

Fort Sheridan.

LT. JOHN PHIPPS, former Virginia Polytechnic institute end, is the new head football coach and athletic officer at this post. . . . He will be assisted by Don Skrinar, who formerly supervised the sport at the high school in Glenwood, Ill. . . . Three games have been added to the post schedule. . . . In addition to meeting the Falk corporation of Milwaukee here Oct. 31, the soldier eleven is to meet the Great Lakes Bees Oct. 10, the Chicago Beach hotel army players Oct. 15, and the Notre Dame V-12 squad Nov. 6. . . . Two candidates for the team from Chicago have reported to Coach Lt. Phipps. . . . They are Don Coffey, 228 pound right tackle, who formerly played for Fenger High school, and Bud Taylor, end on the 1935 De Paul university team. . . . The khaki clad players were without the services of their quarter back, Bill Andrews, during practice last week.

Camp Grant.

CORP. LOU WOODS, professional welterweight boxer from Detroit, has replaced Sgt. Georgie Toy as head boxing instructor at this camp, Lt. Col. Frank A. Bush, special services officer here, said yesterday. . . . Lt. Col. Bush also announced Lt. Bob Harris, who coached the Camp Grant basketball team to 31 victories in 33 games last season, again will be in charge of the soldier quintet during the 1943-'44 campaign. . . . Sgt. Toy, who fought professionally as a lightweight before entering the service, has been transferred to a rehabilitation unit in the medical corps here. . . . Camp Grant boxers will meet Madison Athletic club representatives in Chicago Oct. 15. . . . Three contests will be on the card headed by Champion Sgt. Joe Louis at this reservation Oct. 11. . . . Don Kolloway, formerly of the White Sox, and Art Passarella, only major league umpire in the army, both of whom are stationed here, will speak at the Lions club in Rockford Wednesday. . . . Erwin Rudolph, who has held the pocket billiard championship several times, will demonstrate his art at the recruit reception center, service club, and the station hospital tomorrow and Tuesday.

Chanute Field.

PLANS have been completed for afternoon and evening boxing shows featuring Sgt. Joe Louis, world heavyweight champion, at this field of the army air forces training command Thursday. . . . Joe is to referee a series of bouts between picked soldier boxers on the afternoon card, and on the evening program will spar several rounds with Sgt. George Nicholson, who is accompanying him, along with Ray Robinson and Cleveland Jackie Wilson.

CO-OP PROVIDES REALTY LISTING SERVICE TO 500

Assists Salesmen of 150 Firms, Says Broker.

Coöperative listings of Chicago metropolitan area real estate on a large scale by two groups, one of which has been in operation for some time, were announced yesterday. Frank J. O'Brien, vice president of McKey & Poague, said his firm's activities are being conducted under the name "Em-Pe-Co," with 150 real estate firms thruout Chicago coöperating.

Frank J. O'Brien.

"This means that about 500 salesmen, employes of the 150 firms, are submitting to prospective buyers the real estate listed in the booklet of properties compiled by Em-Pe-Co," said O'Brien.

Dates Back to 1935.

In 1935 McKey & Poague was appointed contract broker by the Home Owners' Loan corporation to assist in the management and liquidation of improved real estate acquired by HOLC during the depression years.

When the HOLC group of contract brokers was dissolved in 1941, McKey & Poague decided to perpetuate its broker organization and increase its size for city-wide representation. Em-Pe-Co. was the result.

In July the Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance Company of Philadelphia employed this service and since that time has sold approximately three quarters of a million dollars worth of real estate. In addition, a large volume of sales of individuals and institutions has been made, O'Brien said.

Ten Firms Form Group.

"A listing with any one of the offices on the special listing form automatically places the property with 9 other offices, which in turn puts it in the hands of 60 salesmen," said Walter Drennan.

U.S. Housing Held Peril to Home Owner

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Attempts of government burocrats to force the theory of socialized public housing upon America is only the beginning of a definite plan to change the American form of government and way of living, and to deprive families in the lower income group of the benefits of private home ownership. This assertion was made by George F. Nixon, former president of the Chicago real estate board and former head of the Metropolitan Chicago Home Builders association, in the board rooms, 105 West Madison street.

George F. Nixon.

"The issue is clear," he said. "Are we to allow these public housers to continue their nefarious attempt to regiment us, or is private enterprise to have the opportunity to perpetuate the old fashioned American right to home ownership, be it ever so humble? The private builder accepts the challenge."

Hide Under Cloak of War.

Nixon asserted that under the cloak of war necessity, certain high government officials are attempting to put over their pet social theories, including public housing.

"What does it matter if we win this war but lose those inalienable rights for which our forefathers fought?" he said. "That fight still is on. It's a fight for private ownership of property as against government ownership. It's a fight for the perpetuation of the American institution of home ownership.

"This war, which has been called the 'people's war,' is being fought for the very things which these public housers would sabotage, the right to freedom, security, and independence."

Despite the claims of burocrats that government alone can supply shelter for those with low incomes, the record proves that subsidized housing costs have been completely out of proportion to the pretended benefits, Nixon said.

Says Private Work Is Cheaper.

"The private builder, on the other hand, already has proved his ability to construct for the private home seeker a better home, in quicker time, and at a lower cost, than the government can," said Nixon.

"With free enterprise, the keystone of American democracy, being threatened by the grandiose plans of the public housers, it is of vital importance that we don't allow history to repeat itself. The socialized housing of the totalitarian states did much to bring about the enslavement of their peoples. It regimented them by throttling initiative; it made them dependent upon their government for shelter and security; it created apathy, with their resultant capitulation to the whims and fancies of insane dictators."

'44 CROP GOAL CALLS FOR 380 MILLION ACRES

More Foods, Less Feed Sought.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—With food demands for military and foreign relief purposes steadily increasing, the war food administration has set 1944 farm production goals which call for use of every crop acre and every farming facility in the country. Given average growing conditions, the proposed plantings would provide a harvest substantially larger than the record output of food expected this year.

The goals will be laid before congress on Wednesday and before state agricultural war boards at meetings to be held this month. One of the first state meetings will open Monday in Madison, Wis.

Plan Cut in Feed Crops.

In addition to increased over-all volume, the program proposes significant changes in the nation's agricultural pattern. Some of the direct food consumption crops—such as dry beans and peas, soybeans, peanuts, wheat, vegetables, and potatoes—would get first claim on the use of crop land.

Feed crops, particularly lower-yielding types, would give way to food crops and higher-yielding feed crops. Because feed supplies are expected to be 18 per cent smaller per animal unit, the goals call for a reduction in some types of live stock production, particularly hogs, chickens, and turkeys.

The goals suggest the following percentage increases over this year's expected production or acreage: milk, 3; eggs, 1; beef cattle and calves marketed for slaughter, 19; hay, 3; corn, 3; wheat, 26; soybeans, 22; peanuts, 31; sugar beets, 42; potatoes, 2; sweet potatoes, 8; fresh vegetables, 10; vegetables for processing, 6; dry beans and peas, 18.

Ask 17 Per Cent Fewer Hogs.

Percentage decreases suggested were: farm chickens, 3; commercial broilers, 20; turkeys, 4; hogs, 17; sheep and lambs on farms, 4; barley, 2; sorghum, 5; oats, 9; rye, 3, and flaxseed, 1. No change was suggested for cotton and rice. A 10 per cent increase was recommended for tobacco to meet a sharp increase in domestic and foreign demand.

The goals would utilize 380 million acres of crop land, by far the largest ever used. Much land now idle, fallow, or used for pasture would have to be cultivated. Likewise, record amounts of fertilizer would be needed.

The 17 per cent reduction in hog numbers, proposed because of the short feed outlook, is perhaps the most significant suggested change in the farming pattern. The goal for milk is 122 billion pounds, or about 5 billion pounds more than is expected this year.

Free to Ignore Quotas.

The national goals for the various commodities have been apportioned among the states on the basis of their productive possibilities. The state goals will be divided among farmers. However, with the exception of certain types of tobacco, farmers will be free to abide by or ignore their goals. Only in tobacco will marketing quotas and penalties be invoked.

The WFA will announce later price supports—that is, minimum prices upon which farmers may count—for the various commodities. Somewhat higher prices are expected for some crops, particularly soybeans, peanuts, sugar beets, some vegetables, corn, and wheat.

The WFA estimated that there would be enough corn and other feeds to raise 105 million hogs to an average market weight of 230 pounds. Production this year reached the record of 126 million head, many of which have been and are being marketed at much heavier weights.

The WFA suggested that the sharpest reduction in hog numbers be made in wheat-growing states where the bread-grain will be substituted for feed crops and in the northeastern and Great Lake states where hog production competes with specialized dairy and poultry production.

Ickes Orders More Oil Wells Drillde in Michigan

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—Larger development of oil fields in 12 counties of southwestern Michigan, thru closer spacing of wells, was authorized today by Harold L. Ickes, petroleum administrator for war. His order affects producers in Allegan, Berry, Berrien, Branch, Calhoun, Cass, Kalamazoo, Kent, Muskegon, Ottawa, St. Joseph, and Van Buren counties.

Drive Starts Tomorrow for More Living Quarters

A city-wide campaign to obtain living quarters for men and their families who have moved into the Chicago metropolitan area to work in war industries will begin tomorrow as part of national war housing week. The Chicago War Housing center, directed by Lawrence R. McDonald, is in charge of the drive.

AVAILABLE NOV. 1st

Federal Pork Buying Surge Believed Near

BY ARNOLD ERICKSON.

The government is preparing to enter the markets for pork on a larger scale soon after the office of price administration imposes a ceiling of $14.75 a hundred pounds on hogs to prevent a rise in prices which federal buyers believed would result from the increased buying by the lend-lease group, Chicago stock yards traders said yesterday. The ceiling will be enforced thruout the nation tomorrow.

Plans to increase buying were instrumental in hurrying price ceiling action on hogs and raising the point value of pork to consumers, traders asserted. Pork points were increased to safeguard the declining tonnage of pork for lend-lease and the army and navy.

Pork Production Low.

Production of pork during recent weeks has been disappointingly low. Volume produced by packers under federal inspection during three of the last four weeks was less than during the corresponding period of 1942, despite the fact that farmers have record totals of hogs on hand. The September production was estimated the smallest of the year, which has kept lend-lease buying at a minimum for many weeks.

Experts said the decision to "hold the line" in hogs by establishing a price limit on the live animals will lower the value of hogs on farms more than 50 million dollars overnight when the ceiling becomes effective. The lower value of stock on farms will result from the decline in the market price caused by the OPA ceiling action, traders said.

Silent on Lard Purchases.

Altho spokesmen said the government will buy more pork soon, they offered no comment on prospects of increasing their lard purchases. Packers have received few lard orders from lend-lease recently altho stocks are piling up in cold storage plants thruout the nation. On Sept. 1 227,623,000 pounds were in storage, of which 148,397,954 pounds, or 65 per cent, were owned by the government. A year earlier holdings were 75,840,000 pounds, of which 22,812,000 were government owned.

Preliminary estimates place lend-lease lard purchases during September at less than 500,000 pounds, the smallest for any month since lend-lease buying began early in 1941. This was only 0.2 per cent of inspected production. The August purchase also was abnormally low at 3½ million pounds, only 2 per cent of the output. July purchases were 112 million pounds, 61 per cent of production, and the June buy was 147 million, of 77 per cent of the output.

Pork Buying Decreases

Pork buying by lend-lease fell from 217 million pounds in July, 25 per cent of production, to 95 million in September, 13 per cent of production. The total pork and lard tonnage taken by lend-lease during September was the second smallest since February last year and 71 per cent below the record purchases made two months ago.

People and Events

What has been termed the "most familiar voice on La Salle street" will be missed after Tuesday by thousands of brokers and others who have had occasion to call the Chicago Stock exchange. The retirement of Mrs. James S. White, known to a host of friends in the financial quarter as Charlotte, after 21 years as telephone operator for the exchange, was announced yesterday.

L. A. Miller, regional deputy director of WPB and former president of Willys-Overland motors, yesterday was appointed a member of the army air forces materiel command price adjustment board in the midcentral procurement district. Philip D. Armour is chairman of the board. Officers are to be moved about Oct. 18 to 39 South LaSalle street from present quarters in the Civic Opera building.

War time problems of the meat packers will be discussed at the annual meeting of the American Meat institute to be held for three days in the Drake hotel beginning Tuesday. The man power problem will be first on the program.

Fifty years of service will be observed this year by the Illinois Manufacturers' association. T. Albert Potter, president of the Elgin National Watch company, will head a committee to prepare arrangements for celebration of the anniversary.

Mrs. Allaire C. du Pont, widow of Richard C. du Pont, founder of All American Aviation, Inc., has been elected a director.

ASSISTANT TO PRESIDENT

One of great Middle West Retail Organizations wants Major Executive to assist President. Unusual opportunity for important post. Salary commensurate with background.

Claim Success in Struggle to Avert Inflation

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—Key officials in charge of war time economic controls tonight said that one year of operation under the stabilization act passed Oct. 2, 1942, had "by and large" successfully staved off disastrous inflation. They gave their views in a joint statement noting the law's anniversary.

Fred M. Vinson.

Fred M. Vinson, director of the office of economic stabilization, said prices advanced only 12 per cent during 19 months of hostilities, compared with a 29.5 per cent increase in average price levels in 1917-'18.

Example of Democracy.

"By and large the American people have coöperated with controls," Vinson said. "Even when they meant that farmers and business men had to accept lower prices and workers lower wages, the war against rising prices has been a good example of democracy in action."

William H. Davis, director of the war labor board, reported that gross average hourly earnings of factory workers increased 6 cents from October, 1942, to May, 1943. He said a breakdown of the increase shows 1 cent was a result of overtime pay, 1.6 cents to the production emphasis shift to high wage war industries, and 2.8 cents to increased earnings under incentive plans and merit increases.

"Take-Home" Pay Rises.

Davis said the "take-home wages" of workers had increased because of overtime and other factors, but emphasized that "to freeze take-home wages would be to freeze war production."

Prentiss M. Brown, director of the office of price administration, gave rollbacks of food prices as proof of the effectiveness of price controls.

The OPA chief said the control program is being simplified by the establishment of dollars and cents ceilings on vital commodities to replace the earlier maximums set by merchants on a markup basis.

ASK ROCK ISLAND PLAN DELAY TO STUDY PROFITS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—Two attorneys for the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway company proposed in a brief filed with the interstate commerce commission today that a reorganization be postponed "until the full extent of the war profits windfall can be determined."

The brief; filed by John Gerdes, New York, and Henry F. Tenney, Chicago, declared the "enormous accumulation of cash by the debtor far in excess of anybody's expectations is a tangible fact."

The ICC was asked to hear oral arguments on postponing the effective date of the reorganization plan and on the "Gerdes formula" for payment in cash accruing after Jan. 1, 1942, of all old claims as long as the road is making sufficient profit and the use of other surplus earnings to retire old senior obligations.

International Minerals Gets Big Ohio Plant Job

A contract to provide $1,200,000 of plant facilities in Ohio has been awarded to International Minerals and Chemical corporation, Chicago, the Defense Plant corporation announced in Washington, D. C., yesterday. Details of the project were not disclosed.

Decrease in Australia's Wheat Crop Is Forecast

The Australian wheat board in a preliminary report estimated this season's national wheat crop at 89 million bushels, compared with the average of 156 million bushels for the last eight years.

GRUMMAN INCENTIVE PAY PLAN APPROVED, BUT UNION PROTESTS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—The war labor board today approved an incentive work plan for employes of the Grumman Aircraft Engineering corporation of Long Island, N. Y., on condition that the program conform with the national stabilization policy and is voluntarily agreed to by management and workers.

Described by the board's vice chairman, Dr. George W. Taylor, as "a brand new venture" with an "alluring prospect" for increasing war production and helping to solve man power problems, the Grumman plan establishes the production of 0.48 pounds of airplane frame a man hour as a base for computing incentive payments. Above that base, a 1 per cent wage increase will be paid for every two per cent of increased production.

Meantime, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, voiced opposition in a signed article in the American Federationist, saying that the formulas on which incentive pay programs are based "are not nearly so scientific as the going rates negotiated by management and unions, based on past experience and tested by capacity to produce and pay."

GREYHOUND LINE TIEUP IS AVERTED BY ARBITRATION

Cleveland, O., Oct. 2 (AP).—President S. R. Sundstrom of Pennsylvania Greyhound Lines announced today agreement had been reached with a leader of the AFL Amalgamated Motor Coach Employes' association to arbitrate a dispute over loading buses beyond seating capacity, thereby ending threat of a transportation tieup.

Sundstrom said Ambrose L. Osthoff, president of the Indianapolis, Ind., local 1211, telephoned him "and agreed to accept the company's proposal to arbitrate all difficulties, providing any men discharged for the second offense of failing to carry standees as ordered by the company dispatchers would be immediately reinstated."

Greyhound announced "Sundstrom agreed and all men, approximately 70, now under suspension, are proceeding to work. The local headed by Rolla E. Anderson, comprising the Cincinnati region, has not been heard from and apparently is maintaining its position of yesterday."

STANDARD (N. J.) ACCEPTS AWARD ON OIL SEIZURE

New York, Oct. 2 (AP).—Final settlement of claims of American oil companies against the government of Mexico arising from the expropriation of petroleum properties in 1938 appeared nearr today with acceptance by Standard Oil company [N. J.] of a decision awarding it $18,391,651 and interest of $3,940,843.

Acceptance by Standard of the amount agreed to by the state department and the Mexican governmen was taken in oil industry circles to indicate other American concerns may take a similar position.

Compensation agreed on by the state department for all companies amounted to $23,995,991 and interest of $5,141,709.

Personnel Group Moves Office to Bigger Quarters

The National Association of Personnel Directors has moved its executive offices from 20 Jackson boulevard to larger quarters in the One La Salle Street building. Roy S. Welch, executive secretary of the association, said membership had grown within a year to more than 5,000.

Revival in New Financing Is Expected Soon

Offerings of corporation and municipal securities are expected to reach the market this month, bringing a renewal of financing activity on a moderate scale. Little has been done in the market since the third war loan drive began Sept. 9, because most issues not cleared before the drive opened were held over so they would not interfere with the sale of treasury securities.

Utility and municipal issues will supply the bulk of the forthcoming offerings, altho one large industrial operation—the sale of 20 million dollars of 20 year debentures of P. Lorillard company—is being prepared.

The debentures are expected to go on the market this week. The company has filed a registration statement amendment fixing the interest at 3 per cent, but the price to the public has not been announced.

Three Million in Debentures.

Another industrial offering, relatively small and consisting of 3 million dollars of 15 year 3¼ per cent debentures of Oscar Mayer & Co., Chicago meat packing firm, may be made early this month, also. A. G. Becker & Co. heads the underwriters for this issue. Other details will be disclosed in registration amendments.

One of the first issues to be offered following the official closing of the war bond drive will be 6 million dollars of Imperial Irrigation district of California electric revenue bonds awarded to a banking group Sept. 17. This issue will be offered tomorrow.

Other power issues expected to go on the market early this month include 16 million dollars of California Electric Power company 3½ per cent bonds and two securities of the Atlanta Gas Light company—a 7½ million dollar bond issue and 20,000 shares of 5 per cent cumulative preferred stock.

Plan Utility Firm Offer.

Laclede Gas Light company bonds and debentures totaling 22 million dollars may be offered to the public later in the month. The company has filed registration statements covering 19 million dollars of bonds and 3 million dollars of debentures.

An offering of 15 million dollars of 3 per cent bonds and 4 million dollars of preferred stock of the Delaware Power and Light company is expected to be made in the last week of October.

The 44 million dollar refunding operation of Utah Power and Light company, originally scheduled for this month, may be delayed, according to reports from New York.

Banks Begin Soliciting Loans on Receivables

Some of the nation's large banks have begun solicitation of loans on manufacturers' accounts receivable on a relatively large scale. Theodor H. Silbert, treasurer of Standard Factors corporation and former executive secretary of the Association of Commercial Discount companies, said yesterday in a statement issued in New York. Most banks in the past have shunned "hocking of accounts," as Silbert said such lending was called. He named banks on the west coast and in New York, Philadelphia and Atlanta as engaging actively in this business.

WAR SPENDING 20 BILLIONS IN THREE MONTHS

Treasury Collects 10 Billions.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—War activities cost the United States government $20,616,147,399 during the last three months against $14,766,329,682 spent in the corresponding period last year, the treasury reported today.

The treasury statement for the first quarter of the fiscal year showed that war department expenditures amounted to $12,078,635,025. The navy spent $5,843,757,197 and the marine commission $1,045,996,880. Remaining expenditures were distributed thru various other government agencies.

September Spending Reduced.

Last month's war activity expenditures of $6,952,343,935 were below the August total of $7,232,000,000. All government spending, including public debt retirement for the quarter, reached $22,264,209,000.

Meanwhile, the government collected $10,175,624,000 during the first quarter—far above the $3,860,746,000 received during the corresponding period last year. The government's income during the first quarter this year included $1,240,956,000 in income taxes withheld by employers and $6,342,897,000 in all other income tax payments. Income tax receipts for the same period a year ago were $2,554,191,000.

The gross public debt reached $162,320,519,666 as the quarter ended $71,262,995,780 more than a year ago.

MORE BONDS CASHED

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—September war bond redemptions were the highest for any month, but treasury officials described the overall bond situation today as "very healthy." September redemptions aggregated $155,278,476, the Sept. 30 daily statement showed. Sales for the month totaled 1 billion 926 million dollars.

August redemptions, the previous high, were 152 million dollars, but sales of 802 million dollars were less than half those of September, which were spurred by the third war loan. The percentage of redemptions to sales thus fell from 19 per cent in August to less than 9 per cent in September.

While the rate may increase this month in the wake of the third loan campaign, Ted Gamble, national director of the treasury's war finance division, said approximately 95 cents of every dollar invested in defense and war bonds since they first were issued in May, 1941, remains in the investments.

AIRCRAFT GAINS FOR SEPTEMBER REPORTED 'GOOD'

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—Informed officials estimated tonight that aircraft production still was slightly below 8,000 warplanes in September. The August total was 388 short of this figure.

Nevertheless, September will show a "good gain" in the total weight of aircraft produced, one official predicted, indicating satisfactory progress in the trend toward heavier types.

Estimates based on partial reports for the first three weeks of September showed production ahead of the August rate each week. Bomber production was well ahead, but the most remarkable gain was indicated in navy fighter output which was reported as about 30 per cent above the August total.

ICC Permits Gartland to Extend Lake Shipping

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2 (AP).—The interstate commerce commission today authorized the Gartland Steamship company, Chicago, to operate on Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence river. Previously the commission had allowed the company to operate on Lakes Erie, Huron, Michigan, Superior, and interconnecting waterways.

Sound Unified Policy Urged for Transport

New York, Oct. 2 [Special].—A unified national transportation policy, established by congress and competently administered, to provide sound, cost reducing competition, not expensive confusion and wasteful lack of coordination, was urged by F. E. Williamson, president of the New York Central system, tonight.

F. E. Williamson.

Transportation by rail, air, highway, and water will be better and more extensive after the war than ever before in the United States, he said, but formulation of public policy is necessary to determine a field for each form of transport.

Policies Are Varied.

"Our laws, state and federal, as to regulation, taxation, and use of public facilities, lay down one public policy for rail transportation, another for water, still another for highway, and a fourth and different policy for air," said Williamson.

"Each of these policies has been written with altogether too little regard for the other three and with too little regard for the paramount public interest. Our transportation laws should, and I am confident will, be welded together into a single consistent and enlightened national policy, springing from informed public opinion."

Describing the war load on railroads as gigantic, Williamson said the railroads were best adapted for mass transportation of freight and passengers overland. He said they have served as a vast assembly line for the overland part of the United States war machine "on practically a 100 per cent performance basis."

The roads this year will haul freight equal to the combined load of 1918, peak year of World War I., and of 1939, last nominal peace year, said Williamson. The 1943 passenger load will exceed the total for 1918 and 1939.

"They are doing this with about one-third fewer cars and locomotives than they had in 1918," he said.

Fewer Cars Are Used.

"After the war our first job will be to continue the modernization of our plant and further improve its standards of efficiency. The New York Central itself is actively studying a five year plan of modernization and improvements."

Smaller and more efficient Diesel or gas turbine locomotives for road service, much improved steam locomotives, more streamlined passenger cars, new high speed freight cars, and perhaps electrification of heavy traffic lines—with pricing and selling methods geared to competitive conditions—are to be expected of railroads after the war, he said.

CIO, RAIL UNION DEMAND $25,000 INCOME CEILING

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3 (AP).—A $25,000 ceiling, after taxes, on individual incomes was demanded as a part of the new revenue bill tonight by the Congress of Industrial Organizations and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen with the support of three other organized groups.

This issue was injected into the prospective tax battle as evidence accumlated that a bipartisan congressional bloc will make a determined effort to roll back the administration's revenue program, reported to embrace 10 billion 650 million dollars in new taxes.

In advance of Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau's formal presentation of the administration plans to congress on Monday, Capitol hill heard expressions of concern for the nation's "little man," demands for closer scrutiny of government spending, and pleas for protection of free enterprise.

The Fair Votes Dividend on Preferred Arrears

Directors of The Fair, Chicago department store, yesterday declared a dividend of $3.50 on the preferred stock to be applied on arrears. After payment Nov. 1, arrears will total $31.50 a share.

RATE EQUALITY FIGHT PRESSED ON 3 SALIENTS

Agitation in South Largely Political.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

Pressure for another showdown on the old and bitterly fought issue of sectional freight rate differences is being applied in three directions by certain southern interests, said to be largely political, which for years have been demanding readjustments.

Part of the pressure is being applied directly to congress in the form of several bills proposing that it take control of ratemaking and that so-called equality of rates be imposed on a nation-wide scale by legislative action. Additional political pressure was applied thru a report which a special board of investigation made a few days ago to the President and to congress. In this report two of the three members of the board, created by congress in 1940 at the behest of southern politicians, urged uniform rates thruout the nation. The board split on sectional lines.

I. C. C. Studies Question.

The third hope of the southern interests seeking rate uniformity lies in an investigation which is being made by the interstate commerce commission. This study, involving rates on manufactured goods, termed class rates, was begun by the ICC four years ago and has only now reached the stage for the filing of brief by industries, chambers of commerce, state commissions, and other groups opposing or favoring rate changes.

These briefs and their uncounted thousands of words of argument are pouring in on the commission at a rate which has led some observers to predict that the class rate investigation will become one of the longest proceedings in ICC history.

Industries "Cool" to Plan.

One of the strangest aspects of the long fought case is the coolness of the south's heavy manufacturing industries toward the southern politicians' agitation for "equality." Most of these industries have gone on record in ICC proceedings as favoring retention of the present southern freight rate structure. The explanation of this is that southern industry pays lower rates than northern industry on raw materials used for manufacturing, and higher rates than the north on manufactured goods. To the southern industries, low raw material rates are more important than low rates on finished products. Because the south probably would have to accept the north's higher raw material rates if it won the lower rates on finished goods, these southern industries, according to their own testimony, prefer to keep the present structure.

With curious disregard for this expressed view of the bulk of southern heavy industries, southern politicians continue to demand readjustments. These politicians act thru the so-called southern governors' conference, consisting of several governors, members of politically appointed state commissions, and other similar officials.

Views Slanted to Objective.

The record in the controversy shows that the southern governors' conference has presented two contradictory reports of the south's industrial development, depending on whether it was seeking rate cuts before the ICC or was trying to sell the south to prospective new industries.

In ICC proceedings, including the so-called southern governors' rate case decision of 1939 the conference always has complained that the south has been retarded industrially

STOCK MARKET PRICES UNEVEN IN DULL TRADE

Favorable War News Has Little Effect.

New York, Oct. 2 (AP).—The stock market today ended a desultory week with mixed prices. Since the beginning of the week speculative and investment forces apparently were little inspired by encouraging news from nearby all battle front and what buying developed evidently was based on individual factors.

Part of the week's haphazard display may have been a result of the fact that Wall streeters, from brokers down to clerks, were unusually busy in helping put over the third war loan. Ending of the drive today, with the quota well oversubscribed, bolstered sentiment to some extent on the belief that idle cash that did not go into federal bonds may soon begin to seep into corporate securities.

Tax News Has Little Effect.

The treasury's long-awaited tax program, announced Thursday, left markets undisturbed as the proposals were about in line with expectations and it was realized that congress may trim the figures substantially before enacting them into law.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was unchanged at 51 on the day and, for the week, was off 0.1. Transfers of 271,840 shares compared with 330,760 a week ago and were the fourth smallest of the year. Only 616 issues were traded. Of these, 216 were up, 192 down, and 208 unchanged.

CHICAGO VOLUME HEAVY.

Heavy trading in Chicago corporation common stock lifted transactions on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday to several times the usual Saturday volume. Of a turnover of 54,000 shares, trading in Chicago corporation common accounted for 45,150 shares. Exchange officials attributed the unusual trading in the stock to accumulation of orders over a period of weeks and increased interest in the company's activities in the oil industry.

A new 1943 high of 6⅛ was reached by the stock, but it closed unchanged at 6. Reflecting this activity the company's preferred closed at a new 1943 peak of 48, up 1, on turnover of 400.

Fifty-four issues were traded, of which 25 advanced, 18 declined, and 11 closed unchanged. Central and South West Utilities prior lien closed at a new high of 112½, up ¼.

RAIL BONDS GAIN.

New York, Oct. 2 (AP).—Gains in the rail division of the bond market today advanced the Associated Press carrier average 0.1 to 76.6, high for the week. Other corporate groups as well as United States government issues and foreign bonds were traded in small volume, with prices showing only minor changes.

Transactions amounted to $3,861,000 fact value, against $4,986,100 the preceding Saturday.

[Copyright: 1943: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Prominent figures in industry have discouraged overoptimistic forecasts of the improvements to be incorporated in consumer goods when the war ends. Automobile manufacturers, for example, have asserted that new cars produced immediately after the war will not differ greatly from the 1942 models.

The writer of a brokerage house market letter declares the auto chiefs are too conservative. In support of his argument, he quotes a qualified scientist, Dr. Charles M. A. Stine, director of the du Pont laboratories, who said: "Since automobile production stopped, the shiny new models gathering dust in dealers' windows have aged technically at least 20 years. We are now in the 1960's of motor cars, as measured by the old pace of development."

The new triptane motor fuel, not to mention the 100 or more octane fuels already being produced in quantity for allied air fleets, is said to be a virtual guarantee of new automobile engine design in the future.

The brokerage house commentator goes on to mention a combination automobile and helicopter, in due time, futuristic teardrop design, soy bean or glass fiber upholstery that can be cleaned with a damp cloth, and other appealing modernizations that have been foretold by the bolder prophets.

Resistance to sudden or violent change is to be expected from all established industries, tending to retard the speed with which the war's new developments in materials and manufacturing skill and knowledge are transmitted into improved consumer goods.

When the war ends, however, this resistance probably will be broken down by the vigorous competition of companies and new managements coming to the top during the war period. The backlog of consumer demand plus the accumulated purchasing power of the public undoubtedly will be sufficient to induce capital to venture into new and untried fields or invade the territory of entrenched industries.

Congress, Board, ICC Get Most Jousting.

by unfair freight rates. But in advertising directed toward attracting new industries to the south, the conference and other interests working with it have played a different tune.

In April, 1940, the governors conference advertised as follows in the Manufacturers Record of Baltimore:

"We, the governors, invite industrialists to consider the south's natural advantages, which are the base for the amazing industrial expansion of this section.

Boast of Industrial Gain.

"In two years the value of the south's manufactured products has increased 35 per cent, and is now two and a half times the value of its agricultural output. During the same period the number of manufacturing plants in the south increased by 803, as contrasted with a decline in the rest of the United States of 3,120."

In another advertisment these interests stated: "Capital invested in southern manufacturing since 1920 has increased by 3 billion 136 million dollars, or 31 per cent, while the capital invested for all the rest of the country in the same period increased 5 billion 719 million. The south now has 21 per cent of the country's plants."

The statements of the governors' conference that the south has made faster industrial progress in recent years than other sections is bolstered by testimony of some southern industrial traffic consultants who oppose readjustments in rates. C. E. Widell of Nashville, Tenn., traffic expert, in a pamphlet presenting the view of southern heavy industries, advised against changing rates, asserting that the south has one of the most favorable rate structures in the nation.

Challenge Northern Advantage.

Widell and other consultants challenge the commonly made statements that rates in the south are 38 to 39 per cent higher than those in the north. Widell estimates that the difference probably is 5 to 10 per cent.

The south has courted and won the support of the states west of the Mississippi in its rate fight. States east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio river are called "eastern territory" for purposes of rate making, altho some of them, including Illinois, are middle western states.

Illinois and other states composing the central territory rate conference recently filed with the ICC a brief opposing the south's demands and defending the existing rate structures. These structures have grown up with the railroads, the central group said, and represent the roads' efforts to adjust their charges to the needs of the territories they serve.

Viewed As Concession Plea.

The eastern or northern territory is predominantly industrial, which means that it has a heavy traffic in manufactured goods. This makes low rates possible. In the south, where less traffic of this kind is handled, rates are higher on manufactured items. On the other hand, rates on basic commodities moved in large volume to southern manufacturers are lower than in the north. Railroads want traffic, and they adjust rates to shippers' needs to encourage it.

Sectional rate differences have some effect on the abilities of industries to compete in a given market, and the southern governors, in the 1939 case, complained the south could not compete in eastern markets. The ICC in that case granted reductions in northbound rates on more than a dozen items, but denied others.

Chicago organizations representing industry have charged that the renewed agitation in the south represents an effort by the southern governors to get concessions denied in the 1939 case.

Chicago Bank Clearings Climb Slightly in Week

Chicago bank clearings last week rose to 490 million dollars from 481.3 millions in the preceding week, the Chicago Clearing House association reported yesterday. The total a year ago was 438.3 millions. The figures:

SELLING OF OATS SENDS ALL GRAIN MARKETS LOWER

Feed Doubts Are Causes of Liquidation.

Liquidation developed in grain markets yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Oats and rye lost ⅞ cent and wheat was down ⅜ to ⅝ cent a bushel.

Oats led the decline on selling prompted by reports that country offerings of cash corn were the largest in several months. There was also uncertainty on feed supply and the government's food and feed policy. Many traders were said to be waiting for concrete information before taking a stand on the bull side of the market. Choice cash oats continued in good demand, with prices slightly below the 23 year peak established last week.

Early Upturn Erased.

An early upturn failed to hold back selling orders thru commission houses. Near the close, week-end short covering checked the decline. Some stop loss orders were uncovered on the way down.

Early buying of wheat futures was regarded as the closing of spreads with Winnipeg. Canadian reports said that brokers have protested the government suspension of trading in wheat claiming the action was unnecessary in view of the 900 million bushels of cash grain available for the 1943-'44 season, or two years' requirements. The Winnipeg Free Press estimated the wheat crop in the three western Canadian provinces at 279 million bushels, or less than half of the 565 million bushels harvested in 1942.

Canadian Feed Arrives.

Some Canadian wheat recently purchased for feed by the Commodity Credit corporation has been received in Chicago for transshipment to the east. The quality was generally good.

Favorable weather for maturing the corn crop was reported to have prompted farmers to sell old grain on a more liberal scale, and 175,000 bushels was purchased by Chicago handlers for deferred shipment. A corn crop of 2 billion 962 million bushels, or about the same as was indicated a month ago by the department of agriculture, was estimated by C. M. Galvin for James E. Bennett & Co. This compares with 3 billion 175 million bushels harvested last year. The soy bean crop is estimated at 210 million bushels, the same as last year's harvest.

NEXT SATURDAY DEADLINE FOR WORKER AWARD

Closing date for nominations for The Chicago Tribune War Workers Award for September is Saturday, Oct. 9. Nominations should be sent to the War Workers Award Editor, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower, Chicago.

The award, symbolized by a diamond studded gold victory pin, is presented monthly to workers in war plants for service to the nation on the production front. Achievements for which the award is made may include suggestions for better methods on the assembly line, saving critical materials thru use of substitutes, development of a new machine that saves time and money, unusual devotion to duty, or any other war service.

Employes in war plants in Illinois, Lake county, Indiana, and Kenosha and Racine counties, Wisconsin, are eligible to compete. Fourteen war plant workers have received the award in ceremonies broadcast over radio station W-G-N. Henry T. Heald, president of the Illinois Institute of Technology, is chairman of the committee which selects the winner.

30-DAY RECORD IN STEEL OUTPUT SET BY REPUBLIC

Cleveland, O., Oct. 2 (AP).—Republic Steel corporation announced today that it operated at 105.3 per cent of theoretical capacity in September to produce 723,981 tons of steel ingots. It said September production was the highest of any 30 day month in the company's history.

The strip mill at Cleveland broke all records by producing more than 115,000 tons of plate, strip, and sheet compared with a previous high of 113,000 tons in May, 1943.

At Youngstown the ingot record of 116,226 tons made in March, 1943, a 31 day month, was broken with the September record of 120,415 tons.

WHAT THEY EARNED

Gulf Oil corporation reported yesterday slightly lowered net income during the six months ended June 30 after setting aside $1,500,000 for contingencies. Net income was $11,122,365, equal to $1.23 a common share, compared with $12,258,968, or $1.35 a share, in the first half of 1942. No contingency reserve was set up in the 1942 period.

★ GROWTH OF BRIGGS WAR WORK ★

On all of its major war contracts, Briggs is up to or ahead of schedule! Since early in 1941, the range and volume of Briggs war products have constantly increased as shown by the above chart.

More than 22 million pounds of finished aircraft assemblies have been turned out by Briggs in two short years. Parts and sub-assemblies for seven war planes—ranging from trainers and fighters to heavy bombers—have been produced as follows: 800,000 pounds in 1941; 7,000,000 pounds in 1942; and 14,000,000 pounds in the first three-quarters of 1943.

Production Trebled... The monthly production rate on large bomber sections and medium bomber wings is three times greater than it was in the early months of this year. Another vital plane assembly is coming off the lines in double the quantity of 6 months ago.

Briggs started turning out deadly fire-power turrets for bombers at the end of 1941. By April, 1942, monthly production was in three figures. Today, Briggs is trebling that production each month! Despite the delays caused by turret model changes this year, shipments in the first 9 months of 1943 exceed those made during the entire year of 1942.

Shipments in Four Figures... So far in 1943, Briggs has produced twice as many tank hulls as during all of 1942. Total production from the date of the original shipments is well up in four figures.

Aircraft heat exchangers are now being produced at a rate 300% higher than in the Spring of this year. Volume production has been attained, also, on auxiliary airplane gas tanks, a new Briggs war product developed entirely within the last few months.

September shipments of 75 mm. shell casings were the best in any month since the contract was undertaken, although new production techniques and tooling have been necessary to reach high-volume output.

Peak Production Reached... Still another Briggs war product, searchlight drums, having reached a peak production early in 1943, is continuing to be manufactured on schedule.

Briggs Manufacturing Company is gratified that it has been asked to play such a large part in the Nation's war program. All of the resources, experience and facilities developed by Briggs in the peacetime production of automobile bodies and plumbing ware are pledged to the purpose of expanding war production to speed the day of victory.

FDA TO LET EGG DRIERS CANCEL PART OF ORDERS

Sale to Public of Excess Supplies Unrestricted.

The food distribution administration yesterday advised egg driers it was mailing instructions which would permit cancellation of up to 50 per cent of November, December and January deliveries of dried whole eggs.

The processors were told no restrictions would be placed on the disposal of such shell and frozen eggs thus released, altho the driers had to comply with certain conditions before making the cancellations. These included proof that their future contracts were fully covered by a backlog of shell or frozen eggs.

Needs Overestimated.

Chicago processors agreed there were several reasons for the order, altho few had seen the complete instructions. One was that the government had overestimated its need for dried whole eggs. At one time it was planned to dry some 400 million pounds this year. Because most contracts were for delivery in the months mentioned, it was said that at least half this amount is subject to the cancellation order.

It was said also that dried eggs had not met with the favor expected in the lend-lease countries or with military personnel.

Processors and egg dealers did not agree on the probable effect of the order. Prices have been "pounding at ceilings," one dealer said and "five million cases [the amount supposed to be involved] would not have much effect" on supplies. Other dealers said the order would mean more eggs on the market and possibly lower prices.

Output Near Low Point.

Production at present is at or near the lowest point of the year, and larger supplies of fresh eggs should be available soon.

Cold storage plant officials said recently that many of the eggs held for driers should be used soon to prevent deterioration.

NINE OFFICIALS PROMOTED IN 2 KEMPER FIRMS

Promotions for nine officials in the Lumbermens Mutual Casualty and American Motorists Insurance companies were announced yesterday by H. G. Kemper, executive vice president, after semi-annual meetings in Chicago of the affiliated Kemper companies.

Richard J. Dunn, second vice president of both, was appointed public relations director for American Motorists, a job he already held with Lumbermens. M. P. Luthy and John A. Mills, Lumbermens vice presidents, became vice presidents of American Motorists. George C. Bonstelle was elected second vice president of American Motorists, a position he had held since last spring with Lumbermens.

W. P. Moore, Chicago manager of compensation underwriting and assistant secretary of Lumbermens, was elected assistant secretary of Motorists. J. M. Breen was promoted from assistant secretary to third vice president of both. C. J. N. Weber, Lumbermens third vice president, got a similar post with Motorists. K. C. Berry and R. C. McCulloch were elected assistant secretaries of both companies.

AIR LINE SEEKS EARLY APPROVAL OF NEW ROUTES

Northwest Air Lines has asked the civil aeronautics board for speedy approval of applications for extension of service to New York by way of Detroit and Cleveland, to Washington, D. C., via Dayton, and to Alaska, China, Japan, the Philippine Islands and India.

Altho new routes cannot be opened until after the war, company officials argued that approval was necessary now because new local services cannot be charted until the basic pattern is known. They said the company and communities to be served by it should be enabled to go forward with post-war planning as soon as possible.

Croil Hunter, Northwest president, said plans were under consideration for developing supplementary services to be classed as auxiliary trunk lines, and alternate routes to the northern transcontinental line. Plans for feeder spur routes await the outcome of a survey now under way.

STANDARD OIL (O.) PRESIDENT IS PAID $120,000

The Standard Oil company [Ohio] paid its president, W. T. Holliday, $120,000 during 1942, the company's annual report to the securities and exchange commission showed.

Other salaries reported for 1942 included:

American Radiator and Standard Sanitary corporation, New York: Henry M. Reed, president and board chairman, $80,000; Theodore E. Mueller, vice president and general manager of manufacturing, $60,000; Rolland J. Hamilton, secretary and treasurer, $55,000.

Stores and Offices.

Meet Mr. B....
He's held some pretty good positions. It's no fault of his that one or two of the companies he worked for "folded up."
He's not really young any more . . . nor is he tripping over his beard. You ought to see him hitting his stride in the Credit Department over here at Montgomery Ward, and enjoying every minute of it.
Yes, he's capable of running a business of his own. We know that and he knows it, too. But the one thing Mr. B. must have now is SECURITY. He's got to be able to figure ahead and work out vital plans for his family.
Here he has that SECURITY . . . and real advancement opportunities, as well. He needs Wards . . . and we need Mr. B. It's sort of mutual and a situation we both respect.
Maybe your case isn't exactly like Mr. B.'s, but whatever it is we believe you will like Wards and that we'll both profit if you come over here and discuss it.

Meet Mrs. G...
Who Used to Play Bridge Afternoons
Now she's making a "grand slam" down at Wards every afternoon in our FASHION DEPARTMENT.
She'd never worked before. She had always said that "she couldn't do anything" . . . which was certainly a misstatement since she managed a home beautifully and entertained with great grace.
Then her husband went to war. Her home became overcrowded with loneliness and memories. So she escaped to a new life and new interests . . . at WARDS.
We keep her so busy down here learning all the fascinating insides of the FASHION BUSINESS that she hasn't time to be lonely or blue.
Besides her salary makes it possible for her to buy that EXTRA WAR BOND each month—and our WARD DISCOUNT helps her buy some beautiful new things for herself and her home—all of which she couldn't manage to do on a Service Man's pay.

MY DAUGHTER
Works at Wards —and I'm Glad!
"I worried at first when Ann wanted to work after school . . . UNTIL she decided to work at WARDS.
"Then I felt SAFE about her. I knew she'd be with the RIGHT KIND OF PEOPLE because the sons and daughters of so many of our friends are working at Wards.
"And I knew she'd be SAFE coming and going to work, with street cars running straight to Wards doors.
"But I never knew she'd be so THRILLED over working . . . she loves all the excitement of such a huge, modern Company as Wards. And of course, she's getting a priceless business training there. . . the kind that usually we'd have to pay to give her. Now, she's BEING PAID . . . and paid well . . . WHILE SHE LEARNS."

War Manpower Commission regulations require that most employes must obtain a statement of availability from their present employers—or from the War Manpower Commission—before accepting a job with another employer. Determine whether you can obtain, or need, a statement of availability. You will save your time and that of the employers.

The FARM by Bob Becker

Oct. 2, 1943.

OF all the birds that seem to be having an especially good time at this season, the red winged blackbirds easily win the nomination as the most carefree and gay. They haven't a care in the world. They can swing into most any corn field and find plenty to eat. In fact, these birds annually do some damage to the corn because they move around the country in big flocks and will land on standing corn plants to get at the ears.

The red wings are just happy-go-lucky vagabonds at this season. They have lost much of their attractive plumage since the moult but not a bird in any flock has lost his ability to make a lot of noise. When a hundred or two get together and are joined by a few starlings the clatter is terrific. There are several notable instances of birds being gregarious. In this group the red wing again tops the list. Some of the flocks that scatter over the fields by day and move into the lowlands around sundown number hundreds, if not thousands, of individuals.

Reluctant to Leave.

It's quite noticeable at this season of the year that the blackbirds and several species of aquatic birds are reluctant to leave this part of the middle west and start their southward migration. Many other birds already are on their long migration. The warblers have gone south.

The blackhawks have staged their spectacular migration. Martins left some time ago. The bobolinks are fattening up in the southeastern states.

But October doesn't worry the kingfisher, the blue heron or the bitterns. The marshes are open and food still is available so these birds stay on until it gets so cold that ice appears and their fishing grounds are covered. Not only are the bitterns and herons still around the farm and visiting the ponds all over Chicagoland, but there are large numbers of them north of us.

High Diving Act.

We are wondering how late we will be able to see a kingfisher this year. We recall one season when we watched a slightly chilled specimen still looking for minnows even when ice had formed on the small ponds and the bird was forced to do his high diving and spearing act into a cold brook.

Judging by the number which can be seen at this season, the starlings appear to be continuing their increase in numbers. Bird fans everywhere are distressed by this increase but no effective means of keeping down their numbers has been discovered.

They are a nuisance to some species in the timber lots, but an even greater pest in cities because of their roosting habits around large buildings.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

A number of Chicagoland gardeners planted field beans of the navy or kidney type and now find that they don't know how to harvest and store them.

The gardener of The Tribune farm recommends that the entire plants be pulled by the roots and placed on a piece of canvas or large sheet. They should be left in the sun for several days and placed under cover in case of rain. When the pods are cured they will start to crack. They then are ready for threshing.

The threshing can be done by any sort of a light metal flail, the best implement being a light pitchfork [not a spading fork] or a wire carpet beater. By flailing the pods lightly they will be separated from the beans on the canvas or sheet. A simple method of further separating the pods and chaff from the beans is to transfer the threshed beans from one basket to another outdoors. The wind will blow away the chaff. The threshed beans should be placed in an airtight container and stored in a dry place.

BACK FROM TOKIO!

A hero of the Doolittle raid tells his story of an epic mission and his adventures on the long way home.

By
CAPT. RICHARD A. KNOBLOCH
(As told to Arthur Veysey)

(Copyright: 1943: By The Chicago Tribune.)

THE BOYS in the B-25s had to bomb Tokio alone. The afternoon of that historic day, April 18, 1942, five of us boys hid in our B-25 behind a hill flanking Tokio bay.

Just over the hill and across the narrow stretch of water lay the target for which we had come on ship and plane 13,000 miles—the big Yokosuka naval base. Beyond lay the city of Tokio—target for other B-25s.

As the world knows now, we in the B-25s were a day early. I was there as a substitute.

I began flying B-25s after finishing air corps school at Kelly field, Texas, in July, 1941. Earlier I had gone to the University of Wisconsin three years learning to be a veterinarian, probably because of a love for animals I contracted while living at Fort Sheridan since I was 9. My father, William F. Knobloch, is chief of engineering at the fort, a civilian job.

The Kelly graduates had formed a B-25 squadron and gone on maneuvers in the northwest, in the Carolinas, in Louisiana. When Pearl Harbor came we were an anti-sub patrol. I never saw a sub, but a buddy, Brick Holstrom, sank one one day off the northwest coast—the first sub to go down off the American shores.

In February of 1942 we had been transferred to a new Carolina base. We stopped in Minneapolis to get some work done on our ships. I took a couple days off and came home—and almost missed all the excitement. For while I was gone an officer asked the men in our squadron if they would want to go on an exciting, dangerous mission. Of course they all volunteered. When I got back and heard about it I asked my buddies if they had volunteered for me, too, and they said they had.

But in Carolina the boys packed their bags and left. I stayed behind. I went to the commander and asked why I wasn't going. He said I wasn't on the list of volunteers. I begged for a chance. He said the list was made up. "But you ought to have a substitute," I argued. "Maybe somebody will get sick or something."

The colonel said no.

For five days I was a very sad laddie. Until the colonel called me and said to pack. In Florida I rejoined the squadron and learned one of the boys had been withdrawn. I took his place.

The story of the intensive month-long training is old stuff. So is the flight to the west coast, the loading onto the carrier Hornet. We didn't know for certain until we were at sea that we were going to Tokio, but we all had a pretty good idea. We thought it would be either Tokio or Rome, with the odds on Tokio.

We thought we would be back in a couple months after making one raid. Of course I wanted to tell Rosemary where I was going, but I didn't. Her full name was Rosemary Rice. We met at the university, and I'd been going with her for four years. I hoped that when I got back—in a couple months—I would ask her the most important question any man can ask a girl. Which is, how about getting married? But the one raid became 52 raids for me, and the two months (Continued on page eight.)

MRS. RICHARD A. KNOBLOCH

Richard Knobloch's entry into the army came quite naturally, as he had spent 15 years of his life at Fort Sheridan, where his father, William Knobloch, is chief civilian operating engineer. Altho Robert had planned to be a veterinarian, the coming of war revived childhood ambitions to fly, and in 1939, at the end of his junior year at the University of Wisconsin, he entered the army air corps. He received his wings and his commission at Randolph field, Texas, on July 11, 1941, being one of the six top men in the class of 307. It was at Wisconsin that Captain Knobloch met his wife, the former Rosemary Rice. They were married shortly after his return to this country following his foreign service.

WHEN CHICAGO BEAT THE JAPS

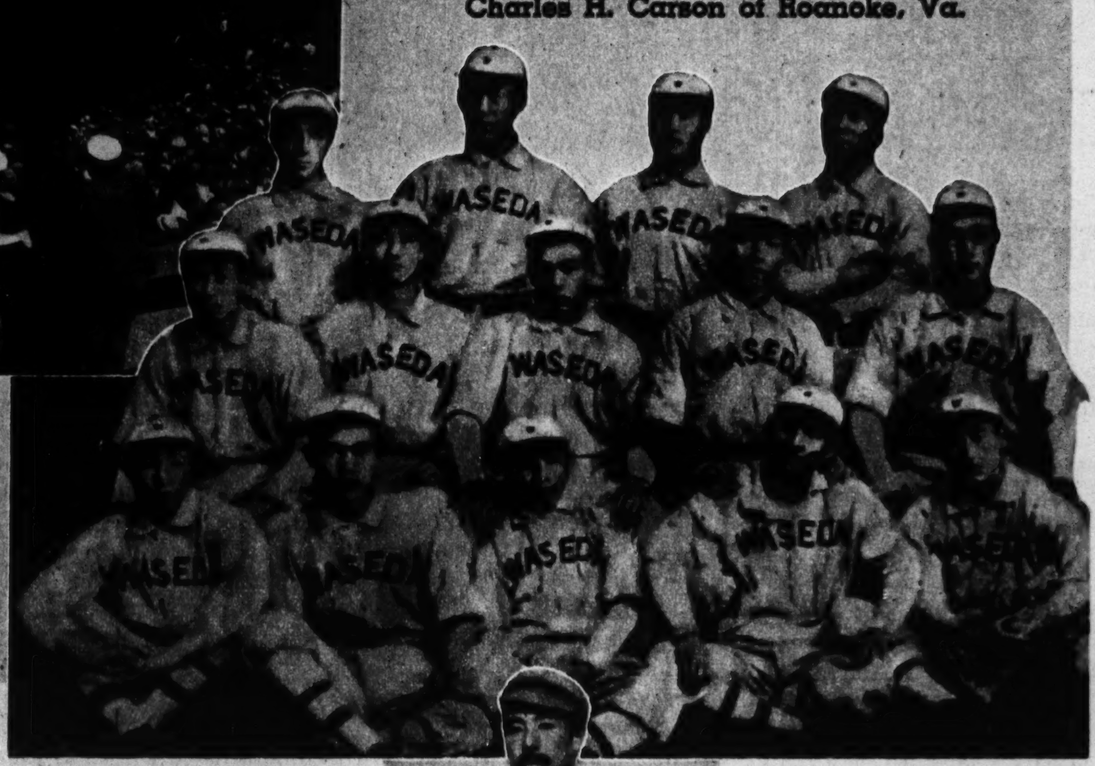
The Story of a Maroon Baseball Team's Invasion of Nippon in 1910

The pictures illustrating this story, and much of the material on which it is based, were furnished by Charles H. Carson of Roanoke, Va.



Scene of one of the games between Maroons and Waseda university.

At right: Waseda university team.

By DELOS AVERY

WHEN Jimmy Doolittle and his chums from Shangri-la sailed across the sky to Tokio without an invitation on April 18, 1942—just a flying visit to leave some souvenirs—they noticed that a baseball game was going on below.

Owing to the lateness of the hour and the pressure of other engagements they did not wait around to see who was pitching or which team was ahead.

Whatever the score was, the game was quite suddenly called at just about that moment on account of rain. Or was it hail? Some kind of a precipitation anyway, and whatever it was was supplied by Doolittle himself, who thus made a liar of the man (not Mark Twain) who once complained that nobody ever does anything about the weather.

The Japs were pretty sore about the way their ball game was broken up, but they ought to remember that all they ever learned about baseball was taught them by Americans, notably in the fall of 1910, when the Maroons, a task force from the University of Chicago, came to Tokio for tea and scalps.

It was quite an international incident, highly pleasing to the people of Chicago, who happened to be in need of consolation at the moment on account of some uncouth ball players from Philadelphia, mercenaries on the pay roll of a Mr. McGillicuddy, who whaled the tar out of our Cubs in a world series.

While the Cubs were losing four to Philadelphia and winning only one, those college kids from the Midway had taken one, two, three, four, five, six, seven games straight from the universities of Waseda and Keio in Quaint Old Japan on Quaint Old Japan's home grounds, with Quaint Old Japan's quaint old umpires loyally but vainly doing the guesswork.

To appreciate the way they did it and what it meant to Chicago one should remember that nobody, except some students and maybe a professor or two, had been paying any attention to the Japanese front while the early games were being played there.

That was because all eyes were on the Cubs, who had already won the National league pennant, playing to the rhythm of a magical chant—"Tinker to Evers to Chance, Tinker to Evers to Chance, Tinker to Evers to . . ."

But between the end of the pennant race and the opening of the struggle for global supremacy, a frightful thing had blasted the Cub morale. Second Baseman Johnny Evers, the very man whose name was the centerpiece of the "Tinker-to" music, had broken an ankle and Chicago's heart.

One pale note of maybe-it's-all-for-the-best was heard in the Sherman House lobby near the cigar stand when a man with an Elk's pin in his necktie said:

"Well, Evers ain't the only second baseman in the world. Maybe they'll let Zimmerman play the sack. Zim ain't so bad."

But a snarl of rage was the answer to that. Zimmerman might be good and he might be bad, but certainly there wouldn't be any proper rhythm in Tinker to Zimmerman to Chance. Nevertheless the Cubs did put Zimmerman in at second and the rest is history's darkest page.

The Cubs lost the opener 1 to 4 and the Maroons in Q. O. Japan had already won four games. Next day the Cubs lost again, 3 to 9, while the Maroons won 15 to 4. Then the Cubs rested for a day while the Maroons, indefatigable, trudged right on for another victory, 5 to 2.

This brings us down to Oct. 20, the Cubs losing 5 to 12 and needing a miracle, the Maroons meanwhile winning 11 to 2. Again the Cubs took a day of repose and on the 22d they scored their one and only victory, 4 to 3. They lost the final on the 23d by 2 to 7.

Japanese umpire, member of the royal family.

Meanwhile the Japs had worked out a change in their basic strategy. They played no games at all between the 20th and 25th, but spent the time conspiring against the digestions of their unconquerable guests, feeding them 20-course dinners with seven wine glasses beside each plate. It didn't work. The sons of heaven might as well have saved their liquor and their funny food. For the Maroons ignored the wine glasses, skipped the deadliest of the dinner courses, and kept themselves so fit and spry that after winning the eighth game 8 to 4 they took the ninth 20 to 0 and the final 12 to 2.

There was one other sly trick tried by the Japs in vain. It was based apparently on the national trait of ancestor worship. Finding that youth could not prevail against the occidentals, they conscripted old age. The Maroons in the seventh game found themselves face to face with the venerable Waseda alumni, heritors of the wisdom of the ages.

And what did the Maroons do about that? Merely made sure the ancients were not using loaded bats and then waded in for an 11 to 2 win.

With the Cubs dead and buried, at least until next spring's training season, Chicagoans were eager for the details they had missed in the story of the Maroons, and it all came out when the boys from the Midway got back home.

They were not the first American team to play Japan but they were the first to make a good job of it. The Japs were getting cocky over the fact that they had beaten the University of Wisconsin and some patched-together teams from American warships, and it was up to the Maroons to restore American prestige.

They really had an almost diplomatic status, for they carried letters from the President of the United States, William Howard Taft, and the secretary of state, Philander Knox. Also they were among the best college teams in the country, having been trained under the critical eye of the great Alonzo Stagg.

Harlan Orville (Pat) Page, one of the greatest of the U. of C. athletes, made the trip as playing manager and was one of the team's two pitchers, the other being Glen Sterling Roberts. Pat's nephew, Franklin Page, was taken along as mascot. And Josiah James Pegues, who still lives in Chicago, not far from the university, was captain and right fielder.

They practiced all summer in preparation for the autumn "invasion" and they even took lessons in the Japanese language under the tutelage of Prof. Fred Starr. They left on Sept. 2, undisturbed by the fact that the day was a Friday, that there were 13 in their party, and that the cargo included 13 cows.

In Tokio they were received by the vice minister of foreign affairs, the American ambassador, and other notables, and were entertained with much pomp at the Imperial hotel.

MANHUNT!

We are looking for men and women in Chicago whose teeth are different from those in Boston and San Francisco

Isn't it strange that in this city fewer people out of every hundred buy Pro-phy-lac-tic Tooth Brushes than folks on the East Coast or West?

So our "manhunt" is really a search for new customers . . . for men and women whose teeth have been missing the benefits of regular use of the Pro-phy-lac-tic Tooth Brush with PROLON bristles.

It is a quality tooth brush through and through. You sense this fact the first time your fingers grip the substantial handle. And you feel the patented round-end bristles, which are gentler to the gums, really "take hold" on the teeth.

We guarantee that no brush at any price has finer or more costly duPont bristles. We guarantee that it is the only brush with gentler, round ends on each bristle. And, in writing, we guarantee the brush for six months of service, or a new one free.

There are two types of the Bonded Pro-phy-lac-tic. The regular (illustrated below) has the famous tuft to help clean the back teeth better. The 2-Row Professional has the same round-end PROLON bristle, but the brushing head is only one inch long, professionally compact. Get the shape that suits you best. Just be sure to ask by name for the Bonded Pro-phy-lac-tic.

WHEN Sam Goldwyn told me he had picked a group of the most beautiful girls in America, much prettier than any group he had ever assembled before, for his new color musical, "Up in Arms," I thought to myself, "O, yeah?"—'cause I was remembering some Goldwyn girls of previous years—Betty Grable, Paulette Goddard, Virginia Bruce, Jinx Falkenburg, Lucille Ball, just to mention a few.

But now I've met all the 1943 Goldwyn girls personally. I introduced them one by one to the service men at Hollywood Canteen, where Danny Kaye, star of "Up in Arms," and Dinah Shore and Kenny Baker, Danny's side kick, did their stuff, and the boys nearly took off the roof. And if I discounted any advance reports on the girls I'm sorry.

You can bet your bottom dollar some of them will be stars of tomorrow. There may even be another Vilma Banky among them, and when I mentioned that possibility to Sam he told me how he happened to bring the Hungarian beauty over here.

Seems he was strolling about Budapest with a local newspaper man when he saw Vilma's picture in a stationer's shop window. Right away he wanted to know who she was. "That's Banky Vilma," replied the guide, using the fine old Hungarian custom of putting the last name first. Learning that she was an actress, Sam immediately wanted to meet her.

Well, the Hungarian producers were no dopes themselves—and they had no intention of losing their biggest star. So, altho they invited Sam to the studio and dined and entertained him lavishly, they kept Vilma "on location." After two days of this Sam gave up the whole idea and decided to leave Budapest. In fact, his baggage was already aboard the train when his pal, the newspaper man, and Vilma came running breathlessly down the platform.

"Please, Mr. Goldwyn," pleaded Vilma (the newspaper man interpreting for her), "won't you stay and talk to me?"

Sam could and did, and before the dessert arrived at dinner that night he had her signature on a contract—and she had a $2,000 advance on it.

But later, when Sam met Vilma at the boat in New York, his heart sank. He thought he had made the boner of his life, 'cause beside the chic American girls Vilma, with her European plumpness and odd clothes, looked positively dowdy.

However, Sam's not one to give up in midstream, so he waltzed her right over to Mme. Francis, bought her $3,000 worth of clothes, and put her on a diet of pineapple and cottage cheese. And in less time than it would take to get Sam on the telephone Vilma was transformed into the slim and ethereal dream girl you remember with Ronald Colman in "The Dark Angel"—tho her vocabulary in English still was confined to "pineapple and cheese."

Her first contract was for $250 a week, with increases over five years to $750 a week. After "The Dark Angel" Sam tore up the contract and replaced it with one providing for $2,000 a week, with increases up to $5,000 a week over four years. By the time talkies came in Vilma was so prosperous, she decided it wouldn't be worth the effort to learn any more English than "pineapple and cheese," so she retired from the screen and has been living happily ever afterward with her husband, Rod La Rocque.

Paulette Goddard when she was a Goldwyn girl in the movie "Whoopee."

Well, if Sam decides to make stars of any of the 1943 Goldwyn girls, one thing they won't have to be taught is English. They're typical American girls, average age 19. All are high school graduates, some of them have completed college, others are midway in college.

Statistics show the girls' average height is 5 feet 5½ inches and average weight 118 pounds. But beyond that there's nothing average about them—they're as individual as the man in the moon. Equally divided between blonde and brunette, there's one gorgeous redhead among 'em—Ruth Valmy, who hails from Asheville, N. C., and has also lived in Fort Smith, Ark., and Dallas, Tex. She's a former Powers model.

And to go on down the line—Bettye Alexander, born in Detroit and educated in Miami, Minneapolis, and Houston, is also a former model. "Up in Arms" will be her first picture.

Alma Carroll, a green-eyed brunette and native Californian, wanted to be a doctor, but when she went to work as a model to earn her way thru college everybody told her she ought to be in pictures—and now she is.

Joan Chaffee was discovered by talent scouts while acting in the little theater at U. C. L. A. She was born in Los Angeles.

Linda Christian was born in Mexico of American parentage and has lived in Holland, Palestine, Italy, Venezuela, and other places where her father operated as a petroleum engineer. She speaks five languages and is a swimming champion.

Virginia Cruzon has been a Ziegfeld girl in the Metro musical, an Earl Carroll girl, and now a Goldwyn girl. She quit a modeling career for the screen, and "Up in Arms" will be her seventh picture. She's a striking brunette, with black hair and dark brown eyes, and is a native Californian.

Dorothy Garner comes from High Point, N. C., is a vivid blonde with green eyes. She's been a hotel PBX operator, a newspaper reporter, and was selling cigarets at Ciro's when a talent scout spotted her.

Inna Gest, who was born in Russia and has lived in Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, Austria, and New York City, was in a school play at Hollywood High when Sue Carol discovered her and got her a contract with M.-G.-M. She appeared with Mickey Rooney in several pictures, then did leads in westerns for Monogram and P. R. C. Director Lewis Milestone engaged her to dance in "The North Star," where Goldwyn first saw her.

Renee Godfrey, who was born in New York and raised in London, was a featured player in English radio and television until 1940, when she was brought to Hollywood under contract to RKO. She appeared in some of the Leon Errol comedies.

Betty Hall is a statuesque blonde from Missouri whose father is mayor of Monett. She was on a Hollywood vacation and was seen dancing in a night spot by a talent scout who tapped her for pictures.

Ellen Hall, no relation to Betty, is a Los Angeles girl, daughter of Emory Johnson, pioneer director, writer, and actor of silent films. She's been in pictures three years.

OFF TO A CLEAN START

By ANTOINETTE DONNELLY
(Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.)

"GET OFF to a clean start" is our current beauty campaign. Wardrobes may have to be reduced appreciably this year; maybe last year's leftovers have to serve. But materials are not our theme today. It's the happy compromise with an economical wardrobe that may be made if your morning maxim is "Get off to a clean start!" And that doesn't mean only the evening tub and morning shower. It means cleanliness in every blessed little detail of person and grooming.

"But I am clean!" say you heatedly. Yet it's a super-clean beauty this year. Skin exquisitely clean and always so. Hair clean, sweet-smelling, lovely to look at all of the time. Nails immaculate. It's being super-clean and neat until it gets to be said of you that you're the cleanest looking individual ever seen. That compliment takes on a new meaning now, and it is something to earn, too, with darker, heavier fall and winter clothing and accessories.

It was easy enough during the light, crisp summer season, with its white shoes, gloves, bags, and everything lending aid in the direction of meticulousness.

Cleaning bills are higher and delivery is slow, so that every little thing you can do yourself is valuable, such as brushing, removing spots pronto, refreshing garments at least weekly.

Keep your bag, your gloves, your stockings, and every undergarment immaculate. You have no idea how important these details are with curbed wardrobes. It's a psychological thing.

One cannot speak of the clean start without touching the subject of body odors. And in the cooler weather some of us often are lax in this respect. We don't air clothes and shoes after wearing. We stuff them into the closet to contaminate other garments. The sweater season, too, enlarges the danger if there is a tendency to excessive perspiration. Sweaters must be aired after each wearing and washed frequently.

Hair, from which odor may emanate unless frequently washed and tended, is never beautiful unless its beauty starts with cleanliness. Wash it at the first sign of soil. And for daily hair cleansing there's nothing like the good, reliable hairbrush.

Starlet Dorothy Morris advocates—and demonstrates—the use of nail brush both for cleanliness and as an aid to preserving the manicure.

If the skin is ever so lightly clogged with blackheads, which suggest an unclean look, go after that condition. That's all you need — the will to clarify and beautify your skin, along with a bit of soap and water, elbow grease, and consistency of action.

Cleanliness is a record to aim for, holding before one each day the vision of the most perennially clean, crisp, heart-appealing girl or woman you ever knew or heard of. There's more to this state of beauty grace, you know, than surface charm. You'll be a smarter looking, more efficient person, too.

Sweaters are fine, Actress Anne Gwynne agrees, but they require a lot of washing or cleaning.

GIRLS GET Goldwyn Chance!

and was one of the nurses in little theater staging of "Cry Havoc." She had previously been a photographer's model and laboratory assistant.

Mary Ann Hyde, from Akron, O., aided by an introduction to Director Tay Garnett, went into pictures to finance an art course. Her art is now just a hobby.

Rosalyn Lee majored in merchandising and design at U. S. C., joined the Pasadena Playhouse, was signed by Howard Hughes, but this will be her first picture.

Florence Lundeen trained as a stenographer at J. C. Fremont High school in Los Angeles, her birthplace; was dancing as a junior hostess at Hollywood Canteen when discovered by M.-G.-M's Ida Koverman. She signed a contract with M.-G.-M. and the following day was loaned out for "Up in Arms."

Dorothy Merritt was born in Idaho. She majored in English and designing at U. S. C., tho she claims her greatest ambition is to be a lawyer. But that sounds to me like an odd ambition for a blue-eyed blonde with a gorgeous figure.

Lorraine Miller was born in Norfolk, Va., raised in Miami and Flint, Mich. She studied to be a doctor at Michigan State and has worked as a chemical laboratory assistant, telephone operator, model, and nursing student. She tells her press agent her greatest disappointment in life was finding there was no Santa Claus! Now, that's one gal who doesn't tell all she knows.

Kay Morley of Pocatello, Idaho, who spent her childhood on an Indian reservation where her father was superintendent, was visiting friends in Hollywood when an agent spied her sipping a soda in a drug store. (Hold everything, girls! There's an ice cream shortage here now.)

Dorothy Patrick, a natural blonde with blue-green eyes, hails from Winnipeg, appeared in amateur theatricals in Canada, and won a beauty contest, which took her to New York, where she became a Powers girl. A talent scout advised her to come to Hollywood and see Goldwyn. She was signed the day she arrived, without the formality of a screen test.

Shelby Payne, formerly of Portland, Ore., is a college graduate, a Junior Leaguer, a harpist, amateur composer and writer, and an expert in riding, skiing, and swimming. She's distinctly the society girl type.

Helen Talbot, from Concordia, Kas., won beauty contests in Kansas and Arkansas, which made inevitable a trip to California, where she acquired an agent and a studio job shortly after she took a job modeling.

Ricki van Dusen is a co-ed at U. C. L. A., where she's majoring in English, art, and Spanish. She is "working her way thru college" in pictures and as a photographic model.

Alice Wallace, from Little Rock, Ark., also goes to U. C. L. A. and plans to finish her course after the picture.

Audrey Young, born and raised in Los Angeles, had to go to New York to get into pictures. She was in George White's "Scandals," where talent scouts discovered her and brought her home.

Virginia Wicks, from Long Beach, Cal., won a screen test at an amateur night on a radio station. Daughter of a composer, Ingwald Wicks, she writes songs herself and has had three numbers published.

And those, my friends, are the Goldwyn girls of 1943. You'll be seeing them.

DISTINGUISHED AMERICANS

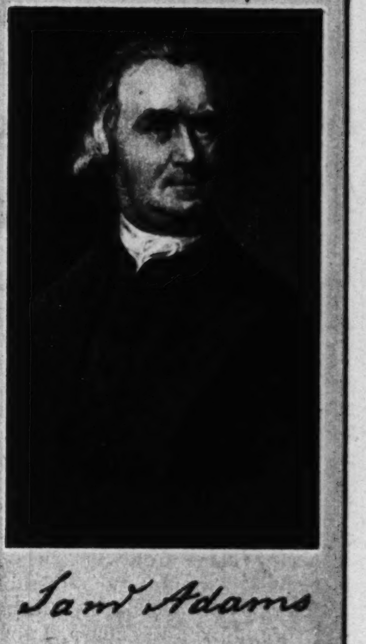
● This is another in a series of biographical sketches of America's historical celebrities appearing every week in the Graphic Section. The illustrations are taken from a famous work, "The National Portrait Gallery of Distinguished Americans," published in 1835.



SAMUEL ADAMS, statesman and patriot, was born in Boston, Mass., Sept. 27, 1722. After a course of study in Lovell's Latin school in his home city he entered Harvard, from which he was graduated in 1740.

It had been his original intention to prepare himself for the ministry. His father, however, desired that he become a lawyer, and his mother wished him to adopt business as a career. His mother's desires prevailed. Altho he repeatedly failed in business, he soon attained distinction in local politics.

It was the stamp act that brought him into more than local prominence. As author of Boston's instructions to its representatives in the general court of Massachusetts he urged opposition to taxation by act of parliament. About this time he was elected to the lower house of the general court, in which he served until 1774.

A number of Massachusetts revolutionary documents, including the celebrated "Massachusetts Resolves," were written by him. He was one of the first American political leaders to deny the legislative powers of parliament and to advocate America's separation from Great Britain. As one of the most influential political writers of the time he urged non-importation, set up the Boston committee of correspondence, and advocated the calling of a continental congress.

It is said that he did more than any other man, in the period preceding the war of independence, to form and direct public opinion in America. In the excitement following the "Boston massacre" he was instrumental in having the British soldiers involved in the trouble removed to a fort in Boston harbor. He also directed the proceedings of the "Boston tea party."

Among the objects of the military expedition sent to Lexington and Concord by Gen. Thomas Gage in April, 1775, was the seizure of Adams and John Hancock. This was the expedition that brought about the first armed conflicts of the revolution. General Gage's broad proclamation of pardon issued in the following June excepted only Adams and Hancock, their offenses, he said, being "of too flagitious a nature to admit of any other consideration than that of condign punishment."

Adams was a delegate to the continental congress from 1774 to 1781 and was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. His most important services, however, were in organizing the revolutionary forces before 1775. In 1779 he was a delegate to the convention that framed the constitution of Massachusetts, and in 1788 he was a member of the convention called to ratify the new federal Constitution.

He served as lieutenant governor of Massachusetts from 1789 to 1794 and as governor from 1794 to 1797. After the formation of the American political parties he affiliated with the Democratic-Republicans. He died in Boston, Oct. 2, 1803.

OPERETTAS ON THE AIR!

ONCE MORE W-G-N OFFERS AMERICA THE MUSICAL MASTERPIECES

MARION CLAIRE

THE Chicago Theater of the Air will launch its fourth season of operettas and operas next Saturday, Oct. 9, in the spacious main audience studio of W-G-N. Twenty operettas and 10 operas will make up the augmented program, according to Henry Weber, director of music for W-G-N and conductor of the station's symphony orchestra. The program will be broadcast from 8 to 9 p. m. (C.W.T.) on W-G-N, W59C, and the coast-to-coast Mutual network. ● Marion Claire, soprano prima donna of the Theater of the Air series, will be co-starred with one or more nationally prominent singers in each program, and will join Thomas L. Thomas, baritone, in the presentation of Jerome Kern's "Roberta," the first show in this season's schedule. Singers will be supported by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra under Mr. Weber's direction and the W-G-N chorus, led by Robert Trendler. A dramatic cast separate from the singers will be used in each program. The shows will be prepared and directed by Jack La Frandre. ● In response to listener demand, several more opera condensations will be presented this season than in any previous series. The tentative schedule of these includes "Mignon," "Faust," "La Boheme," "La Tosca," "Lohengrin," "Carmen," "Hansel and Gretel," "Cavalleria Rusticana," "Tales of Hoffman," and "Die Fledermaus." ● Six operettas which have proved most popular with the national audience in past seasons will be repeated. They are "Desert Song," "Student Prince," and "Blossom Time," by Romberg; "Vagabond King," by Friml; "Naughty Marietta," by Herbert, and "Countess Maritza," by Kalman. ● Among the other operettas which have been tentatively scheduled for performance are "Chocolate Soldier," "Bittersweet," "Firefly," "Music in the Air," "Rose Marie," "Mme. Pompadour," "Belle of New York," "My Maryland," "Count of Luxembourg," "Sweethearts," "New Moon," "Merry Widow," and "May-time." ● The Theater of the Air had its premiere on May 1, 1940, with the performance of "Bittersweet," starring Marion Claire and James Melton.

The Story of "Roberta"

"ROBERTA," Jerome Kern's popular operetta, first in the new Chicago Theater of the Air series, took American theater and movie goers by storm in the years from 1933 to 1936. The New York run of "Roberta," produced by Max Gordon at the New Ambassador theater in 1933, was 295 performances. It had an all-star cast that included George Murphy, Raymond E. Middleton, Fay Templeton, and a young comedian, Bob Hope. The book was based upon a novel by Alice Duer Miller which Otto Harbach adapted for the stage.

"Roberta" tells the story of John Kent, an all-American football star, who inherits the modiste shop of his Aunt Minnie, known professionally as Roberta of Paris. Of course John doesn't want a modiste shop, but he's attracted by Stephanie, Aunt Minnie's partner. So he becomes a dress designer and goes to Paris.

After many misunderstandings, quarrels, and reconciliations between Stephanie and John, the fact that Stephanie is really a Russian princess is revealed. This added inducement of nobility draws John closer to his business partner and a happy ending topped off by marriage.

In W-G-N's version of "Roberta," Marion Claire, soprano prima donna of the Chicago Theater of the Air series, will be cast as Stephanie. Thomas L. Thomas of the operatic and concert stage will have the John Kent role. Musical selections for these artists, the W-G-N Symphony orchestra under the direction of Henry Weber, and the chorus under the direction of Bob Trendler will include the hit tunes "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," "You're Devastating," "Touch of Your Hand," and "Yesterday."

Chicago's run of "Roberta," with the New York cast intact, lasted from Jan. 6 to March 2, 1936. Soon after that the Hollywood version of the operetta was released, starring Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire.

Jerome Kern, composer of the "Roberta" hit music, was well on his way to fame when he penned the musical score of the operetta. One of the most prolific composers in light opera and allied fields, Kern has written the music for such successes as "The Girl from Utah," "Sunny," "Sally," "Very Good Eddie," "The Cat and the Fiddle," and "Showboat."

Born in New York City on Jan. 27, 1885, Kern began studying piano at the New York College of Music. Later he went abroad to study in Germany, and returned to his native city to become an arranger. It was in that period of his career that he spent most of his time rewriting foreign scores for American presentations. Soon after scores under his own name began to hit the music stalls and producers' offices. His first stage success, "The Red Petticoat," was produced in 1912.

The same year that Kern wrote "Roberta" he also composed the score for "Music in the Air." Since then he has retired from the stage and has been devoting his time to writing for Hollywood. Two years ago he came to Chicago to assume duties as a member of the advisory committee assisting in the selection of W-G-N's $10,500 "Great American Operetta."

VOICE OF THE MOVIE FAN

Letters published in this department should be written on one side of the paper. If you wish a personal reply please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Miss Tinée: The other day I saw a picture called "Air Force." I wonder if you would please tell me the name of the man who played the navigator. Carnations to your column!
SHIRLEY BROWN.

Charles Drake

Dear Shirley: Charles Drake plays the navigator. The flowers are lovely. Thank you.

Dear Miss Tinée: I wonder if I could obtain some information from you—that I don't think I can get. I sound very doubtful, but here goes anyway. Where could I get a list of the movies that were released in 1943 and probably will be up for the Academy award? Is that too big an order? Whatever the answer is, thanks a million and lots of luck to your wonderful column. By the way, could you print a picture of Carole Landis for me? Please! Thanks again. M. S.

Dear M. S.: That's a large order, and I can't fill it for you. Sorry. Miss Landis' picture appeared here recently. Since you didn't see it, maybe we can put another one in for you some day. I'm so glad you like our Sunday column!

Dear Miss Tinée: I have always been an admirer of Gene Tierney's. Would you please print her address and a brief account of her life for me? NANCY N.

Dear Nancy: Glad to oblige. Address Gene care of Twentieth Century-Fox, Beverly Hills, Cal. She's 5 feet 5 inches tall, has red-brown hair and green eyes, and weighs 113 pounds. Was born in Brooklyn, Nov. 20, 1920, is married to a Russian, Oleg Cassini, and has been in a number of films, including "Thunder Birds," "China Girl," and "Shanghai Gesture."

Dear Miss Tinée: Could you tell me the name of that picture in which the Three Nelsons appeared that had something in the title about a smile? And who produced the film? A NELSON.

Dear "A Nelson": Could it have been the Twentieth Century-Fox film titled "Keep Smiling"?

After Imagine finding a new kind of tooth powder that tastes so swell even kids like to brush their teeth with it! That's heaven, brother... that's Kolynos. Your own tongue will tell you how clean those 2 superfine polishing agents make your teeth feel! Whee! It's true! It's swell!

2 are better than 1 Remember, not one but two polishing agents to sparkle up your ivories! Not one but two foaming agents to leave a fresh, clean feeling in your mouth. Plus the brightest, peppiest flavor still left unrationed! Hurry, folks, and get some—your druggist has Kolynos Tooth Powder now.

Together at Last!

ALL THE POLISH OF POWDER... ALL THE PLEASURE OF PASTE!

In some parts of the country, you may get Kolynos Tooth Powder in a glass container. This is due to wartime shortages of packaging materials. But be assured—you get the same quantity and quality as in other containers.

DON'TS FOR HUNTERS

DON'T rest the gun against the body. The result of an accidental discharge is obvious. Radio Actress Frances Henderson poses for this and the other pictures.

(By-Line Feature from Internationa

DON'T use your gun muzzle to clean mud, snow, ice, etc., off your shoes. It may clog the gun, cause dangerous explosion.

DO use your hands to clean shoes, and keep gun pointed away and down, set on "safety."

"Let 'em get dirty, I say, now that I've got Super Suds' EXTRA SUDS!"

"MORE SUDS, LONGER-LASTING SUDS get out dirt on the double-quick," says Mrs. Charlotte Sherry

"GUESS every mother who's got boys like my Jack and Jim knows that sinking feeling when you've just put 'em in clean clothes and then catch 'em up to something like this. With such a heavy wash, I was determined to get a wash-day soap that gave MORE SUDS! New Super Suds was the answer. What a difference it makes! Dirt gives in extra-fast . . . less rubbing . . . longer life for your clothes!"

MORE SUDS, LONGER-LASTING SUDS mean HARDER-WORKING SUDS say most of the old hands at washing. That's why they usually change to new sudsier Super Suds the minute they make the "milk-bottle suds test." Let MORE SUDS, LONGER-LASTING SUDS save you wash-day grief.

"Jean loves to help me make the beds. I love to see my sheets so much whiter since I've been washin' 'em in Super Suds' EXTRA SUDS. With less rubbing and not having to use anything strong, they wear so much better, too."

★ DON'T WASTE SOAP! ★

Vital materials needed to win the war are used in making soap

1. Don't just pour soap in from the box. Measure it out in a cup so that you don't use too much.
2. Don't wash a few clothes at a time, which means soap for each batch. Save them up and wash everything at once.
3. Don't soak clothes first in soapy water. Modern soaps are made to take out the dirt in the regular washing.
4. Don't wash dishes without first rinsing them. Less soap is needed if they are rinsed first. Wash greasy dishes last.

Make the "milk-bottle suds test"

Shake up two teaspoons of your old wash-day soap and a glass of water, even hard or cool water, in a milk-bottle. Do the same with Super Suds in another milk-bottle. See if you don't get MORE SUDS, LONGER-LASTING SUDS from Super Suds.

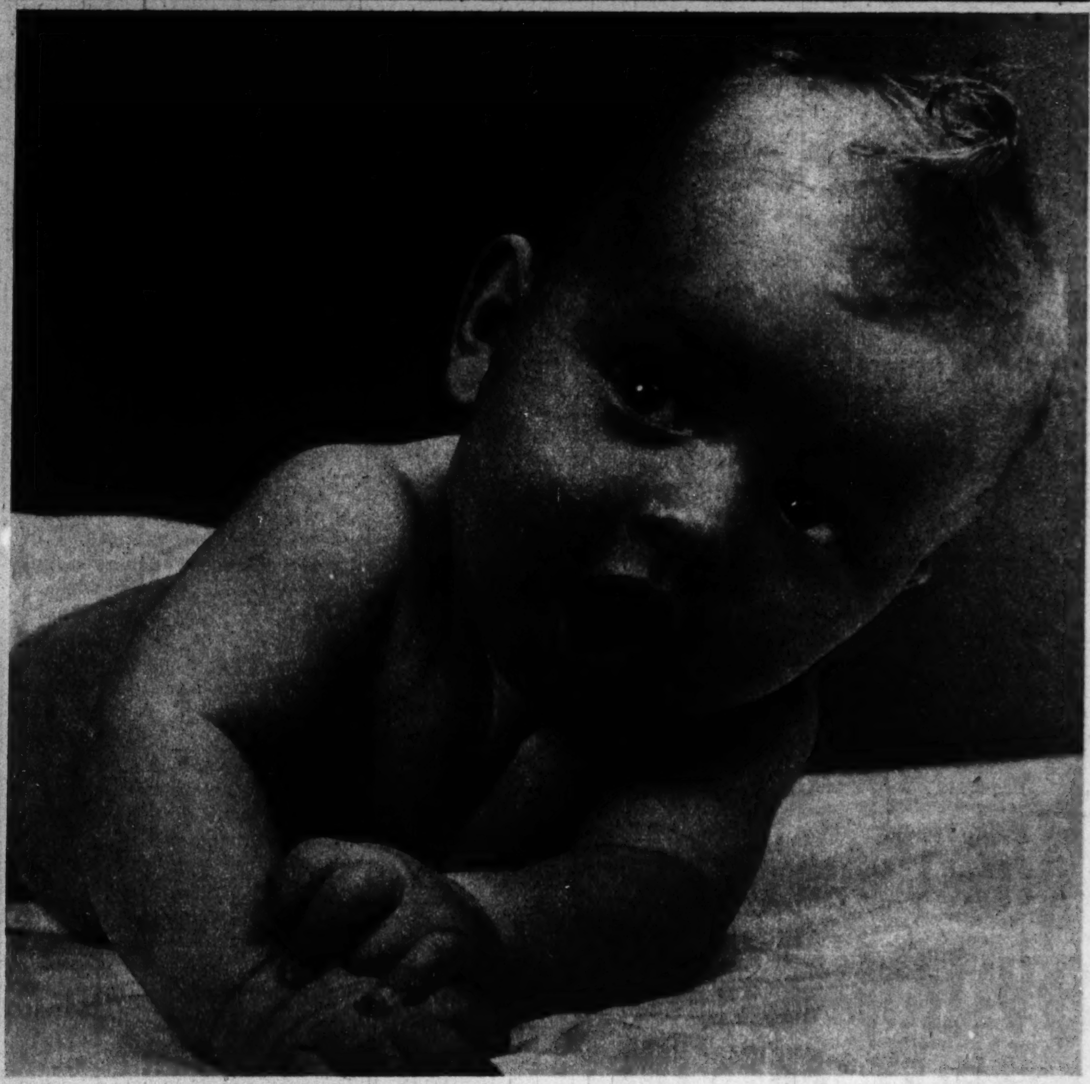
THE GRAPHIC LITTLE THEATER Presents "BABIES BY BANNISTER" THE PICTURE STORY OF A FAMOUS PHOTOGRAPHER

MIKE AND IKE

Readers of The Tribune are familiar with the photography of Constance Bannister, many of whose color and black and white pictures have been reproduced in the Graphic and Color Roto sections. Miss Bannister is especially noted for her photographs of babies. Now Columbia Pictures are releasing a short subject called "Babies by Bannister," picturing her work as one of the country's most famous photographers of babies. On this page are several action pictures of Miss Bannister at work and a selection of her best baby pictures.



NO! REALLY?

Hello Mom—what do I do Now?

THE BRIDE: (tearfully) We've been married eight whole hours, and he hasn't so much as kissed me, and...

US: Tut, tut, sweet bride, why worry your Mom? Hang up the phone and dry your tears... we'll solve your problem!

THE BRIDE: (suspicious) How?

US: Easy! Simply telling you the one thing you should have known—The Big Secret!

THE BRIDE: (more suspicious) What secret?

US: The secret of personal daintiness, my dear... of bathing body odor away, the feminine way—

THE BRIDE: The feminine way? I thought a soap that removes body odor effectively had to have that strong, "mannish" smell!

US: Not this one, honey...here's a gentle, truly feminine soap that leaves you alluringly scented—and daily use stops all body odor.

THE BRIDE: (skeptical) Well, right now I'll try anything! But can you prove all this?

US: Sure we can prove it—and quick—because today's specially-made Cashmere Bouquet Soap bathes away every trace of body odor, instantly!

THE BRIDE: Sa-a-ay, you're not kidding! Such suds, and—mmm—I love that heavenly perfume! Smells like $20-an-ounce!

THE BRIDE: Well, I hope I'm luscious as I feel, I hope...'cause I've got a date with my mate—I hope!

US: Oops, sorry...didn't mean to intrude!

THE BRIDE: (blushing) You're forgiven! But tell me... does Cashmere Bouquet always make a groom so attentive?

US: It's you, who rates the attention, my pet... Cashmere Bouquet just insures the perfection of tender moments like this by guarding your daintiness!

THE BRIDE: Well, thanks a million, pal...how can I ever repay you?

US: Just stay sweet as you are.

grew to 15. It was a long way back home. A long and busy way. I got back only a few weeks ago.

Lt. Edgar E. McElroy of Ennis, Tex., was pilot of our crew. He was about 30, heavy set, with a long forehead. The hair that began at the top of his head was almost black when we flew into Tokio. A week later it was a solid gray.

Lt. Clayton J. Campbell of Oregon was navigator. We think he was the best in the squadron. He was about 28 and very quiet, just the opposite of fun loving Master Sgt. Robert C. Bourgeois of New Orleans, our bombardier. Sgt. Adam R. Williams, our engineer gunner, was from Virginia and we all called him our hillbilly. I was co-pilot.

It was a pretty sight to see one of our escort cruisers blasting at a small Jap boat 800 miles off Japan the morning of April 18. It would spit a sheet of flame and the whole ship would seem to jump back.

A pretty sight, but at the same time a sad sight, because it meant we would have to fly an extra four hundred miles, since the Jap ship might have radioed a warning of our position.

We hurried downstairs for breakfast. We army boys always called it downstairs to make the navy boys mad. Just as we asked them to shut the window instead of the port, or open the door instead of the bulkhead. And of course we never referred to the Hornet as anything but a boat.

My last job on the Hornet was to pass out lunches to the 16 B-25s. I saw to it that our crew got double. As pop says, I haven't lived on an army post most of my life for nothing. Besides I like to eat.

We were about the 12th or 13th off the carrier. We joined up with planes piloted by Ross Green and Willie Bauer, who were also headed for Tokio.

The three of us flew on all morning, skimming the water. I munched on sandwiches and oranges. Mac, the skipper, wouldn't eat.

About noon we saw the mountains of Japan. Soon we were within sight of the coast. But what part of the coast? We checked our maps and couldn't find anything familiar.

"We're about 100 miles too far north," Campbell, our navigator, said. So Mac and I swung left. The navigators in the other planes must have had their own ideas, because Green's ship turned right, while Bauer continued inland. We wanted to tell them they were wrong, but of course we had to maintain radio silence.

The water was full of fishing boats—thousands of them. We'd skim over their masts and the Jap fishermen would lean back and grin their sickly grins. I took pictures with a little pocket camera.

About a quarter to 1 we came to a lighthouse which we identified as one east of Tokio bay. We turned inland. Sure enough, there lay the bay. But we were a little south and flew over an air station. Ack-ack spurted at us. We dodged behind a hill that stands guard at one neck of the bay. The ack-ack was a godsend because it enabled us to get a final accurate bearing.

Mac pulled back the throttle and we roared up the side of the hill to 1,500 feet. Then straight out over the bay to our naval base.

Another 500 pounder and a floating dry dock in which a merchant ship was being converted into an aircraft carrier toppled onto its side.

The third 500 pounder smashed into workshops. There were scores of the close packed shops so they also got our fourth and last bomb, a 500 pounder which exploded into 120 incendiaries.

I didn't have much to do so I put aside a sandwich, got out my camera, and took two pictures. These two have both been widely used. They were the only ones to come out of the Tokio raid. Other cameras either didn't work, were forgotten, or got lost later. I guess that makes me the official Tokio camera man.

Mac made a sharp turn and headed back to sea to throw the Japs off guard on where we were going. Fifty miles out, we swung almost about face and headed southwest. We followed the Japanese coast line, rounded the southern tip, then headed for China.

We never expected to make land. We figured we would run out of gas some time while still an hour at sea.

In midafternoon we ran into a heavy storm. Once we saw a Jap sub and a battleship and two cruisers. It got dark early. We were lost in a fog and darkness. I kept on eating. "Might as well die happy," I told Mac. He didn't think so.

"I hope Columbus was right and if you go far west you get to the far east," Bourgeois said.

"Maybe we'll come down in England," Williams said.

About 10 p. m. all four gas tanks registered empty. We went on for another 10 minutes. Mac turned on the automatic pilot and called us amidships, over the escape hatch.

"We're at 6,300 feet," Mac said. "If we jump quickly we may be able to land together."

Or drown together, I thought.

Williams was to go first. We all said good-by. I wish I had a picture of us. We had five long, long faces.

Williams eased thru the hatch. His head vanished. Then popped up again. "Well, good-by," he said. Again his head vanished. Then up again. He grinned. "Well, good-by," he said.

"Good-by, for the last time," I said. I pretended I was going to step on his head. This time he went for good.

Mac and I helped Bourgeois thru the hatch, then Campbell. I squeezed into the hole. As I shoved downward I could see Mac's feet coming after me.

I let go and fell.

The other picture of the Tokio raid, taken from a B-25 bomber over Yokosuka naval base.

Out into the fog and rain. Somewhere below was China or the China sea.

"One one thousand," I said after I squeezed thru the escape hatch.

I pulled the rip cord on the chute. There was a tremendous jerk. "I pulled too soon and the chute snagged the plane tail," I thought. I was scared. More than I have ever been in all my life. It made seem as nothing the fright that came over me as I left the plane not knowing if I would come down in the China sea or in China.

But it was all over in a few seconds. I swung back and forth in the rain. The chute was free after all. I was so happy to be alive I forgot about where I might land.

I drifted thru the clouds. I looked for the chutes of the other four men in our crew but couldn't see them. I shouted. Only the swish-swish of the breeze answered.

The clouds parted. Below was the most welcome sight a man ever saw—two silver ribbons. They meant land! We had made China after all. A river and a wide highway, I thought. I reached up to spill the air from the chute, and then, bang, I hit the ground.

I must have been only 50 feet or so above the ground when I saw the silver ribbons. Instead of being a wide river and a highway they were two small creeks running along a rice paddy. I was in the field in six inches of water and mud. I didn't complain, tho. Mud is a soft cushion for chute landings. If I ever have to jump again I'd like to have some more paddies for padding.

I unsnapped my chute and hid it along one creek bank. It must have made its finder a rich man. My gun had slipped off my hips when my chute opened. But over my shoulder I still had a bag with flashlight, extra ammunition, and first aid kit. I was wearing overalls.

I dug out the light and flashed it, hoping to get an answer from my buddies. Seven lights answered. It didn't take much of a mathematician to figure out that the five of us weren't alone. So I put the light away.

Stumbling thru the mud, I started across the rice fields. Every 30 feet or so there would be a little dirt ridge, and each time I would fall on my face. Within an hour I came to a river. I was tired and cold. I decided to try to sleep. But I was shivering so violently my head bounced up and down against the ground.

I saw a streak of light flash across the sky. Somebody signaling, I thought. I answered. The light came again, from down river. I walked that way.

I made out a man walking on the other bank about 150 feet away. "Hey!" I shouted. The figure halted. "Hey!" I repeated. No answer. I tried a new turn. "Mac!" I shouted.

"That you, Dick?" The answer was low, but was it ever welcome! It was the skipper, Lieutenant McElroy.

I started across the river, but the water was waist deep, so I turned back. "Have to wait until morning," I said. "Better get some sleep."

I found a stack of rice straw, crawled into it, and pulled it over me. It was warm. I could hear Mac's teeth chattering clear across the river. Soon I was asleep. Mac said I snored something terrible. He didn't sleep a wink, between cold and worry about where we were.

I woke up about dawn. A boat maybe 25 feet long, loaded with hay, was coming upstream. A man sat at the rudder. A boy of about 10 was walking along the bank pulling the heavy craft.

Boldly I went toward them. I smiled. Our instructions said if we landed in China to smile when we met inhabitants. If they grinned they were Japanese. If they smiled and bowed they were Chinese.

These two did neither. The man turned the boat out into the stream. The boy just bent over closer to the ground and pulled harder.

I found a small boat under some weeds, kicked out a board to use for an oar, and paddled over to Mac.

A mile or two down the river we saw a village. We didn't know where the Japs

Catch On to Ketchup—It Stretches!

By MARY MEADE

KETCHUP costs 15 blue points a bottle, so we're careful how we use it. We try to make the flavor stretch, and it does stretch beautifully, for this spicy sauce is highly concentrated.

In some instances ketchup (or "catsup" or "catchup") almost makes meatless dishes taste meaty. Take creamed mixed vegetables in a cheese and noodle ring seasoned with ketchup. You get your protein from the cheese and meaty flavor from the cheese plus the noodles plus the ketchup!

NOODLE RING WITH CREAMED VEGETABLES
(Serves six to eight)

- 9 ounces egg noodles
- ½ pound American cheese
- 1 cup milk
- 3 eggs, well beaten
- ¼ cup tomato ketchup
- ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- Salt, pepper, parsley

Cook noodles according to directions on package. Melt cheese in top of double boiler. Add milk gradually, stirring until sauce is smooth. Remove from heat, add beaten eggs and seasonings. Pour into greased ring mold and set in a pan of hot water. Bake at 350 degrees for about an hour, or until firm. Unmold and fill center of ring with mixed creamed vegetables—for example, carrots, onion, celery, and peas.

Boiled noodles are good, too, with a cheese sauce seasoned with ketchup. In 2 cups of medium white sauce melt ¾ cup grated cheese and add 3 tablespoons ketchup.

VEGETABLE STEW WITH BISCUIT TOPPING (Serves Six)

- 2 large onions, quartered
- 2 tablespoons fat
- 4 potatoes, diced
- 4 carrots, diced
- 4 stalks celery with tops chopped
- 2½ cups water
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 2 bouillon cubes
- ½ cup ketchup
- 3 tablespoons flour
- Baking powder biscuit dough
- Grated cheese

Saute onions in fat until tender but not brown. Add vegetables, water, salt, bouillon cubes. Cook until vegetables are tender. Add ketchup to flour to make a paste. Add paste to vegetable mixture and stir until thickened. Pour into casserole or baking dish. Roll biscuit dough into a rectangle about ¼ inch thick, sprinkle with grated cheese, and roll as for jelly roll. Cut in one inch slices and place on top of vegetables. Bake in hot oven, 400 degrees, for about 20 minutes, or until biscuits are done.

And try a tablespoon or more of ketchup in the French dressing you use for watercress for this highly nutritious sprouted soybean and watercress salad:

WATERCRESS AND SPROUTED SOY SALAD (Serves Six)

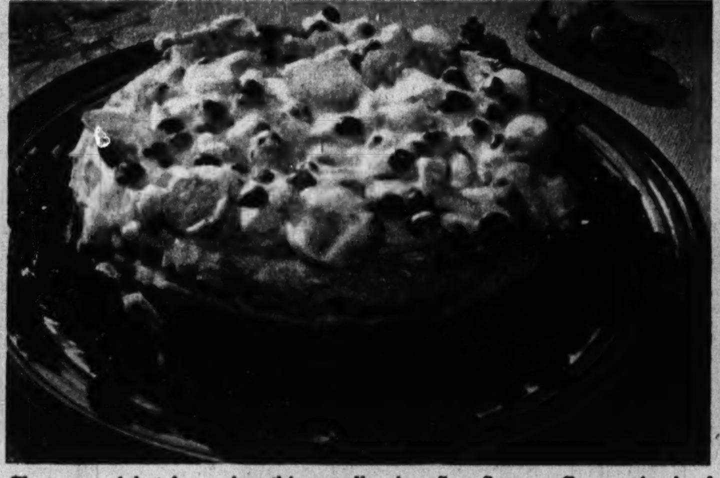
- 2 cups cooked sprouted soybeans
- 2 tablespoons finely minced onion
- French dressing
- 1 cup diced celery
- 1 bunch coarsely chopped watercress

Combine sprouted soys with onion and dressing to moisten well and chill in a covered jar for several hours. Add celery and watercress. Toss lightly. Be certain that dressing is well seasoned. Additional salt may be needed.

You can sprout soybeans in your own kitchen and have them for salads or cooked dishes whenever you wish. They're an extremely rich source of vitamin C, it has been discovered, so they're really an important food. Soybeans may be purchased in health food stores, seed stores, and some groceries. The dried ones are used for sprouting.

If you don't know how to sprout the beans at home I shall be glad to send instructions on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.



Cheese and ketchup give this noodle ring fine flavor. Creamed mixed vegetables are the filling.

Beans can be sprouted at home for vitamin-rich sprouted soybean and watercress salad.

TODAY'S $5 PRIZE RECIPE

MUSHROOM-STUFFED EGGS
(Serves six)

- ½ pound mushrooms, sliced (may use canned)
- 2 teaspoons chopped onion
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 6 hard-cooked eggs
- Salt to taste
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 1 teaspoon cream
- 1 cup medium white sauce
- ¾ cup buttered bread crumbs (optional)

Saute mushrooms in butter for five minutes. Remove about a quarter of the mushrooms and add onions to remainder, cooking until onions are yellowed and transparent. Peel eggs while hot and cut in halves lengthwise, scooping out yolks. To mashed yolks add the smaller portion of the mushrooms, salt, mustard, and cream. Restuff into whites. Add remaining mushrooms and onions to hot well seasoned white sauce and serve over eggs. Sprinkle with buttered crumbs if desired. The eggs may be reheated in the sauce in a moderate oven if desired.—MRS. HAROLD PRICE, Grant Park, Ill.

Oil Tankers—Weapon of War, Tool of Peace!

A TANKER is the most coveted prize of an enemy sub. It contains a bulk supply of the most essential things needed for war—motor fuel for our airplanes and motor-driven army transport, fuel for navy or merchant ships, or vital lubricants. Sink a tanker, the enemy reasons with cold-blooded logic, and you cripple the air forces of the united nations, restrict the operations of their naval units.

The importance of a tanker is likewise recognized by the oil industry. They have always known the advantages of efficient, flexible, low-cost water transportation. The industry grew and expanded on that basis as America became a nation of car owners, as millions of modern homes were heated with fuel oil. The tanker, a very special type of maritime architecture, contributed more to the comfort and well-being of pre-war America than most of us ever suspected.

At the time of Pearl Harbor about 430 oil tankers were under the American flag—about one-fifth of our entire merchant marine tonnage. The war spread to fantastic distances; the driving importance of keeping a fast-expanding air force on every fighting front supplied with fuel and lubricants, the necessity for seeing that our growing and active navy never had its operations restricted by a shortage of fuels or lubricants, made every tanker a working member of our armed forces. The enemy on every ocean concentrated his full fury and destructive capacity to the sinking of tankers.

We lost tankers, plenty of them. Hundreds of men were killed or injured. Millions of dollars' worth of cargo and tankers were lost. But much fuel got thru, enough to keep our forces supplied.

Privately operated shipyards started to produce tankers at a rate never before witnessed. Convoy protection improved. Before long our tanker tonnage will be back to pre-war levels. From then on the tonnage will climb steadily upward. We will have upward of 500 tankers in service by the end of this year. We're going to need them, too!

This war will end with us owning more and better tankers than we ever had—tankers capable of greater speed, many of them with a capacity of 6,300,000 gallons each. No other nation can equal these facilities, which are bound to exert a strong but constructive influence on our national economy and likewise on international economy.

Should a domestic shortage of crude oil develop in this country our post-war fleet of tankers will make it possible for us to bring to our great refineries crude oil from foreign fields, Mexico, South America, and elsewhere. Low-cost transportation will undoubtedly be reflected in the retail prices which the public will pay for gasoline, fuel oil, lubricants, and residual products in common use. Using this great tanker fleet will permit of the development and operation of many untapped foreign oil fields. There will be plenty of fuel for the new post-war cars and planes—and enough to keep the wheels of our vast industrial system turning with a minimum of frictional losses.

On the credit side, likewise, there will also be plenty of tankers to serve the east coast country. Foreign markets, it is predicted, can be opened and maintained in the face of all competition by the tankers we will have afloat at the end of the war.

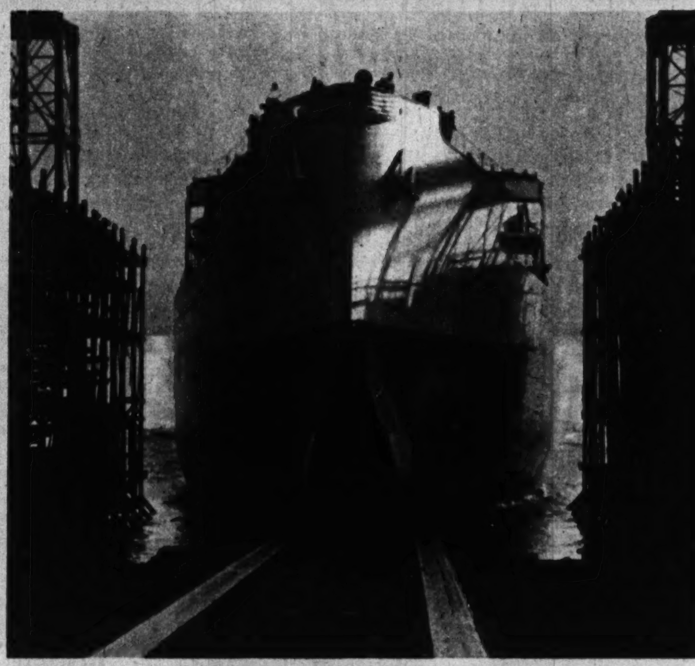
Solely on the basis of economy and efficiency, the oil industry has always placed great dependence on the tanker. At the outbreak of war the barrel miles of petroleum transported by tanker were twice that shipped by pipe line, five times the volume shipped by tank car, and many times the volume hauled by tank truck.



Launching a new tanker, the Cimerron.

The relative costs of transportation of oil by various methods are as follows, in mills per ton mile:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| By tanker | 1.25 | By pipe line | 3.20 |
| By barge | 2.00 | By rail | 8.30 |

Another striking example of the basic economy of water transportation as it has been established by one of our major industries!

Tankers have many advantages. Some petroleum products cannot be moved by pipe line. The routing of tankers is flexible; when one point of oil supply is exhausted others can be promptly exploited. When one market is flooded supplies can be routed to open markets.

Before the war tankers moved into the east coast territory every day an average of a million and a half barrels—63,000,000 gallons—of crude oil or petroleum products, practically the entire supply for the area. Small wonder that the withdrawal of these tankers for war duty plunged the eastern seaboard into a shortage from which we cannot hope to recover until the war is over and tankers are on the job again.

Water transportation has long been favored by the oil industry. Barges on the Mississippi and tributaries move petroleum and its products to more than 250 water terminals located at 135 separate points. On the Great Lakes there is a fleet of more than 40 United States owned tankers with a total cargo capacity of 900,000 barrels—and about 30 vessels of Canadian registry in the same service.

Americans should be grateful that a great industry had the initiative to develop a distinctive and special type of water transportation, courage enough to expand those facilities to a point where they have become a foremost factor in the war against the axis.

Our tanker fleets deliver our super-aviation fuel to the coasts of anywhere—they rendezvous with our warships on every sea, pump into them fuel for their boilers, oil for their diesels. Our tankers have attained an importance almost equal to a major fleet of fighting ships. They deliver the fuel for thousands of bombers, for cargo planes, for fighter planes—fuel for our jeeps and peeps and motor-driven artillery. Lacking it, we would be at the mercy of the enemy.

When peace comes these same tankers, like demobilized soldiers and sailors, will turn to the ways of peace again. America will be joyous in possession of new cars, hungry for domestic travel, will again know the thrill of driving into a filling station, saying to the attendant: "Fill the tank!"

And it will be done—thanks to our tankers. And the price will be reasonable—another dividend made possible by the service rendered by ships.

MOSTLY ABOUT DOGS By BOB BECKER

YOUNG DOGS may develop various types of diseases or ailments, some minor and some serious, but of all the "bugs" that may make a young dog very ill distemper undoubtedly is the worst. Fortunately veterinarians today know more about dogs and also more about the disease, altho distemper, the number one scourge of the canine world, still isn't conquered in the way all of us would like to see it.

As one veterinarian pointed out some time ago, we have come a long way since the days when gunpowder mixed with molasses was considered a specific against distemper. That ridiculous treatment looks doubly so today when we consider the advances made in treating distemper. Yet, strange as it may seem, some dog owners still will administer gunpowder to their dogs to cure them of distemper, and some of the poor animals get well despite that primitive treatment. We feel sorry for dogs of former years when we read how they were given gunpowder, were bled to cure distemper, and how tar was smeared on their noses so they could inhale the fumes of that substance. Treatment of the disease was nothing less than heroic, so it's no wonder that only the strongest dogs could survive.

Some day a whizz-bang cure will be found for distemper, and it will be available to dog owners everywhere. In the meantime the owner of every young dog can do a number of things to prevent the pup from getting distemper. For example, keep your pup in robust health, because distemper doesn't kill nearly as many sturdy dogs as it does those which are undernourished and wormy.

Among the facts about distemper which the owner of every new pup should always remember are these: First, distemper is highly infectious. A house or an apartment where a sick dog has been kept may give the disease to a new pup if the latter is brought in too soon. However, after several months have elapsed it's usually safe to get a new dog, because distemper "bugs" will be there no more.

A dog with distemper can spread the disease thru a village or town. For example, supposing an owner brings home a 3 or 4 month old pup. He takes the pup for a walk down the street or perhaps thru a park. The little dog sniffs around shrubbery, trees, or lamp posts. If an infected dog has visited these places it's quite possible for the pup to pick up distemper when it comes along. Distemper is so infectious that an owner nursing a case at home may carry the germs on his clothes to another dog.

One of the biggest helps in preventing distemper is protective serum and inoculation of young dogs. We wouldn't think of buying a pup and attempting to raise it at home without asking a veterinarian to administer both. One veterinarian was telling us a few weeks ago that every puppy brought to his kennel for treatment of any disease is given protective serum the very first thing. This is insurance for the veterinarian and also for the puppy. One injection of these serums for a very young pup is good for about two weeks. At the end of that time the dog may be given another small dose.

This little wire-haired terrier is watching a trainer for its next command. It is being taught to take part in a strip-tease act. When ordered it will rush from the wings of the stage and seize a shawl wrapped around the performer and carry it offstage.

At left: Michael von Motzeck, professional dog trainer, and the terrier, being given its final training in taking hold of the garment and hanging on to it. The dog was made to sit, and then, while the trainer swished this cloth thru the air, it was given the command to come and grab it.

When a pup has reached the age of 3 or 4 months it may be given the first inoculation against distemper if it is in good health. The pup should be free of worms and strong before it is given this first inoculation.

Every dog owner should remember that preventive inoculations are not 100 per cent effective. A pup given such inoculations may get distemper, but it's quite likely that it will have a better chance to survive an attack than one not inoculated at all. Certainly partial immunity is worth while, and it's reason enough for us to want any young dog of ours to be inoculated. In other words, we're willing to play the percentages on inoculation, because we can't lose, and the chances are that we and the dog will win.

Perhaps we are enthusiastic about playing the percentage on distemper inoculation, and thus doing all we can to prevent the disease, because of our early troubles with it. We had a promising young springer destroyed in Canada because of chorea, the result of distemper. We had another hunting dog destroyed in an Indiana hospital because of distemper. A Labrador that had been picked for future delivery died of distemper before we acquired it. From now on we want any young dog to get the benefit of protective serums and inoculations.

When Chicago Beat Japs

the night before the opening game.

"We sat up most of the night," he said, "talking over the plays we hoped to make, and we were told that the Japs were worried about what they had heard of my left handed pitching and my 'balks.' The Jap game was to run wild and get a pitcher to throw the ball away.

"We had one tiff with an umpire in the opening game, but after that we didn't argue, because we didn't want to hurt anybody's feelings—and anyway the umpires were noblemen, serving with much pride and without pay. The 'incident' came when an umpire, having called one of our runners safe, reversed his decision to placate the protesting crowd. Naturally we objected to having the decision changed, and the result was that the umpire walked out. It took a lot of bowing and pleading to get him to come back."

Orno Roberts, recalling the same incident, said he thought the umpires really "made every effort to be impartial."

"We had a feeling," Roberts said, "that our games ought to be something more than baseball contests. We wanted to promote friendly relations between the two nations, and we had the idea that the Japs felt the same way."

Baseball is baseball, however. Robert Baird remembers a trick played by Jack Boyle, who usually was shortstop but was playing third base this time. A Jap had hit a long one and reached third base safely, but failed to notice that Baird after receiving the ball at third did not immediately return it to the pitcher, Pat Page. The Jap stepped off the base and was ignominiously tagged out.

"We were afraid the trick might make the Japs sore," Baird said, "but it didn't—because it gave them a chance to use one of the slang phrases they had learned, and as the runner walked back to the bench he was greeted by his own team with derisive cries of 'bonehead.'"

The Japs were greatly impressed by the fact that Pat Page pitched two games in succession without any rest between them.

"We found out later," said Page," that the Japs, always imitative, began training a lot of their players to throw and bat left handed, and when the Maroons went back five years later for another series—which we also won—we were amazed by the number of left handers confronting us."

Pegues, the captain, wrote an article for a magazine, the Independent, when he got back from that 1910 trip. It was a polite article, expressing pleasure in the thought that "we had done at least a little to secure a better understanding and stronger bond of friendship between their nation and ours."

By all accounts the Japs tried hard to learn both the technique and the special vocabulary of the game. A left handed pitcher they understood, was a "south-foot," which is pretty good. The ball was sometimes an "apple," and one young native pedant called it a "projectile." They knew that waiting for a base on balls was "waiting for a ticket." And one of the Jap linguists could tell you that a player named Kato "drove the sphere into the left garden for two zabuton." As for the dear old college—yours or anybody's—that was "Alamo Mater."

It is fair to point out, however, that if the Japs had some slight difficulty with their baseballese, the same subject—or one akin to it — troubled the house of representatives of the United States about three years later, when the following dialog was quoted from the Congressional Record by Current Opinion:

MR. MANN—A parliamentary inquiry, Mr. Chairman.

THE SPEAKER—State it.

MR. MANN—Would it be proper to announce that the score is now 4 to 1 in favor of Philadelphia in the fourth inning?

THE SPEAKER—Out of order.

MR. MANN—That being out of order, I would ask if it would be in order to announce that Baker of Philadelphia has just knocked out a home run and that the score is now 5 to 1 in favor of Philadelphia?

THE SPEAKER—That is not a parliamentary question.

There the trouble was not with the lingo of the game but with the question of how to breach the barrier of rules that forebade talking about it at all.

When a Jap takes the trouble to learn another nation's language of sport, especially if he is an important Jap, look out. He may stab you to the heart with an idiom.

Remember the one who came purring to Washington and talked peace and amity to the state department at the very hour of Pearl Harbor? His name was Saburo Kurusu and he could talk not only baseball but football, adroitly converting the phrases into a sinister doubletalk whose meaning would be revealed too late.

Reporters met him in San Francisco on his way to Washington on Nov. 14, 1941, and an Associated Press man asked him about his plans.

"I hope," said Kurusu with an engaging smile, "to break thru the line and make a touchdown."

The touchdown came three weeks later.

Overheard on a bus:

"I hear the Japs are outlawing baseball because it's an American game."

"Good. They'll learn the same thing about war before long."

YOUTH ON VALPARAISO CAMPUS

By ELEANOR NANGLE

VALPARAISO UNIVERSITY, in the Indiana town of that name, has a past that reaches back to 1859, but its immediate concern is for the future, a future that began to take shape when it was purchased by the Lutheran University association in 1925, and that right now is jeopardized by lack of funds and the toll war takes of the university or college too small to share directly in the military training program.

Valparaiso has a fixed policy of maintaining for its young students—the vast majority of them Lutherans of modest means—a standard of low tuition, fees, and living costs. It is entirely dependent on contributions from Lutherans for its financial support. While it is the only university within the limits of the Missouri synod, it receives no support from it, nor does it have a large endowment fund.

Its growth in enrollment in 1940 and 1941 was healthy. Today it has its largest enrollment of women, but its total is down, understandably enough, with men students at a minimum.

"Valpo," as it is affectionately called by students and alumni alike, has been thwarted by the war and by insufficiency of funds in its efforts to improve its buildings and its grounds. Its plant, consisting of 13 buildings, all adequate but antiquated with the exception of its modern health and physical education building, is not exactly handsome. But its spirit is undaunted.

Valpo students attend chapel daily; they do not dance. But it is one of the few schools of its size that maintains a full-time social director, and it is a markedly friendly school. Its four local sororities have recently taken over the four fraternity houses left vacant by the absence of sufficient men students to maintain them, and it is around these and Altruria hall, the women's dorm, which is also the university dining hall, that simple, pleasant social life hinges.

Valpo girls and boys, whose religious background is fairly uniform but whose geographical background is widely varied, have a common quality of lack of affectation—no striving to be "glammer" gifts to a campus. In manner and dress they are wholesomely simple, devoted to their school and absorbed by the life and learning it offers.

The fate of Valparaiso's carefully planned and now seriously threatened future lies in the hands of individual Lutherans. Whether it, like other small privately supported colleges and universities, will be a war casualty depends entirely on the generosity of its friends.

KNOW YOUR CAMERA

By ANDREW B. HECHT, Ph. D.

PICTURES are made to be seen, and they are much more effective when presented in appropriate mounts. Even your best prints will look better if they are neatly mounted. Albums are preferable for regular contact prints, but pictures that deserve enlarging are worth display in folders, frames, or salon type mounts.

To show your album prints to best advantage, group them according to a plan. You may want several sections in your album—one for vacations, one for the children, etc.—or you may find that a separate book for each subject will be the best.

A loose-leaf album is a good investment, for it permits you to regroup your pictures according to subjects as you go along. Be sure to avoid placing unrelated pictures on the same page.

Prints should be flat to begin with if you want them to stay flat after mounting. If yours have developed a curl, moisten their backs and press them beneath blotters or in a blotter roll while they dry. If you use a blotter roll, be sure that the emulsion side of your prints is out. This overcomes the natural tendency of the paper to curl the other way.

If you decide to mount your pictures directly on the pages, don't make the mistake of covering the whole print with paste before you stick it down. This is certain to cause curling. Instead just moisten a narrow strip along the top edge with paste, glue, or rubber cement.

Dry mounting tissue is probably the best adhesive for mounting pictures, whether you are putting snapshots in an album or 11x14 prints on standard salon mounts. Simply follow the directions that come with the tissue, which is available from your photo dealer.

To get human interest shots of children, photograph them at play. If you are not satisfied with ordinary action shots, have your picture tell a story or make a point by developing a "gag" for it.

Another good mounting method is to use rubber cement, altho supplies have been curtailed because of the war. For a permanent mount coat the back of the picture and the area that it will occupy. Let both dry and then press together. It is important to get the print in just the right position the first try, as it cannot be moved once it has been put in place. For a temporary mount coat only the back of the picture and put it down while the cement still is wet.

Sooner or later every photographer wants to display one of his best prints in a salon mount. Several types are available in the standard 16x20 size.

The easiest to use provides a solid cardboard back with a cut-out mat fastened to it. This type is available to take 8x10 or 11x14 prints, horizontal or vertical. Be sure to get the right size and format for your pictures.

LEEWAY TO A MAN'S HEART

By MAUREEN DALY
(Author of "Seventeenth Summer.")

IT DOESN'T always work that way, but the best kind of dating is on a 40-60 basis, with the fellow going like sixty making with the telephone calls, dates, and class rings, and the girl sitting calm and collected on the forty end, like the pretty proposition she is. But sometimes, even tho everything is running smoothly, a girl isn't smart enough to let well enough alone.

She may have her particular hunk of man with star dust in his eyes, thinking she is strictly wonderful and happy as the daze is long, and then suddenly she herself starts rocking the dream boat! Just when she begins to think he has been listed as her private property in the "Who's Whose in High Schools" he ups and collects his class ring, tears up her phone number, and slips back into general circulation!

Here is a letter that tells the same sad story, but this time with a new and sadder twist. This girl's Glow Joe didn't exactly give her the fluff-off, but she is now on his hit parade only sometimes, and the way that old flame is still burning, she would like to have him around for hand-holding not just once in a while but Sunday, Monday, and always.

"I'm suffering," she writes, "from a badly broken friendship, and I find the situation has been getting steadily worse instead of better. The particular boy I have been going with is very popular. He is president of three or four clubs at school, a good athlete, does well in school, and is liked by every one. We went together for a year and a half and enjoyed each other's company very much. He showered me with attentions, and we went to quite a few social affairs together—proms, etc. During all this time he was nice to all the other girls and I did not tie him down, yet he never went out with any one else. We never had any arguments whatsoever, and he was the type of boy whom my parents were glad to see me go out with.

"But a few months ago we happened to go out one evening and had a wonderful time. The next evening he came over and we also had fun. Then the following morning we had our first petty argument. That night there was a basketball game, but I didn't go with him, and I didn't see him there, either. The following morning I wrote him a note saying that if we were going to argue maybe we'd better not go so steady. I expected him to reply saying that we should wait a while or something, but he said 'that was okay with him.' Consequently we stopped going together.

"About a week and a half later I had a date with him, and we talked it over. He said he still liked me and wanted to go with me, but he wanted to have a good fling for a while. And I still like him so much! He goes out with other girls now, tho he still carries my picture with him. But he says that he never wants to go steady again. Every one tells me to wait a little while and he'll come back, but I've waited and waited and in the last four months have dated every type of boy in school without having any fun whatsoever. How could a boy change so much in two short days? It's really got me."

And that's the end of the story. The explanation of the boy's sudden cool-off is sad but obvious. The John Doe in the case, a big dealer in his own right, both smart and smooth, had blithely been "going steady," happy to be part of the gruesome twosome—but without even realizing it! And then came the note from his ex-sweet stuff, probably written with all the possessive assurance that most girls assume toward any fellow after four consecutive dates—suddenly on went the light and out went the flame! After all, he had been going with the girl, but he hadn't signed a five year contract. Most likely, when he realized he was taken for granted, he got that tied down feeling that can scare any fellow off. And he found himself tired of being just one girl's "tall, dark, and handy" and wanted to shake loose. It was the girl who opened his eyes and gave him the opportunity, and when she wrote him the note with the knife in it all he had to do was say: "If that's your story, morning glory, it's okay by me." And back he went on the available list for the other glamor gals in school and out on the trail of a little date bait for himself.

When a fellow shows that he really likes a girl by calling her frequently, asking for dates, not taking out other girls, and acting like Victor Mature in general, it's best to be contented with things as they stand and not insist on a statement of his affections in black and white! Boys like to be on their own and glad to feel that when they ask a girl for a date it's because they want to, not because they are under an obligation. The boy in the letter who now has his girl a-crying probably realized that he was considered a permanent possession, didn't like it that way, and was quick to get out from under. And if he ever does come back it will have to be under his own power.

As for the girl, it may be a long, sad wait, but there's nothing else to be done. Or, better still, she can realize that other fellows can be fun, too, look around for another joy boy, and hope for better luck next love!

were so Mac stayed a short distance from the cluster of huts while I approached. Thirty or 40 men, women, and children ganged around me, feeling my clothes and face. "Chiang Kai-shek," I said. They all smiled and bowed. At least they are Chinese, I thought.

Our instructions said to be calm. So I pulled out a cigaret. Then a lighter. As soon as I snapped it, the Chinese vanished, as tho they had been blasted away. One by one they came out of their huts. I kept flicking the lighter on and off.

One man, bolder than the rest, came up. I gave him the lighter. It was our key to China. The man took me to his house. The village followed. From a big teakwood chest he took out a map. Carefully he studied it. The room was packed with people.

"Do you speak English or American?" a voice said. "Who said that?" I asked. Every one smiled and bowed. I went back to the map. Again came the voice, "Do you speak English or American?" I looked around. Those in the room smiled. I thought maybe I was going nuts.

Then I saw one little old man open his mouth and say, "Do you speak English or American?" I pushed thru to him. "I'm American," I said. "Say, am I glad you speak English!" He smiled and bowed. "Do you speak English or American?" he said. Then I realized that was all the English he knew.

The man with the map wasn't much help, either. I tried to ask him to locate the village on the map. Every time I'd point to a spot, he would nod and bow and smile. It was my introduction to the land of the perpetual yes. I don't believe I ever heard a Chinese say no all the time I was in China.

I gave up hope of getting any information from my host when I discovered he was looking at the map upside down. Nobody in the village could show me where we were or where the Japs were.

I walked out of the hut and back to Mac. We headed down river. Then a youth whom I shall always remember gratefully as the smart boy grabbed me by an arm. He shook his head violently. He pointed downstream. With his hands he imitated guns just as we did when we were kids playing cops and robbers. "Bang, bang," he said. He put his hands over his heart, made an awful face, and fell in a heap.

"Must mean Japs are that way," Mac said. Later we learned Jap soldiers were only two miles downstream.

We followed when the smart boy started off across a field. After a mile or so we came upon a hut. A man in a ragged coat jumped out and stood squarely in the path. On his lapel was a button which identified him as a soldier of China.

He pointed his rifle at us and snapped the bolt into place. The smart boy shouted to him. He let us advance. I didn't want to take any chances so I grabbed the sentry's rifle.

The weapon almost came apart in my hands. The barrel was tied to the stock with a piece of string. How could it fire? I pulled open the bolt. The breech was empty.

Are you puzzled over what vitamins to take?

BAX

gives you in one tiny capsule

All the established Vitamins

Today, it's easy to make sure of getting all your needed vitamins. No puzzling about names, claims and potencies. Just remember this simple 3-letter word . . . B-A-X . . . the *Complete Vitamin Capsule. One tiny capsule contains a full day's minimum requirement of all the vitamins established for human nutrition. All in a single capsule—no need to take several tablets or pills.

15 DAYS' SUPPLY OF BAX . . . THE COMPLETE* VITAMIN CAPSULE . . . ONLY 73¢

Look at the economy! 15 BAX Capsules are good for 15 full days' supply of vitamins. Many other products require you to take 2 to 3 tablets or capsules a day—so you have to get up to 45 tablets to compare with only 15 BAX Capsules.

And don't confuse BAX with B-complex or tablets containing only A, B, D. BAX, the *Complete Vitamin Capsule, not only supplies the known important B-complex factors, but other equally valuable vitamins. BAX supplies A, D, $B_1$, C, $B_2$(G), $B_6$, Niacin, Calcium Pantothenate. These include factors not present in many other products, but which can make a big difference to you.

"VITAMINS ARE BEST IN CAPSULES"

It would cost us less to use pills or tablets, but BAX vitamins are sealed in individual gelatine capsules because of the many advantages to you. For example, complete protection against oxidation and possible impairment of vitamin strength; also eliminates the need for sugar, varnish, wax, or other coatings. And so pleasant and easy to swallow.

Particularly with rationing making so many vitamin foods scarcer, make sure you and your family get plenty of life-enriching vitamins. Government surveys show that even in normal times most of us don't get enough. It can be the difference between merely feeling "all right" and really feeling alive. Ask your druggist for BAX.

BETTER FLOUR A "MUST" FOR WARTIME RECIPES

Food too scarce to waste now

By Nancy Holmes

ALMOST any baking recipe today uses ingredients that are either scarce or rationed.

That's why women won't tolerate baking failures. And that's why they're turning from cheap, untested flours to Ceresota Enriched Flour – known as a good cook's standby for more than 50 years.

There's a reason for it – a sound, scientific reason, too. Bag after bag, Ceresota contains just the right amount of the right kind of protein-gluten – the "stay-up" element. And gluten is vital in controlling the quality of dough or batter.

That's why you get such wonderful results with Ceresota. That's why every baking recipe comes out of your oven so perfectly – not just once, but time after time.

Buy a bag today, and start your string of baking triumphs tomorrow.

Presenting ALL THE Extra VITAMINS AND MINERALS You Need!

OF COURSE Vitamins G, P.P.! You can't be alert, awake, without them. You get them, and the entire Vitamin B complex family in Ovaltine!

OF COURSE Iron! Without iron, you can't have good red blood. Ovaltine supplies all the extra iron you need —in the only way you can fully use it!

OF COURSE Calcium & Phosphorus! They're vital to bones and nerves in adults—also to teeth in children. The Ovaltine way, you have loads.

OF COURSE Vitamin A! Children need it to grow. You need it to fight off colds. With Ovaltine you get all the extra "A" experts say you need.

OF COURSE Vitamin B₁! You eat poorly—and you're tired, nervous, "low"—if you don't get enough $B_1$. The Ovaltine way, you get plenty!

OF COURSE Vitamin D! You get D from sunshine—but most of the year most people don't get enough sunshine. Rain or shine, you're safe with Ovaltine!

3 Average-Good Meals + 2 Glasses of Ovaltine Give the Normal Person All the Extra Vitamins and Minerals He Can Use!

Millions of people today know how important it is to take extra vitamins and minerals. So we want to emphasize this point: Ovaltine is one of the richest sources of vitamins and minerals in the world.

In fact, if you just drink 2 glasses of Ovaltine a day —and eat 3 average-good meals including fruit juice —you get all the vitamins and minerals you need. All you can profitably use, according to experts—unless you're sick and should be under a doctor's care.

So why worry about vitamins and minerals? Rely on Ovaltine to give you all the extra vitamins and minerals you can use—along with its many other well-known benefits. Just follow this recipe for better health . . .

3 GOOD MEALS A DAY + OVALTINE NIGHT AND MORNING

WARNING! Authorities say you can't completely trust "good" meals to supply all the vitamins and minerals you need for health—even with careful meal-planning—because shipping, storing, cooking reduce the vitamin-mineral values of food. So rely on 2 glasses of Ovaltine a day for all the extra vitamins and minerals you need!

OF COURSE Ovaltine gives you much more than vitamins and minerals. It is prescribed the world over by doctors for those who are thin, nervous or under par.

NOT QUITE REGULAR?

TRY THIS HEALTH DRINK FIRST

Juice of 1 lemon in glass of water first thing on arising

Has a natural laxative effect for most people, and it aids digestion, supplies needed vitamins, builds resistance, too!

Most people find that the juice of one lemon in a glass of water, taken first thing on arising, is all they need to insure prompt, normal elimination—gently. And lemon and water is good for you.

Lemons Build Health! Lemons are among the richest sources of vitamin C, which restores energy, helps you resist colds and infection. They're the only known source of vitamin P (citrin) and supply valuable amounts of $B_1$. They alkalinize—aid digestion. Millions not troubled with constipation take lemon and water daily just as a health builder.

Why not keep regular with this refreshing morning drink that builds health too? Try it ten days, first thing on arising—see if you don't benefit!

P.S.—LEMON & SODA - Some prefer juice of 1 lemon in half glass water with ⅛ to ½ teaspoon baking soda (bicarbonate) added. Drink as foaming quiets.

GREAT TRIUMPHS OF MEDICAL HISTORY...

1846 — a SURGEON'S KNIFE is robbed of all its terrors...

by a little glass bowl of SLEEP!

The grim voice of a surgeon breaking the news to a patient: "I'm afraid we'll have to operate." OPERATE! A hundred years ago, no other word in the whole English language struck such cold, steely terror into the heart of a man. With eyes wide open—brain wide awake—every sense alive—every nerve alert—he'd be strapped to the torture table, to struggle and scream, while burly attendants assisted in holding him down.

But on one Friday morning on the 16th of October, 1846, the clock on the wall of a Boston hospital's operating theatre chimed the hour of ten—and sounded the death knell of terror and pain under the surgeon's knife! Stretched on the operating table was the form of a man. Addressing the assemblage of doctors and students, the crisp voice of the surgeon: "I have invited Dr. William Morton, a dentist of this city, to test on the patient a preparation he declares will kill all pain."

Breathless—late for his appointment—the young Boston dentist burst in. In his hand a glass bowl with a wooden spigot. Now calm and collected, he approaches the patient—presses the spigot between his lips—instructs him to inhale. A word from Morton to the surgeon. The surgeon's knife flashes. The incision! Relaxed and motionless, the patient sleeps peacefully, as if in a lovely dream. ETHER—a great gift of mercy—had been presented to the world!

1898 — Total war on PAIN!

1898—just 52 years after Ether was introduced in surgical operations—is famous for another triumph in the war against suffering and pain. For a group of brilliant scientists discovered a relief from headaches, from the painful discomforts of colds, and muscular aches and pains ... maladies which cause even more suffering and more loss of time than do all the serious diseases combined. In 1898, these scientists discovered Aspirin.

Whenever men of medicine fight suffering and pain, Bayer Aspirin is trusted not just for dependability but for the rapid relief it brings. So for relief that's reliable and also swift, ask for Bayer Aspirin by its full name. And be sure the tablets you buy are stamped "BAYER"—the famous name in Aspirin.

BAYER

COLDS—To relieve headaches, pains and aches from colds, take 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets with a glass of water. Repeat in 2 hours. For a sore throat from a cold, dissolve 3 tablets in ⅓ of a glass of water and gargle.

HEADACHE—Next time a headache comes, take 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets with a little water. Relief follows quickly. Economical to use. Try Bayer Aspirin, too, for fast relief of neuralgic pain.

WHY BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

In 2 to 3 seconds after a Bayer Aspirin Tablet touches water, it is disintegrated and ready to start work. That's what happens in your stomach when you take Bayer Aspirin.

Simple Buying Guide

FOR FRESH FRUITS AND VEGETABLES . . .
WHAT TO CHOOSE TO GET GOOD NUTRITION

"the government says to eat something from each of these groups every day"

1. Green or yellow vegetables or fruits are high in vitamin A. First choices: carrots, spinach, peas, beans, squash, sweet potatoes, turnip greens, yellow corn.

2. These are the best of the few good sources of vitamin C. First choice: oranges, then lemons, grapefruit, tomatoes, raw cabbage.

3. Include one or more of these, raw or cooked, for additional vitamins and minerals. First choices: white potatoes, turnips, parsnips, beets, grapes, peaches, raw apples.

Two things come home to you when you study this guide.

First—the fresh fruits and vegetables have a wealth of vitamins and minerals to offer you. So if you're eating more of them now—that's good!

Second—some are high in one vitamin, some in another. That's why you should serve some from each group every day.

Remember, too, that all your vitamin C must come from the fruits and vegetables you buy or grow. In fact, the more you know about food, the more you will get from it.

CALIFORNIA ORANGES

BEST FOR JUICE—and Every use!

While all the vitamins are equally important, you need more of some than of others. And some are harder to get. Vitamin C, for example, is found in few foods. Yet you need large amounts every day (your body cannot store it) to resist fatigue and infection, protect teeth and gums, and keep the vigor of youth.

The easiest way to get your full day's quota of vitamin C is to drink a 6 to 8 oz. glassful of orange juice each morning. It also helps you with vitamins A, B1 and G, calcium and other minerals.

Or have oranges sliced for breakfast. Cut them up, with or without other fruits, to make quick salad-desserts. Use them as a lunch-box fruit or snack for children, to aid good nutrition. Mail coupon for free booklet of over 100 helpful recipes.

Convoys are taking large quantities of juice and concentrates to our armed forces and allies. So even though crops have been greatly increased in recent years, we must now make every orange count.

You can help. If you strain the juice, use a coarse sieve, and stir the healthful pulp through. Keep oranges in a cool, well-aired place. You can safely buy a week's supply of trademarked Sunkist Oranges. They are good keepers—the finest from 14,500 cooperating California and Arizona growers. Best for Juice—and Every use!

WHY RISK THESE 2 DANGERS BY BRUSHING WITH MAKESHIFT CLEANERS

Beware of DENTURE BREATH and LOOSENED PLATES

Brushing your plates with tooth pastes, tooth powders or soap, may scratch the denture material which is 60 times softer than natural teeth. These scratches cause odorous film, food particles, and stains to collect faster and cling tighter . . . resulting in Denture Breath. Remember, you may not know you have it, but others do! Besides, brushing and scrubbing your denture with makeshift cleaners often wears down the delicate fitting ridges designed to hold your dental plate in place. With worn-down ridges, of course, your plate loosens.

A safe, modern way to clean dental plates, partial plates and removable bridges is to soak them clean in Polident every day. Polident is approved by many leading dentists and the leading makers of modern denture materials. No brushing, no danger, yet the daily Polident bath works into the corners and crevices no amount of brushing seems to reach—leaves your denture sparkling clean, odor-free.

"NOW I'M REALLY LIVING...GO EVERYWHERE...HAVE FUN"

Millions call Polident a blessing. No fear of Denture Breath—no risk of wearing down and loosening the plate due to brushing. Polident used daily helps maintain the original, natural appearance of your dental plate for less than 1¢ a day. Get Polident at drug, department or variety stores. 3 oz.—30¢; 7 oz.—60¢.

SCIENCE DISCLOSES HOW OILS PROTECT!

Like the OIL in a duck's feathers, the oily waxes in SHINOLA provide "protection" for your shoes!

● Water, extreme heat, dust, and grime are all harmful to leather. They clog the "pores", absorb the natural oils, causing the leather to become stiff and dry. Neglect in protecting shoes from these factors reduces the life of shoes. Shinola (liquid, paste, or cream) is a life-giving leather "treatment".

This scientific formula of oils and waxes provides a thin, pliable protective film for your shoes . . . helps hold in and replenish the natural oils. A Shinola film, or shine, when applied regularly, repels water, dust, and grime . . . helps prevent clogging . . . maintain the leather's natural flexibility.

ACROSS THE CREEK

THERE was a certain apple tree near the Teenie Weenie village where the little people always found the apples they needed for winter food. They usually gathered four apples. One they dried and stored away. Another apple was made into apple butter which was sealed into two and three drop jars, and they stored the other two for the Rhyming Rabbit who was old, and sometimes the ancient fellow could not get out to find food when the weather was stormy.

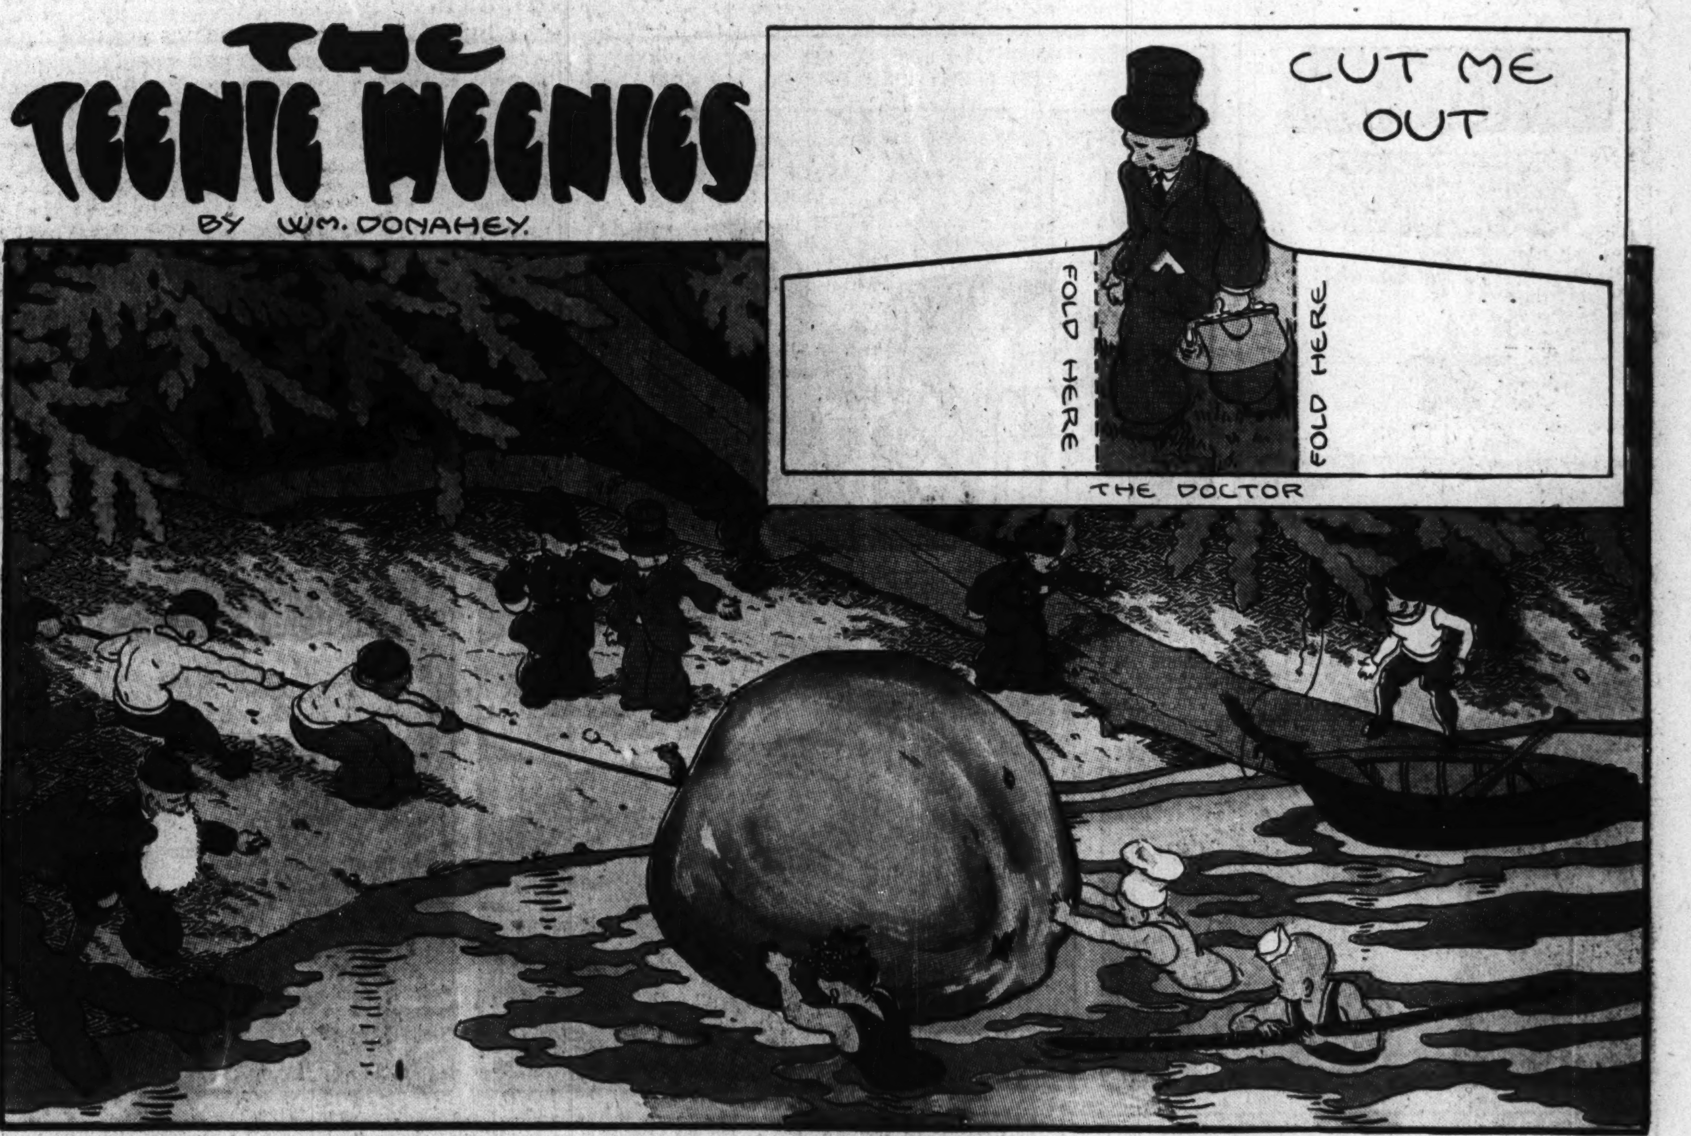
The tree where the little folks found their winter apples did not have fruit on it this year and that made things rather difficult, for the only apple tree which had fruit on it was a long way from the Teenie Weenie village. It was across the creek, too, and that was bad for it would be quite a task to move a big apple across the stream.

"No matter how hard the job is we should have plenty of apple this winter," said the Doctor one evening while the little folks were discussing the subject. If we want to be strong and healthy we must have plenty of fruit. We can't live on doughnuts and cookies."

"Why can't we make a raft and pole the apples down the stream?" asked the Dunce who loved to ride on rafts.

"That's impossible," said the Old Soldier with the wooden leg. "There are too many shallow places littered with sticks and sand bars to get an apple over."

After much talk the Teenie Weenies decided it would be best to drag the apples on a sledge down to a deep spot in the creek opposite the Teenie Weenie village and then ferry the apples across.



"Then we'll need a raft to bring it across the creek?" shouted the Dunce.

"We won't cross that stream until we come to it," answered the Old Soldier with a grin.

Nick the squirrel agreed to pull the apples up to the place where they were to be ferried across the creek, and the Turk and the Old Soldier made a big sledge which would carry two apples on each trip, while other Teenie Weenies spent several days with their tiny axes clearing a road thru places where the grass was thick.

When the road had been cleared the little men pulled the sledge down to the creek and floated it across where Nick met them. The Cowboy harnessed Nick to the sledge and when all the little men had climbed in he pulled them to the apple tree. They soon tied two large apples to the sledge and Nick quickly hauled them to the place where they were to be ferried across the creek. He made one more trip and then told the Teenie Weenies that he had to leave as he was busy laying in a store of nuts for his winter's food.

"Now let's make a raft," said the Dunce, "and get these four apples across."

"We don't need a raft," said the Old Soldier. "Apples will float and all we need to do is to tie a string to the stem of each apple, roll 'em down the bank into the creek and the Sailor will tow them across with his pea pod canoe."

It was easy to take the apples across the stream but it was very much harder to drag them up out of the water on the opposite shore. Some of the little men had to put on their bathing suits and get into the cold water to help with the work.

"Lawsy!" exclaimed Gogo as he watched the three Teenie Weenies wade out into the water. "Ah suttenly is glad ah don't have fo' to go in dat cold water."

"Allie same me don't care," grinned the Chinaman as he coiled his long hair onto the top of his head to keep it dry. "Me allie time washie. Me used to water."

After a lot of very hard work the Teenie Weenies finally landed the four apples. Then they rolled them up to the Teenie Weenie village, which was only a short distance from the creek. Two of the apples were rolled into the Teenie Weenie storage cave to be kept for the Rhyming Rabbit and the third was dried and the fourth made into apple butter for winter use.

NOW.. CLEAN DISHES WITHOUT WIPING!

Here's a modern advance in dishwashing: Dreft! A discovery that makes dishwashing easier, quicker, cleaner than with any soap you've ever used. DREFT is new, different; it gets even glassware so gleaming clean, so crystal clear, that wiping is needless. Dreft is the first in the world to do this.

Dishes so CLEAN because Dreft is different

Dreft gets dishes truly clean, for Dreft is different. Dreft is not just a soap. 7 patents in the U. S. Patent Office prove this. You can see the difference yourself. With any soap you've ever used, dishes dry streaked, cloudy, dull. But with Dreft dishes come out of your rinse water really clean. They dry dazzling clean, streakless, cloudless, clear and clean.

Even Dreft's suds are different

Dreft makes 5 times more suds than any soap in hardest water. And Dreft suds are particularly mild. Dreft won't roughen hands. Dreft is non-alkaline—neutral as pure drinking water. Thousands of housewives call Dreft a new miracle. So for easier, quicker, cleaner dishwashing—try Dreft.

NOTE: As the war limits the amount of Dreft available, use it wisely. Measure it out. A little will go a long way.

CITY SCHOOLS SHOW DECLINE IN ENROLLMENT

Evanston Reports Greatest Loss.

The lure of highly paid jobs in war plants is apparently attracting few boys and girls of high school age, figures released by city and county officials show. At the end of the first two weeks of the fall term, city enrollment was only 7.65 per cent under last year, and county enrollment decreased only 5 per cent. "In view of the demands of the military services and inducements offered by war industry, I consider the figure highly satisfactory," declared Noble J. Puffer, county superintendent of schools.

City Rolls Decline.

George F. Cassell, assistant superintendent in charge of Chicago high schools, announced that 113,600 have registered this year as compared to 123,000 last year.

Cassell said that during the summer the board of education urged employers not to retain employes of high school age after classes started. Mrs. Jewell Coleman, superintendent of the state labor department's division of women's and children's employment, said that work permits for 16 and 17 year olds in Chicago and Cook county soared to 50,000 during the first seven months of the year, five times the number issued for the same period last year.

Figures Incomplete.

Enrollment figures for the county are incomplete, Mr. Puffer said, because Brookfield and Berwyn schools have not yet opened and reports have not yet been received from some schools in unincorporated areas.

All three county high schools on the north side have shown a decrease in enrollment, Evanston leading the way with a registration of 2,879 as compared with 3,072. New Trier's enrollment totals 2,550 as compared with 2,700, and Northbrook has registered 210, a drop of 30.

Three north side areas have shown an increase in elementary school enrollment. At Glenview registration jumped from 423 to 491. Glencoe enrollment jumped from 822 to 853, and Winnetka showed an increase of 20 over last year's total of 1,332.

Evanston grade schools enrollment fell 202 from last year's total of 5,888. Kenilworth's registration dropped from 455 to 401, Skokie's from 720 to 713, Northbrook's from 260 to 255, and Wilmette's from 1,713 to 1,585.

C. E. BUDDENBAUM URGED TO SEEK 48TH WARD POST

Petitions are being circulated in the 48th ward by businessmen and civic leaders urging Carl E. Buddenbaum to become a candidate for Republican ward committeeman.

Buddenbaum twice was president of the Central Uptown Chicago association and now is a director. He is a member of the Edgewater-Uptown Civic council of the city planning advisory board, and of the Theodore Roosevelt post of the American Legion. He also is a member of the Masonic order and other fraternal organizations.

An attorney, Buddenbaum has resided for more than 25 years at 932 West Lakeside place. He has been active in Republican politics for many years.

MAJ. FRANK MEYERS WINS PROMOTION TO LIEUTENANT COLONEL

News of the promotion of Maj. Frank X. Meyers, 5936 North Washtenaw avenue, to the rank of lieutenant colonel, has been received here. The order for the promotion, signed by Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, is dated Sept. 8.

Lt. Col. Frank X. Meyers.

Lt. Col. Meyers entered the service with the Illinois National Guard on Sept. 16, 1940. He was transferred to the adjutant general's department in May, 1943, and is now attending the command and general staff school as a student in the general staff course.

Before Pearl Harbor Lt. Col. Meyers was in charge of all promotional events sponsored by the Broadway armory of the National Guard. At that time he held the rank of lieutenant.

Patients and Staff at Great Lakes Prepare Christmas Packages for Friends on Duty Overseas

Lt. (j. g.) Dorothy Weber of Detroit, Mich., now on duty at Great Lakes hospital, has a friend in nursing service overseas who "wants nothing for Christmas as much as a chubby Teddy Bear to make her laugh." So Lt. Weber did some research in the Teddy Bear department and happily discovered the answer to one navy nurse's Christmas prayer, right down at ship's service at the hospital. She is taking a last good look at Teddy before she wraps him for the shipment overseas. "I discovered Teddy Bears are also popular gifts for WACS and WAVES," the lieutenant confided, "not only navy nurses. I guess it's because the girls greatly appreciate such a frivolous and unexpected gift." Lt. Weber was stationed at Pearl Harbor last Christmas.

Pvt. John Kennedy of Minneapolis, Minn., and Pvt. John Nesja of Eau Claire, Wis., are having plenty of time at Great Lakes hospital, while recuperating from malaria, to get Christmas packages mailed early to their pals still overseas. Kennedy, who enlisted in February of 1942, spent eight months at Guadalcanal with the marines. Nesja had been overseas since shortly after his enlistment in September, 1941. He also was at Guadalcanal last Christmas.

These navy nurses at Great Lakes naval hospital, who spent last Christmas at Pearl Harbor, are starting in plenty of time before the deadline to get Christmas packages mailed overseas. They have good ideas, too, on what should go into these boxes for women stationed on distant war fronts. "Be sure to put in some perfume or frilly lingerie—anything feminine," they all agreed. Wrapping a Christmas box with sturdy paper are (left to right) Lt. (j. g.) Louise Smithisler of Cincinnati, O., and Lt. (j. g.) Dorothy Becker of La Grande, Ore. Ready to start packing a gift box is Lt. (j. g.) Mabel Houtz of Sioux City, Ia. The group recently returned from 18 months of overseas service at Pearl Harbor naval hospitals.

NAVY VETERANS TELL CHOICE OF YULETIDE GIFTS

Nurses Put Stress on Frilly Items.

Last Christmas was a steamy, dismal day at Guadalcanal. The boys kept watching for Christmas boxes but no mail arrived. They tried to push back thoughts of Christmases at home with fresh fragrant warmth of a log fire and dinner cooking inside. Pvts. John Kennedy and John Nesja of the marines remember how it was. They were there.

Recovering from malaria attacks at Great Lakes Naval hospital, these two marines are among a number of ex-combatants who have first hand suggestions about Christmas boxes for men and women in overseas service. "We know how much it will mean to them to receive gifts from home in time for Christmas," the boys said, "because last year our Christmas mail didn't arrive until February."

Cigaret Li hters Precious.

"Common every day things can become luxuries on some southwest Pacific island," Kennedy pointed out. "I could have sold my cigaret lighter at Guadalcanal for at least $50." He said matches are almost impossible to find, so cigaret lighters are "precious articles."

Another number one item for Christmas boxes, the marines said, is reading material, whether it is last month's newspaper or the latest best seller. Popular magazines are probably favored by the majority of men, they added, but books [pocket size], western stories, detective magazines and even comic books are welcome, depending on individual tastes. They included in this category pictures, preferably snapshots, and "long" personal letters.

"It's always a thrill to get any kind of picture from home," Nesja suggested. "Just send any old snapshot of the family, the house or the dog."

List Other Gifts.

Hard candy, gum, small games, shaving articles, stationery, shaving blade sharpeners and hunting knives were ranked in that order as other gifts which will be most appreciated overseas.

Cigarets, cigars, pipes, and smok-

DIVISION NO. 6 TO HIT QUOTA, SAYS OCD HEAD

Partial Tally Shows $13,350,000 Sales.

With a total of $13,350,000 already tallied and returns from some communities still incomplete, the 3d war loan campaign bond sales for OCD division 6 top those of all other divisions in the city, Lee Ross, division director, said. Final returns, he added, are expected to show that the $15,000,000 quota for the division has been met.

These sales are the result of a house to house canvass by more than 8,000 war bond wardens and block captains in the 19 communities of the north side, Ross said. The canvass, which began Sept. 13 and ended yesterday, was promoted for the sale of "E" bonds. More than 75 per cent of the division's total sales is represented in the "E" type of securities.

Flying Squadrons Help.

In instances where the personnel of a block organization was insufficient for thoro canvass, flying squadrons, organized thru the community headquarters, were sent into these blocks to aid in the work of the local OCD organization. Thru this procedure, Ross declared, not a family in the division was overlooked in the solicitation.

An example of the efficiency of this plan, the director said, was demonstrated in the Sheridan-Devon community, where Richard Streivel, 18 years old, 1053 Columbia avenue, organized a junior flying squadron with the assistance of Jean Sunder, 1053 Columbia avenue, and Massey Currey, 1117 Columbia avenue, to cover the block in which they live. As a result, they secured 54 subscriptions amounting to $7,762. After completely covering their own block, the junior squadron was assigned to other blocks in the community.

Mother Takes On Canvass.

In the Howard district, Mrs. Jean Morey, whose husband is on army duty, decided the bond wardens in her block were not doing "a thoro job," Ross related. So, despite caring for her infant son, Mrs. Morey canvassed every family in her block. She obtained thousands of dollars in subscriptions which otherwise might have been missed, he said.

Total sales reveal the average family purchase amounted to slightly more than $60 with an approximate average of $600 a block, Ross said.

The community reporting the largest amount in value of sales was the "near north side," with a $2,500,000 total under the leadership of war bond chairman, Atty. William C. Boyden, 60 East Scott street. This section of the north side had a particularly liberal response from the "gold coast" to the river, Ross said, but the "most willing" purchasers were middle class residents of the community.

Edgewater Runs Second.

Second in bond sales was Edgewater community with $2,225,000. Clyde H. Bailey, 5550 Kenmore avenue, is war bond chairman for the community. East Lake View community was third with a total of $2,000,000.

In close competition for honors in the total number of sales per capita, was Central-Uptown with 3,516 sales counted by War Bond Chairman William Schachtel, 811 Eastwood avenue. East Lake View followed with 2,529 sales and West Lake View community with 2219.

Flags will be presented to communities with the greatest number of sales and also the largest sales total.

Plan Many Awards.

Awards will also be made to blocks and zones showing the best results in the drive. In the Lincoln-Fullerton community, W. S. Herring Jr., commander, will give a number of individual prizes to block captains and war bond wardens on the basis of the largest number of bonds sold. The Clark-Devon community will award prizes to the zone and block captains in areas producing the most sales. Wade R. Franklin, commander of Central-Uptown, will award American flags to zones and blocks securing the largest number of subscriptions.

SEA'S IN BLOOD, SO BING FRETS AT SICK LEAVE

Sailor in Hurry to Get Back Aboard Ship.

Mack Bing, a seaman, first class, now recuperating from shrapnel wounds and a tropical infection at Great Lakes naval hospital, is "very anxious to go back to sea."

Mack Bing.

"I don't think I would be," said the tall, black haired bluejacket who has seen action on every front of the present war, "but I guess the 'old salts' are right when they say the sea just gets in your blood." Bing is the 20 year old son of Mrs. Benjamin L. Levy, 222 East Chestnut street.

Enlisted in 1940.

Since his enlistment in the navy in February, 1940, Bing estimates he has traveled more than 60,000 miles in visiting every continent and important port in the world. He has seen each phase of the war, from Pearl Harbor to the battle in North Africa after which he was hospitalized and returned to the United States. His duty has included assignments on three different types of ships, a transport, a cruiser, and a destroyer.

Bing knows what it is to be hunted by wolf packs of submarines in the Atlantic. He knows what it is to be at the mercy of high level bombers and torpedo planes, whether they are being flown by Japs, Nazis, or Italians, and to fight it out with enemy surface craft and shore batteries.

This navy man recalls two particular incidents, in widely separated regions of the world, which gave him the "most anxiety." The first came while he was aboard a cruiser on duty in the Southwest Pacific. Bing was in charge of a gun when Jap high level bombers and torpedo planes descended upon them. A bomb landed approximately 300 feet away from him.

Was "Out" 20 Minutes.

"I was strapped to the gun," said Bing, "but the impact of the blow knocked me down." He said he lay there for 20 minutes when he finally regained consciousness and struggled back to his gun position. He put the gun back into action, and tho he doesn't remember whether or not he personally accounted for any Jap planes, he saw several crash into the water. He received three shrapnel wounds during the attack.

The next "close call," Bing said, came when he was serving on a destroyer on convoy duty in the Mediterranean just before the fall of Bizerte.

"We were in a convoy delivering supplies to Africa," he recalled, "when scores of Italian and German torpedo planes spotted us. They blew up one of the merchant ships near us and, tho we were picking off some of the planes with our anti-aircraft fire, we were no match for them. Naturally they bombed our supply ships first and we knew we were doomed when they finished them off.

Saved by P-38s.

"I didn't know what to do, and I guess nobody did. We were just plain scared, when suddenly a number of American P-38s came into view. Boy! were we glad to see them! They saved our lives and when we got into port we were so happy we bought drinks for every soldier we saw. I guess they were a little surprised at first, but they soon found out why we were so elated."

Bing was graduated from Hyde Park High school in February, 1940, just before his enlistment. Upon completing his boot training at Great Lakes, he was assigned to a transport and participated in the initial landing of marines in Iceland in July, 1941.

Transferred to a light cruiser, Bing got in on the Marshall and Gilbert Island raid in February, 1942, and saw action in three major battles in waters around Australia. In June, his ship was tranferred to the Atlantic fleet and took part in the initial landings in North Africa.

After the North African landing, he was assigned to destroyer duty, made several trips in Caribbean waters and then returned to the European front to convoy duty in the Mediterranean. Bings wears campaign ribbons for every theater of war in addition to the navy expeditionary bar. He has a half brother, Ted Levy, who is a technical sergeant in the army air forces in Africa.

MAJ. R. B. ROGERS NAMED LEADER OF BOMBER BASE

Maj. R. Boynton Rogers, formerly of 219 Lake Shore drive, was recently appointed executive officer of the Rattlesnake bomber base, Pyote, Tex., home of the 19th bombardment group. Prior to his new assignment, Maj. Rogers was commanding officer of the army air base, Alexandria, La.

The major's military career dates back to World War I. when he joined a band of pioneers who inaugurated army flying in airplanes. He became a cadet at Kelly field in 1917 and later a second lieutenant. With the armistice, Maj. Rogers reentered the insurance business in Chicago, his home, and became vice president of Bowes & Co., representatives of Lloyd's of London.

He returned to active duty in August, 1942, and his first assignment was at the army air base, Ephrata, Wash., where he served as commanding officer of the base headquarters squadron.

FETE NEW Y. W. SECRETARY AT TEA THURSDAY

A tea honoring Mrs. Benjamin Getzoff, newly appointed industrial secretary of the Evanston Center Y. W. C. A., will be held by the Iota Sigma Chi club of the center from 3 to 5 p. m. Thursday at the Methodist church house in Evanston.

Ruopp of 2701 Eastwood avenue, who was recently appointed chairman of the industrial committee of the Evanston Center Y. W. C. A., and to other members of the Evanston center committee.

5 GLOBAL WAR VETERANS ENTER NORTHWESTERN

Released Service Men Sign for Classes

Five young veterans of World War II., honorably discharged from service because of injuries and disabilities, comprised the first such group to return to school at Northwestern university when classes opened recently.

One of the group, who entered school under the veterans' rehabilitation program of the state, is David Teplitz of 358 North Hamlin avenue, formerly a private in the military police band at River Rouge Park, Mich. Teplitz, 20 years old, is in Northwestern's school of music.

No. 2 Man on Cutter.

Another veteran, Phillip Groh, 5241 Kenmore avenue, was enrolled under the United States veterans' rehabilitation program. Groh, 21, was in service two years as a coxswain in the coast guard reserve. He was second in command of a coast guard cutter. Injuries received when his boat was sunk off Cape Hatteras in September, 1942, and others received aboard the U. S. S. Mistletoe brought about his honorable discharge. He now is in the school of speech at Northwestern.

John Wilhelm, 6432 South Marshfield avenue, former ensign on the U. S. Oglala, was discharged as a result of wounds received at Pearl Harbor. Wilhelm, 25, spent six months in a hospital overseas. He had been graduated from Northwestern before his enlistment and has returned for graduate work in the school of education.

Two Injured in Camp.

Two other members of the group, Kenneth Clafford, 5719 North Central avenue, and Eugene Keck, 2217 School street, were injured while preparing for overseas service in army camps. Clafford, 21, enrolled as a junior in the Northwestern school of journalism. Graduated from the Northwestern school of music in June, 1942, Keck, who is 23, is now doing graduate work in the school.

B-17 FLOWN BACK FROM WAR ZONE BY NORTH SIDER

Fort Crew Is Home from Pacific.

Maj. Stuart S. Knickerbocker, formerly of 900 North Michigan avenue, recently flew his Flying Fortress back from the South Pacific war zone, with eight Zeros and 14 direct bombing hits tallied on her nose as evidence of her crew's successful battle activities.

Maj. Knickerbocker set his ship down for servicing at Sacramento air depot, air service command base at McCellan field, near Sacramento. The Flying Fortress, which he says he "never got around to naming," but which he calls "Fogsnozzle" because he encountered so much "weather" in it, is almost unscarred despite its duels with enemy fighter planes.

Crew's Record Good.

His crew accounted for the eight Zeros, a Jap transport, a cruiser, an aircraft carrier, and a total of 14 direct hits on enemy targets in 500 hours of combat flying. Most of the tallies were chalked up during the last concentrated Jap drive on Guadalcanal, he disclosed.

It was in February, the major said, when the air strength of the allies turned back a Jap task force of 20 destroyers, four cruisers, a number of troop ships and "plenty of air cover," losing only one plane.

Takes Squadron to Pacific.

Maj. Knickerbocker had taken a heavy bombardment squadron into the South Pacific in July, 1942, from Hendricks field, Fla., where he had been a Flying Fortress instructor following his return from England the preceding May. He was one of the first ferry pilots with the R. A. F.

Selected as director of air force training in Washington, D. C., Maj. Knickerbocker will now aid in preparing combat flyers for incidents they will encounter later under the air service command program, men returned from combat zones are placed in training positions. The major is the nephew of Mrs. Marjorie Cavanaugh and the cousin of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Keogh, all of 900 North Michigan avenue..

Nurses Put Emphasis on Frilly Items.

ing tobacco will be welcomed by men who are at outposts where they are not likely to get canteen supplies, the marines explained, but men aboard ship or at large bases have a plentiful supply of such items and can get them at lower cost. They both agreed that articles of clothing are not needed.

It was suggested that persons with ration points to spare include cheese and olives in their overseas Christmas boxes. "Those are two items which will be looked upon as real delicacies," the boys said.

Other gifts which received heartfelt "thank yous" overseas were air mail stamps, poker chips, playing cards, and high topped boots. "Still it might be kind of hard for a civilian to purchase an extra pair of boots," one of them suddenly remembered.

Nurses Want "Luxury Goods."

But, altho the men prefer practical items, according to the marines, women overseas prefer "luxury goods." A group of navy nurses at Great Lakes hospital, who recently returned from overseas service, agreed that "the girls still like to receive perfume and frilly lingerie—anything feminine." This group of nurses spent last Christmas at Pearl Harbor.

One of them, Lt. [j. g.] Dorothy Weber of Detroit, Mich., said her "most prized" gift of last Christmas was a portable radio. "We can't take much with us," she explained, "so something like a radio is always exciting to receive."

If they were to spend another Christmas out of the country these nurses would most appreciate some of the following gifts: manicure sets, sewing kits, stationery, "silly things like big Teddy Bears and Pandas," and "good things to eat." They advised against sending cakes and cookies "because they are usually dried out by the time they catch up with people."

GLENCOE CLUB TO HEAR TALK ON FAR EAST

Former N. U. Professor, Traveler to Speak.

Dr. William McGovern will discuss "What About the Far East?" before members and guests of the Woman's Library club of Glencoe at 8:15 tomorrow night. A former professor of political science at Northwestern university, Dr. McGovern is now doing special work at Washington, D. C.

Born in New York, the lecturer has traveled widely thru the orient. He studied in a monastery in Kyoto, Japan, at the age of 16, to become a Buddhist priest. Going to Oxford in 1917, he paid for his further education by teaching Chinese at the University of London. Later he explored the Amazon, dug up Inca ruins in Peru, and penetrated the Forbidden City of Lhasa in Tibet. He came to Chicago in 1927 as assistant curator of anthropology for the Field museum, and joined the faculty at Northwestern two years later.

Dr. McGovern who speaks 12 languages has written a book on Japanese grammar. He was in Tokio at the outbreak of the war and, before returning home, spent time in Manchukuo and in Shanghai. Music and a social hour will follow the doctor's talk. Mrs. Henry J. Droba is social chairman, assisted by Mrs. Paul Chapin, Mrs. Karl D. King, and Mrs. Charles Price. Hostesses assisting Mrs. Henry E. Kritzer, hospitality chairman, will be Mrs. J. MacGregor Fraser, Mrs. Phillip W. Grassell, Mrs. James L. Price, and Mrs. Howard I. Potter.

Niles Center Woman's Club.

At 12:30 o'clock luncheon will open the first meeting of the club year for members of the Niles Center Women's club of Skokie Wednesday at the municipal building. Mrs. Fredric W. Dunlap, new president, will preside. Other new officers include Mrs. Donald J. Wellenkamp, vice president; Mrs. J. R. Rosenburg, recording secretary; Mrs. Harry L. Gadau, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. William F. Carroll, treasurer.

Mrs. Mauritz E. Friberg, program chairman, and her committee have arranged programs for the balance of the year. At the October meeting James Bradley-Griffin, dramatic recitalist, will read "They Burned the Books." Miss Lola Fletcher will give her portrayal of Jenny Lind in a song and costume presentation in November.

At the December meeting the Rev. Frederic Pamp will give "Bethlehem of the Heart," and Christmas carols will be sung by a group of club members. War work will continue under the chairmanship of Mrs. Miles T. Babb, public welfare and war service chairman, and Mrs. Thomas J. O'Connell, Red Cross chairman.

Edgemere Woman's Club.

Members of the Edgemere Woman's club will open the season Tuesday with a meeting at the Edgewater Beach hotel. The board will convene at 10:30 a. m. Mrs. Burt E. Steeson, president, will meet with newly elected officers and department chairmen. They will include Mrs. William H. Queeny, Mrs. Edward W. Preston, and Mrs. Edward Pretzel, vice presidents; Miss Edna J. Wray, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Walter E. Hughes, recording secretary; Mrs. Samuel D. Cates, financial secretary, and Mrs. John T. Kinsman, treasurer.

Luncheon will be at 1 o'clock. Chairmen of departments will present their program which will include discussions of war service, the Red Cross, public health, and public welfare. Guest speakers will be Mrs. Charles A. Stigman, state chairman of war service, Illinois Federation of Women's clubs; and Mrs. Burnette D. Warner, women's division of the Goodwill Industries.

Mrs. Frederick C. Justice, program chairman, will present a musical by Louella DeWindt, contralto; Maxine Cassaretto, soprano; and Hugo Brandt, pianist and composer.

Brownson Circle.

Reciprocity and music day will be observed by the Brownson Circle tomorrow at the Rogers Park Woman's club, 7079 North Ashland avenue. At 2 o'clock Mrs. Prentiss McKenzie, president, will welcome Mrs. Arthur G. Highgate, 10th district president, and also presidents of neighboring clubs in the district. Mrs. Edward Chainski, music chairman, will have charge of the program at 3 o'clock when Miss Marjorie Anderson, soprano, and Miss Doris Seelig, pianist, will be heard in recital.

Ruth Margaret Hibbard a Bride

Miss Ruth Margaret Hibbard, daughter of Dean and Mrs. Addison Hibbard of Evanston, recently became the bride of Ensign Walter Robert Hilker Jr. of Beverly Hills, Cal. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents, 1416 Hinman avenue. Ensign Hilker was graduated from the University of Southern California. He is stationed in Florida. The bride is a senior at Northwestern university. [Koehne Photo.]

North Sider Recalls Ruins of City.

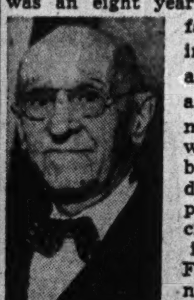
Seventy-two years ago Otto Stumpf was an eight year old boy, his father was playing in a band in a downtown theater, and his mother was busy watching her brood of six children as they played in the vicinity of the family home on Franklin street near Chicago avenue.



Otto Stumpf.

One Friday evening Otto's father, home after a day's work, mentioned that a big fire had started to the southwest of their home. Later the same evening he bought a copy of THE TRIBUNE and was able to read it on his front porch by the light from the flames, tho they were still two miles away.

Otto, who now lives at 907 Irving Park road, recalls watching the fire approach the north side with childish interest and remembers his mother's words: "This will be an occasion you will never forget!" She was prophetic, tho at the time she little imagined her family would be driven from its home the next day.

Flee Path of Flames.

They spent the night of Oct. 8 in their home but early the next morning his parents sent the children to an uncle's home on Granger street, one block north of Division street. The same morning the fire came so close to the Stumpf's home that Otto's parents were forced to move to Granger street and that afternoon both families were forced to flee across the river to a prairie on the northwest side.

Mr. Stumpf recalls that the two families used the North avenue bridge, which was packed from dawn to dusk that day with fleeing families.

Family Returns to Chicago.

The Stumpf family had nothing left in Chicago after the fire, and when railroads offered free transportation to burned out families, they moved to Brooklyn. There Otto's father got a band job and there twins were born into the family. After his father, a brother, and one of the twins died within four months, the family moved back to Chicago.

Mr. Stumpf entered the jewelry business and maintained a store in the Loop from 1878 to 1942 when he retired. He saw magnificent new homes rise out of charred ruins and skyscrapers tower over foundations of destroyed wooden buildings.

Weds Bombardier

Miss Virginia Gathemann, daughter of Mrs. Emma Gathemann of 5959 Magnolia avenue, recently became the bride of Lt. R. G. Walton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter F. Walton, 3320 Byron street. The wedding took place at Lowry field, Denver, Colo. Lt. Walton enlisted in the army as a bombardier two years ago. The newlyweds are living temporarily in Denver.

JEWISH WOMEN ARRANGE CLINIC ON MEMBERSHIP

Wednesday Meeting Is Set in Drive.

Demonstration of a membership committee meeting, a model membership talk, and an explanation of the organizational structure of the American Jewish congress are to be presented at 2 p. m. Wednesday, by the Chicago women's division of the American Jewish congress program in Bialik hall in the college of Jewish studies, 220 South State street. The clinic is planned in conjunction with a current drive for 3,000 new members under auspices of the Chicago division of the American Jewish congress. Mrs. Joseph Rubin, Mrs. Abel Fagen, and Mrs. Max Weinstock comprise the north shore membership committee.

The opening meeting of Agudas Achim North Shore Congregation Sisterhood will be held tomorrow at the community hall. Guest speaker will be Rabbi Shmaryahu T. Swirsky. Mrs. Louis Rosen is president of the sisterhood.

Temple Emanuel sisterhood will meet at 2 p. m. Tuesday in the temple auditorium, 701 Buckingham place. Reports of the sisterhood's war service work and its 1943-'44 earning fund, which finances the work, will be given. Prof. Bergen Evans of the Northwestern university English department will be guest speaker. His subject will be "Why People Tell Such Dreadful Lies."

Mrs. Milford Schulhof is president of the sisterhood. Other officers are Mrs. Ludwig Degginger first vice president; Mrs. B. B. Schneider, second vice president; Mrs. William Linz, recording secretary; Mrs. Richard Sholtz, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Eli Brown, financial secretary, and Mrs. Julius Lefkow, treasurer.

The north side district of the Chicago chapter of Hadassah will meet in the Belmont hotel Tuesday afternoon with Pearl Franklin as guest speaker. Mrs. Robert Levy is district president. West Rogers Park district will meet the same afternoon at the Ner Tamid congregation with Mrs. James H. Olshan as guest speaker. Mrs. Morris I. Minov is president of the district. All districts of the Chicago chapter will meet Tuesday.

DEEP SEA DIVER TO TALK AT N. U. GUILD MEETING

Max Gene Nohl, deep sea diver and underwater explorer, will address the season's first meeting of the University guild at 2:15 o'clock tomorrow in Scott hall on Northwestern's campus. Mrs. Ernest H. Hahne, starting her second year as president, will be in charge of the meeting. Mrs. Leland D. Case, program chairman, will introduce Nohl who will speak on "Salvaging Sunken Ships."

Joining in the receiving line after the lecture will be Mrs. Hahne, Mrs. Franklin Bliss Snyder, Mrs. Kenneth Burgess, Mrs. Arthur Swanson, Mrs. James G. Carr, and Mrs. Alfred R. Bates. Hostesses for the tea will be Mrs. Hubert Hardy, Mrs. Harold Weis, and Mrs. Charles Hurd. Mrs. R. F. Keller will arrange table decorations.

STATE CONGRESS AID TO SPEAK TO TRUMBULL PTA

Mrs. Frank Damm Guest Tomorrow at School.

Mrs. Frank Damm, first vice president of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, will be the guest speaker at the meeting of the Trumbull PTA at 1:15 o'clock tomorrow in the school, 1600 Foster avenue. She will discuss "Progress Thru PTA Membership."

Tomorrow's meeting will launch a period of increased activity for the Trumbull group as the first session of the 10 week Red Cross nutrition course will be held Wednesday. Plans are also being pushed for the inauguration of the Red Cross class in home nursing.

The nutrition class will meet every Wednesday from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m. and the home nursing class, as soon as 25 prospective students have registered, will meet on 10 consecutive Wednesdays from 1 to 3 p. m. Fee for each course is $1 which will cover the cost of textbooks.

Stewart — Fathers are invited guests to the open house meeting of the Graeme Stewart PTA at 7 p. m. Tuesday in the school at 4525 Kenmore avenue. Mrs. Joseph F. Elward of the Red Cross and her son, Paul, will appear in a blood donor playlet, "My Blood Is in the War." Kindergarten mothers are hostesses for the event, which will feature a project by eighth grade pupils.

The association will hold its fall rummage sale Friday and Saturday from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. in the building at 4412 Broadway.

McPherson—Jack Little, known as "the soldier's friend," will speak at the Fathers' night meeting of the McPherson PTA Thursday. School children will furnish additional entertainment. The group will hold a rummage sale Wednesday, Oct. 13, in the store on the southwest corner of Damen and Lawrence avenues.

Blaine—Walter C. Cromwell of the Juvenile Protection association will be the speaker at the first meeting of the season of the Blaine PTA at 1:30 o'clock Friday in the school, 3808 Southport avenue.

Mr. Cromwell will speak on "Protecting Children and Youth," a subject in line with the association's theme for the year, "It Is Better to Build a Boy than Mend a Man." Mrs. E. T. Kiehl is program chairman.

Bette Rees Is Bride

Miss Bette Jane Rees, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Rees of 1846 Pratt boulevard, recently became the bride of William Robert Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Wilson of 6200 North Hoyne avenue. The bride attended the University of Illinois, where she was a member of Chi Omega sorority. Her husband also attended the University of Illinois. He is stationed at the Glenview naval air station.

WRITERS' GROUP TO START NEW CLASS SERIES

Meet in Highland Park Thursday Morning.

Northshore Creative Writers, a social group which meets in the Highland Park Y. W. C. A., will start a new series of classes at 10 a. m. Thursday for any one interested in writing as a hobby or in literary criticism.

The class, which is part of the group's program for the year, again will be directed by Rowena Bennett, poet and lecturer, who led the writing for children workshop at the Writers' conference last summer at Northwestern university.

Mrs. Fontaine Is Secretary.

Officials of the Writers this year will include Mrs. Everett Fontaine who will continue as program secretary and representative of the Y. W. C. A. education committee which sponsors the class.

Mrs. Donald McGibeny of Lake Forest will be chairman of the poetry section which will alternate Thursday meetings with the prose section under direction of Mrs. George K. Bowden of Ravinia.

Plan Monthly Luncheons.

Informal luncheons for class members will be held once a month at which guest speakers will appear.

Much of the first meeting will be devoted to a discussion of reports by members who attended workshops at the summer conference. Announcement of rules governing a $1,000 play writing contest and a $500 book contest will be made.

NORTHSHORE ART LEAGUE HOLDING EXHIBIT IN LOOP

The North Shore Art league will continue its first exhibit of paintings thru Thursday at Mandel Brothers store galleries in the loop. Thirty-six north shore men and women are represented with oils, water colors, sculptures, and pastels at the exhibit.

Prizes were awarded Margaret Huston of Winnetka for a landscape in oil; Elizabeth Engelhard of Winnetka for water colors; Lavina Perin Gray of Evanston for figure painting in oil; and Esther Jarrard of Winnetka for still life in water colors.

Among well known artists participating in the exhibit are Emil Zettler of Deerfield, teacher of sculpture; and Anita Willets Burnham of Winnetka, artist, author, and lecturer. All artists exhibiting reside in the north shore suburbs. They work on their art at the Winnetka community house.

WORK IN "A SWEET PLACE" CONVENIENTLY NEAR HOME

Part or full time jobs—we'll suit our time to yours! You'll like the friendly, homey atmosphere. And the work's very pleasant and easy. Maybe you have time to spare from your household tasks—or some after-school hours. Also full-time jobs with lots of opportunity for advancement. Good pay; 40-hour week, with time and a half for overtime. No experience needed.

W-G-N TO START AIRING OF WORLD SERIES TUESDAY

Open Exclusive Broadcast in Yankee Stadium.

For the fifth consecutive year W-G-N and Mutual will broadcast the play-by-play account of the world series, starting Tuesday, in New York's Yankee stadium. Under an exclusive sponsorship arrangement the $100,000 paid for the broadcast rights will go to the Red Cross and other charity organizations.

Lt. Bob Elson.

Lt. Bob Elson, W-G-N sportscaster before joining the navy last year, who has broadcast world series games for 13 years, has received navy permission to assist Red Barber in handling the report of the sports classic. Bill Corum, sports columnist, will give the highlights and color of the games.

American service men at battle stations thruout the world will not miss hearing the series. Arrangements have been made by MBS and the British Broadcasting corporation to short wave the games to the fighting men. Don Dunphy will be at the microphone for these broadcasts.

The first three games will be played in New York with game time at 12:30 p. m., [Chicago war time] and the remaining games in St. Louis starting on Oct. 10 at 1:30 p. m. The broadcasts will start 15 minutes earlier. There will be no games on Oct. 8 and 9. These two days will be used for traveling.

SHOSTAKOVICH'S 5TH SYMPHONY ON WBBM TODAY

Dimitri Shostakovich's Fifth Symphony will be the feature work performed during the New York Philharmonic Symphony program from 2 to 3:25 p. m. today over WBBM-CBS. Vladimir Golschmann will conduct the orchestra.

Carl Sandburg, American poet and biographer, will be the guest of Carl Van Doren on the intermission feature, "The American Scriptures." Sandburg will read an excerpt from his "The People, Yes."

In addition to the Shostakovich symphony, the orchestra will play three movements from the Handel-Beecham "The Faithful Shepherd" suite and three movements from "Iberia" by Albeniz.

FOREIGN POLICY WILL BE ROUND TABLE'S TOPIC

Congress' role in making and executing American foreign policy will be discussed by the University of Chicago Round Table today. Beginning with this program, the Round Table will be heard at a new time, 12:30 p. m.

Discussing "Congress and Foreign Policy" the speakers will examine the Fulbright resolution. They also will analyze the Ball-Burton-Hatch-Hill resolution. Participants will include Avery O. # BARNES TO OPEN SUNDAY EVENING CLUB SESSIONS

37th Season to Start in Orchestra Hall.

The sight of four churches on as many corners in his home town in Pennsylvania disturbed Clifford W. Barnes, then a zealous young theological student, presenting him with a constant impression of futility, waste, and division. It was during those days as a student that he pledged his life to furthering unity in the Christian religion.

Clifford W. Barnes.

Several years later the pledge took form when the Sunday Evening club, which will open its 37th season tonight at Orchestra hall, was established. Founder and president of the organization which has aided the cause of religious unity since 1908, Mr. Barnes has presided at every "opening night" since its beginning, except the one in 1918 when he was in service in Greece.

Club Not Denominational.

The Sunday Evening club has no denominational connections. Assisting Mr. Barnes is a board of 35 businessmen affiliated with Protestant churches, and an advisory council of nine ministers, pastors of churches, or heads of theological seminaries.

A "downtown mission," as it is sometimes called, the club does not have a regular membership. It reaches a transient population composed of tourists, near loop dwellers, and nonchurch goers thruout the city. Hotel guests form a section of its audiences. Evening services at Orchestra hall have an average attendance of 2,000, and often hundreds have to be turned away.

The services last from 8 to 9 p. m., preceded by a song service beginning at 7 p. m. No admission is charged. Support for the club comes from individual subscriptions. Officers serve without salary.

Former U. of C. Instructor.

Born in Corry, Pa., in 1864, Mr. Barnes was graduated from Yale 1897. The next year he spent in England as a student at Oxford. Later, he carried on work similar to the Sunday Evening club in the Latin quarter in Paris.

At the turn of the century, he returned to Chicago as sociology instructor and director of university settlement work at the University of Chicago. He became president of Illinois college and established himself in Chicago with the idea of founding a nonsectarian service for all classes and creeds. Mr. Barnes lives in Lake Forest.

Mr. Barnes has discovered and brought to America many men who have remained to become religious leaders. One of the club's earliest speakers, Hugh Black of Edinburgh, Scotland, later became a leader in the Union Theological seminary.

Has "Ear for Good Speaker."

Mr. Barnes is reputed to have an ear for a good speaker in much the same way a newspaper man has a nose for a good story. And he "usually gets his man," it is said. Introductions he gives the speaker for the evening, most of whom are eminent churchmen, are looked upon as an important part of the program.

On one occasion, Mr. Barnes, who insists on punctuality, refused to wait for a president of the United States. The incident occurred on university where he was a leader in the campus Y. M. C. A. He had a pastorate in Chicago from 1894 to Oct. 29, 1911, when a crowd assembled at Orchestra hall to hear William Howard Taft. Eight o'clock came, "speakers' row" was assembled back stage at 8 p. m., but the speaker of the evening had not appeared.

Mr. Barnes and others participating in the evening's program filed onto the platform at the usual time and the service began promptly. Mr. Taft came, 15 minutes late, to give his talk on "Peace."

Leader in World Alliance.

Since 1927 Mr. Barnes has been vice president of the World Alliance for International Friendship. World peace, Anglo-American unity, and racial tolerance have all, along with church unity, been the underlying principles of the Sunday Evening club.

'ROBERTA' OPENS OPERA YEAR ON W-G-N SATURDAY

W-G-N's 1943-'44 season of operettas and operas gets under way on The Chicago Theater of the Air next Saturday with the presentation of Jerome Kern's "Roberta," in which Marion Claire, soprano singer of the series, and Thomas L. Thomas, baritone, will be co-starred.

The program will be broadcast by W-G-N, W59C, and the Mutual network from 8 to 9 p. m.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak. The production will be directed by Jack LaFrande and will feature the music of the W-G-N Symphony orchestra conducted by Henry Weber and the chorus led by Robert Trendler.

LaFrandre's adaptation of the "Roberta" story tells of the romance of a lovely Russian refugee and an All-American football player, set in the luxury of a Parisian gown shop in the early 1930s. Miss Claire will sing the part of Stephanie, the Russian girl, while Thomas will have the rôle of the football player, John Kent.

All the famous music Kern composed for the "Roberta" score will be included in the program. Songs from the operetta will be heard in the following order:

"The Touch of Your Hand," Miss Claire; "Yesterdays," Ruth Slater, contralto; "Madrigal Chorus," male chorus; "Something Had to Happen," orchestra; "You're Devastating," Thomas and chorus; "Yesterdays," Thomas and chorus; "The Touch of Your Hand," Miss Claire, Thomas, and chorus.

"Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," Miss Claire and chorus; "Let's Begin," Wayne Van Dyne, tenor, and chorus; "You're Devastating," Miss Claire, Thomas, and chorus; and "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," Miss Claire, Thomas, and chorus.

Urge Owners to Adopt Fuel Saving Program.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

The nation-wide mobilization to conserve fuel is gaining momentum. Home owners are asked to "winter condition" their homes in every possible way and here are nine principal factors involved in a winter-proofing job.

Insulate parts of your heating plant, as boilers, furnaces, heating pipes, hot water tanks and hot air chutes need coverings to seal in the heat; insulate attic roof or floor; weatherstrip windows and doors; caulk cracks; put up storm sash and storm doors; install winter vestibules; insulate walls where it it practicable; seal walls and doors which give access to any part of the house which is little used, or not used at all, and insulate ceiling of basement or a cellar which is not heated.

Insulate Behind Radiator.

One simple way of saving heat is to place a piece of insulation board between a radiator and an outside wall. Almost as simple a method to stop heat loss in cold basements is to install panels of ½ inch insulating board into window openings.

Weatherstripping is important because it is said that cracks which run around an average window amount in size to space occupied by a brick. A house with 20 windows has an opening about the size of 20 bricks. Quite some opening in zero weather.

Storm Windows Important.

Tight fitting storm windows are important sealers against loss of heat thru window panes. Caulking of cracks is important since a lot of heat can escape thru those open joints caused by settling of a house.

Attic floors or roofs can be insulated in various ways. If you are not planning to use your attic space you can use dry fills of different types which come in batts or bags. Insulation boards are splendid fuel savers if you are planning to finish one room or the entire attic.

It goes without saying that there's a big loss of heat thru the walls of a house. Heat loss thru an uninsulated wall averages around 27 per cent. Insulate the wall with a 2 per cent thickness of insulation and you can cut heat loss to around 17 per cent. An insulation expert can advise best type of wall insulation, depending on the house structure.

Seal Unused Rooms.

This is the month to close and seal any room or rooms which will be little used this winter—or not used at all. Doors which lead to these unused spaces should be tightly weatherstripped. Basement doors should be weatherstripped and if it is to be used for living purposes, it should have the same attention as the rest of the house. If it is not used for living purposes its ceiling should be heat-sealed to keep first floor rooms warm.

And if you have a home with walls of asbestos cement siding or shingles which are in need of a good cleaning, there are excellent cleaners available, manufactured especially for this type of wall.

THIS WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, October 4.

The home gardener will find the autumn activities quite pressing unless he has completed all preliminary work, which includes taking in all accessories to the protection of a shed, laying in material for giving winter protction to the perennials and spring or late planted stock.

Tuesday, October 5.

Emphasis is placed on the value of clearing all debris from the garden. Especially necessary is the raking up and burning of all weeds not only in one's own yard but on adjoining land if there is such. It is not too late to build up the garden soil, and there are many soils that will stand building up.

Wednesday, October 6.

Gardeners living in sections where animal manures can be obtained are fortunate, for there is nothing better for growing plants. However, some soil may be deficient in a certain element which can be supplied by using commercial fertilizers, usually applied just before planting in spring at intervals during the growing season, and in the amount required for the crop.

Thursday, October 7.

Tulip planting time is here and there is nothing better to furnish brilliant bloom in springtime. A good way to arrange them is in clumps of half a dozen. Planting in rows is never quite as pleasing as planting in clumps. One should study the height the plants will grow and plant accordingly.

Friday, October 8.

The bulbs for indoor flowering include such choice items as the amaryllis, sparaxis, with small flowers of bright colors; calla, with luxuriant foliage and chalk white flowers; oxailis, charming little plants with yellow buttercup blooms; freesias in many colors; and one may try the beautiful Easter lily by starting it now, keeping it cool until well rooted and then placing it in a window.

Saturday, October 9.

Hardwood cuttings may be taken of various shrubs. Mention has been made as to the practicability of sowing hardy annuals in the fall to give early bloom in the spring. These may be sown now, for the seeds in most cases lie in the soil until spring when they start growth.

Prepared in cooperation with Garfield Park conservatory.

COMBINED NEGRO GROUPS TO MEET NEXT SUNDAY

Plans to reduce the cost of living and curb rising food prices affecting Chicago Negroes will be discussed Sunday at the first combined fall meeting of the Chicago Citizen's Committee of 1,000 and the National Negro council at the Metropolitan Community church, 4100 South Park way.

Prominent Negro ministers and laymen, including Edgar G. Brown, director of the National Negro council, will speak at the meeting. Speakers include Dr. W. H. Jackson, pastor of Olivet Baptist church; the Rev. Harold Kingsley, the Rev. W. S. Bradden, the Rev. A. Wayman Ward, and Dr. Joseph Evans, pastor of Metropolitan Community church.

A plan for a large scale educational and volunteer price warden system, with office of price administration branch offices staffed by Negro volunteer workers under supervision of OPA regional and state offices, will be presented.

CLUB WOMEN TO PUSH WAR WORK

3 Northwest Units Increase Rolls.

Despite the attraction of highly paid war jobs, enrollment in Chicago high schools at the end of the first two weeks of the fall term is only 7.65 per cent below the last year, George F. Cassell, assistant superintendent in charge of high schools, said last week. The decrease in county and suburban schools is only 5 per cent, Noble J. Puffer, county superintendent of schools, announced. Three of the five northwest side suburban high schools showed increases.

Mrs. Jewell Coleman, superintendent of the state labor department's division of women's and children's employment, declared she had received urgent appeals from high school officials in the state to investigate and enforce labor laws regarding employment of youngsters of high school age when enrollment began.

Work Permits Grow.

Mrs. Coleman said that in Chicago and Cook county work permits for children 16 and 17 years old soared to 50,000 during the first seven months of 1943, five times greater than the 1942 number.

Enrollment in Chicago high schools at the end of the first two weeks of the term was 113,600, compared with 119,000 in the February enrollment, and 123,000 in the 1942 autumn term. Cassell said during the summer the board of education urged employers not to retain employes of high school age after the new school term started.

The three northwest side high schools outside the city limits showing increases in enrollment were Arlington Heights Township High school, whose registration increased from 600 to 620; Barrington District High school, from 262 to 274, and Palatine Township High school, 277, an increase of seven. Decreased enrollments occurred at Leyden Community High school, with 740, a loss of 10, and Maine Township High school, enrolled 1,573 students, a drop of 119.

Enrollment Increase.

Slight decreases were shown in enrollments in all but two of the elementary schools in northwest suburban Cook county. Franklin Park school increased from 257 to 376, and Barrington's enrollment jumped from 399 to 526.

Enrollment figures in northwest suburban elementary schools are Arlington Heights, 392; Barrington, 526; Des Plaines, 990; Franklin Park, 376; Norwood Park, 506; Palatine, 322; Park Ridge, 1,494; River Grove, 295, and Schiller Park, 270.

PLAN PARK RIDGE DOLLAR DRIVE TO AID GIRLS' GROUPS

Preparations are under way for the sixth annual dollar drive to benefit Camp Fire Girls and Girl Scouts of Park Ridge. During the drive, from Oct. 14 to Oct. 20, volunteer workers will call at each home in the suburb for contributions. Proceeds will be used to support the Scouting and Camp Fire programs during the coming year.

Members of the executive committee are Mrs. E. W. Carter, chairman; Mrs. Robert Osborn, co-chairman; Mrs. R. W. Dokmo, secretary; Mrs. G. E. French, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. K. R. Wells, treasurer.

Other members of the committee are Mrs. H. A. Bates and Mrs. Lynn Werner, in charge of publicity; Mrs. P. M. Carrick and Mrs. George Eberhardt, organization, and Mrs. J. C. Woods, filing and clerical work.

MAJ. FRANK MEYERS WINS PROMOTION TO LIEUTENANT COLONEL

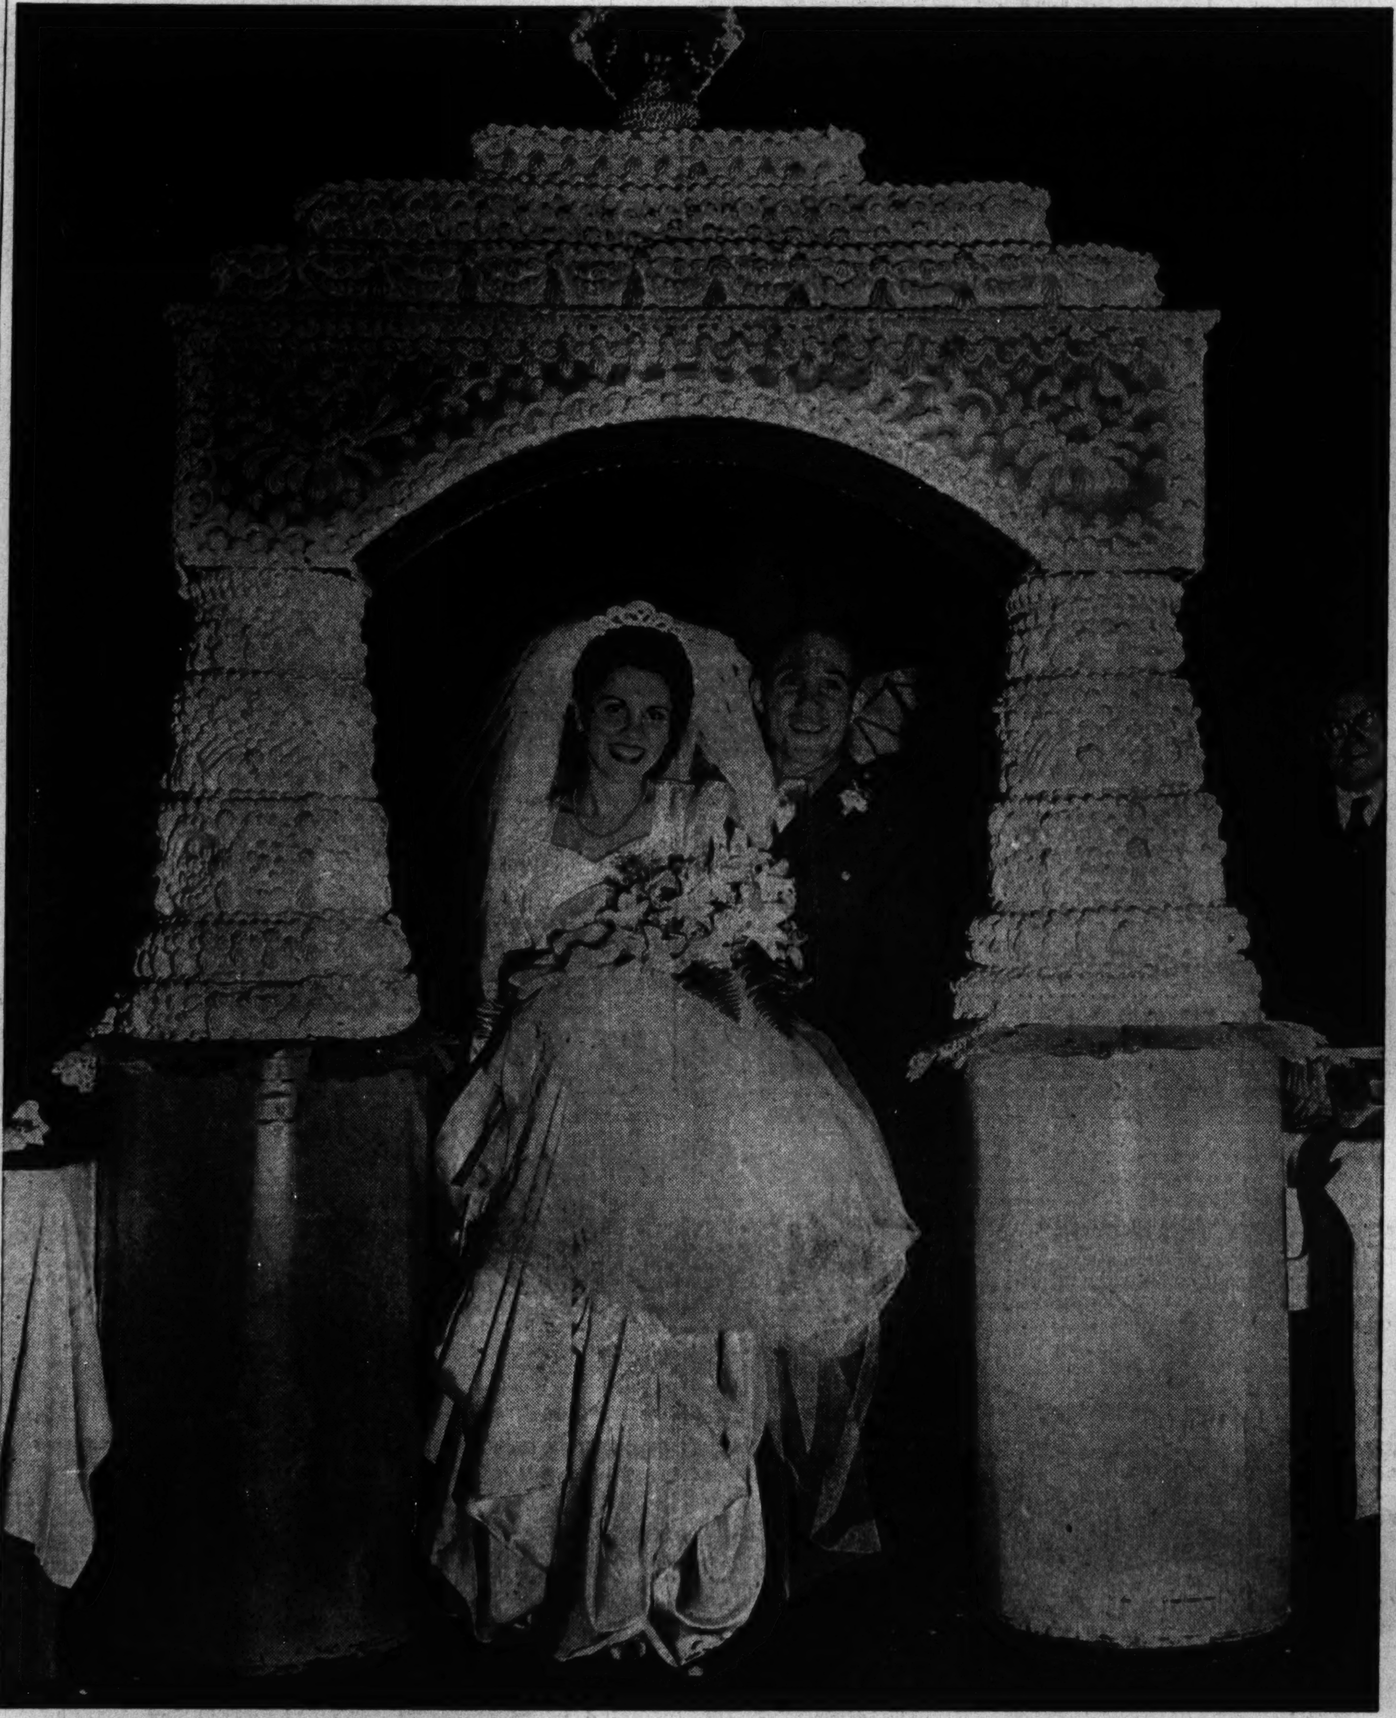
News of the promotion of Maj. Frank X. Meyers, 5936 North Washtenaw avenue, to the rank of lieutenant colonel, has been received here. The order for the promotion, signed by Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, is dated Sept. 8.

Lt. Col. Frank X. Meyers.

Lt. Col. Meyers entered the service with the Illinois National Guard on Sept. 16, 1940. He was transferred to the adjutant general's department in May, 1943, and is now attending the command and general staff school as a student in the general staff course.

Before Pearl Harbor Lt. Col. Meyers was in charge of all promotional events sponsored by the Broadway armory of the National Guard. At that time he held the rank of lieutenant.

Food and Merriment Aplenty Greet Couple at Italian Wedding Reception



Not often are a bride and bridegroom able to walk thru their own wedding cake, but Pvt. Michael Abbinante and his bride, the former Madeline Carella, led the grand march thru pillars of pastry at their recent reception in the West End Women's club. The cake was a gift of the bridegroom's father, Eustachio Abbinante. Eight feet high and 5 feet wide, it was brought to the hall in three sections and put together shortly before the reception. The couple were married at Our Lady of Pompeii church, 1224 Lexington street.

Grownups can be as romantic as they please, but for a little girl a plate of sweets offers more immediate delights. Six year old Theresa Carella, flower girl at the wedding, is eating dolci, a cream filled Italian pastry. Her white net dress is a miniature edition of those worn by the bridesmaids. On her dark curls is a headdress fashioned of American Beauty ostrich feathers.

It was almost midnight when Madeline and Michael Abbinante cut the first slice of their wedding cake. To reach the top layer they had to stand on a table. Directions for cutting into the arch were given by the bakery's representative, Jim Taurisano, who knew the internal structure of the pastry edifice. The cake cutting was a ritual in itself. The first slices were given to the bride's parents, who kissed their daughter and son-in-law, and wept for joy at the first gift from the newlyweds. The ceremony was then repeated for the bridegroom's father, after which the other guests at the reception were served.

Refreshments at the reception were on a lavish scale. Great pans of roast beef, mounds of dolci—a form of Italian pastry—12 barrels of beer, and a variety of Italian wines were included on the menu. Here Jim Taurisano, who acted as chef for the evening, is shown preparing sandwiches for the guests. Among them are Paul Taurisano, Rocco Faveo, Fedele De Pinto, Vito Lollino, Frank Affatato, Tony Basile, Joseph Ventrel, and Joseph Carmosino.

The parents of the bride and bridegroom snatched a few minutes for quiet conversation during the reception. Left to right, they are Mr. and Mrs. Rocco Carella, 1013 Newberry avenue, and Eustachio Abbinante, 1015 Newberry. Originally from the same province in southern Italy, they were delighted when Madeline and Michael decided they wanted to marry each other.

A High Percentage of Buyers Shown.

With a total of $2,348,479 as its contribution to the third war loan drive, the Milwaukee-Armitage-Western civilian defense organization ranks first among the 21 communities comprising the northwest area in the percentage of bond orders based on the number of families in the community. Returns show 12,503 orders from 12,400 families, with more bonds being purchased daily.

Joseph B. Guenther, division war bond chairman, reports that Edgebrook ranks second, with 50 per cent of the families in the community subscribing to the drive. Edgebrook more than doubled its quota in dollars, with total receipts in excess of $362,000.

Jefferson Park Is Third.

Ranking third in the percentage of orders is Jefferson Park, where 43 per cent of the families have bought bonds totaling over $125,000.

Forest Glen is fourth with 39 per cent of its families as subscribers for $23,000 worth of bonds. Mayfair ranks fifth with 28 per cent of its families purchasing bonds valued at $95,000.

Two Areas Tied.

Albany Park is sixth in the percentage of orders received from families in the community. Bond sales to 27 per cent of the families now exceed $740,000. North Park has 27 per cent also, with sales approximating $150,000.

Other communities that ran up their sales figures to high totals are Northwest Town, with $923,000; Norwood Park, over $500,000; Wrightwood-Fullerton-North, $250,000, and Portage Park, almost $200,000.

Gives Blood, $10 to Red Cross for Tenth Time

Each time 55 year old Mandel Nissenbaum of 3206 Ainslie avenue donates a pint of blood to the Red Cross, he also gives the organization $10. Recently he donated his 10th pint of blood plus his usual contribution. Mr. Nissenbaum is an agent of the Mutual Benefit, Health, and Accident association which has offices at 220 South State street.

THREE PLEDGED TO HONOR GROUP AT ILLINOIS TECH

Three northwest side men have been pledged to Pi Tau Sigma, honorary mechanical engineering fraternity at the Illinois Institute of Technology. The men are James Cubbidge, 4729 Deming place; Martin Kinnavy, 3331 North Harding avenue, and Kenneth Sanders, 2634 North avenue.

Pi Tau Sigma, organized 25 years ago by independent honorary mechanical engineering societies at the University of Illinois and the University of Wisconsin, has chapters at 24 leading engineering colleges. The Delta chapter, fifth active branch of the fraternity, was installed Dec. 22, 1924, at Illinois Tech. Engineering ability, scholarship, and personality are entrance requirements.

Cubbidge, a mechanical engineering senior, is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineering. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Cubbidge. Also a senior, Kinnavy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Kinnavy. Sanders, a junior, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sanders. He served as president of the mechanical engineering coöp class in his first and second year at Illinois Tech.

M. A. Myers Directs Plans for Park Ridge Y. M. C. A.

Park Ridge will soon have its own Y. M. C. A. Plans are now being made for a new suburban unit under the direction of Milton A. Myers, committee chairman. He is assisted by Mrs. W. L. Marshall, secretary, and Elmer W. Paul, in charge of finances. Other members of the committee who are helping to formulate plans for the new project are Mason Aldrich, Mrs. F. J. Holman, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Padden, W. H. Argabrite Sr., Mrs. J. R. Rhinehart, Dr. Alfred P. Haake, and Chester L. Mills.

Polish Catholic Club to Give Dance Saturday

Members of the Polish Roman Catholic Union USOnans club will celebrate their first anniversary Saturday night with a semi-formal dance at the Youth center, Cortez and Noble streets. Proceeds will be used for three winter parties for service men. The 135 girls in the club have served as hostesses at service men's centers, done Red Cross work, and Polish relief work. Officers include Emily Kawa, chairman; Evelyn Kaminski, secretary, and Adeline Daniel, treasurer.

Lutheran Young People Mark Youth Sunday Today

The Zion Slovak Lutheran Young People's society will celebrate National Youth Sunday today, with a program opening with vespers at 6:30 o'clock at the church, Springfield avenue and Iowa street. The pastor, the Rev. John Bajus, will conduct the service, which will be followed by an evening of entertainment in the auditorium. A program of home talent has been prepared, including acts by Waldo, the magician. Coffee and cake will be served.

LEADERS IN 7TH DISTRICT WILL MEET FRIDAY

Elmwood Park Rally to Hear FBI Agent.

Chairmen of departments within the Federated Women's clubs will explain their continuing war time program, when the 7th district holds its fall meeting Friday at Westwood Lutheran church, 7810 Elmwood drive, Elmwood Park. This is the first district meeting under the leadership of the new president, Mrs. Milton H. G. Meyer. Registration will begin at 10 o'clock, with members of the Elmwood Park, Franklin Park, and Leyden clubs as hostesses.

"Functioning on the Home Front During a War Era" is the topic for the principal portion of the day's program. Each department chairman will give a three minute talk on the importance of her department to the whole of woman's club work during the 1943-44 season. Each will emphasize contributions to a rounded program, aiding in war work and Red Cross activities.

List of Chairmen.

District chairmen who will participate in this portion of the program will be: American citizenship, Mrs. A. E. Wiedeman, 1540 Henry street, Des Plaines; American home, Mrs. Stephen F. Dexter, 5441 Lynch avenue; art, Mrs. C. L. Klusman, 5608 Nordica avenue; civil service, Mrs. J. P. Mueller, 4527 North Sacramento avenue; conservation, Mrs. A. C. Conlon, 4327 North Keeler avenue; education, Mrs. W. H. Jenkins, 1325 Hood avenue; garden, Mrs. W. W. Scott, 6640 Sioux avenue; Indian welfare, Mrs. Herbert Stuke, 6015 North Harlem avenue; international relations, Mrs. George E. Croker, 7728 Sunset drive, Elmwood Park.

Juniors, Mrs. J. R. Anderson, 1426 Foster avenue; law observance and legislation, Mrs. William C. Wilkinson, 3008 North 76th avenue, Elmwood Park; literature and drama, Mrs. O. V. Blum, 4110 North Kilbourn avenue; motion pictures, Mrs. Charles R. Holton, 4303 Lowell avenue; music, Mrs. D. O. Guth, 7828 Sunset drive, Elmwood Park; press and publicity, Mrs. Frank Mareth, 5849 West Circle avenue; public health, Mrs. Robert F. Palmer, 406 Mueller avenue, Arlington Heights; public welfare, Mrs. C. W. Anderson, 4325 Armitage avenue, and radio, Mrs. Frank Groth, 5001 Irving Park road.

Church to Serve Luncheon.

Luncheon will be served at noon by members of the Ladies' guild of the Westwood church. In charge of arrangements for this and for the social part of the district meeting are Mrs. William I. Johnston, 7851 Oakleaf avenue, Elmwood Park, chairman, and her committee, which includes Mrs. Frank Jeffries, Mrs. Henry Janis, Mrs. James Early, Mrs. Chester Madison, and Mrs. Ernest Mitchell.

The afternoon session will open with an organ recital by Mrs. Brownley Hammond, organist of Westwood church. This will be followed by soprano solos by Mrs. Grace Dressler, church soloist. Mrs. D. O. Guth is in charge of arrangements for the musical portion of the afternoon's program.

Mrs. George A. Harriman, program chairman for the district, will introduce Joseph F. Carroll, special agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation, in the Chicago office. Mr. Carroll will speak on internal security.

Talk on War Service

Since many club women are doing war work as individuals in an outside group, Mrs. Arthur L. Bergbom, Seventh district war service chairman, has chosen as the subject for her talk, "War Service for Clubwomen." She will stress what women may do as members of clubs for war work.

One of the young artists of the Seventh district, Ray Carlson, a pupil of Ebinger school in Edison Park, won one of the pictures for his school in the school children's art contest last spring. The district art chairman, Mrs. Charles L. L. Klusman, will present the picture, which was painted by Helen Hudson Below.

SURFACE LINES EMPLOYE MARKS GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. May, 5934 Addison street, celebrated their golden wedding recently with a reception for their friends and relatives. The Mays, natives of Canada, were married in Rochester, N. Y., and came to Chicago some 30 years ago.

Mr. May, employed with the Chicago Surface Lines as an electrician for a number of years, retired last week.

The Mays have two children, Mrs. Olive White, with whom they make their home, and Edward Theodore May of Waukegan. There are 10 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

500 Attend Reception on West Side.

BY AGNES AHERN.

Like a bride and groom in a fairy tale, Madeline and Michael Abbinante walked thru the frosted arch of their wedding cake to take their places in the reception line at the West End Women's club. The cake, built in the shape of a triumphal arch 8 feet high and 5 feet wide, dominated the ballroom where the newly married couple and their parents received the hundreds of friends who came to wish the couple happiness.

A masterpiece of the pastry chef's art, the cake was brought to the reception room in three sections and assembled just before the wedding party arrived. Into its 350 pounds went 96 dozen eggs with corresponding quantities of sugar and spice and everything else that makes a wedding cake.

Cake Cost $195.

The cake, which cost $195, was the gift of the groom's father, Eustachio Abbinante, 1015 Newbery avenue. A widower, he wanted his only son Michael, who is a private in the army, to have a truly memorable wedding. So with the consent of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rocco Carella of 1013 Newberry avenue, he provided the hall for the reception as well as the lavish table.

Food, music, and congeniality made the reception sparkle like champagne. For Pvt. Michael Abbinante and his bride it was a joyous conclusion to the wedding ceremony which took place at 3 p. m. in Our Lady of Pompeii church.

Madeline, the bride, was dressed in lustrous white satin embroidered with tiny pearls. Her veil was of white tulle, and she carried a bridal bouquet of white lilies. She was attended by Mrs. Laura Graziana, matron of honor, who wore a turquoise silk gown. Her bridesmaids were Mary Senese, Grace Carella, Vivian Senese, Mary Del Vecchio, Margaret Stovekn, Shirley Bigelow, and Patricia De Marco. They were gowned in bouffant white net over taffeta, and carried bouquets of white chrysanthemums and scarlet coxcomb. Six year old Theresa Carella, the bride's sister, was flower girl. Best man at the wedding was Dominic Acceture.

Engaged 7 Months.

On their wedding day, Michael and Madeline had been engaged exactly 7 months and 7 days. Their romance has something of a story book quality, for Michael fell in love with Madeline's picture even before he met her.

Both were born in the same province in southern Italy. The groom, now 30 years old, was 14 when his father brought him to the United States. Madeline, 23, was 7 when her family left Bari, Italy, for Chicago, making their home at the Newberry avenue address. For years they lived next door to each other without meeting, altho their parents were acquainted.

Last February, however, when Michael was home on leave from Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., where he is now stationed, Mrs. Carella invited him in for tea and cakes. In the living room he saw Madeline's picture.

One He'd Waited For.

"The minute I saw it, I knew she was the girl I had been waiting for," he says. "When I met her, I thought she was even lovelier than her picture. We were engaged before my leave was over. Right then we started praying for another furlough because we were both anxious to be married as soon as the army would let us."

Michael, who was inducted two years ago, is in the field artillery. Before his present post, he was stationed at Fort Lewis, Wash., and at the desert training center in California. Madeline has been making torpedoes in a war factory. After Michael returns to camp she plans to return to her job.

Sing at Lutheran Rally Tonight

American Women at War

Two northwest side residents were recently commissioned second lieutenants in the women's army corps. They are Florence M. Johnson, 3935 North Spaulding avenue, and Dorothy M. Fauls, 2318 North Sacramento boulevard. Both Lt. Johnson and Lt. Fauls received their officers' training at Fort Des Moines, Ia.

FETE HONORING LEIF ERICSON TO ATTRACT 2,000

Saturday Event to Spur Bond Sale for Bomber.

More than 2,000 persons are expected to take part in the 25th annual Leif Ericson celebration, to be staged Saturday evening in the Logan Square Masonic temple, 2541 North Kedzie avenue, under the auspices of the Norwegian National league. This year's festivities have been planned to stimulate the sale of war bonds toward the purchase of a bomber to be called "The Spirit of Norway," and to commemorate the believed discovery of North America in 1000 by the Norse adventurer Leif Ericson.

Knute Nelson is president of the league, whose 51 affiliated societies in Chicago include more than 70,000 members. Fredrick Jakobsen will be master of ceremonies for Saturday's celebration. Speaker will be Dr. Halvdan Koht, former minister of foreign affairs for Norway, who will talk on the life of Leif Ericson. Dr. Koht is guest lecturer at the University of Chicago.

Flag Drill Opens Rally.

Ceremonies will open with a flag drill by the Sons of Norway color guard, and the singing of the Star Spangled Banner and the Norwegian national anthem. There will be group singing by the Norwegian Ladies Singers league, and the Norwegian Male Singers league, directed by Knute Hansen. The Norwegian Singers society octet also will appear.

Dancing and refreshments will follow the program. Frederick Jakobsen is chairman of the committee, assisted by Bertha Floistad, vice chairman; Barney Erickson, secretary, and Knute Edahl, treasurer. Chairmen of subcommittees are: Frederick Jakobsen, program; Christian Olsen, music; Bernard Gabrielsen, advertising; Knute Edahl, tickets; Margit Henriksen, kitchen; Andrew Eric, refreshments, and Alfred Gabrielsen, decorations.

List of N. W. Leaders.

Among the northwest side members of the league who have important parts in arranging the celebration are the following: Frederick Jakobsen, 4441 Lavergne avenue; Christian Olsen, 3543 Lyndale avenue; Bernard Gabrielsen, 5059 Altgeld street; Knute Edahl, 3716 North Kedvale avenue; Margrit Henriksen, 2432 North Francisco avenue; Andrew Eric, 1727 North Rockwell street; Alfred Gabrielsen, 3216 Altgeld street; Sigward Huseby, 3056 Diversey avenue; Theodore Thorsen, 4149 Fullerton avenue; Harold Hansen, 3123 Moffatt avenue; Maggie Gullang, 1735 Latrobe avenue; Christian Ludvigsen, 1829 North Central avenue; Barney Erickson, 2716 Montclare avenue; Ole Stensland, 5259 Newport avenue; Emma Hjelkram, 5647 North Kedvale avenue; Evelyn Holter, 3136 North avenue; Carrie Olsen, 3054 North Kolmar avenue; Thomas Anderson, 4149 Fullerton avenue; Einer Larsen, 5154 North Kildare avenue; Ivar Johnson, 4054 Waveland avenue; John Simonsen, 1646 North Kedzie avenue; Alf Nostvig, 4250 Thomas street, and Gudmund Berge, 3520 Oriole avenue.

Others Aiding Fete.

Irving Park Organization to Give Dinner.

The Evening auxiliary of the Irving Park Woman's club will open the fall season with a dinner Tuesday evening in the Georgian hotel, Evanston. Miss Mary G. Cook, first vice president, will preside in the absence of Mrs. Dorothy Garside, president.

Mrs. Ardelle Thibaut, program chairman, will outline the club's schedule for the coming year.

Miss Grace Ranseen, chairman of the social committee, will be in charge of arrangements. Guests for the evening will be Mrs. William S. Eldredge, club sponsor, and Mrs. Eugene J. Kuntzman, president of the Irving Park Woman's club.

Officers for the year include: Mrs. Garside, president; Miss Cook and Mrs. Florence Johnson, vice presidents; Mrs. Charline Burd, recording secretary; Mrs. Jane Rifel, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Elizabeth Fanslau, treasurer.

Belmont Woman's Club.

A new year of club work, dedicated to war service, will begin on Reciprocity day Wednesday, when the Belmont Woman's club meets for the first time this season in the Chopin park fieldhouse, Long and Newport avenues. Mrs. Neil A. MacLean, president, will be assisted by past presidents, Mrs. John J. Muszynski, Mrs. George M. Johnson, and Mrs. Harry Smital, who also will act as hostesses for the dessert luncheon to be served at 1 o'clock. Pauline Esdale, whistler, will entertain with bird calls and bird lore, and will show technicolor illustrations.

Parkside Woman's Club.

The Parkside Woman's club will hold its first meeting of the year at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Woman's Community building, 3900 North Hamlin avenue. Past presidents of the club will be hostesses at a dessert lunch, with Mrs. Grey Scott acting as chairman of the day. Mrs. Lou Leckband, president, will have charge of the business meeting, which will be followed by a white elephant card party for members.

Wicker Park Woman's Club.

The Wicker Park club opens its new club season at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the clubhouse, 2350 North Kedzie boulevard. New officers and directors of the club include: Mrs. Carl Pauly, president; Mrs. Raymond Freeman and Mrs. Elberg Johnsen, vice presidents; Mrs. Edward Franz, recording secretary; Mrs. Louis Fischer, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Carl Anderson, treasurer; Mrs. John Hollison, Mrs. Henry Koester, Mrs. Fred Elderkin, Mrs. William Wade, Mrs. George Dicke, Mrs. C. B. Hankel Jr., Mrs. William Gross, Mrs. C. S. Krysinski, directors; and Mrs. William Pagels, program chairman. This year the club will stress war work as the most important part of its program.

South Edgebrook Woman's Club.

The Red Cross unit of the South Edgebrook club will celebrate its fifth anniversary Thursday at the Gladstone fieldhouse. A speaker from the Red Cross headquarters will tell of Red Cross work. The club now has 204 registered workers. One of the most faithful is Mrs. Grace Johnstone, with three sleeve bars representing 864 hours of Red Cross work. Four other members have piled up 576 hours, while 14 other members have 288 hours apiece. A total of 75 pins, each representing 144 hours of work, have been awarded members. Since Pearl Harbor, the unit has made 50,000 bandages, knitted 230 sweaters, scarves, and caps; sewed 60 dresses, and done other types of sewing. Before Pearl Harbor, the club engaged in Red Cross refugee sewing, including baby layettes, women's dresses, children's clothing, and knitting. Meetings are held Monday evenings, and all day Thursdays, at the Gladstone fieldhouse, 5421 North Menard avenue. Mrs. James Moreland is chairman.

Irving Park Woman's Club.

TRINITY SLOVAK LUTHERANS PLAN GOLDEN JUBILEE

Czech Ambassador Will Attend Banquet.

Commemorating the 50th anniversary of its founding, the Trinity Slovak Lutheran church of 1400 Chicago avenue will hold its golden jubilee week tomorrow thru next Sunday. Evening services will be held daily at 8 o'clock with pastors of neighboring congregations participating.

A youth service will open the jubilee week tomorrow evening. Honoring the 265 members of the congregation now in the army, navy, and marines, a new service flag will be dedicated. Speakers at the ceremony will be the Rev. John Body and the Rev. John Shintay.

Talk on Christian Education.

Tuesday evening's speakers, the Rev. John Bajus and the Rev. John Mihok will discuss "The Christian Education of Children." On Wednesday the Rev. John S. Bradac and the Rev. John Daniel will speak on "Missions and Benevolence." Thursday the main topic will be "Family Life," discussed by the Rev. Paul Chropuvka and the Rev. Charles V. Molnar.

On Friday, exact anniversary of the founding, there will be a communion service. The early history of the congregation will be reviewed by the Rev. Daniel Bella, who helped organize the church 50 years ago. At 73, he is said to be the oldest active Slovak Lutheran minister in the United States. The second speaker of the evening will be Jerry Pelikan, a student at Concordia Theological seminary, St. Louis, Mo.

Banquet Next Sunday.

Next Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock members of the congregation will hold a jubilee banquet at Walsh's hall, Noble street near Milwaukee avenue. Special guests will be Col. V. S. Hurban, Czecho-Slovakian ambassador, who will come from Washington for the celebration; and Dr. Jan Papanek, Czecho-Slovakian minister plenipotentiary. In the evening the concluding ceremony of the jubilee week will be held with the Rev. Daniel Bella, the Rev. Samuel Lichner, and Dr. O. A. Geiseman, as guest preachers.

Plans for the celebration are in the hands of a 50 member committee headed by Michael Benovsky, chairman; Martin Nosko, vice chairman; John Mizialko, secretary; George Rurik, treasurer; Andrew Oravec, financial secretary; S. E. Kostelny, church vestry chairman; and Andrew Socha, in charge of publicity.

The Rev. J. J. Pelikan is pastor of the church, one of the largest Slovak Lutheran congregations in the United States.

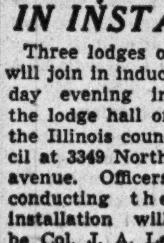
W-G-N TO START AIRING OF WORLD SERIES TUESDAY

For the fifth consecutive year W-G-N and Mutual will broadcast the play-by-play account of the world series, starting Tuesday, in New York's Yankee stadium. Under an exclusive sponsorship arrangement the $100,000 paid for the broadcast rights will go to the Red Cross and other charity organizations.



Lt. Bob Elson.

Lt. Bob Elson, W-G-N sportscaster before joining the navy last year, who has broadcast world series games for 13 years, has received navy permission to assist Red Barber in handling the report of the sports classic. Bill Corum, sports columnist, will give the highlights and color of the games.

American service men at battle stations thruout the world will not miss hearing the series. Arrangements have been made by MBS and the British Broadcasting corporation to short wave the games to the fighting men. Don Dunphy will be at the microphone for these broadcasts.

The first three games will be played in New York with game time at 12:30 p. m., [Chicago war time] and the remaining games in St. Louis starting on Oct. 10 at 1:30 p. m. The broadcasts will start 15 minutes earlier. There will be no games on Oct. 8 and 9. These two days will be used for traveling.

'ROBERTA' OPENS OPERA SEASON ON W-G-N SATURDAY

Miss Claire, Thomas Co-Star on Theater.

W-G-N's 1943-'44 season of operettas and operas gets under way on The Chicago Theater of the Air next Saturday with the presentation of Jerome Kern's "Roberta," in which Marion Claire, soprano singer of the series, and Thomas L. Thomas, baritone, will be co-starred.

The program will be broadcast by W-G-N, W59C, and the Mutual network from 8 to 9 p. m.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak. The production will be directed by Jack LaFrande and will feature the music of the W-G-N Symphony orchestra conducted by Henry Weber and the chorus led by Robert Trendler.

LaFrandre's adaptation of the "Roberta" story tells of the romance of a lovely Russian refugee and an All-American football player, set in the luxury of a Parisian gown shop in the early 1930s. Miss Claire will sing the part of Stephanie, the Russian girl, while Thomas will have the rôle of the football player, John Kent.

All the famous music Kern composed for the "Roberta" score will be included in the program. Songs from the operetta will be heard in the following order:

"The Touch of Your Hand," Miss Claire; "Yesterdays," Ruth Slater, contralto; "Madrigal Chorus," male chorus; "Something Had to Happen," orchestra; "You're Devastating," Thomas and chorus; "Yesterdays," Thomas and chorus; "The Touch of Your Hand," Miss Claire, Thomas, and chorus.

"Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," Miss Claire and chorus; "Let's Begin," Wayne Van Dyne, tenor, and chorus; "You're Devastating," Miss Claire, Thomas, and chorus; and "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," Miss Claire, Thomas, and chorus.

WAC Singer on Air.

Eleanor Person, WAC private, will be the guest singer on the Bob Crosby program at 9:30 o'clock tonight over WMAQ-NBC. This will be her first coast to coast appearance.

RHYTHM MUSIC AIDS STUDENTS IN DEAF SCHOOL

Vibration Sense Leads to Latent Speech.

Visitors to the Ephpheta School for the Deaf frequently are surprised to hear excellent music floating thru the sunshiny corridors. Cymbals, castanets, and tambourines keep perfect time to the beat of the piano as a rhythm band swings thru its regular practice period in the recreation room on the first floor. The fact that all the musicians are deaf is a striking example of how boys and girls at the school are taught to overcome a handicap which otherwise might bar them from normal activities.

Faculty members at the school know from experience that most children have a natural love of rhythm, and the deaf are no exception. So from the time they are tiny tots, students are brought to the piano and showed how they can "hear" music thru their fingertips by feeling the vibrations from the keys. Later they learn to make music in groups. They have little difficulty in keeping time, since they have learned to pick up musical vibrations from the floor and to watch the hands of the piano player for their musical cues.

Develop Speech Powers.

Teaching deaf students how to enjoy music is only one aspect of the educational program at Ephpheta. Special attention is given to developing in each child the latent powers of speech which, tho a laborious process, usually is rewarded with success. Children learn to form words thru imitation, by placing their hands on the throat of the teacher to catch the vibrations of her speech and by watching her lip movements closely. With practice they learn to reproduce the throat and lip movements, gradually winning the gift of speech. Reading lips also enables them to substitute eye for ear in the give and take of ordinary conversation.

Students at Ephpheta follow a standard curriculum which ranges from kindergarten thru junior high school. Enrollment at the school this fall is about 65, and the classes necessarily are small since so much individual attention must be given to each child. Graduates of the school make successful adjustments to life. Many of them go on to high school and college, where they compete successfully with students who have perfect hearing.

Self-Reliant Adults.

As adults they are self-reliant and self-supporting, and are particularly successful in such fields as commercial art, millinery, typing, dressmaking, and printing. Today war industries are begging for graduates of the school.

Ephpheta school, situated on 10 acres of well cultivated land at 3150 North Pulaski road, will be 59 years old this fall. It was founded in 1884 at the suggestion of Archbishop Patrick Feehan of the Chicago archdiocese. Eliza Allen Starr, author and artist of the '80s, became interested in the project, enlisting the aid of a number of benevolent women. Today their work is carried on by a specially trained staff under the direction of Mary E. Magill, superintendent.

The school is assisted by junior and senior auxiliaries, who have made plans for an Ephpheta tag day to be held tomorrow.

Officers of the junior auxiliary are Mrs. Eric Giegler, chairman; Mrs. Mae Reardon and Margaret O'Connell, co-chairmen.

MEDICAL AUXILIARY WILL HEAR FLORENCE NEVAN NEXT FRIDAY

The Physicians' Fellowship club auxiliary will open its new season at 2 o'clock Friday in the Norwegian Woman's Federated societies, 2512 North Kimball avenue. Presidents' day will be observed.

Mrs. F. F. De Voe.

The program will be given by Florence McDuffee Nevan, who will speak on "I Saw It Happen in France." Announcement will also be made of the membership tea to be held Oct. 29 at the home of Mrs T. S. Proud, 3633 North Springfield avenue. Mrs. J. M. McDonough is membership chairman.

With AMERICA'S FIGHTERS

Corp. Tony A. Zabroske, husband of Alice Zabroske of 7043 Bryn Mawr avenue, has returned to his post after a 14 day furlough during which he made the acquaintance of his eight months old daughter Toni Lee, who was born the week after he was inducted. He is stationed at Walnut Ridge army air field, where he is a link trainer instructor.

Corp. T. A. Zabroske.

Before his induction Corp. Zabroske was a civilian areodynamics instructor at Chanute field. He attended Carl Schurz High school and Lewis institute, and was employed at Stewart Warners for five years.

After completing his training at the army twin-engine advanced flying school in Pampa, Tex., Thomas H. Forsberg of 2301 North Newland avenue recently received his officer's bars and pilot's silver wings. Before entering the air corps Lt. Forsberg operated his own business, the Forsberg Motor Truck service. He received his basic instruction at San Angelo, Tex., and his primary flight training at Ballinger, Tex.

Lt. T. H. Forsberg.

From the Caribbean theater word has come of the promotion of Stuart Dorin to the grade of private first class. Pvt. Dorin entered the army in May, 1942, and was graduated from the army air corps radio operators' school at Scott field six months later. He was assigned to his present duty last February.

Pvt. Dorin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Dorin of 5225 Wolfram street. Before entering the service he was an automobile mechanic.

At Fort Sill, Okla., Pvt. William V. Morgan was awarded the army good conduct medal for faithful and exact performance of duty, it was announced recently by his commanding officer at the fort. Pvt. Morgan, son of Mrs. Bertha Morgan, 4836 North Lowell avenue, is a staff member of the post's field artillery school, where he is an instructor in the department of motors.

Lyndon D. Harris, 1914 Newcastle avenue, and John E. Hart, 3952 Dakin street, have been graduated from the naval air training center, Corpus Christi, Tex., and commissioned ensigns in the United States naval reserve. Ensign Hart, who received his preliminary flight instruction at the Glenview reserve air base, is the son of Mrs. Charlotte Hart of the Dakin street address. Ensign Harris, son of Dr. and Mrs. L. D. Harris, is a former student of the Lewis Institute of Technology.

Lyndon D. Harris.

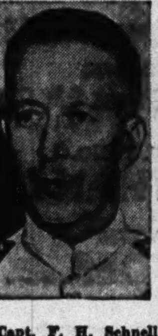
John E. Hart.

Pvt. Joseph J. Kisla of 2439 Hirsch street has completed a specialists' course in tank engines at the Detroit, Mich., section of the army ordnance school conducted by the Ford Motor company. Selected to attend the course because of his mechanical ability, Pvt. Kisla will next be assigned to assist in the maintenance of the army's fighting equipment.

Joseph Kisla.

F. H. SCHNELL IS PROMOTED TO CAPTAIN IN NAVY

Comdr. Frederick H. Schnell, a pioneer in the development of short wave transmission and former radio engineer in charge of Chicago police communications, has been promoted to captain at the Bermuda naval operating base. His wife, Mrs. Frederick Schnell, and their son, Richard, reside at 5930 North Kolmar avenue.



Capt. F. H. Schnell.

Capt. Schnell, a veteran of the first World war, was recalled to active duty as a lieutenant commander in July, 1941. He was later advanced to commander and appointed communications officer of the ninth naval district. Until last February when he was transferred to Bermuda, he was stationed at Great Lakes.

Beginning his radio studies when he was 17 years old, Capt. Schnell was already qualified as a radio operator when he enlisted in the naval reserve in 1917.

After being advanced to first class radio electrician, he was transferred to Washington, D. C., for duty in the office of the director of naval communications. One of his most memorable experiences was copying the peace acceptance from Germany in November, 1918.

Released from active duty as a chief radio electrician in March, 1919, he remained in naval reserve and was commissioned lieutenant in 1924.

The following year he accompanied the fleet to Australia, where he demonstrated the practicability of short wave radio in naval communications.

The Cook County chorus, state champions of the American Legion, will be heard. Melin Romer post drum and bugle corps, which placed fifth in the recent state Legion convention parade, also will participate. They will be assisted by the precision drill team.

PARK RIDGE GIRL TRAINS IN PLANE FERRY SERVICE

Ferrying war planes across the Atlantic is the ambition of Shirley Schramm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Schramm of Park Ridge. She is training for the Women's air ferry service at Avenger field, Sweetwater, Tex.

Miss Schramm has been interested in flying since her high school days. She received her ground school training while attending Maine Township High school in Park Ridge, and her flight training at the American airport. She is a member of the Northwest Flying club and the civil air patrol.

A graduate of Grinnell college, Miss Schramm was employed in the personnel department of the Austin Construction company before she began her training at Avenger field.

SGT. PAUL D. HAIGH JR. TO VISIT HERE; TAKING COURSE AS DIPLOMAT

Sgt. Paul D. Haigh Jr., 4014 Addison street, will arrive home on furlough today from Boston university, where he is taking a nine months' course in preparation for service as an army diplomat in Europe after the war.

Sgt. P. D. Haigh Jr.

His studies, which will lead to a bachelor's degree, include Italian, conversational French, social institutions, military science, modern police methods, and physical training.

Sgt. Haigh is a graduate of Schurz High school and Wright Junior college. He also attended Northwestern university, but was called into service before he could finish his senior year. Inducted in October, 1942, he was sent to Camp Adair, Ore., for 6 months, then to Fort Lewis, Wash. Last May he was assigned to City College of New York for aptitude and academic tests, and in June was sent to Boston university for further study.

RABBI KOLPAS BEGINS DUTIES AT SYNAGOGUE

New Spiritual Leader of Schomre Shabath.

Rabbi Lipmanas Kolpas, who was recently elected head of the Congregation Schomre Shabath, has taken up his new duties as spiritual leader of the synagogue at 1342 North Rockwell street.

Rabbi Kolpas.

A graduate of the Lido Hebrew Theological college near Moscow, Russia, Rabbi Kolpas received the doctor of philosophy degree in 1913. In 1930 he came to the United States, making his home in Chicago.

In order to learn English, Rabbi Kolpas attended the Lawson Evening school, where he achieved distinction as the only student with a Ph. D. degree. In addition to English, he also speaks Hebrew, Russian, and Polish.

For three years, from 1933 to 1936, he was rabbi of the Congregation Augudas Achim, afterward serving for a year at the Congregation Nusach Air. In 1937 he went to Congregation B'nai David, serving there until 1942, when he was elected to the Teinchel Sholem center.

Rabbi Kolpas has one daughter and three sons. One of them, Pvt. Max Kolpas, is a member of the army engineering corps at Camp Rucker, Ala. Another son, Irving, is employed in the federal government's office for emergency management.

Urge Owners to Adopt Fuel Saving Program.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

The nation-wide mobilization to conserve fuel is gaining momentum. Home owners are asked to "winter condition" their homes in every possible way and here are nine principal factors involved in a winter-proofing job.

Insulate parts of your heating plant, as boilers, furnaces, heating pipes, hot water tanks and hot air chutes need coverings to seal in the heat; insulate attic roof or floor; weatherstrip windows and doors; caulk cracks; put up storm sash and storm doors; install winter vestibules; insulate walls where it it practicable; seal walls and doors which give access to any part of the house which is little used, or not used at all, and insulate ceiling of basement or a cellar which is not heated.

Insulate Behind Radiator.

One simple way of saving heat is to place a piece of insulation board between a radiator and an outside wall. Almost as simple a method to stop heat loss in cold basements is to install panels of ½ inch insulating board into window openings.

Weatherstripping is important because it is said that cracks which run around an average window amount in size to space occupied by a brick. A house with 20 windows has an opening about the size of 20 bricks. Quite some opening in zero weather.

Storm Windows Important.

Tight fitting storm windows are important sealers against loss of heat thru window panes. Caulking of cracks is important since a lot of heat can escape thru those open joints caused by settling of a house.

Attic floors or roofs can be insulated in various ways. If you are not planning to use your attic space you can use dry fills of different types which come in batts or bags. Insulation boards are splendid fuel savers if you are planning to finish one room or the entire attic.

It goes without saying that there's a big loss of heat thru the walls of a house. Heat loss thru an uninsulated wall averages around 27 per cent. Insulate the wall with a 2 per cent thickness of insulation and you can cut heat loss to around 17 per cent. An insulation expert can advise best type of wall insulation, depending on the house structure.

Seal Unused Rooms.

This is the month to close and seal any room or rooms which will be little used this winter—or not used at all. Doors which lead to these unused spaces should be tightly weatherstripped. Basement doors should be weatherstripped and if it is to be used for living purposes, it should have the same attention as the rest of the house. If it is not used for living purposes its ceiling should be heat-sealed to keep first floor rooms warm.

And if you have a home with walls of asbestos cement siding or shingles which are in need of a good cleaning, there are excellent cleaners available, manufactured especially for this type of wall.

THIS WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, October 4.

The home gardener will find the autumn activities quite pressing unless he has completed all preliminary work, which includes taking in all accessories to the protection of a shed, laying in material for giving winter protction to the perennials and spring or late planted stock.

Tuesday, October 5.

Emphasis is placed on the value of clearing all debris from the garden. Especially necessary is the raking up and burning of all weeds not only in one's own yard but on adjoining land if there is such. It is not too late to build up the garden soil, and there are many soils that will stand building up.

Wednesday, October 6.

Gardeners living in sections where animal manures can be obtained are fortunate, for there is nothing better for growing plants. However, some soil may be deficient in a certain element which can be supplied by using commercial fertilizers, usually applied just before planting in spring at intervals during the growing season, and in the amount required for the crop.

Thursday, October 7.

Tulip planting time is here and there is nothing better to furnish brilliant bloom in springtime. A good way to arrange them is in clumps of half a dozen. Planting in rows is never quite as pleasing as planting in clumps. One should study the height the plants will grow and plant accordingly.

Friday, October 8.

The bulbs for indoor flowering include such choice items as the amaryllis, sparaxis, with small flowers of bright colors; calla, with luxuriant foliage and chalk white flowers; oxaills, charming little plants with yellow buttercup blooms; freesias in many colors; and one may try the beautiful Easter lily by starting it now, keeping it cool until well rooted and then placing it in a window.

Saturday, October 9.

Hardwood cuttings may be taken of various shrubs. Mention has been made as to the practicability of sowing hardy annuals in the fall to give early bloom in the spring. These may be sown now, for the seeds in most cases lie in the soil until spring when they start growth.

Prepared in coöperation with Garfield Park conservatory.

COMBINED NEGRO GROUPS TO MEET NEXT SUNDAY

Plans to reduce the cost of living and curb rising food prices affecting Chicago Negroes will be discussed Sunday at the first combined fall meeting of the Chicago Citizen's Committee of 1,000 and the National Negro council at the Metropolitan Community church, 4100 South Park way.

Prominent Negro ministers and laymen, including Edgar G. Brown, director of the National Negro council, will speak at the meeting. Speakers include Dr. W. H. Jackson, pastor of Olivet Baptist church; the Rev. Harold Kingsley, the Rev. W. S. Bradden, the Rev. A. Wayman Ward, and Dr. Joseph Evans, pastor of Metropolitan Community church.

A plan for a large scale educational and volunteer price warden system, with office of price administration branch offices staffed by Negro volunteer workers under supervision of OPA regional and state offices, will be presented.

LIBBY PACKERS SKIP 75TH FETE, MAKE RATIONS

Too Busy with War, President Says.

Libby, McNeill and Libby is celebrating its 75th anniversary this year—"not in the holiday spirit in which we would like to celebrate our diamond jubilee, but in the serious spirit of winning a war," says the 1943 annual report of President Daniel W. Creeden, 7100 South Shore drive.

With cause for jubilation after 75 years of continued growth, one of the world's largest general canners, says the report, dig in, work harder, and say: "This is not a time for business jubilees. It is a time for earnest work to speed the winning of the war."

No Banquet, No Speeches.

Thus there will be no banquet, no speeches, no awards during the jubilee year at the general offices and meat packing plant in the stockyards. They wait for the war's end.

Army rations, nutritious food for allies and civilians—that's the big job today, and enlisted in that effort are more than 50 Libby canneries in the United States, Alaska, Canada, Hawaii, England—and, formerly, Belgium and Germany.

A tin of corned beef started off the new enterprise of Arthur A. Libby, Archibald McNeil, and Charles P. Libby back in 1868. It was the first product of the small meat packing company at 16th and State streets. About 1905 Libby's expanded into the pickle and condiment business. A year later the company acquired a canned milk factory at Morrison, Ill.

Add California Plant.

Successful, the company added fruit canning in 1907 with a California plant, and three years later the canning of pineapple in Hawaii. Two more years, and Libby entered the salmon canning industry. Then, with hands full, it waited 14 years until 1926 when it entered the dried fruit field, and this was followed by the addition of seven midwest vegetable canneries.

But a mere list of many plants, while impressive, scarcely tells the real story of the production and especially of the harvest of food. It doesn't, for instance, picture the fishing fleets, the men and machinery, that go into Bristol bay, Alaska, for the annual salmon run. It passes over the beauty of the pineapple plantations of Hawaii with their browned workers. It doesn't mention the barrels of olives from sunny Spain, heaps of fruit arriving at the Pacific coast plants, ripe red tomatoes of Blue Island.

Whole Town Helps.

At Lake Mills, Wis., last summer the whole community turned out to harvest the green pea crop. The mayor, the librarian, in fact, all of Main street joined in. South siders also met the challenge of a ripe tomato crop at Blue Island, and formed a civilian army of tomato pickers. Shortage of man power besets the plants almost everywhere, especially in Hawaii where men are needed for defense and government work.

Employes like the suggestion plan award system, pensions, group life insurance plan, benefit association, training school, and the new house organ, "The Scanner."

Remember $80,000 Loss.

But all, officials and employes alike, recall a dark day of 1930 when hijackers entered the warehouse and made away with 40 barrels of rum, worth $80,000. The rum was to be used in the manufacture of mince meat and puddings.

Scott A. Holman, a vice president; Fred P. Slivon, controler and secretary, and Samuel M. Jasper, treasurer, are south side residents, as is Mr. Creeden.

SIX SOUTH SIDERS FINISH ILL. TECH TRAINING COURSE

Six more south side men recently were graduated from the industrial officers' training school at the Illinois Institute of Technology after a 10 week course of study that included production and inspection, drawings and specifications, industrial organization, supervision and safety, and mathematics and materials of industry.

The graduating class included Mustapha Addoum, 1727 Wabash avenue; Joseph M. Crotty, 7001 Wabash avenue; Patrick J. Moore, 7001 Merrill avenue; Wilbert S. Rice, 8221 Ingelside avenue; Frank Schlee, 5817 Wells street, and Michael R. Wirtz, 454 West 25th place.

Nine classes have been graduated from the training school and a 10th is now in session. An 11th section will begin Oct. 11, with classes to be held from 6 to 10 p. m. five days a week for 15 weeks. Applicants must be high school graduates, in good health, draft deferred, and of outstanding ability in some field of business.

Student Nurses and Volunteer Workers Join in Busy War Time Duties at Mercy Hospital

The 18 young women who received their nurses' caps and became members of the sophomore class of student nurses at Mercy hospital are shown in a part of the impressive ceremony that attended the capping last week at the hospital. Reading clockwise the girls are: Florence Gunterberg, 2335 South Millard avenue; Jenne Horan, 720 East 88th street; May Shiga, Des Plaines; Audrael Boerstall, 2748 Rutherford avenue; Carmen Jones, Morrison, Ill.; Marilyn Durward, Morrison, Ill.; Betty Isaac, 7923 Prairie avenue; Catherine Evans, Saginaw, Mich.; Joann Scheinost, Waterloo, Ia.; Ruth Anderson, Morrison, Ill.; Elaine Guthaus, 1217 South Fairfield avenue; Marie Fey, 9942 Seeley avenue; Shirley Frenz, 1700 South Halsted street; Etta Anne Hincker, 5120 Harper avenue; Barbara Griffin, 4534 Ellis avenue; Zell Inman, Jackson, Miss., and Frances Courtney, Kaukauna, Wis. In the foreground left to right, are Betty Ann Head, Oak Park, senior class representative; Lois Johnson, 8504 Laflin street, and Marcella Blanc, Aurora, also a senior class representative.

Among the volunteers working at Mercy hospital are Red Cross nurses' aids, two of whom are making a bed. At left is Miss Rosemary Brennan, 4737 Ellis avenue, who has a brother in the navy and another in air line service in Nicaragua, and with her is Miss Claire McCahey, 4850 Greenwood avenue, who has two brothers in the service of their country.

Another Mercy Volunteer Service worker, Miss Evelyn Faust of Oak Park, who is day time director of the hospital's social service department, applies a blood pressure band to Miss Jen Righino, 5002 North Ashland avenue, at the blood plasma bank. Miss Righino's brother, Lt. John Righino, is an army chaplain at Fort Riley, Kas.

A member of the Mercy Volunteer Service, Mrs. M. D. Fitzgerald, 1025 West Garfield boulevard, and Sister Flora, who has been with the hospital since 1917 and recently took a course in the Kenny treatment of infantile paralysis, administer treatment to Elizabeth Kilmer, 4407 Haddon avenue.

Miss Elynor Roubik, 128 South Austin boulevard, mans the reception desk at the hospital. She is a secretary to a radio station executive in the day time and at night is the senior Gray Lady among those working at the hospital.

STUDENT NURSES AT MERCY SIGN FOR ARMY DUTY

18 Pledge Military Service in 1946.

Eighteen student nurses at Mercy hospital received their caps, took the Florence Nightingale pledge, and entered the sophomore class last week. This is believed to be the first class of nurses in the city in which all the students registered for the army nursing corps when they graduate.

Enrolled as student nurses in June, after a year of training at St. Xavier college, the students will be graduated from nurses' training in June, 1946, and will then serve six months as senior cadet nurses under army supervision before being commissioned.

Sister Mary Therese, director of Mercy hospital school of nursing, said the entire class entered training only after promising to be available upon graduation for essential nursing service in the military or in civilian life.

Thirty Months' Training.

The trainees will spend the next 30 months at Mercy hospital completing their training, the last six months of which will be in any hospital in which the army may choose to place them.

Mercy hospital finds time to not only train nurses in its own school but train women of the Mercy volunteer service in an eight week course which fits them for the same duties as a nurse's aid.

The women's auxiliary of the hospital last November wanted to be of service, but wished to remain identified with the hospital rather than work thru the Red Cross, and thus formed the volunteer service, in which 26 women entered training.

Volunteers' Work Varied.

The volunteers make beds, take temperatures, work in the polio wards, and other departments much the same as the 22 Red Cross nurses' aids at the hospital. They work in the hospital blood bank, since it is not a Red Cross project and nurses' aids do not work there.

Mrs. Maurice D. Fitzgerald, 1025 Garfield boulevard, is chairman of the Mercy volunteer service. Her husband is a captain in the marine medical corps in New Guinea.

Women in the hospital's volunteer service receive the Mercy shield, the same the nurses wear, after they have served 100 hours in the hospital.

Another unit of volunteer workers in the hospital is the Gray Ladies of the Red Cross, who man the information desk, work in the wards checking visitors, and seeing that no patient has too many visitors. They also perform many other tasks to relieve the regular nursing staff.

21 COMPANIES JOIN WAR TIME ODT PROGRAM

'Reverse Direction' Delivery Begun.

The first motor freight interchange in the country, which opened operations Sept. 21 at its southwest side terminal, started reverse direction delivery last week.

Personnel of the motor freight pool, named the Chicago Suburban Interline Terminal corporation, and army officers conducted a tour of the terminal building and yard, 31st and Iron streets, and expressed satisfaction with the functioning of the new organization. The "go ahead" signal for reverse delivery was given. Now freight brought to Chicago by long haul truckers will be unloaded at the terminal and delivered by trucks of the 21 member companies.

Part of ODT Program.

Developed as a major feature in the office of defense transportation joint action program for suburban motor service, the motor freight pool is expected to cut days from the transit time of much interline truck freight and will reduce greatly the mileage operated by the 21 suburban truckers in making deliveries to the long haul terminals.

The terminal will give Chicago industries greatly expedited service and will consolidate the freight received from the 21 suburban carriers into larger truckloads for delivery to the army's huge freight consolidation depot on Pershing road. Eighty-five per cent of the freight now handled by the coöperating carriers is war material, and Col. Dan A. Hardt, transportation officer of the 6th service command, has expressed approval of the program.

Begin Survey This Week.

To learn exactly the amount of tonnage going over the docks, the number of trucks and men involved, and similar information, terminal officers will conduct a statistical survey this week for early presentation to member companies.

The survey will picture the number of suburban trucks which will pick up freight at various points and then deliver it to the terminal for sorting, classification, and reloading into long haul vans and trailers. The survey also will show the number of long haul vans and trailers arriving at the terminal to disgorge their freight onto the 50 docks of the 300 foot platform, all to be sorted and routed to the smaller suburban carriers. The latter handling of freight is termed reverse direction.

The fireproof terminal formerly was occupied by Riss and company, motor freighters, who moved to their own building on the west side. The structure, about two years old, has cross dock operation, accommodating 36 trucks, 18 on either side. Eventually a large service department will be operated in the unused garage.

Location Is Convenient.

The terminal is located in a stretch of vacant area, away from traffic, and convenient of access from any north and south artery. Truckers make a turn off South Ashland avenue at 34th street onto the cinder road leading to the platforms. Later, the terminal may be placed at a more central location in the city.

Ben Leventhal of 5650 North St. Louis avenue, president of the Roosevelt Cartage company, heads the new group, and the slate of officers includes A. S. Sorensen, 6608 Oliphant avenue, L. N. Sorenson Motor Express, first vice president; M. C. Knudson, Oak Park, Enterprise Transfer company, second vice president; Lloyd Markel, Aurora Transfer company, third vice president; Lee Folkers, Joliet Warehouse and Transfer company, fourth vice president; A. D. Church, Barrington, Gold Star Motor Service, Inc., secretary, and C. John Viking, Waukegan, Webber Cartage Line, Inc.

Four from Chicago Heights.

Four Chicago Heights motor freight companies are members. They are Robert Ashbaugh, Spee-Dee Motor Express; Philip J. Pagoria, Pagoria Express Service, Inc.; J. A. Austgen, Austgen Express and Storage company, and William O. Ritter, Brown Express, Inc. Herbert E. Schiek of Schiek Motor Express is from Joliet, and the Crown Point, Ind., Transfer company is represented by Walter H. Heisterberg, Crown Point, Ind.

Other truckers are Walter J. Carpeaux, Oak Park, of Fred Olsen & Son; G. J. Adams, Elgin Storage and Transfer company; George Wieringa, Cicero, Wieringa Brothers; Edward B. Groble, 944 North Lawler avenue, E. J. Meyer company; J. L. Muldoon, 1747 Highland avenue, North Shore Motor Express; Fred R. Gloor, 6243 North Nordica avenue, Niedert Motor service; J. J. Krema, 1714 Hudson avenue, Krema Trucking company, and Charles H. Paine, Woodstock, Paine Motor Express.

Blood Unit in Gary.

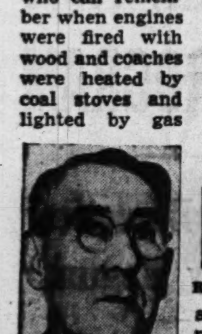
The Chicago Red Cross mobile plasma unit will begin a three week period of collecting blood from Gary residents tomorrow morning. A goal of 3,000 registrants was set.

VETERANS QUIT AFTER 95 YEARS WITH RAILROADS

Pair with Illinois Central Recall Early Days.

Two men who together have worked nearly a hundreds years for railroads, and who can remember when engines were fired with wood and coaches were heated by coal stoves and lighted by gas and oil, retired recently from the service of the Illinois Central railroad.

Robert W. Carruthers.



J. A. Cain.

J. A. Cain, 67 years old, of 6254 Harper avenue, retired after 40 years of railroading, the last 25 of them for the Illinois Central, and Robert W. Carruthers, 74, of Kankakee, retired after spending the last 48 of his 55 years of railroading with the Illinois Central.

Started at $30 a Month.

Wages were $30 a month when Carruthers took a job as a construction laborer in June, 1888, at Atlanta, Ga., with the Atlanta and Florida railroad, now the Southern railroad. Fifteen years later, when Cain went to work as a brakeman for the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad, wages had risen to $45 a month for a new hand.

When Cain became a railroad man oil lamps were used to light passenger cars, but Carruthers can remember working on a wood fired and gas lighted train in the south. One man turned on the gas with a key, and another followed him with a torch made from a piece of paper, lighting the gas.

Railroad cars had no air brakes, no air conditioning or other conveniences that are offered to travelers today. "You couldn't get people of this day to ride in those old coaches," Carruthers averred.

Never Missed Pay Day.

"I'm glad I lived thru those crude conditions," he added. "I've lived thru that time and thru the modern days, and have seen things change in a way that is almost unbelievable. I've never been seriously ill, and never missed a pay day."

From his first job with the Atlanta and Florida line, Carruthers went to the Central of Georgia railroad and the Seaboard Airline railroad before he became a brakeman for the I. C. on Jan. 31, 1896, at Jackson, Tenn. He transferred to the Chicago division in December, 1900, and soon became a conductor. He held a conductor's job until his retirement.

Carruthers was a freight train conductor from 1900 until 1912, when he entered the I. C. suburban service. After three years of suburban railroad work he transferred to thru passenger service and was conductor most of the time on runs between Chicago and Centralia and Chicago and St. Louis, Mo.

Always a Brakeman.

Cain, who was born on Chicago's west side, has been a brakeman ever since he started working for a railroad. In his years with the C. & E. I. railroad he worked on trains between Chicago and Terre Haute, Ind., and in his years with the I. C. he worked on thru passenger service between Chicago and Centralia.

The two veterans worked together for several years on the Chicago to Centralia run, when Cain was brakeman on Carruthers' train. They have been fast friends for many years.

Each man has a son in the service of his country. First Sgt. Harold Cain is with an anti-aircraft, airborne division at Fort Bragg, N. C., and Seaman John T. Carruthers is with the navy Seabees at Camp Endicott, Davisville, R. I.

One Will Live in South.

Carruthers lives with his wife in Kankakee, where he also has a daughter, Mrs. William D. Ward. Altho Carruthers was born in Georgia and most of his relatives live there, he does not plan to leave Illinois to live. Cain, on the other hand, married a southern girl and will leave Chicago to live in Atlanta, Ga. Cain is an uncle of James G. Coyle, former alderman of the 17th ward, and of Mrs. J. A. Oakley and Miss Minnie Coyle, both of 6400 Parnell avenue.

Since Jan. 1, 1892, Carruthers has held a card in the Order of Railway Conductors, and when he retired he held a card in the Chicago division of the organization. Cain was general secretary for 12 years of lodge No. 4 of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen while he was with the C. & E. I. railroad.

Neither man thinks he will miss railroads much despite the number of years spent in the work. Cain expects to return to Chicago once or twice a year, and Carruthers expects to travel frequently to visit old friends, but neither plans any extended trips.

See Changes Ahead.

Both believe great changes lie ahead in railroading as in all other lines of industry, but neither knows what to expect. "I just can't imagine what it will be like 30 or 40 years from now," Carruthers said. "When I started railroading no one imagined things would change so much as they have. The future will be like that, too."

★ With AMERICA'S FIGHTERS ★

The Woodlawn Study club will observe Federation day in opening its 43d season at a meeting at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Plaisance hotel, 1545 East 60th street.

Paul G. Dallwig, lecturer of the Field museum staff, will speak on "The Parade of the Races in the News." His lecture is expected to present a study of civilizations as they are affected by the war.

Mrs. R. M. Brockett, 7456 South Shore drive, will have charge of the program. Special guests will include Mrs. Preston L. Wettaw, general federation director; Mrs. W. M. Rennie, president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Clarence O. Goodwin, state parliamentarian; Mrs. Burton A. Noyes, vice president of the northern district, I. F. W. C.; Mrs. Walter W. Seymour, honorary vice president of the general federation; Mrs. Charles S. Clark, president of the conference of club presidents and program chairmen, and Mrs. T. C. Craig, president of the 2d district, I. F. W. C. Past presidents of the district and present board members also will be among the guests.

The club's executive board met recently to outline plans for the work for the year.

Windsor Park Woman's Club.

A reception and tea opening the season for the Windsor Park Woman's club will be held at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the Windsor Park Community hall, 2619 East 76th street, with Mrs. John E. Baillie, 7829 South Burnham avenue, president, presiding.

Mrs. Irving Campbell, 8210 East End avenue, first vice president and program chairman, will introduce Ann Birk Kuper, dramatic actress, who will read the play "Harriet," which is based on the life of Harriet Beecher Stowe. The play is now showing in New York with Helen Hayes in the title role.

A war service honor roll will be dedicated by Mrs. Clarence Duner, 1919 Saginaw avenue, past president. Mrs. Charles Richards, 7224 Yates avenue, will introduce Mrs. Duner.

Mrs. H. C. Burgess, 7265 South Shore drive, music director, will present the club chorus in a cantata, "The Garden of Flowers," with Mrs. Carl Johnson, 8115 Crandon avenue, as accompanist.

Mrs. Le Roy Simpson, 7418 Coles avenue, will be reception committee chairman and Mrs. David Knall, 7944 Saginaw avenue, will be the social committee chairman in charge of the tea.

Chatham Fields Woman's Club.

Sons and sons-in-law of members of the Chatham Fields Woman's club will be honored thru the dedication of a war service flag by Mrs. L. E. Northshield at a meeting at 1:15 p. m. Friday at 8500 Maryland avenue. The meeting will open the season for the club.

Federation day will be observed at the opening meeting and officers of the 2d district, I. F. W. C., will be guests. Among those attending will be Mrs. Walter M. Rennie, president of the I. F. W. C., who will discuss the federation's plans for after the war; Mrs. W. T. Bruckner, former director of the state federation, who will discuss activities of the Red Cross, and Mrs. T. C. Craig, 2d district president.

Mrs. George C. Weathered, chairman of war bond and stamp sales for the club, will report on the organization's activities in this field of war work.

Woman's Club of Univer. Church

A luncheon at 1 p. m. Tuesday at 5655 University avenue will open the year for the Woman's club of the University Church of Disciples of Christ. Dr. Irvin E. Lunger, 5616 Kimbark avenue, will speak on "Lighting Candles," Mrs. O. A. Rosborough, luncheon hostess, has announced it will be a victory smorgaasbord.

Chicago Calumet Club.

First meeting of the season for the Chicago Calumet club will be held tomorrow in Bessemer park fieldhouse at 89th street and Muskegon avenue.

Mrs. George Pfeiffer Jr., the new president, will be in charge and Mrs. Amy Brooke, music chairman, has arranged the musical program. Two movies on subjects related to the war will be shown.

Homecoming day will be observed by the Woodlawn Mothers' Round Table club at the first open meeting of the year at 2 p. m. Wednesday in John Knox hall of the First Presbyterian church, 6400 Kimbark avenue. Mrs. Jack Foster, 7620 Phillips avenue, is club president.

Dr. Harold Leonard Bowman, 6432 Kimbark avenue, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will speak on "Do You Take Life Too Seriously?" Mrs. F. L. Tullis, 6600 Greenwood avenue, music chairman, will present Herbert Wiley, 6536 Minerva avenue, who will play the marimba. His mother, Mrs. J. W. Wiley, will be his accompanist. Hostesses for the social hour after the meeting will be Mrs. J. C. Suess, 6402 Greenwood avenue, and Mrs. A. H. Carle, 6404 Kenwood avenue.

Woodshore Woman's Club.

Mrs. F. P. Neff, president, and the board of directors of the Woodshore Woman's club will hold open house and a reception for members and guests at the first meeting of the year at 8:15 p. m. Tuesday in the Plaisance hotel, 1545 East 60th street.

Miss Mae Dahnke, program committee chairman, will present Mrs. Alonzo Newton Benn, who will lecture on "America, Its History in Flags and the New Flag Code." Genevieve Verson Kominisky, lyric soprano, will sing American folk songs.

Hostesses for the evening includes Mrs. W. W. Schwartz, 1626 East 70th street; Mrs. Stanley Tanan, 7626 Coles avenue; Mrs. Esther Jennings, 7431 Paxton avenue, and Mrs. Leslie R. Curtis, 6926 Cregier avenue.

The Public Welfare class will meet at 11 a. m. and will hear a talk on "Rehabilitation of the New Veteran" by Dr. Conrad Sommer, chief medical officer of the Illinois department of public welfare.

Woodlawn Woman's Club.

Opening its 48th year, the Woodlawn Woman's club will meet at 2 p. m. Tuesday in its clubrooms in the Southmoor hotel. Mrs. John K. Piety, 7959 Marquette avenue, the program chairman, will present Neppie Melton, soprano, and the Oriole trio.

Bryn Mawr Womans' Club.

With a new club calendar that reflects war conditions, the Bryn Mawr Woman's club will open its season with a meeting at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the clubrooms at 7000 Jeffery avenue. Theme of the meeting will be "President's Day," and Mrs. Ralph M. Parks, 6438 Dante avenue, the president, will greet members and guests.

The music department will present Jeanne Madden, soprano, who will be accompanied by Margaret Smith. Past presidents will be honored at a tea after the program.

Recent Bride

Miss Virginia Mary Fraher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Fraher, 7834 Champlain avenue, became the recent bride of John F. Delaney II., son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Delaney of Maywood. The bride attended Mercy High school and the bridegroom attended St. Ignatius High school. They are making their home at 8102 Clyde avenue.

BEGIN 48TH YEAR OF ENGLEWOOD CLUB TOMORROW

Women Point to Record of Community Service.

Guests at the launching tomorrow afternoon of the 48th year of the Englewood Woman's club will be state and southwest side clubwomen. From the president's table at club headquarters, 6730 Wentworth avenue, Mrs. Fred Bauchhenss of 8136 Evans avenue, incoming president, will welcome as honor guests Mrs. E. E. Byerrum, treasurer, and Mrs. Harry M. Daughtry, secretary, of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Harold F. Wood, president of 3d district; members of the 3d district board, and directors of the Hamilton Park Woman's club.

Mrs. Robert W. Pachaly. [Beecher Photo.]

A musical program has been arranged by Mrs. Robert W. Pachaly of 8027 Ingleside avenue, program chairman. Mrs. Pachaly will present the Aeolian string trio, with Charlene Dilling Brewer, violinist; Betty Younker, violist, and Howard Bartle, pianist.

Members at the opening session who take a peek into the yearbook will find many facts to give them pride in their Englewood club membership. They will discover that it was a former president, Mrs. Charles S. Clark, who founded in 1918 the conference of club presidents and program chairmen.

They will note that the Englewood club pioneered in the opening and operation of lunchrooms in Chicago public schools, and that for more than a quarter of a century the lunchroom of the Englewood High school furnished a warm noon meal free to students who could not afford to pay and for a nominal sum to those who could.

Not counting the hours of service contributed by fellow club members, but counting the number of dollars awarded worthy causes, members will arrive at the impressive amount of approximately $70,000 when they add the little black columns of figures in the yearbook.

Where Money Goes.

Gathered into broad divisions, the sums were expended as follows: To public schools, $11,000; to students serving at the high school lunchroom, $10,000; educational and fine arts, $10,000; General Federation of Women's Clubs, $725; and the State Federation Foundation, $1,200; community projects, $20,000; legislative projects, $700; war service, $2,300; public welfare, $15,000.

Loan scholarships have been established at the University of Chicago, University of Illinois, Chicago Art institute, James Armstrong memorial, Lucy Flower Technical High school; Wilson Junior college; and the Englewood hospital training school for nurses.

Among the 26 presidents who have served the organization, four were war time presidents. The late Ellen Reis Jackman was president during the Spanish-American war; Mrs. Clark headed the club from 1917 to 1919, during World War I.; and since the start of the present world conflict, Mrs. John B. Haeberlin and Mrs. Fred Bauchhenss have held presidential office.

Life memberships with full club privileges and voting powers have been conferred on all past presidents and charter members, and honorary life memberships were conferred upon Mrs. Charles S. Deneen, wife of the late senator from Illinois, and Mrs. Charles M. Woodman.

Four of the charter members are residents of Chicago and one of the four, Mrs. E. H. Thielens of 9200 Damen avenue, has seven grandsons in service. Mrs. James C. Elsdon, 6400 Normal avenue; Mrs. J. A. Middleton, 9403 Pleasant avenue; Mrs. R. J. Roulston, 1448 Lake Shore drive; Mrs. Wilson N. Abbott, Webster, N. Y.; and Mrs. Frank L. Salisbury, Washington, D. C., were in that first group of Englewood clubwomen to apply for incorporation in 1896 and for affiliation the same year with the general federation.

These two steps were followed in 1897 by membership in the Cook County league.

Heads Bryn Mawr Club

Mrs. Ralph M. Parks, president of the Bryn Mawr Woman's club, will greet former presidents, members, and guests at the club's first meeting of the season, tomorrow at 7000 Jeffery avenue.

CHILDREN ASKED NOT TO PLAY ON SCHOOLGROUNDS

Damage to the South Shore High school building and grounds by children who have been using the school grounds as a playground has brought an appeal from Mrs. Marie Voy Brewster, principal, and the South Shore High School Parent-Teacher association for children to stop using the grounds. Windows have been broken and shrubs and trees have been damaged considerably by children, the PTA warned.

"We have one of the finest and newest schools in the city and have beautiful landscaping, which cost our taxpayers an enormous amount of money. This is a considerable asset to property owners in the vicinity and enhances the value of their properties. Let's keep it beautiful and not an eyesore, so that the neighborhood may stay 'the garden spot of the city,'" officers of the PTA said.

Two other schools, Horace Mann and Bryn Mawr, are in the vicinity of the high school and each has a playground which should be used by children who have been playing at the high school, PTA officers said.

South Side Jewish Group to Hear Dr. No Yong Park

Dr. No Yong Park, scholar, lecturer, and authority on the far east, will talk on "How to Lick the Japs" at the Men's club of the South Side Hebrew congregation at the club's first meeting of the year at 8:30 p. m. Wednesday in the assembly hall at 74th street and Chappel avenue.

SACRED HEART PRIEST GIVEN SCHOLARSHIP

The Rev. Bernard Sokolowski, assistant at Sacred Heart Catholic church, 4600 South Honore street, has been awarded a two year scholarship in social sciences by the Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Sokolowski of 8314 Manistee avenue.

The south side priest's recreational leadership in the Back of the Yards community was the basis for the scholarship award, a report said. Since coming to the community in July, 1939, Father Sokolowski has been recreational chairman of the Back of the Yards council's field, 47th street and Damen avenue; the council's youth chairman in 1940, and an organizer and later president of the council's credit union. He was chairman of the Red Cross drive in 1941-'42 and of the infantile paralysis campaign since last January. He also instituted a labor school in his parish.

A graduate of Mount Carmel High school, Father Sokolowski studied at Quigley preparatory seminary, and obtained his bachelor's and master's degrees at St. Mary of the Lake college, Mundelein.

Two Named Faculty Advisors at Illinois Tech

Dr. Walter Hendricks, 1155 East 56th street, and Prof. Samuel F. Bibb, 7806 Euclid avenue, recently were named faculty advisers of the honor board at the Illinois Institute of Technology. The honor system was adopted last year by a vote of the student body.

SOUTH CHICAGO FORUM TO HEAR OWI OFFICIAL

The South Chicago Community forum will open its third season with an address on "Axis Propaganda at Home and Abroad" by Roderick Holmgre, who is on the staff of the domestic radio bureau of the office of war information. The meeting will be held at 8 p. m. Wednesday, Oct. 13, in the auditorium of the South Chicago branch library, 9005 Houston avenue. The Rev. Paul J. Folino, pastor of the United Church of South Chicago, is chairman of the forums, which are held every other Wednesday night.

Lake County Real Estate Tax Payment Due Nov. 1

Frank R. Martin, Lake county, Ind., treasurer, has notified taxpayers that second instalment real estate taxes and personal property taxes must be paid before Nov. 1 to avoid a penalty in addition to the regular tax.

JEWS CLOSE 10 DAY HOLY PERIOD NEXT SATURDAY

So. Side Services Mark Yom Kippur.

The blowing of the Shofar, the ram's horn, at sundown Saturday in all south side Hebrew congregations and temples will signify the end of the observance of Yom Kippur and the culmination of 10 days of repentance which began with the opening of the Jewish religious new year.

The Shofar sounds a trumpet call to conscience for the Jewish people, providing a period in which they may obtain a proper perspective of life.

The austerities of Yom Kippur, the holiest day of the Jewish year, are intended to exalt the soul above the demands of the body, and prayer and fasting are employed to lift man's aspirations and aspire a renewal of life on a higher plane.

Sinai Congregation, 4600 South Park way, one of the largest Jewish congregations in the country, will open the Yom Kippur observance with a service at 8 p. m. Friday. Dr. L. L. Mann, rabbi, will speak on "Life—Its Mystery and Its Mastery," at that time. Special traditional music, directed by Harold Cobb, will be presented.

A children's service will be held at 9 a. m. Saturday, and at 10 a. m. Dr. Mann will speak on "Collective Security or Collective Suicide." A memorial service will be held at 3 p. m., and the observance will continue until sundown.

At South Shore temple, 7215 Jeffrey avenue, Dr. G. George Fox, rabbi, will speak at the opening Yom Kippur service at 8:15 p. m. Friday. On Saturday Dr. Fox will speak at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. and a memorial service will be held at 3:30 p. m. A children's service will be held at 1 p. m.

The Yom Kippur observance will begin at 7:30 p. m. Friday at Temple Isaiah Israel, 1100 Hyde Park boulevard, and Saturday services will be held from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. Dr. Baruch B. Braunstein will speak on "Who Is a Jew?" at the Friday night service, and Rabbi Asher T. Katz will speak on "Memories or Possessions" at the memorial service at 2:30 p. m. Saturday.

Minchoch, the first prayer daily, will be held at 3 p. m. Friday at the South Side Hebrew congregation, 74th street and Chappel avenue. A service also will be held at 6:30 p. m. Friday. Rabbi Morris Teller will give the sermon at the Saturday services, which begin at 7:15 a. m. and continue until sundown. A children's service will be held at 10 a. m. Saturday in the lower assembly hall.

ACCIDENT RATE IS CUT IN HALF IN INDIANA AREA

Traffic accidents are on the decline in East Chicago and Indiana Harbor, with a 50 per cent decrease in the numbers of persons injured in the first eight months of this year over the same period last year.

A report by Traffic Sgt. Michael Vinovich shows accidents have dropped from 721 in the first eight months of 1942 to 362 for the same period this year. Injuries decreased from 186 to 93, and fatalities dropped from 11 to 7.

Sgt. Vinovich said motorists as a rule were more observing of traffic regulations than pedestrians and that pedestrians must become safety minded if the accident records is to show a sustained decrease.

1,250 Volunteers to Give Blood in Whiting Drive

Pledged to register 1,000 persons as voluntary blood donors for the Red Cross blood plasma bank, Whiting exceeded its goal recently when 1,250 persons registered as voluntary donors. Dr. J. A. McCarthy, chairman of the Whiting Red Cross chapter, said that altho only 40 per cent of the volunteers were expected to be accepted, the percentage proved higher when 851 cases were accepted and donated a pint of blood.

BENNETT SCHOOL MURALS HONOR FRANK W. RIEDER

Dedicate Art Wednesday to Late Principal.

Four murals depicting the achievements of man in art, literature, science, and music will be dedicated to the late Frank W. Rieder, the first principal of Bennett school, 10115 Prairie avenue, at a program at 1 p. m. Wednesday in the school auditorium.

Mr. Rieder was principal of the school from the time it was opened in March, 1928, until he retired in November, 1934. He died about two years ago.

Gift of PTA and Alumni.

The project, which began to develop five years ago, was sponsored and paid for by the Parent-Teacher association and the February and June graduates of 1939, 1940, and 1941. The murals were ready to be hung in the auditorium a year ago but circumstances prevented this until recently.

Mrs. Norma B. Sisson, 9923 Calumet avenue, president of the PTA when the idea for the murals was conceived, will present them to Miss Edna McMann, principal of the school. Members of the PTA will present a part of the program dealing with the history of obtaining the murals, and pupils at the school will explain their meaning.

Son Will Attend.

The Rev. J. C. Yemm, 701 East 91st place, pastor of the Vincent Methodist church, of which Mr. Rieder was a member, will give the invocation at the dedication ceremony. Frank F. Rieder of Park Ridge, a son of the late principal, will attend. Mrs. Frank Rieder, the widow, and another son, the Rev. David Rieder, both of Hillsdale, Mich., will be unable to attend.

Mrs. L. R. Mullen, 10140 Vernon avenue, president of the PTA, will open the meeting and Mrs. Alex Andrews, 10235 Calumet avenue, will be chairman of the ceremony.

3 of 7 on South Side Show Increase.

The lure of highly paid jobs in war plants is apparently attracting few boys and girls of high school age, figures released by city and county officials show. At the end of the first two weeks of the fall term, city enrollment was only 7.65 per cent under last year, and county enrollment decreased only 5 per cent.

"In view of the demands of the military services and inducements offered by war industry, I consider the figure highly satisfactory," declared Noble J. Puffer, county superintendent of schools.

George F. Cassell, assistant superintendent of Chicago high schools, announced that 113,600 have registered as compared to 123,000 last year.

Work Permits Soar.

Cassell said that during the summer the board of education urged employers not to retain workers of high school age after classes started. Mrs. Jewell Coleman, superintendent of the state labor department's division of women's and children's employment, said that work permits for 16 and 17 year olds in Chicago and Cook county soared to 50,000 during the first seven months of the year, five times the number issued for the same period last year.

Enrollment figures for the county are incomplete, Mr. Puffer said, because Brookfield and Berwyn schools have not as yet opened and reports have not yet been received from some schools in unincorporated areas.

Of the seven county high schools located south and southwest, three showed increases while the other four showed slight decreases. Thornton Eownship High school with 2,663 students this year, shows the greatest drop of the seven. It has 148 less students than last year. Thornton Township High school with 2,663 at Calumet City has 35 less students this year, Lemont has 25 less, and Blue Island shows a drop of 21.

3 Show Increase.

Argo Community High school has an increase of 27 students, Bloom Township an increase of 37, and Orland Park Community High school, with 127 students, has increased its total by two pupils.

Seven elementary schools of the county showed increased enrollment. They included Blue Island, Flossmoor, Harvey, Lansing, South Holland [Roosevelt school], Steger, and Tinley Park. An approximately stationary enrollment was shown by two schools of Oak Lawn. One had a 550 enrollment for both periods, and the second increased one pupil.

Lower registration was encountered at Calumet, two schools of Calumet City, Chicago Heights, Dolton, Homewood, Lemont, Midlothian, South Holland [Coolidge], Summit, and West Harvey schools.

MAJ. FRANK MEYERS WINS PROMOTION TO LIEUTENANT COLONEL

News of the promotion of Maj. Frank X. Meyers, 5936 North Washtenaw avenue, to the rank of lieutenant colonel, has been received here. The order for the promotion, signed by Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, is dated Sept. 8.

Lt. Col. Frank X. Meyers.

Lt. Col. Meyers entered the service with the Illinois National Guard on Sept. 16, 1940. He was transferred to the adjutant general's department in May, 1943, and is now attending the command and general staff school as a student in the general staff course.

Before Pearl Harbor Lt. Col. Meyers was in charge of all promotional events sponsored by the Broadway armory of the National Guard. At that time he held the rank of lieutenant.

Whiting Night School.

The Whiting night school program, which offers instructions to persons of 16 years or older, will open at 7 p. m. Tuesday at the school.

Brother Congratulates New Sergeant

The sergeant receives the lieutenant's compliments. Newly promoted 1st Sgt. Cornelius W. McGreevey, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. McGreevey of 8909 Harper avenue, who is stationed at the army air forces bombardier school at Big Springs, Tex., receives the congratulations of 1st Lt. Owen K. McGreevey, a bombardier instructor at the school—and the sergeant's brother!

OUR TOWN

HUBERT J. SMALTZ, new assistant district executive, Boy Scout was welcomed to Chicago by South Shore district Boy Scout leaders at a recent dinner at which the scout leaders also bade farewell to William J. Schumacher Jr., former assistant district executive, who has entered the navy. Mr. Schumacher is a graduate of St. Viator college and had been a scout executive in Chicago since 1937. He had served a director of Camp Kiwanis and Camp James E. West, and as administrative director of the Owasippe scout camps.

Open house will be held from 3 to 9 o'clock today by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brumlik at their home, 5705 South Albany avenue, to observe their 50th wedding anniversary. The couple have lived in Chicago for 51 years, coming here from Czecho-Slovakia. They have six children and five grandchildren.

Leo A. Parker Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo A. Parker of 4502 Woodlawn avenue, has been awarded a four year scholarship to Culver Military academy, Culver, Ind., as the result of a competitive examination participated in by students from all over the country. He was graduated last June with honors from St. Ambrose school, and has played both in the school band and with the Oakland-Kenwood American Legion post junior band. His father has been commander of the post for two years.

ST. IGNATIUS HIGH HOMECOMING IS SET FOR OCT. 16

Judge Graber to Speak at Annual Alumni Event.

Superior Court Judge Joseph A. Graber of 8201 Elizabeth street is chairman of the annual fall festival and homecoming of St. Ignatius High school, 1076 Roosevelt road, to be held Saturday evening, Oct. 16, in the Ashland boulevard auditorium, Ashland avenue and Van Buren street. Judge Graber is an alumnus of the school and his five sons were graduated from St. Ignatius High school.

John J. Kenealy, 5106 Fulton street, president of the Fathers' club, is assistant to the chairman, while Julius Huffman of 5011 West End avenue, who has charge of tickets, is assisted by these south and southwest side alumni: Joseph Rollheiser, 8051 Oglesby avenue; Frank Uhler, 9250 Racine avenue, and Joseph Maloney, 9924 Hamilton avenue.

Oldest Catholic high school for boys in Chicago, St. Ignatius will observe its 75th year in 1944. Founded by Jesuits in 1869, much of the credit for its organization is given to the Rev. Arnold Damen, one of the greatest of Jesuit missionaries. He established the Church of the Holy Family. His parish school system developed into five schools, and on Father Damen's mission tours he asked for assistance in erecting a school of secondary education.

Hardly had the high school been erected, when the Chicago fire threatened to wipe away the endeavors of years. In the east at the time, Father Damen vowed that he and his successors at Holy Family church would keep seven lights burning before the shrine of St. Mary, mother of Jesus, if school and church were spared. Visitors to the church will find the lights burning before the altar in the east transept.

Alumni are in all walks of life. Hundreds of priests are among the graduates, and the roll also includes eight bishops and 25 monsignori. Eleven hundred alumni represent St. Ignatius in service, and there are 13 gold stars. A former mayor of Chicago, a United States district attorney, presidents of universities, teachers, editors, and authors are former Ignatians.

South Siders Assisting.

Open Exclusive Broadcast in Yankee Stadium.

For the fifth consecutive year W-G-N and Mutual will broadcast the play-by-play account of the world series, starting Tuesday, in New York's Yankee stadium. Under an exclusive sponsorship arrangement the $100,000 paid for the broadcast rights will go to the Red Cross and other charity organizations.

Lt. Bob Elson.

Lt. Bob Elson, W-G-N sportscaster before joining the navy last year, who has broadcast world series games for 13 years, has received navy permission to assist Red Barber in handling the report of the sports classic. Bill Corum, sports columnist, will give the highlights and color of the games.

American service men at battle stations thruout the world will not miss hearing the series. Arrangements have been made by MBS and the British Broadcasting corporation to short wave the games to the fighting men. Don Dunphy will be at the microphone for these broadcasts.

The first three games will be played in New York with game time at 12:30 p. m., [Chicago war time] and the remaining games in St. Louis starting on Oct. 10 at 1:30 p. m. The broadcasts will start 15 minutes earlier. There will be no games on Oct. 8 and 9. These two days will be used for traveling.

FOREIGN POLICY WILL BE ROUND TABLE'S TOPIC

Congress' role in making and executing American foreign policy will be discussed by the University of Chicago Round Table today. Beginning with this program, the Round Table will be heard at a new time, 12:30 p. m.

Discussing "Congress and Foreign Policy" the speakers will examine the Fulbright resolution. They also will analyze the Ball-Burton-Hatch-Hill resolution. Participants will include Avery O. Craven, professor of American history, U. of C.; Herbert Blumer, department of sociology, U. of C., and Tracy Strevey, department of history at Northwestern university.

Alec Templeton Will Be Guest on Star Theater

Diane Courtney, songstress, joins James Melton, tenor, on the Star Theater at 8:30 p. m. today over WBBM-CBS. Alec Templeton, pianist, composer, and musical satirist, will be a special guest.

EXCEED QUOTA IN SOUTH SIDE WAR LOAN PLEA

To Celebrate with Dinner Next Wednesday.

BY ROSCOE SIMMONS.

With Harold H. Swift as special guest the whirlwind of a campaign in the third war loan put on by the central district of the south side will close with a victory dinner Wednesday evening at the Morris restaurant, 47th street and South Park way.

"It has been a good fight," said Maj. C. Udell Turpin, campaign manager for the south central district, "and our victory has cemented the Americanism of all our people who fought together as one in spirit and aim."

Accompanying Mr. Swift, who is general chairman, will be Norman B. Collins, vice chairman, Renslow Scherer and the Cook county chairman, Irving L. Porter.

Campaign Great Success.

Only a small part of the 3,000 volunteers in the campaign will be able to greet the leaders of the state and county drive at Wednesday's dinner. "Nevertheless," said Maj. Turpin, "we will have facts and figures which might amaze them; more figures than facts."

Pride in the victorious campaign of the south side was expressed at a meeting of committee chairmen held in the office of R. A. Cole, president of the Metropolitan association, 45th street and South Park way, and one of the heavy subscribers to all three loans.

The chairmen voted to underwrite the dinner, give it in the name of the south central district, invite the guests and take no subscriptions for their affair. It is a unique gesture.

"It is a privilege," said Mr. Cole, "to sustain the war. In backing the attack we are advancing ourselves and we want our neighbors all over town to know how we feel."

Churches Aid Campaign.

Religious zeal has entered the war loan effort among the churches of the district. Sermons are based on the war; bonds are offered from the pulpit and the martial air mingles in the worship.

Ebenezer Baptist church, 45th street and Vincennes avenue, one of the largest congregations in the United States, has taken the lead in sale of bonds as part of its Sunday morning service. Each Sunday during the campaign from seven to eight hundred dollars in bonds have been sold at Ebenezer.

"We are battling for the Lord," said Dr. J. H. L. Smith, pastor of Ebenezer, "and He fights no half battles. He will fight with us as long, and only as long, as we fight for ourselves. I have a feeling that God is with us."

No One Says No.

A sector of the near north side, under leadership of Mrs. Mabel Gray, has joined with the south central district. "No one has said no to us," reported Mrs. Gray, "and while we are in no competition with south central, we can talk in thousands of dollars for the small element of the population put under our supervision."

Midweek the merchants committee of south central reported an additional $237,000 in bond sales. "We are but half way," said Eli Nierman, co-chairman of this committee, "and the week coming looks brighter than the week past."

School children of the district, aided by their parents, have outdone themselves. "It is almost too much for us," reported Chairman Ben H. Mosby of Du Sable High school. "I am making no partial report," he added, "but, all things considered, we may take the cake at Wednesday's celebration dinner."

This third war loan, more than any past occasion, has introduced the various elements of the vast south central population to each other. "One people, one country has long been my idea," said Truman K. Gibson, an official of the Supreme Liberty Life Insurance company, and chairman of the committee on corporations.

The committee of women, of which Mrs. Alva Bates is general chairman and Mrs. Margorie Joyner is vice chairman, sold $30,000 in bonds to the professional people of the district in a single week, but Miss Lillian Sangers had a story to tell also.

At the Savoy ball room Tuesday night Miss Sangers sold to a prize fight crowd $2,700 in bonds, got the cash and asked Maj. Turpin, who was one of the ringside spectators, to hand her a receipt and take the money along.

An ex-Mississippian, 85 years old, who remembers the Surrender, handed over his cash to cover two $25 bonds. "Finally," he said, "finally, I caught up with freedom."

Banks of the south central district, thru Chairman Edward Froderman, cashier of Drexel National bank, turned in $832,000 in sales. "And Wednesday," said Mr. Froderman, "is yet to come."

Mr. Swift and his delegation, according to Maj. Turpin, will see more than a dinner celebration. "They will see," added Maj. Turpin, "how giving people an opportunity works out."

'ROBERTA' OPENS OPERA YEAR ON W-G-N SATURDAY

Theater of Air Co-Stars Miss Claire and Thomas.

W-G-N's 1943-'44 season of operettas and operas gets under way on The Chicago Theater of the Air next Saturday with the presentation of Jerome Kern's "Roberta," in which Marion Claire, soprano singer of the series, and Thomas L. Thomas, baritone, will be co-starred.

The program will be broadcast by W-G-N, W59C, and the Mutual network from 8 to 9 p. m.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak. The production will be directed by Jack LaFrande and will feature the music of the W-G-N Symphony orchestra conducted by Henry Weber and the chorus led by Robert Trendler.

LaFrandre's adaptation of the "Roberta" story tells of the romance of a lovely Russian refugee and an All-American football player, set in the luxury of a Parisian gown shop in the early 1930s. Miss Claire will sing the part of Stephanie, the Russian girl, while Thomas will have the rôle of the football player, John Kent.

All the famous music Kern composed for the "Roberta" score will be included in the program. Songs from the operetta will be heard in the following order:

"The Touch of Your Hand," Miss Claire; "Yesterdays," Ruth Slater, contralto; "Madrigal Chorus," male chorus; "Something Had to Happen," orchestra; "You're Devastating," Thomas and chorus; "Yesterdays," Thomas and chorus; "The Touch of Your Hand," Miss Claire, Thomas, and chorus.

"Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," Miss Claire and chorus; "Let's Begin," Wayne Van Dyne, tenor, and chorus; "You're Devastating," Miss Claire, Thomas, and chorus; and "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," Miss Claire, Thomas, and chorus.

Irene Rich Rounds Out 10th Year on 'Dear John'

Irene Rich will celebrate her 10th anniversary in the role of Faith Chandler at 4:45 p. m. today over WBBM-CBS in the program Dear John. Her part is that of the wife of a British undercover agent, preparing now to enter Japanese occupied territory.

SHOSTAKOVICH'S 5TH SYMPHONY ON WBBM TODAY

Dimitri Shostakovich's Fifth Symphony will be the feature work performed during the New York Philharmonic Symphony program from 2 to 3:25 p. m. today over WBBM-CBS. Vladimir Golschmann will conduct the orchestra.

Carl Sandburg, American poet and biographer, will be the guest of Carl Van Doren on the intermission feature, "The American Scriptures." Sandburg will read an excerpt from his "The People, Yes."

In addition to the Shostakovich symphony, the orchestra will play three movements from the Handel-Beecham "The Faithful Shepherd" suite and three movements from "Iberia" by Albeniz.

WAC Singer on Air.

Eleanor Person, WAC private, will be the guest singer on the Bob Crosby program at 9:30 o'clock tonight over WMAQ-NBC.

Urge Owners to Adopt Fuel Saving Program.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

The nation-wide mobilization to conserve fuel is gaining momentum. Home owners are asked to "winter condition" their homes in every possible way and here are nine principal factors involved in a winter-proofing job.

Insulate parts of your heating plant, as boilers, furnaces, heating pipes, hot water tanks and hot air chutes need coverings to seal in the heat; insulate attic roof or floor; weatherstrip windows and doors; caulk cracks; put up storm sash and storm doors; install winter vestibules; insulate walls where it it practicable; seal walls and doors which give access to any part of the house which is little used, or not used at all, and insulate ceiling of basement or a cellar which is not heated.

Insulate Behind Radiator.

One simple way of saving heat is to place a piece of insulation board between a radiator and an outside wall. Almost as simple a method to stop heat loss in cold basements is to install panels of ½ inch insulating board into window openings.

Weatherstripping is important because it is said that cracks which run around an average window amount in size to space occupied by a brick. A house with 20 windows has an opening about the size of 20 bricks. Quite some opening in zero weather.

Storm Windows Important.

Tight fitting storm windows are important sealers against loss of heat thru window panes. Caulking of cracks is important since a lot of heat can escape thru those open joints caused by settling of a house.

Attic floors or roofs can be insulated in various ways. If you are not planning to use your attic space you can use dry fills of different types which come in batts or bags. Insulation boards are splendid fuel savers if you are planning to finish one room or the entire attic.

It goes without saying that there's a big loss of heat thru the walls of a house. Heat loss thru an uninsulated wall averages around 27 per cent. Insulate the wall with a 2 per cent thickness of insulation and you can cut heat loss to around 17 per cent. An insulation expert can advise best type of wall insulation, depending on the house structure.

Seal Unused Rooms.

This is the month to close and seal any room or rooms which will be little used this winter—or not used at all. Doors which lead to these unused spaces should be tightly weatherstripped. Basement doors should be weatherstripped and if it is to be used for living purposes, it should have the same attention as the rest of the house. If it is not used for living purposes its ceiling should be heat-sealed to keep first floor rooms warm.

And if you have a home with walls of asbestos cement siding or shingles which are in need of a good cleaning, there are excellent cleaners available, manufactured especially for this type of wall.

THIS WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, October 4.

. The home gardener will find the autumn activities quite pressing unless he has completed all preliminary work, which includes taking in all accessories to the protection of a shed, laying in material for giving winter protction to the perennials and spring or late planted stock.

Tuesday, October 5.

Emphasis is placed on the value of clearing all debris from the garden. Especially necessary is the raking up and burning of all weeds not only in one's own yard but on adjoining land if there is such. It is not too late to build up the garden soil, and there are many soils that will stand building up.

Wednesday, October 6.

Gardeners living in sections where animal manures can be obtained are fortunate, for there is nothing better for growing plants. However, some soil may be deficient in a certain element which can be supplied by using commercial fertilizers, usually applied just before planting in spring at intervals during the growing season, and in the amount required for the crop.

Thursday, October 7.

Tulip planting time is here and there is nothing better to furnish brilliant bloom in springtime. A good way to arrange them is in clumps of half a dozen. Planting in rows is never quite as pleasing as planting in clumps. One should study the height the plants will grow and plant accordingly.

Friday, October 8.

The bulbs for indoor flowering include such choice items as the amaryllis, sparaxis, with small flowers of bright colors; calla, with luxuriant foliage and chalk white flowers; oxailis, charming little plants with yellow buttercup blooms; freesias in many colors; and one may try the beautiful Easter lily by starting it now, keeping it cool until well rooted and then placing it in a window.

Saturday, October 9.

Hardwood cuttings may be taken of various shrubs. Mention has been made as to the practicability of sowing hardy annuals in the fall to give early bloom in the spring. These may be sown now, for the seeds in most cases lie in the soil until spring when they start growth.

Prepared in coöperation with Garfield Park conservatory.

COMBINED NEGRO GROUPS TO MEET NEXT SUNDAY

Plans to reduce the cost of living and curb rising food prices affecting Chicago Negroes will be discussed Sunday at the first combined fall meeting of the Chicago Citizen's Committee of 1,000 and the National Negro council at the Metropolitan Community church, 4100 South Park way.

Prominent Negro ministers and laymen, including Edgar G. Brown, director of the National Negro council, will speak at the meeting. Speakers include Dr. W. H. Jackson, pastor of Olivet Baptist church; the Rev. Harold Kingsley, the Rev. W. S. Bradden, the Rev. A. Wayman Ward, and Dr. Joseph Evans, pastor of Metropolitan Community church.

A plan for a large scale educational and volunteer price warden system, with office of price administration branch offices staffed by Negro volunteer workers under supervision of OPA regional and state offices, will be presented.

Couples' Golden and Silver Wedding Dates Brings Wellwishes from Several Hundred Friends

Mrs. Halverson, who was Etta Dick (back to camera), receives gifts from Mrs. Henry Nehring, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Nehring. The former Miss Dick was married on her parents' silver jubilee.

Around the festive board are gathered six of the seven Dick grandchildren, together with Mrs. Halverson, whose eldest son, Norman, is in service. At either end are Richard, 13, left, and Billy, 7, sons of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Nehring; Fred, 14, second from left, and Howard, 23, fourth, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Lucas P. Hannema; Howard, 17, third left, and Carol, 10, son and daughter of the Halversons.

21 COMPANIES JOIN WAR TIME ODT PROGRAM

'Reverse Direction' Delivery Begun.

The first motor freight interchange in the country, which opened operations Sept. 21 at its southwest side terminal, started reverse direction delivery last week.

Personnel of the motor freight pool, named the Chicago Suburban Interline Terminal corporation, and army officers conducted a tour of the terminal building and yard, 31st and Iron streets, and expressed satisfaction with the functioning of the new organization. The "go ahead" signal for reverse delivery was given. Now freight brought to Chicago by long haul truckers will be unloaded at the terminal and delivered by trucks of the 21 member companies.

Part of ODT Program.

Developed as a major feature in the office of defense transportation joint action program for suburban motor service, the motor freight pool is expected to cut days from the transit time of much interline truck freight and will reduce greatly the mileage operated by the 21 suburban truckers in making deliveries to the long haul terminals.

The terminal will give Chicago industries greatly expedited service and will consolidate the freight received from the 21 suburban carriers into larger truckloads for delivery to the army's huge freight consolidation depot on Pershing road. Eighty-five per cent of the freight now handled by the coöperating carriers is war material, and Col. Dan A. Hardt, transportation officer of the 6th service command, has expressed approval of the program.

Begin Survey This Week.

To learn exactly the amount of tonnage going over the docks, the number of trucks and men involved, and similar information, terminal officers will conduct a statistical survey this week for early presentation to member companies.

The survey will picture the number of suburban trucks which will pick up freight at various points and then deliver it to the terminal for sorting, classification, and reloading into long haul vans and trailers. The survey also will show the number of long haul vans and trailers arriving at the terminal to disgorge their freight onto the 50 docks of the 300 foot platform, all to be sorted and routed to the smaller suburban carriers. The latter handling of freight is termed reverse direction.

The fireproof terminal formerly was occupied by Riss and company, motor freighters, who moved to their own building on the west side. The structure, about two years old, has cross dock operation, accommodating 36 trucks, 18 on either side. Eventually a large service department will be operated in the unused garage.

Location Is Convenient.

The terminal is located in a stretch of vacant area, away from traffic, and convenient of access from any north and south artery. Truckers make a turn off South Ashland avenue at 34th street onto the cinder road leading to the platforms. Later, the terminal may be placed at a more central location in the city.

Ben Leventhal of 5650 North St. Louis avenue, president of the Roosevelt Cartage company, heads the new group, and the slate of officers includes A. S. Sorensen, 6608 Oliphant avenue, L. N. Sorenson Motor Express, first vice president; M. C. Knudson, Oak Park, Enterprise Transfer company, second vice president; Lloyd Markel, Aurora Transfer company, third vice president; Lee Folkers, Joliet Warehouse and Transfer company, fourth vice president; A. D. Church, Barrington, Gold Star Motor Service, Inc., secretary, and C. John Viking, Waukegan, Webber Cartage Line, Inc.

Four from Chicago Heights.

Four Chicago Heights motor freight companies are members. They are Robert Ashbaugh, Spee-Dee Motor Express; Philip J. Pagoria, Pagoria Express Service, Inc.; J. A. Austgen, Austgen Express and Storage company, and William O. Ritter, Brown Express, Inc. Herbert E. Schiek of Schiek Motor Express is from Joliet, and the Crown Point, Ind., Transfer company is represented by Walter H. Heisterberg, Crown Point, Ind.

Other truckers are Walter J. Carpeaux, Oak Park, of Fred Olsen & Son; G. J. Adams, Elgin Storage and Transfer company; George Wieringa, Cicero, Wieringa Brothers; Edward B. Groble, 944 North Lawler avenue, E. J. Meyer company; J. L. Muldoon, 1747 Highland avenue, North Shore Motor Express; Fred R. Gloor, 6243 North Nordica avenue, Niedert Motor service; J. J. Krema, 1714 Hudson avenue, Krema Trucking company, and Charles Z. Paine, Woodstock, Paine Motor Express.

Blood Unit in Gary.

The Chicago Red Cross mobile plasma unit will begin a three week period of collecting blood from Gary residents tomorrow morning. A goal of 3,000 registrants was set.

American Women at War

Harriet Vaitkevicus, WAC record clerk in the base motor pool at the army air field, Carlsbad, N. M., has been promoted to technician 5th class. Her home address is 7432 57th place, Summit. She is a graduate of the army administration school at Commerce, Tex., and received basic training at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

Formerly an interviewer for the Chicago FBI, Stephanie Bartak, technician 5th class in the WAC, now is a computer in the ballistic research laboratory at the Aberdeen proving ground, Md., and has qualified for a 16 week course in mathematics at the University of Pennsylvania. She took an administrative course at Eastern State Teachers' college, Richmond, Ky., after completion of basic training at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

Her father helps to build subchasers at the Pullman company and a brother, Vincent, recently joined the navy. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Anton Bartak of 10507 Perry avenue.

Of her FBI experience, she says: "I used to go into all the big Chicago plants and get information from employes. Since I speak both Polish and Bohemian, I sometimes uncovered rather important facts about men and women who turned out to be aliens or unregistered citizens."

Member of the automotive section at the Aberdeen proving ground, Md., Virginia Lozny, technician 5th class, of the WAC, has left for the officer candidate school at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. Graduate of Thornton Township High school and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seweryn Lozny of 143d and Winchester streets, Harvey, she was a supervisor at a large canning company and active in St. Susanna's church, where she participated in dramatics and was a member of the choir for 14 years.

Camp Pinedale, Cal., announces the promotion of Virginia K. Schuenman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Schuenman, 8319 Winchester street, from private 1st class to corporal. Corp. Schuenman is a clerk typist with the WAC post headquarters company and former student at Whitworth college, Brookhaven, Miss.

It's the grade of technician 5th class now for Rita D. Mershon, WAC authorities at the army air forces proving ground, Eglin field, Fla., announced. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Mershon, 1105 East Oak street, Kankakee.

SIGN SOUTHWEST SIDERS FOR RED CROSS COURSES

Enrollments are being accepted this week from southwest siders wishing to join either of the two Red Cross first aid courses offered at the Gage park fieldhouse, 55th street and Western avenue. Registration for the Red Cross standard first aid course opens tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock. Frank V. Krejci will be the instructor for the course. The advanced first aid and accident prevention course opens its attendance rolls Tuesday evening. This is a new course consisting of 10 hours of instruction.

Recall Early Days on Illinois Central.

Two men who together have worked nearly a hundreds years for railroads, and who can remember when engines were fired with wood and coaches were heated by coal stoves and lighted by gas and oil, retired recently from the service of the Illinois Central railroad.

Robert W. Carruthers.

J. A. Cain.

J. A. Cain, 67 years old, of 6254 Harper avenue, retired after 40 years of railroading, the last 25 of them for the Illinois Central, and Robert W. Carruthers, 74, of Kankakee, retired after spending the last 48 of his 55 years of railroading with the Illinois Central.

Started at $30 a Month.

Wages were $30 a month when Carruthers took a job as a construction laborer in June, 1888, at Atlanta, Ga., with the Atlanta and Florida railroad, now the Southern railroad. Fifteen years later, when Cain went to work as a brakeman for the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad, wages had risen to $45 a month for a new hand.

When Cain became a railroad man oil lamps were used to light passenger cars, but Carruthers can remember working on a wood fired

Celebrations After War, President Says.

Libby, McNeill and Libby is celebrating its 75th anniversary this year—"not in the holiday spirit in which we would like to celebrate our diamond jubilee, but in the serious spirit of winning a war," says the 1943 annual report of President Daniel W. Creeden, 7100 South Shore drive.

With cause for jubilation after 75 years of continued growth, one of the world's largest general canners, says the report, dig in, work harder, and say: "This is not a time for business jubilees. It is a time for earnest work to speed the winning of the war."

No Banquet, No Speeches.

Thus there will be no banquet, no speeches, no awards during the jubilee year at the general offices and meat packing plant in the stockyards. They wait for the war's end.

Army rations, nutritious food for allies and civilians—that's the big job today, and enlisted in that effort are more than 50 Libby canneries in the United States, Alaska, Canada, Hawaii, England—and, formerly, Belgium and Germany.

A tin of corned beef started off the new enterprise of Arthur A. Libby, Archibald McNeil, and Charles P. Libby back in 1868. It was the first product of the small meat packing company at 16th and State streets. About 1905 Libby's expanded into the pickle and condiment business. A year later the company acquired a canned milk factory at Morrison, Ill.

Add California Plant.

Successful, the company added fruit canning in 1907 with a California plant, and three years later the canning of pineapple in Hawaii. Two more years, and Libby entered the salmon canning industry. Then, with hands full, it waited 14 years until 1926 when it entered the dried fruit field, and this was followed by the addition of seven midwest vegetable canneries.

But a mere list of many plants, while impressive, scarcely tells the real story of the production and especially of the harvest of food. It doesn't, for instance, picture the fishing fleets, the men and machinery, that go into Bristol bay, Alaska, for the annual salmon run. It passes over the beauty of the pineapple plantations of Hawaii with their browned workers. It doesn't mention the barrels of olives from sunny Spain, heaps of fruit arriving at the Pacific coast plants, ripe red tomatoes of Blue Island.

Whole Town Helps.

At Lake Mills, Wis., last summer the whole community turned out to harvest the green pea crop. The mayor, the librarian, in fact, all of Main street joined in. South siders also met the challenge of a ripe tomato crop at Blue Island, and formed a civilian army of tomato pickers. Shortage of man power besets the plants almost everywhere, especially in Hawaii where men are needed for defense and government work.

Employes like the suggestion plan award system, pensions, group life insurance plan, benefit association, training school, and the new house organ, "The Scanner."

Remember $80,000 Loss.

But all, officials and employes alike, recall a dark day of 1930 when hijackers entered the warehouse and made away with 40 barrels of rum, worth $80,000. The rum was to be used in the manufacture of mince meat and puddings.

Scott A. Holman, a vice president; Fred P. Slivon, controler and secretary, and Samuel M. Jasper, treasurer, are south side residents, as is Mr. Creeden.

RETIRED LETTER CARRIER MARKS GOLDEN WEDDING

VanKempemas' Open House Tomorrow.

Fifty years ago tomorrow Albert Van Kempema, a native Hollander who came to the United States as a boy, and Katie Kuyper, daughter of a pioneer resident of the Roseland and South Holland district, were married in Bethany Reformed church, then on 111th street between State street and Perry avenue.

Members of the church before their marriage, they were the first couple to be married there by the first pastor, the Rev. Gerrit J. Hekuis. They will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary with open house from 2 to 5 p. m. and from 7 to 11 p. m. tomorrow at their home, 10925 Wabash avenue.

the Pullman and Roseland stations. He retired in 1934 when he reached 65. He served the church where he was married as an elder, trustee, and superintendent of the Sunday school.

He came to this country from Holland and moved to the Roseland district in 1890 from Grand Rapids, Mich. Mrs. Van Kempema was born on Michigan avenue, near their present home.

Have 5 Children.

The couple has five children: Mrs. Gertrude Crowl, 46 East 110th place; Richard Van Kempema, 10858 Prospect avenue; James Van Kempema, 239 West 113th street; Bert Van Kempema, 11313 Lowe avenue, and Clarence Van Kempema, 10802 Wentworth avenue, and four grandchildren: Ross Van Kempema, an army aviation cadet at San Antonio, Tex.; Barbara, David, and Wallace Van Kempema.

ROSELAND PAIR OBSERVES 50TH WEDDING DATE

Daughter's 25th Is on Same Day, Too.

BY IRENE PONTO.

Sarah Brown became the bride of Louis Dick on an autumn day in 1893, and "they lived happily ever after"—to raise a family of six children and celebrate 50 years of wedded life.

Their golden jubilee was a double wedding celebration with their daughter, Etta, and her husband, Harry L. Halverson, 12120 Harvard avenue, who were marking a silver anniversary on the same date. The day would have been the 75th wedding anniversary of Mrs. Dick's parents.

Married During Last War.

Twenty-five years ago, in 1918, when Etta and Harry were married, he came from Camp Grant for the war time ceremony, the affair was a triple celebration. Etta's parents were being congratulated on their 25th anniversary and her grandmother on a 50th anniversary. The three layer wedding cake had a gold layer on the bottom, a silver cake for the second layer, and a white layer for the newlyweds, on top.

At the recent family celebration Mrs. Halverson remarked that she wished one of her children were being married to continue the tradition, but for triple happiness there was an engaged couple present, her nephew, Harold Hannema, and his fiance, Charlotte Wessling, 26 West 112th street.

Family Came to Roseland.

Sarah Brown was the daughter of James K. Brown, Kensington Gardens, England, a merchant, who came to Chicago to become one of the five settlers of what is now Roseland.

A north side family, the John Dicks, moved to the area and settled in one of the first houses built by George M. Pullman for car workers.

His son, Louis, who married Sarah, worked for the Pullman company 44 years, became a member of the company's 20 year service organization, and established a home.

Family Is Well Settled.

After Etta married, her oldest brother, Robert, established his own home. He and his wife, a teacher at the Van Flissengen school for 20 years, live at 12120 Princeton avenue. Elsie Dick, a sister, was married to William J. Nehring. The Nehrings have two sons and live at 17 West 112th street. Florence, a second sister, and her husband, Lucas P. Hannema, have two sons and live at 131 West 109th place, while Sarah, the youngest sister to marry, lives at 12210 Lafayette avenue.

Walter J. Dick, the second son, is married and lives at 6320 South Komensky avenue.

Always having stressed family life and home gatherings, Mrs. Dick still entertains her seven families at an annual Christmas dinner. A month before the holiday she starts planning favors and decorations. A special Christmas dinner table was constructed for the growing family. In 30 years none of the family has missed Christmas dinner at Mother Dick's.

Family Divides Parties.

For 18 years the Halversons have given the New Year's eve party, and Sarah and her husband give the Halloween party, a costume affair.

Music is the common chord of Dick family life. All like to sing and several play instruments. For nine years the Dick families have journeyed to Pentwater, Mich., where they rented cottages, fished tirelessly, and kept their neighbors at home supplied. For 34 years father Dick has gone with his cronies down the Illinois river to shoot ducks and geese.

The Dick family are members of Bethany Reformed church.

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

FOR their golden jubilee, Mr. and Mrs. John Schaack of Rib Lake, Wis., journeyed to St. Augustine's church, 50th and Laflin streets, for an anniversary mass recently. They had been married in the southwest side church. A reception was held in the home of a daugher, Mrs. George Rice of 7509 Green street. A rural mail carrier for 35 years, Mr. Schaack has been retired seven years.

Of 10 children, four in addition to Mrs. Rice live on the southwest side. They are: Mrs. Elizabeth Meyers, 6614 South Honore street; Mrs. Catherine Sues, 1615 West 87th street; Mrs. Margaret Vanek, 3606 West 62d street; and Edward J. Schaak, 5157 Emerald avenue. Four children are Wisconsin residents and one son lives in South Carolina. There are 21 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Miss Emelene Searls, a student at Cornell college in Mount Vernon, Ia., has pledged the Arrow social group at the school. Miss Searls is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Searls, 9262 Oakley avenue.

Edward Rothe, the son of Mrs. Jane Rothe, 8120 Essex avenue, has enrolled in Wayland Junior college and academy at Beaver Dam, Wis. He is a senior student at the school.

Open house will be held from 3 to 9 o'clock today by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brumlik at their home, 5705 South Albany avenue, to observe their 50th wedding anniversary. The couple have lived in Chicago for 51 years, coming here from Czecho-Slovakia. They have six children and five grandchildren.

HUBERT J. SMALTZ, new assistant district executive, Boy Scout was welcomed to Chicago by South Shore district Boy Scout leaders at a recent dinner at which the scout leaders also bade farewell to William J. Schumacher Jr., former assistant district executive, who has entered the navy. Mr. Schumacher is a graduate of St. Viator college and had been a scout executive in Chicago since 1937. He had served a director of Camp Kiwanis and Camp James E. West, and as administrative director of the Owasippe scout camps.

HAMILTON PARK WOMEN TO VIEW DANCE PROGRAM

Tuesday Event Will Open Club's 27th Season.

Suspense and chatter are in the air this week, for it marks the opening of a new season of club sessions. Excitement runs almost as high as at holiday time when preparations, new outfits, and delectable party food are subjects of conversation. But once the seriously planned club programs begin to unfold, the tinkle of opening meeting will fade into distance.

Mrs. J. F. Groves.

A lighthearted affair of poetry, music, and the dance is the first meeting of the Hamilton Park Woman's club Tuesday afternoon in Hamilton park fieldhouse, 72d street and Normal avenue. The Eloise Moore pantomine dance theater will offer Miss Moore as solo dancer; Yvonne Aagarala, pianist; Fran Harris as narrator, and Dancers Carolyn Brozen, Dorothy Hill, and Ruth Ann Koesun.

The session, marking the club's 27th year, will be presided over by the president, Mrs. J. F. Groves, and the Rev. J. P. Stafford will pronounce the invocation. Tea will follow the program.

Southtown Woman's Club.

Sylvia Lubi in "Songs of the Nation" will play and sing the folk songs most loved by our allies at the gay and festive opening meeting tomorrow afternoon. Planned by Mrs. William Crouch, 8019 Prairie avenue, program chairman, and held at the Hamilton park fieldhouse, the program will be followed by tea served by Mrs. Albert Wells, 9418 Throop street, social chairman.

Chicago Lawn Woman's Club.

Past presidents and life members, honor guests at Tuesday afternoon's first meeting, will hear, together with club members, a program of American music, "Of Thee I Sing," by Rachel Stough Fefer, contralto. A reception and tea planned by Mrs. E. S. Fairfield, social chairman, will close the meeting.

Tomorrow noon the board will be luncheon guests of the president, Mrs. W. A. Hanson, at her home, 3535 West 63d place.

Beverly Hills Woman's Club.

Ruth Lyon, radio soprano who also is featured with the Chicago Opera concert ensemble, is to sing for the opening meeting Wednesday afternoon, which has been arranged by Mrs. Frederick Herrschner Jr., of 10717 Hoyne avenue, fine arts chairman. Mrs. Walter M. Rennie, state president, who is a member of the club, will be a guest. A reception and tea in her honor will be held following the program. Mrs. Charles M. Bacon, 9652 Hoyne avenue, will preside.

Columbus Manor Woman's Club.

The club year will get off to a new start Wednesday afternoon in the completed basement quarters of the Bible church, 9534 Merton avenue, with a musical program, guest speaker, and a book review by Mrs. J. F. Kimball. Mrs. R. G. Theuer is president and the program chairman is Mrs. P. J. Jurlow.

Morgan Park Woman's Club.

Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata" will be dramatized for the first meeting and reception tomorrow by the Moonlight trio composed of Hugo Brandt, pianist and composer; Louella De Windt, radio and concert soloist; and Maxine Casseretto, light and grand opera singer. Mrs. W. K. Clore, 1746 West 107th street, refreshments chairman, has charge of the tea, and Mrs. William M. Stuart, 10943 Longwood drive, of the program.

Chicago Lawn Young Women.

Open House night is the special designation for the first meeting tomorrow evening. Alice Stigers will present a color film, "Our Chicago," and will narrate the story of the city's growth, Marie Aebischer, motion picture chairman, announced.

Palos Woman's Club.

Speakers at the public health program Thursday afternoon include a Worth physician and his wife, the De Roulets, and Rose Hoy, county nurse. The forenoon business meeting will be presided over by Mrs. Joel L. Collins, president; Mrs. Arthur Fritsche has charge of the noon luncheon, assisted by Mrs. A. J. Fischer, Mrs. Logan S. Furry, and Mrs. Gordon Gibbons; and Mrs. Adolf Waltman, chairman of public health and child hygiene, has arranged the program.

Fernwood Woman's Club.

Conservation and salvage will be discussed by William McDillon, civilian defense worker, at the first meeting Friday afternoon, and Mrs. Roy Alm, 9921 Normal avenue, literature chairman, will present a book talk. The board will convene at 10 o'clock with Mrs. B. I. Meyer, 1904 West 107th street, president.

Harvey Woman's Club.

Olympia Field's Country club is the scene of the opening luncheon Wednesday noon, with Mrs. William McVey, social chairman, directing the first half of the affair, while Mrs. Louise Ewert will direct the Riverdale-Dolton Woman's chorus in several numbers and Margaret Smith will offer readings. Mrs. George P. Fisher is president.

Hoemwood Woman's Club.

Original characterizations will be given by Louise Brodahl Smith, dramatic reader, and the Homewood woman's trio composed of Mrs. Ben Eisele, Mrs. George Goewey, and Mrs. Vernon Pipher, will present the musical part of tomorrow afternoon's program in the village hall. New members will be introduced by the membership chairman, Mrs. George Keranen. Junior clubwomen will be guests at the program, tea, and reception.

Brainerd Woman's Club.

Following an invocation by Dr. Ira G. McCormack of Trinity Methodist church, the Aeolian string trio will be presented by Mrs. J. R. Howieson, program chairman, at the reception to be held Tuesday afternoon in Ridge park fieldhouse. The trio includes Charlene Brewer, violinist; Betty Younker, violist, and Howard Bartle, pianist.

Weds in Bond Chapel at U. of C.

Miss Eunice Bozarth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elihu Bozarth, 6950 South Ada street, became the bride of Howard Higgins Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Higgins, Monroe, Wis., in a recent ceremony at Bond chapel, University of Chicago. The young couple are making their home in Lorain, O. [Du Bois the Drake Hotel.]

Gloria Quinn Weds

Miss Gloria Mae Quinn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Quinn, 10021 Seeley avenue, recently was married to Ensign Edward F. Davis, U. S. N. R., son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil S. Davis of Chattanooga, Tenn. The bride is a graduate of the Academy of Our Lady and attended Barat college, Lake Forest. They are now at home in Dahlgren, Va., where the ensign is stationed.

PARKER HIGH PTA OPENS DRIVE FOR 2,000 MEMBERS

A drive to enroll 2,000 members for the Parker High school PTA was launched last week under direction of Mrs. L. L. Mulay, president, and Mrs. N. S. Vedel, membership chairman.

In a membership notice issued to the parent groups, faculty, student body, and neighborhood groups, the PTA emphasized that "this year more than ever before the young people are in need of our interests."

With the coöperation of Joseph B. Shine, school principal, and the faculty, the parent group has selected a student chairman for each school division. The chairman of the division having the largest membership will be awarded a prize.

BRAINERD JUNIOR CLUB PLANNING TEA ON TUESDAY

When Brainerd Junior clubwomen gather for their opening reception and tea Tuesday evening in Ridge park fieldhouse, they will hear a program planned by Grace M. Bloom, 8846 May street, program chairman, which will include Marjorie Carlson, pianist, and Lucille LaChapelle, dramatist. Mrs. Marie G. Carlson, 8846 Racine avenue, first vice president, will call the meeting together, and special guests are Mrs. Harold F. Wood, third district president; Mrs. Raymond N. Bohne, chairman of third district junior clubwomen, and Mrs. A. W. Patterson, president of Brainerd Woman's club.

Isabellan Council to Hold Annual Roast Beef Dinner

Annual corned beef and roast beef dinner of the Sacred Heart council, Ladies of Isabella, is scheduled from 12 noon to 10 o'clock today at the Knights of Pythias hall, 65th street and Marshfield avenue. Mrs. Barbara Grieshaber of 6447 South Marshfield avenue, is chairman.

Women Point to Record of Community Service.

Guests at the launching tomorrow afternoon of the 48th year of the Englewood Woman's club will be state and southwest side clubwomen. From the president's table at club headquarters, 6730 Wentworth avenue, Mrs. Fred Bauchhenss of 8136 Evans avenue, incoming president, will welcome as honor guests Mrs. E. E. Byerrum, treasurer, and Mrs. Harry M. Daughtry, secretary, of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Harold F. Wood, president of 3d district; members of the 3d district board, and directors of the Hamilton Park Woman's club.

Plan Music Program.

A musical program has been arranged by Mrs. Robert W. Pachaly of 8027 Ingleside avenue, program chairman. Mrs. Pachaly will present the Aeolian string trio, with Charlene Dilling Brewer, violinist; Betty Younker, violist, and Howard Bartle, pianist.

Members at the opening session who take a peek into the yearbook will find many facts to give them pride in their Englewood club membership. They will discover that it was a former president, Mrs. Charles S. Clark, who founded in 1918 the conference of club presidents and program chairmen.

They will note that the Englewood club pioneered in the opening and operation of lunchrooms in Chicago public schools, and that for more than a quarter of a century the lunchroom of the Englewood High school furnished a warm noon meal free to students who could not afford to pay and for a nominal sum to those who could.

Not counting the hours of service contributed by fellow club members, but counting the number of dollars awarded worthy causes, members will arrive at the impressive amount of approximately $70,000 when they add the little black columns of figures in the yearbook.

Where Money Goes.

Gathered into broad divisions, the sums were expended as follows: To public schools, $11,000; to students serving at the high school lunchroom, $10,000; educational and fine arts, $10,000; General Federation of Women's Clubs, $725; and the State Federation Foundation, $1,200; community projects, $20,000; legislative projects, $700; war service, $2,300; public welfare, $15,000.

Loan scholarships have been established at the University of Chicago, University of Illinois, Chicago Art institute, James Armstrong memorial, Lucy Flower Technical High school; Wilson Junior college; and the Englewood hospital training school for nurses.

Among the 26 presidents who have served the organization, four were war time presidents. The late Ellen Reis Jackman was president during the Spanish-American war; Mrs. Clark headed the club from 1917 to 1919, during World War I; and since the start of the present world conflict, Mrs. John B. Haeberlin and Mrs. Fred Bauchhenss have held presidential office.

Life memberships with full club privileges and voting powers have been conferred on all past presidents and charter members, and honorary life memberships were conferred upon Mrs. Charles S. Deneen, wife of the late senator from Illinois, and Mrs. Charles M. Woodman.

Four of the charter members are residents of Chicago and one of the four, Mrs. E. H. Thielens of 9200 Damen avenue, has seven grandsons in service. Mrs. James C. Elsdon, 6400 Normal avenue; Mrs. J. A. Middleton, 9403 Pleasant avenue; Mrs. R. J. Roulston, 1448 Lake Shore drive; Mrs. Wilson N. Abbott, Webster, N. Y.; and Mrs. Frank L. Salisbury, Washington, D. C., were in that first group of Englewood clubwomen to apply for incorporation in 1896 and for affiliation the same year with the general federation.

These two steps were followed in 1897 by membership in the Cook County league.

VETERANS QUIT AFTER 95 YEARS WITH RAILROADS

and gas lighted train in the south. One man turned on the gas with a key, and another followed him with a torch made from a piece of paper, lighting the gas.

Railroad cars had no air brakes, no air conditioning or other conveniences that are offered to travelers today. "You couldn't get people of this day to ride in those old coaches," Carruthers averred.

Never Missed Pay Day.

"I'm glad I lived thru those crude conditions," he added. "I've lived thru that time and thru the modern days, and have seen things change in a way that is almost unbelievable. I've never been seriously ill, and never missed a pay day."

From his first job with the Atlanta and Florida line, Carruthers went to the Central of Georgia railroad and the Seaboard Airline railroad before he became a brakeman for the I. C. on Jan. 31, 1896, at Jackson, Tenn. He transferred to the Chicago division in December, 1900, and soon became a conductor. He held a conductor's job until his retirement.

Carruthers was a freight train conductor from 1900 until 1912, when he entered the I. C. suburban service. After three years of suburban railroad work he transferred to thru passenger service and was conductor most of the time on runs between Chicago and Centralia and Chicago and St. Louis, Mo.

Always a Brakeman.

Cain, who was born on Chicago's west side, has been a brakeman ever since he started working for a railroad. In his years with the C. & E. I. railroad he worked on trains between Chicago and Terre Haute, Ind., and in his years with the I. C. he worked on thru passenger service between Chicago and Centralia.

The two veterans worked together for several years on the Chicago to Centralia run, when Cain was brakeman on Carruthers' train. They have been fast friends for many years.

Each man has a son in the service of his country. First Sgt. Harold Cain is with an anti-aircraft, airborne division at Fort Bragg, N. C., and Seaman John T. Carruthers is with the navy Seabees at Camp Endicott, Davisville, R. I.

One Will Live in South.

Carruthers lives with his wife in Kankakee, where he also has a daughter, Mrs. William D. Ward. Altho Carruthers was born in Georgia and most of his relatives live there, he does not plan to leave Illinois to live. Cain, on the other hand, married a southern girl and will leave Chicago to live in Atlanta, Ga. Cain is an uncle of James G. Coyle, former alderman of the 17th ward, and of Mrs. J. A. Oakley and Miss Minnie Coyle, both of 6400 Parnell avenue.

Since Jan. 1, 1892, Carruthers has held a card in the Order of Railway Conductors, and when he retired he held a card in the Chicago division of the organization. Cain was general secretary for 12 years of lodge No. 4 of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen while he was with the C. & E. I. railroad.

Neither man thinks he will miss railroads much despite the number of years spent in the work. Cain expects to return to Chicago once or twice a year, and Carruthers expects to travel frequently to visit old friends, but neither plans any extended trips.

See Changes Ahead.

Both believe great changes lie ahead in railroading as in all other lines of industry, but neither knows what to expect. "I just can't imagine what it will be like 30 or 40 years from now," Carruthers said. "When I started railroading no one imagined things would change so much as they have. The future will be like that, too."

Cain believes railroads might suffer in passenger traffic from the advancement of airplanes, but "they'll never be able to handle the freight business as well as we can," he declared.

Timothy O'Leary Is Tech Honor Board President

Timothy O'Leary of 6838 Yale avenue, senior in civil engineering at Illinois Tech, has been elected president of the honor board. Another southwest side senior, Earl Mills of 5720 South Spaulding avenue, was elected vice president, and Ulysses Backas of 819 West 77th street, junior, was selected secretary. Warren Furst, 5641 South Troy street, junior, and Tom Kilgariff, 7340 Sangamon street, sophomore, are members of the board.

Build Their Own Fire Station

15 VOLUNTEERS BUILDING PALOS HEIGHTS STATION

Fire Risk Rates Drop in Village.

Lusty hammer blows, shouts, and buzz of saws fill the autumnal air in Palos Heights each week-end where a new fire station is being erected by 15 volunteer firemen, who are war plant workers, engineers, lawyers, and business men residing in the southwest unincorporated village.

Plans drawn by an engineer-resident, Walter Scowcroft, call for a building on piling so it may be moved to its own land sometime in the future, a crushed stone floor, insulation board, asbestos shingle roof, and imitation brick siding. Now resting on land donated by a real estate development company, the site is regarded as temporary inasmuch as the plot may be sold at any time to a future resident, Robert E. Dolmetsch, president of the fire department, indicated.

May Complete Station Soon.

A concrete culvert under the driveway, and two manually operated overhead doors were included in the plans. Undaunted, the amateur builders sailed into the project with much enthusiasm. The station is expected to be completed next month.

Fire protection plans have found fertile ground in Palos Heights ever since 1939, when a home burned to the ground because fire departments from Orland Park and Oak Lawn were slowed by roads blocked with spectators' cars. Immediately after this loss, the community formed a fire department organizing committee.

Clarence Jensen became the first fire chief—sans equipment, force, station, or alarm system. Hurried contributions from residents purchased a siren, which was mounted top the real estate company's office.

Village Buys Equipment.

Traffic measures were evolved and $190 worth of equipment, including a 40 gallon extinguisher now on duty in the school boiler room, axes, 100 feet of hose, and ladders was acquired. The first truck was a light auto, later replaced with a regulation fire truck. Palos Heights residents bought $100 worth of fire fighting tools from the Oregon, Ill., fire department when it was modernized, and storage space was donated.

A drive for supporting funds was promoted, and the 1939 firemen's ball provided $350. The following year the department set up its own organization and elected officers and six trustees. A fee of $2 was assessed each householder, and a year later, with its membership increased by six, a set of by-laws was adopted.

Insurance Rates Drop.

Significantly, fire insurance rates dropped and the community was reclassified from a No. 10 risk to a No. 9, saving a difference of from $2 to $4 on most homes.

The modern fire truck, boasting a 400 gallon tank with high pressure pump, and a resuscitator, is the pride of the volunteer fire department. The station is being built to house the new machine. With 35 volunteer firemen, day and night crews protect 350 homes. The telephone in the new station is connected with the drug store, where fire warnings are relayed by the siren.

R. G. Hinshaw and James Stewart contribute Sunday leisure hours each week, as do the others, and expect to complete the station next month at a cost of $200. New and salvage materials are being used.

Evening School to Offer Courses in Psychology

Courses in introductory, social, applied, and adolescent psychology will be offered this fall at the Englewood evening junior college, 6201 Stewart avenue. No tuition is charged.

OUTDOOR CLUB LISTS EVENTS FOR OCTOBER

October events of the Englewood Outdoor club include two Sunday hikes, roller skating party, theater party, and a Halloween dance. Anthony V. Stelzer of 8725 Elizabeth street, president, said the events are open to any interested.

Next Sunday hikers will board the Elgin train at 9:30 o'clock for a hike thru Morton arboretum, returning on the Burlington line. Harriet and Ruth Weiss, hike leaders, ask members to bring lunches. Roller skating is scheduled for Thursday evening, Oct. 14, at the Chicago armory, 16th street and Michigan avenue, and Wednesday evening, Oct. 20, 50 members will view the comedy, "Kiss and Tell."

A hike thru the Chewab Skokie preserve Sunday, Oct. 24, will be led by Jo Vardin and Ray Boehmke. Hikers will board the elevated, Adams and Wabash station, at 10:30 o'clock in the morning. The Halloween party Saturday evening, Oct. 30, will be held in Ryan woods shelter, 87th street and Western avenue.

3 of 7 on South Side Show Increase.

The lure of highly paid jobs in war plants is apparently attracting few boys and girls of high school age, figures released by city and county officials show. At the end of the first two weeks of the fall term, city enrollment was only 7.65 per cent under last year, and county enrollment decreased only 5 per cent.

"In view of the demands of the military services and inducements offered by war industry, I consider the figure highly satisfactory," declared Noble J. Puffer, county superintendent of schools.

George F. Cassell, assistant superintendent of Chicago high schools, announced that 113,600 have registered as compared to 123,000 last year.

Work Permits Soar.

Cassell said that during the summer the board of education urged employers not to retain workers of high school age after classes started. Mrs. Jewell Coleman, superintendent of the state labor department's division of women's and children's employment, said that work permits for 16 and 17 year olds in Chicago and Cook county soared to 50,000 during the first seven months of the year, five times the number issued for the same period last year.

Enrollment figures for the county are incomplete, Mr. Puffer said, because Brookfield and Berwyn schools have not as yet opened and reports have not yet been received from some schools in unincorporated areas.

Of the seven county high schools located south and southwest, three showed increases while the other four showed slight decreases. Thornton Eownship High school with 2,663 students this year, shows the greatest drop of the seven. It has 148 less students than last year. Thornton Township High school with 2,663 at Calumet City has 35 less students this year, Lemont has 25 less, and Blue Island shows a drop of 21.

3 Show Increase.

Argo Community High school has an increase of 27 students, Bloom Township an increase of 37, and Orland Park Community High school, with 127 students, has increased its total by two pupils.

Seven elementary schools of the county showed increased enrollment. They included Blue Island, Flossmoor, Harvey, Lansing, South Holland [Roosevelt school], Steger, and Tinley Park. An approximately stationary enrollment was shown by two schools of Oak Lawn. One had a 550 enrollment for both periods, and the second increased one pupil.

Lower registration was encountered at Calumet, two schools of Calumet City, Chicago Heights, Dolton, Homewood, Lemont, Midlothian, South Holland [Coolidge], Summit, and West Harvey schools.

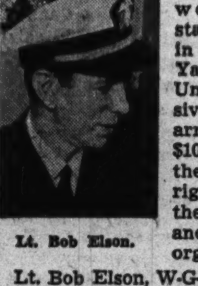
Open Exclusive Broadcast in Yankee Stadium.

For the fifth consecutive year W-G-N and Mutual will broadcast the play-by-play account of the world series, starting Tuesday, in New York's Yankee stadium. Under an exclusive sponsorship arrangement the $100,000 paid for the broadcast rights will go to the Red Cross and other charity organizations.



Lt. Bob Elson.

Lt. Bob Elson, W-G-N sportscaster before joining the navy last year, who has broadcast world series games for 13 years, has received navy permission to assist Red Barber in handling the report of the sports classic. Bill Corum, sports columnist, will give the highlights and color of the games.

American service men at battle stations thruout the world will not miss hearing the series. Arrangements have been made by MBS and the British Broadcasting corporation to short wave the games to the fighting men. Don Dunphy will be at the microphone for these broadcasts.

The first three games will be played in New York with game time at 12:30 p. m., [Chicago war time] and the remaining games in St. Louis starting on Oct. 10 at 1:30 p. m. The broadcasts will start 15 minutes earlier. There will be no games on Oct. 8 and 9. These two days will be used for traveling.

Pundits at Work

Walter Yust (left), editor of the Encyclopedia Brittanica, and Sherman Dryer, director of radio productions for the University of Chicago, are key figures in the preparation of The Human Adventure series heard on W-G-N and MBS at 7:30 p. m. Thursdays.

'ROBERTA' OPENS OPERA SERIES ON W-G-N SATURDAY

Miss Claire, Thomas Co-Star on Theater.

W-G-N's 1943-'44 season of operettas and operas gets under way on The Chicago Theater of the Air next Saturday with the presentation of Jerome Kern's "Roberta," in which Marion Claire, soprano singer of the series, and Thomas L. Thomas, baritone, will be co-starred.

The program will be broadcast by W-G-N, W59C, and the Mutual network from 8 to 9 p. m.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak. The production will be directed by Jack LaFrande and will feature the music of the W-G-N Symphony, orchestra conducted by Henry Weber and the chorus led by Robert Trendler.

LaFrandre's adaptation of the "Roberta" story tells of the romance of a lovely Russian refugee and an All-American football player, set in the luxury of a Parisian gown shop in the early 1930s. Miss Claire will sing the part of Stephanie, the Russian girl, while Thomas will have the rôle of the football player, John Kent.

All the famous music Kern composed for the "Roberta" score will be included in the program. Songs from the operetta will be heard in the following order:

"The Touch of Your Hand," Miss Claire; "Yesterdays," Ruth Slater, contralto; "Madrigal Chorus," male chorus; "Something Had to Happen," orchestra; "You're Devastating," Thomas and chorus; "Yesterdays," Thomas and chorus; "The Touch of Your Hand," Miss Claire, Thomas, and chorus.

"Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," Miss Claire and chorus; "Let's Begin," Wayne Van Dyne, tenor, and chorus; "You're Devastating," Miss Claire, Thomas, and chorus; and "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," Miss Claire, Thomas, and chorus.

Irene Rich Rounds Out 10th Year on 'Dear John'

Irene Rich will celebrate her 10th anniversary in the role of Faith Chandler at 4:45 p. m. today over WBBM-CBS in the program Dear John. Her part is that of the wife of a British undercover agent, preparing now to enter Japanese occupied territory.

SCHUBERT WORK ON CONCERT OF NBC SYMPHONY

Franz Schubert's Unfinished Symphony will be the major work played by the NBC symphony of the Air program at 4 o'clock this afternoon over WMAQ.

The program will open with an excerpt, "Entrance of the Queen and Processional," from the third act of Carl Goldmark's biblical opera, "The Queen of Sheba." "Woodland Fancies," Victor Herbert's four movement suite, will be the closing selection. Dr. Frank Black will conduct the orchestra.

Charles F. Kettering, director of the General Motors research laboratories and head of the National Inventors' council, will speak during the program.

FOREIGN POLICY WILL BE ROUND TABLE'S TOPIC

Congress' role in making and executing American foreign policy will be discussed by the University of Chicago Round Table today. Beginning with this program, the Round Table will be heard at a new time, 12:30 p. m.

Discussing "Congress and Foreign Policy" the speakers will examine the Fulbright resolution. They also will analyze the Ball-Burton-Hatch-Hill resolution. Participants will include Avery O. Craven, professor of American history, U. of C.; Herbert Blumer, department of sociology, U. of C., and Tracy Strevey, department of history at Northwestern university.

ST. IGNATIUS HIGH HOMECOMING IS SET FOR OCT. 16

Judge Graber to Speak at Annual Alumni Event.

Superior Court Judge Joseph A. Graber of 8201 Elizabeth street is chairman of the annual fall festival and homecoming of St. Ignatius High school, 1076 Roosevelt road, to be held Saturday evening, Oct. 16, in the Ashland boulevard auditorium, Ashland avenue and Van Buren street. Judge Graber is an alumnus of the school and his five sons were graduated from St. Ignatius High school.

John J. Kenealy, 5106 Fulton street, president of the Fathers' club, is assistant to the chairman, while Julius Huffman of 5011 West End avenue, who has charge of tickets, is assisted by these south and southwest side alumni: Joseph Rollheiser, 8051 Oglesby avenue; Frank Uhler, 9250 Racine avenue, and Joseph Maloney, 9924 Hamilton avenue.

Oldest Catholic high school for boys in Chicago, St. Ignatius will observe its 75th year in 1944. Founded by Jesuits in 1869, much of the credit for its organization is given to the Rev. Arnold Damen, one of the greatest of Jesuit missionaries. He established the Church of the Holy Family. His parish school system developed into five schools, and on Father Damen's mission tours he asked for assistance in erecting a school of secondary education.

Hardly had the high school been erected, when the Chicago fire threatened to wipe away the endeavors of years. In the east at the time, Father Damen vowed that he and his successors at Holy Family church would keep seven lights burning before the shrine of St. Mary, mother of Jesus, if school and church were spared. Visitors to the church will find the lights burning before the altar in the east transept.

Alumni are in all walks of life. Hundreds of priests are among the graduates, and the roll also includes eight bishops and 25 monsignori. Eleven hundred alumni represent St. Ignatius in service, and there are 13 gold stars. A former mayor of Chicago, a United States district attorney, presidents of universities, teachers, editors, and authors are former Ignatians.

Southwest Siders Co-Chairmen.

Southwest side members of other committees include James Egan, 1740 West 80th street; Howard Bailey, 10535 Hamilton avenue; John P. Keevers, 10209 Leavitt street; Clyde B. Kelly, 1324 West 99th street; N. M. Kinsella, 140 West 66th street; James M. McCormick, 2325 West 113th place; Charles V. McErlean, 8733 Loomis street; E. F. McNichols, 9221 Bishop street; Ray Pfordrescher, 10109 Bell avenue; John J. Ruddy, 1841 West 53d street; H. J. Sterk, 3938 West 62d street; Carl Waldron, 10531 Longwood drive; P. J. Cronin, 8947 Leavitt street; Frank J. Ewers, 9436 Winchester street; W. D. Wallace, 10346 Wood street; John E. Wall, 10133 Bell avenue, and V. J. Sheridan, 9323 Bell avenue.

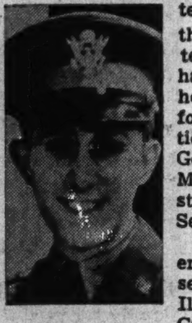
MAJ. FRANK MEYERS WINS PROMOTION TO LIEUTENANT COLONEL

News of the promotion of Maj. Frank X. Meyers, 5936 North Washtenaw avenue, to the rank of lieutenant colonel, has been received here. The order for the promotion, signed by Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, is dated Sept. 8.



Lt. Col. Frank X. Meyers.

Lt. Col. Meyers entered the service with the Illinois National Guard on Sept. 16, 1940. He was transferred to the adjutant general's department in May, 1943, and is now attending the command and general staff school as a student in the general staff course.

Before Pearl Harbor Lt. Col. Meyers was in charge of all promotional events sponsored by the Broadway armory of the National Guard. At that time he held the rank of lieutenant.

ROBETTES PLAN ENLARGEMENT OF SOCIAL ACTIVITY

Friday evening programs of the Robettes club, organization for girl industrial workers at the Stockyards center of the Y. W. C. A., 4856 South Ashland avenue, will be augmented by other activities, Elsabelle Goes, director, said. USO hostess work, hiking in the forest preserves, visits to Chicago landmarks, and a club week-end at the Y. W. C. A.'s forest preserve lodge are planned.

Urge Owners to Adopt Fuel Saving Program.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

The nation-wide mobilization to conserve fuel is gaining momentum. Home owners are asked to "winter condition" their homes in every possible way and here are nine principal factors involved in a winter-proofing job.

Insulate parts of your heating plant, as boilers, furnaces, heating pipes, hot water tanks and hot air chutes need coverings to seal in the heat; insulate attic roof or floor; weatherstrip windows and doors; caulk cracks; put up storm sash and storm doors; install winter vestibules; insulate walls where it it practicable; seal walls and doors which give access to any part of the house which is little used, or not used at all, and insulate ceiling of basement or a cellar which is not heated.

Insulate Behind Radiator.

One simple way of saving heat is to place a piece of insulation board between a radiator and an outside wall. Almost as simple a method to stop heat loss in cold basements is to install panels of ½ inch insulating board into window openings.

Weatherstripping is important because it is said that cracks which run around an average window amount in size to space occupied by a brick. A house with 20 windows has an opening about the size of 20 bricks. Quite some opening in zero weather.

Storm Windows Important.

Tight fitting storm windows are important sealers against loss of heat thru window panes. Caulking of cracks is important since a lot of heat can escape thru those open joints caused by settling of a house.

Attic floors or roofs can be insulated in various ways. If you are not planning to use your attic space you can use dry fills of different types which come in batts or bags. Insulation boards are splendid fuel savers if you are planning to finish one room or the entire attic.

It goes without saying that there's a big loss of heat thru the walls of a house. Heat loss thru an uninsulated wall averages around 27 per cent. Insulate the wall with a 2 per cent thickness of insulation and you can cut heat loss to around 17 per cent. An insulation expert can advise best type of wall insulation, depending on the house structure.

Seal Unused Rooms.

This is the month to close and seal any room or rooms which will be little used this winter—or not used at all. Doors which lead to these unused spaces should be tightly weatherstripped. Basement doors should be weatherstripped and if it is to be used for living purposes, it should have the same attention as the rest of the house. If it is not used for living purposes its ceiling should be heat-sealed to keep first floor rooms warm.

And if you have a home with walls of asbestos cement siding or shingles which are in need of a good cleaning, there are excellent cleaners available, manufactured especially for this type of wall.

THIS WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, October 4.

The home gardener will find the autumn activities quite pressing unless he has completed all preliminary work, which includes taking in all accessories to the protection of a shed, laying in material for giving winter protction to the perennials and spring or late planted stock.

Tuesday, October 5.

Emphasis is placed on the value of clearing all debris from the garden. Especially necessary is the raking up and burning of all weeds not only in one's own yard but on adjoining land if there is such. It is not too late to build up the garden soil, and there are many soils that will stand building up.

Wednesday, October 6.

Gardeners living in sections where animal manures can be obtained are fortunate, for there is nothing better for growing plants. However, some soil may be deficient in a certain element which can be supplied by using commercial fertilizers, usually applied just before planting in spring at intervals during the growing season, and in the amount required for the crop.

Thursday, October 7.

Tulip planting time is here and there is nothing better to furnish brilliant bloom in springtime. A good way to arrange them is in clumps of half a dozen. Planting in rows is never quite as pleasing as planting in clumps. One should study the height the plants will grow and plant accordingly.

Friday, October 8.

The bulbs for indoor flowering include such choice items as the amaryllis, sparaxis, with small flowers of bright colors; calla, with luxuriant foliage and chalk white flowers; oxailis, charming little plants with yellow buttercup blooms; freesias in many colors; and one may try the beautiful Easter lily by starting it now, keeping it cool until well rooted and then placing it in a window.

Saturday, October 9.

Hardwood cuttings may be taken of various shrubs. Mention has been made as to the practicability of sowing hardy annuals in the fall to give early bloom in the spring. These may be sown now, for the seeds in most cases lie in the soil until spring when they start growth.

COMBINED NEGRO GROUPS TO MEET NEXT SUNDAY

Plans to reduce the cost of living and curb rising food prices affecting Chicago Negroes will be discussed Sunday at the first combined fall meeting of the Chicago Citizen's Committee of 1,000 and the National Negro council at the Metropolitan Community church, 4100 South Park way.

Prominent Negro ministers and laymen, including Edgar G. Brown, director of the National Negro council, will speak at the meeting. Speakers include Dr. W. H. Jackson, pastor of Olivet Baptist church; the Rev. Harold Kingsley, the Rev. W. S. Bradden, the Rev. A. Wayman Ward, and Dr. Joseph Evans, pastor of Metropolitan Community church.

A plan for a large scale educational and volunteer price warden system, with office of price administration branch offices staffed by Negro volunteer workers under supervision of OPA regional and state offices, will be presented.

CLUB DISTRICT PLANS RALLY OCT. 14

COMBINE JOBS AND SCHOOL AT LA GRANGE HIGH

Half of Pupils in Essential Work.

When the La Grange Kiwanis club recently won the Illinois-Eastern Iowa district trophy for its work in vocational guidance, credit was given to the chairman of the committee, B. E. Gordon, assistant principal of Lyons Township High school, La Grange, Mr. Gordon has helped a large number of students obtain either full or part time employment during the last year.

Last April, with the coöperation of Supt. George S. Olsen, Mr. Gordon presented a study-employment plan to the office of high school visitor, Arthur W. Clevenger, at the University of Illinois. The university sent Claude E. Vick to investigate the plan, and as a result a university committee reported that it had no objection to the school's offering work experience courses in which 1 credit out of 16 would be granted for graduation, and one entrance credit be allowed at the university.

Half of Pupils Hold Jobs.

Today, one-half of the students at the La Grange school are engaged in some part time work, and 58 are receiving credit in the work experience course.

Back in 1938, Mr. Gordon made a survey among the boy graduates to find what they had to suggest in the way of a practical curriculum. A majority of the boys said they favored more shop courses and vocational courses. Consequently, the board of education installed a new woodworking shop and machine shop, and more emphasis was placed on commercial, home economics, and art courses.

The new courses have proved to be of particular value during the present war emergency. They have given the student an idea of what he wants to follow after graduation, and have given him an answer to the question "Have you had experience?"

Most Work from 1 to 5 P. M.

The school has received many compliments on its work experience course from employers. Supt. Olsen also points out that enrollment has remained normal due largely to the work and school plan. A majority of the student workers are employed from 1 to 5 p. m.

A survey taken last spring revealed that 31.4 of the entire student body was doing part time work for an average rate of pay of about 40 cents an hour. Minimum pay was 20 cents per hour, and maximum pay $1.20 per hour. The minimum, 48 hours per week.

The 58 seniors, now receiving one credit in the work experience course, and some of the places where they are employed are as follows:

Western Electric company—Elaine Schmidt, Florence Prescott, Shirley Koven, Jeanette Bulthius.

Eight at Aluminum Plant.

Aluminum Company of America—Sam Fugerino, George C. Rakerd, Anne K. Stimac, Sam Lafferty, Ivan Hultman, Arthur R. Harmon, George Johnson, Tom Moody.

Hoopers manufacturers—Melvin Dunning and Kenneth Bierma.

Armour soap works—Grover Hartsuch, Milton Spoor.

Sears, Roebuck & Co.—Shirley Lundeen, Joe Stevenson.

Workers in publishing houses, theaters, service stations, food stores, hosiery shops, cleaners, drug stores, postoffices, include Anamae Agar, Virginia Schneider, Peggy Conway, Joe W. Giles, Muriel Vial, Ralph Butz, Phyllis Oakley, Mae Berg, Helen Staeger, Verna Lindgren, Shirley Svoboda, Lucie Fox, James Pepper, Ted Ferris, Richard Wilson, Louis Segur.

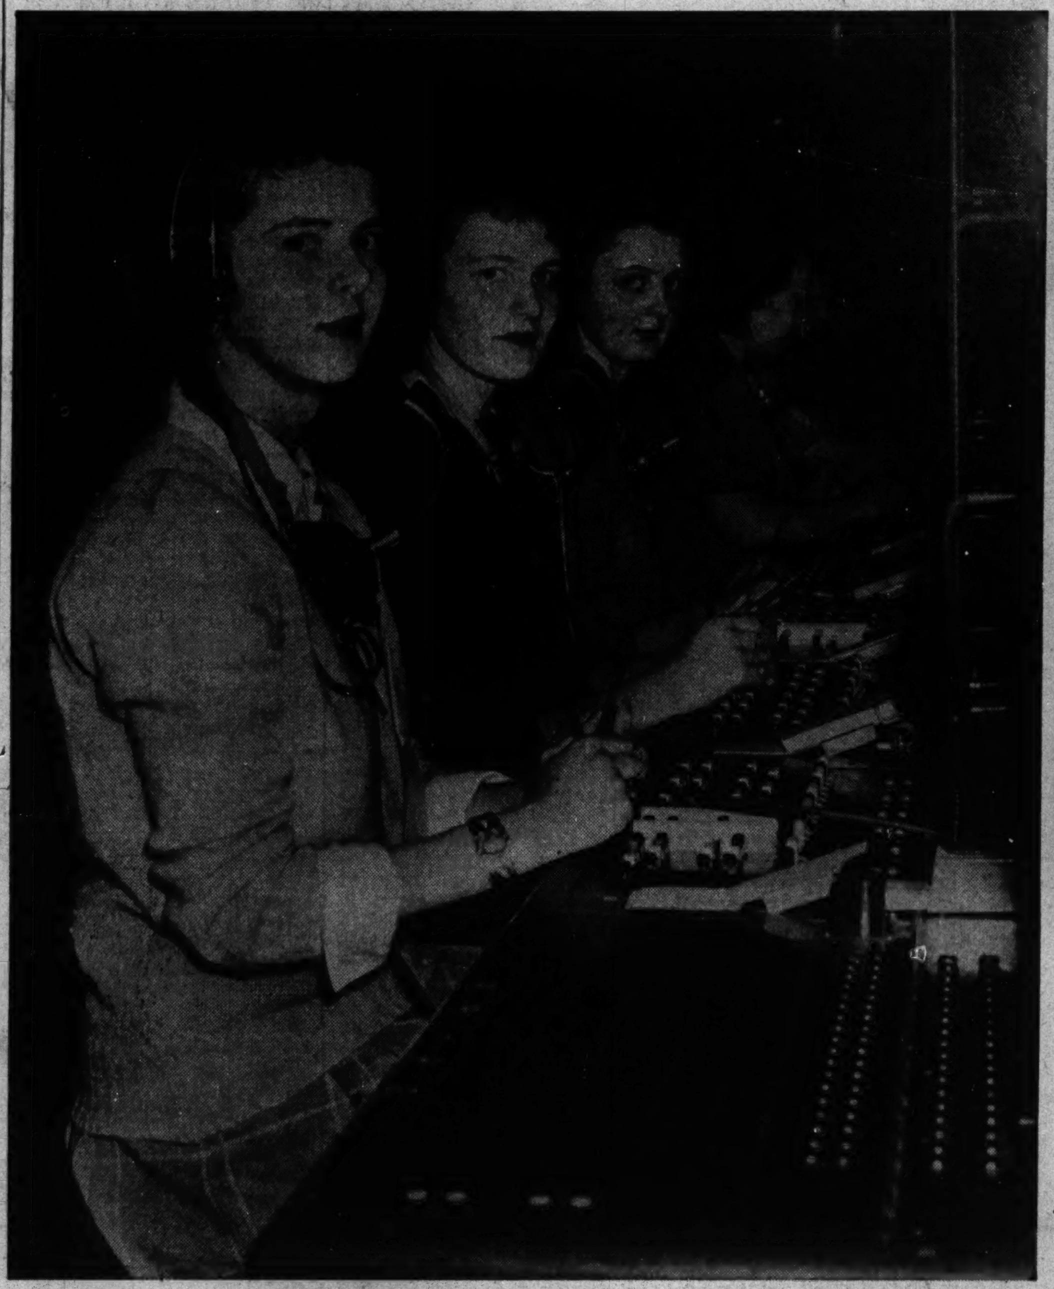
La Grange High School Seniors Help Meet Labor Shortage with Part Time Jobs



A moment's time out may have been taken for the photographer, but there is nothing "make believe" about the jobs being performed during these days of labor shortage by 58 seniors at Lyons Township High school, La Grange, who are earning real money on important part time shifts. Putting in four hours a day at the Illinois Bell Telephone company, La Grange, left to right, are Genevieve Hill, Dorothy Higgs, and Beatrice Dittman.

Peggy Conway, Evelyn Michael, and Shirley Svoboda, left to right, pack and sort four hours every afternoon for the Western Springs firm of Givens and company, makers of infant wear.

Louis Segur began work at a La Grange service station last July. He is on the job from 12:30 to 5 p. m. He hopes to take up music as a profession and already has his own orchestra.

Verna Lundgren, left, works afternoons for the Q Suburban Credit bureau in La Grange. Janet Cadmus, seated, works mornings, and Janet Scheel works at odd hours.

Glamor goes to the working girl these days. For more than a year, Lucie Fox, left, and Shirley Lundeen have supplemented their book learning with work behind the soda fountain at Walgreen's drug store in La Grange.

DIES TO SPEAK AT LA GRANGE FORUM OCT. 17

Congressman Martin Dies will be the speaker Oct. 17 at the opening of the 17th season of the La Grange Legion Sunday Evening club. The subject will be "Enemies of Democracy."

On Nov. 7 Burton Holmes will present his illustrated lecture, "Russia." On Dec. 5 the speaker will be Mme. Wellington Koo, wife of the Chinese ambassador to England. Her subject will be "What China Is Fighting For."

Marshall L. Mathews, president of the club, said the balance of the program after the first of the year would be in keeping with the programs of the last 16 seasons and would be announced as soon as they were available.

St. Ignatius Mothers.

Members of St. Ignatius Mothers' club will meet at 2 o'clock Tuesday in Damen hall, 1076 Roosevelt road.

BERWYN CHURCH WILL CELEBRATE FOUNDERS' DAY

Services Will Open Its 20th Year.

Beginning with a Founders' day service at 4 o'clock this afternoon, the Concordia Lutheran congregation of Berwyn has set aside October to commemorate its 20th anniversary. The service will be one of several planned by the church's organizations for the rest of the month.

The Rev. John Leimer, who installed the church's first pastor, the Rev. W. H. Grotham, now pastor of Christ Lutheran church, 3101 North Parkside avenue, will give today's address. Many of the 20 charter members are expected to attend.

Service for Saldiers.

Other highlights of the month will include a prayer service next Sunday for the 66 members in military service; a service for women members Wednesday afternoon and a song service on Oct. 13.

The 20th anniversary of the Sunday school will be observed on Sunday, Oct. 24. There wil lbe a youths' service Oct. 17, a men's service Oct. 20, one for the young married group on Oct. 27, and two jubilee services on the last Sunday of the month, Oct. 31, with a communion service climaxing the celebration.

Started as Mission.

The church was an outgrowth of a mission project undertaken by the English district of the Missouri Lutheran synod. The Rev. Mr. Grothman, then a recent graduate of Concordia seminary at Springfield, Ill., was sent to canvass the southern part of Berwyn in September, 1923. The first service was attended by 20 persons on Oct. 14 and a Sunday school was organized with eight children a week later, Oct. 21.

The congregation was organized in February, 1924, and four years later the church purchased its present edifice.

ST. JAMES PARISH, MAYWOOD, WILL DEDICATE FLAG

A service flag honoring more than 200 parishioners in military service will be dedicated at 11:30 a. m. mass Sunday, Oct. 10, in St. James parish in Maywood. The flag will be blessed by the Very Rev. Col. A. V. Simoni of Rockford, who served as a Catholic chaplain in the army for 25 years and was awarded the distinguished service cross for bravery in the World War I. The sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Daniel A. Wynn, O. P., Brookfield, and the mass will be celebrated by the Rev. A. C. Therres, O. P., also of Brookfield. Many of the stars on the flag will be in honor of the Maywood clan who were taken prisoners on Bataan.

NAPERVILLE CITY BAND WILL PLAY CONCERT OCT. 21

The Naperville Municipal band is planning its fourth annual indoor show for Oct. 21. The band has given outdoor concerts for 14 years, but it was only three years ago that the fall indoor program, with specialty acts, was decided upon. Eight specialty acts are interspersed with the usual band selections.

Arthur Kline, president of the band, announced that the program this year also would include "Mister Mystic," magician.

GIRL TRUMPETER FROM LA GRANGE JOINS SYMPHONY

Miss Helen Marie Lundgren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer G. Lundgren, 307 North Spring avenue, La Grange, will join the National Symphony orchestra in Washington, D. C., this season as a trumpeter. She will report in Washington Oct. 25 for first rehearsals.

Helen Marie Lundgren.

Taking a position with one of the nation's leading symphony orchestras comes as a climax to a brilliant career for the young trumpet player. Miss Lundgren was a member of the Chicago Woman's Symphony orchestra for three years while attending Lyons Township High school in La Grange, from which she was graduated. Last June she received her degree of bachelor of music education from Augustana college, Rock Island.

While a student at Augustana she held the first chair in the Tri-Cities Symphony orchestra. The Washington orchestra, of which she now becomes a member, is directed by Dr. Hans Kindler.

MAJ. FRANK MEYERS WINS PROMOTION TO LIEUTENANT COLONEL

News of the promotion of Maj. Frank X. Meyers, 5936 North Washtenaw avenue, to the rank of lieutenant colonel, has been received here. The order for the promotion, signed by Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, is dated Sept. 8.

Lt. Col. Frank X. Meyers.

Lt. Col. Meyers entered the service with the Illinois National Guard on Sept. 16, 1940. He was transferred to the adjutant general's department in May, 1943, and is now attending the command and general staff school as a student in the general staff course.

Before Pearl Harbor Lt. Col. Meyers was in charge of all promotional events sponsored by the Broadway armory of the National Guard. At that time he held the rank of lieutenant.

Oak Park Blood Unit.

A mobile unit of the American Red Cross donor service will be stationed at the First Presbyterian church of Oak Park from Oct. 19 thru Oct. 23.

Retired Brick Mason Seizes Opportunity

BY ONEY FRED SWEET.

Last May, Thomas Slavicek sat at his home, 2234 South Leavitt street, wondering what he could do to help win the war. He was 70. It had been 10 years since he had followed his trade as a bricklayer. His family—there had been 27 children—had grown up.

Mr. Slavicek had heard much talk about war gardens, but there was no opportunity for this activity in his immediate neighborhood. During his boyhood in Bohemia, Mr. Slavicek had observed how gardening was done, but his entire life from the age of 13 had been spent on the near west side.

Hears of Dog Training.

Also, Mr. Slavicek had heard about dogs that were being trained for war. He had two dogs, one an English sheep dog and one that was part shepherd. They were good dogs, but they were untrained for war purposes.

Restless, Mr. Slavicek decided to go west. He had a brother, Charles, who resided in Cicero. Journeying by street car, Mr. Slavicek reached his brother's home and inquired about war garden possibilities. He learned of a community garden project at 31st street and Austin boulevard. The season was already late, but the adventure staked out a lot 100 feet by 50 feet and started to dig.

There might not be gold in the hills, but there was food to be taken from the prairie. For a few nights Mr. Slavicek commuted back and forth to his Leavitt street home. Then he considered the extra travel as just so much foolishness. He was working late in the evening, anyhow, and the nights were getting warm. Mr. Slavicek decided to sleep on the soil to which he had become attached. For three weeks he slept out under the stars, and then newly found friends at the National Coal company near by suggested that he move into a shanty in their yard.

Keep House in Shanty.

The shanty was equipped with a small stove, cooking utensils and a cot. Mr. Slavicek has continued to keep house for himself in the shanty all summer. With him have been his two dogs. When the garden has not claimed full attention the hours have been devoted to training the dog. Mr. Slavicek made a cart and harness for the dogs and there was reejoicing when recently they were registered as dogs of war.

At the very beginning, Mr. Slavicek decided he would have no ordinary war garden. The idea of designing a huge star, 50 feet from point to point, was his own. The ground was raised for the star design. Pumpkins were planted in the center, cucumbers at the points, and onions in between. Sunflowers were planted on the borders.

"I always wanted to be a farmer," Mr. Slavicek enthused, as he led the way among the tomatoes, the celery, and the cabbage. "I did something that I read about one time in a book. I dug deep so as to mix some of the clay with the black soil as a natural fertilizer. Those flowers are zinnias. I didn't want to raise all vegetables."

Healthy, Happy Summer.

It was suggested to Mr. Slavicek that a man of his age might have suffered from sleeping outdoors during the early stages of his pioneering.

"Not at all," Mr. Slavicek chuckled. "I figure that I so improved my health this summer that I've added 10 years to my life. Altogether it's been the happiest summer I've ever had."

PUBLIC HEALTH TO BE WESTERN SPRINGS THEME

Federation Leader to Tell Activities.

BY MARY HOLSINGER.

The 6th district of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs will begin its fall activities with an all-day meeting Thursday, Oct. 14, in the Western Springs community house. Members of the Western Springs Woman's club, of which Mrs. C. A. Crawford is president, will be hostess.

Mrs. Roy R. Boudrye.

Mrs. Roy R. Boudrye, president, will preside, altho district department chairmen will be in charge of the program. Beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning Mrs. Frank J. Christenson, district chairman of the department of public health and child hygiene, will lead a program on health. This will be followed by a luncheon at noon and a conference with club chairmen.

Mrs. W. M. Rennie, state president, will address the afternoon meeting and a musical program will be presented by the Millard Avenue Women's club, the second oldest club in Chicago which celebrated its 65th anniversary last May.

Talks on Health.

Sharing program honors in the morning will be Dr. Adelaide Doolittle Hoeffel, state chairman of the department of public health and child hygiene of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, who will talk on "Nursing for War Service," and Mrs. Arthur Edison, state commander of the women's field auxiliary of the American Society for the Control of Cancer. She will talk on "The Background of the Cancer Prevention Clinic in Illinois." The third morning speaker will be Dr. Augusta Webster, medical director of the Cancer Prevention clinic, who will tell about the "Accomplishments of the Cancer Prevention Clinic." The speakers will be introduced by Mrs. Christenson.

Preceding the noon recess and luncheon, district department chairmen will hold a conference with their club chairmen to outline the year's work and discuss problems.

President to Outline Work.

Mrs. Ray C. Pickell, vice president and program chairman for the 6th district, will introduce Mrs. Rennie who will outline the federation work for the coming year. The music for the afternoon program presented by Millard Avenue club will be a cantata, "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," adapted from Washington Irving's literary classic.

The two part musical arrangement is by Ira B. Wilson and the libretto by Edith Sanford Tillotson. The cantata director is Mrs. Albert H. Tosch and Mrs. Lyle C. LaPoint is the accompanist. Mrs. Forrest J. Reuntry is the narrator.

The garden department, under direction of Mrs. Frederick W. Wilmet, 6th district chairman, will hold a garden exhibit during the day. Club members are being invited to exhibit vegetables, plants, herbs, flowers, and other produce from their summer war gardens.

List Officers, Chairmen.

500 Attend Reception on West Side.

BY AGNES AHERN.

Like a bride and groom in a fairy tale, Madeline and Michael Abbinante walked thru the frosted arch of their wedding cake to take their places in the reception line at the West End Women's club. The cake, built in the shape of a triumphal arch 8 feet high and 5 feet wide, dominated the ballroom where the newly married couple and their parents received the hundreds of friends who came to wish the couple happiness.

A masterpiece of the pastry chef's art, the cake was brought to the reception room in three sections and assembled just before the wedding party arrived. Into its 350 pounds went 96 dozen eggs with corresponding quantities of sugar and spice and everything else that makes a wedding cake.

Cake Cost $195.

The cake, which cost $195, was the gift of the groom's father, Eustachio Abbinante, 1015 Newbery avenue. A widower, he wanted his only son Michael, who is a private in the army, to have a truly memorable wedding. So with the consent of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rocco Carella of 1013 Newberry avenue, he provided the hall for the reception as well as the lavish table.

Food, music, and congeniality made the reception sparkle like champagne. For Pvt. Michael Abbinante and his bride it was a joyous conclusion to the wedding ceremony which took place at 3 p. m. in Our Lady of Pompeii church.

Madeline, the bride, was dressed in lustrous white satin embroidered with tiny pearls. Her veil was of white tulle, and she carried a bridal bouquet of white lilies. She was attended by Mrs. Laura Graziana, matron of honor, who wore a turquoise silk gown. Her bridesmaids were Mary Senese, Grace Carella, Vivian Senese, Mary Del Vecchio, Margaret Stovekn, Shirley Bigelow, and Patricia De Marco. They were gowned in bouffant white net over taffeta, and carried bouquets of white chrysanthemums and scarlet coxcomb. Six year old Theresa Carella, the bride's sister, was flower girl. Best man at the wedding was Dominic Acceture.

Engaged 7 Months.

On their wedding day, Michael and Madeline had been engaged exactly 7 months and 7 days. Their romance has something of a story book quality, for Michael fell in love with Madeline's picture even before he met her.

Both were born in the same province in southern Italy. The groom, now 30 years old, was 14 when his father brought him to the United States. Madeline, 23, was 7 when her family left Bari, Italy, for Chicago, making their home at the Newberry avenue address. For years they lived next door to each other without meeting, altho their parents were acquainted.

Last February, however, when Michael was home on leave from Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., where he is now stationed, Mrs. Carella invited him in for tea and cakes. In the living room he saw Madeline's picture.

One He'd Waited For.

"The minute I saw it, I knew she was the girl I had been waiting for," he says. "When I met her, I thought she was even lovelier than her picture. We were engaged before my leave was over. Right then we started praying for another furlough because we were both anxious to be married as soon as the army would let us."

Michael, who was inducted two years ago, is in the field artillery. Before his present post, he was stationed at Fort Lewis, Wash., and at the desert training center in California. Madeline has been making torpedoes in a war factory. After Michael returns to camp she plans to return to her job.

Wedding Couple Walk Thru Arch of Cake

Not often are a bride and bridegroom able to walk thru their own wedding cake, but Pvt. Michael Abbinante and his bride, the former Madeline Carella, led the grand march thru pillars of pastry at their recent reception in the West End Women's club. The cake was a gift of the bridegroom's father, Eustachio Abbinante. Eight feet high and 5 feet wide, it was brought to the hall in three sections and put together shortly before the reception. The couple were married at Our Lady of Pompeii church, 1224 Lexington street.

The parents of the bride and bridegroom snatched a few minutes for quiet conversation during the reception. Left to right, they are Mr. and Mrs. Rocco Carella, 1013 Newberry avenue, and Eustachio Abbinante, 1015 Newberry. Originally from the same province in southern Italy, they were delighted when Madeline and Michael decided they wanted to marry each other.

RIVERSIDE'S NEW ATHLETIC FIELD HAS FIRST GAME

HighSchool Homecoming with Maine Initiates It.

Yesterday's homecoming football game between Riverside-Brookfield High school and Maine High school was an occasion for initiating the new athletic field at Riverside-Brookfield High.

Development of the new field began last fall and was carried on during the summer. The field is located on the block of land in Hollywood immediately west of the school building. Five residences which formerly stood on the site were moved elsewhere. The full block is now devoted to the athletic field with the exception of the southwest corner occupied by the Hollywood Community house and the Hollywood grammar school.

Mrs. McCormick Owned Land.

The property originally was owned by Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, who gave land for the nearby Chicago Zoölogical gardens. The project to provide a needed area for playground and an athletic field at the school was started several years ago under the leadership of J. G. Clancy, former president of the board of education. Development of the zoo and proximity of the forest preserves have caused several transactions leading to property exchanges that have been considered beneficial to the zoo, the preserves, and the school.

A temporary athletic field that has been used by the school was obtained thru an exchange with the forest preserve district of an earlier athletic field now used by the zoo for parking purposes.

OAK PARK 19TH CENTURY CLUB TO OPEN SEASON

Hold President's Reception Tomorrow Afternoon

Mrs. Paul C. Fox. [Toloff photo.]

The 19th Century Women's club of Oak Park will begin its fall program tomorrow afternoon with the annual president's reception in the clubhouse. Mrs. Paul C. Fox, who begins her second year as president will head the receiving line. Charles Sears, tenor, will give a musical program. Tea will be served by Mrs. Gordon B. Hattersley, social chairman.

Mrs. Fox, who begins her second term as president, has seen the club grow to 1,000 members during the last year and has been responsible for organizing a social service program which has placed many volunteer workers in Cook county social agencies. The social service committee, headed by Mrs. Arthur M. Houser Jr., conducts a monthly sewing day for these agencies.

Lecturers for the fall and winter season have been engaged by Mrs. Donald F. Duncan, first vice president, and will include Ely Culbertson, Louis Fischer, William Lydgate, Dr. Carl Hambro, Philip Cumminga, and Spencer Irwin. Musical programs will feature Jose Echaniz, Cuban pianist; the Philharmonic Male quartet, and the club chorus.

Julien Bryan will give an illustrated lecture on Chile, the Ullmans on Jasper Park, and William Darden on Alaska. Orville Prescott, book editor, will speak on books. Authors who will be guests of the club during the year will include Rulka Langer, novelist; Anauta, an Eskimo, and Ismet Sanli, Turkish journalist.

Besides Mrs. Fox and Mrs. Duncan the officers of the club are Mrs. Ellis K. Kerr, Mrs. Hugh D. Cameron, Mrs. Lester H. Holt, Mrs. William G. Norris, Mrs. Alexander G. Bryant, Mrs. Arthur O. Aldrich, and Mrs. Edward H. Smith.

West End Catholic Club.

The fall season of the West End Catholic Woman's club will begin with a tea for new members at 2 o'clock Friday in the 19th Century Woman's club house in Oak Park. Mrs. John M. Lee and members of the board will preside.

Mrs. John Lee. [Toloff photo.]

Officers for the year are Mrs. Lee, president; Mrs. Maurice H. Byrne, Mrs. Edward F. Mulhern, and Mrs. Charles P. Englehart, vice presidents; Mrs. Harry A. Quinn, recording secretary; Mrs. I. B. Earle, corresponding secretary; Mrs. James J. Ryan, financial secretary, and Mrs. Harry M. Thometz, treasurer.

La Grange Woman's Club.

A reception and musical recital will be held for members of the La Grange Woman's club at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday in the Masonic temple. Mrs. Arthur P. Jacobson, general program chairman, will present the Chicago Opera Concert ensemble.

Officers of the club are Mrs. Henry M. Barber, president; Mrs. Frank L. Howell and Mrs. Thomas E. Layng, vice presidents; Mrs. Floyd E. Eston and Mrs. E. F. J. Young, secretaries, and Mrs. Herman H. Drewes, treasurer.

Austin North End Club.

Alice Phillips, W-G-N soprano, will present a lecture recital on "Our American Music" Friday afternoon at the opening meeting of the Austin North End Woman's club in Faith Presbyterian church, 1001 North Pine avenue. Miss Phillips will present American music from the Revolutionary period to the present and will change into four different historical costumes, representing the periods of music she will sing.

Eileen Craig Weds Paratrooper

Miss Eileen Craig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Craig, 4438 West End avenue, recently became the bride of Corp. Richard T. Ulbrich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam J. Ulbrich, 35 North Lavergne avenue. The couple are making their home in Southern Pines, N. C., near Camp Mackall where Corp. Ulbrich is stationed with the army paratroops. [Ebert Photo.]

OAK PARK TO GET SAFETY PLAQUE AT CIVIC PARTY

Presentation Ceremony to Be Held Tomorrow.

The honorable mention plaque in the 1942 National Pedestrian Protection contest, sponsored by the American Automobile association for cities in the 50,000 to 100,000 population group, will be awarded to Robert F. McMaster, president of the village of Oak Park, tomorrow at a luncheon in the Oak Park club.

In discussing the contest, Charles M. Hayes, Chicago Motor club president, who will make the presentation, emphasized the need for a continued reduction of pedestrian fatalities and injuries. He declared that pedestrian deaths account for two-thirds of the total number of fatality total in automobile accidents.

The contest was judged on actual accident reduction records among pedestrians and on accident prevention campaigns and safety education. Oak Park's pedestrian death rate was 2.9 per 100,000 population.

Good Education Program.

Oak Park's award in the contest was due mainly to the excellence of its pedestrian protection program, Hayes explained. The village was outstanding in elementary and junior high school safety activities and safety education, using posters, sidewalk stencils, movies, leaflets, and other public education measures. The Oak Park traffic control commission was especially praised by the judges' report for its coöperation with the city's program.

"The record was not accomplished thru sudden safety activities, but thru a good sound year-round program in the application of engineering, education, and enforcement," McMaster said when he learned of the award. "During the entire program we have had excellent coöperation from the schools, churches, service clubs, the Chicago Motor club, and the general public."

He asserted that it is the patriotic duty of every community to do everything possible to reduce traffic accidents in order to stop the waste of man power that hampers the war effort.

Cannot Decrease Efforts.

"Altho Oak Park is to be commended for its achievement in pedestrian protection, we must not feel that we have attained a goal and can relax our efforts. There must be no letup in our endeavor to continue decreasing pedestrian accidents," he said.

Oak Park officials who are expected to attend the luncheon tomorrow will include Tracy Kohl, president, chamber of commerce; Fire Chief William C. Watters, Marshall S. Dutton, commissioner of public works; Benjamin Barsema, chief of police; Chester Wynne, village attorney; Mrs. Dorothy Kerr, Robert Glaesel, Richard Thomas, and Dr. Noel M. Maxson, village trustees; Elmer Grable, president, Rotary club; Allen Mersbach, president, Optimist club; Herman Wittrock, president, Kiwanis club; Robert C. Ransom, president, Lions club, and A. W. Christense, president, Cooperative club.

Many to Attend.

Fay Sandra Singer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Singer, 1337 South Christiana avenue, recently was promoted to sergeant technician 4th grade at the WAC center, Fort Des Moines, Ia. She enlisted in November, 1942, and upon completion of her training was assigned to the motor transport section as secretary. Two other members of the Singer family also are in service. A brother, Lt. Oscar O. Singer, is a meteorologist with the army air force, and another brother, Pvt. Albert Singer, is with the anti-aircraft division at Camp Haan, Cal.

Sgt. Fay Singer.

A west side WAC, Pvt. Virginia Lauferski, who is with a Chicago group in San Francisco, has written home that she is actively engaged in work at the California port which releases soldiers for active combat duty. Pvt. Lauferski, daughter of Mrs. Mae Sedivy of Cicero, is a clerk in personnel.

Pvt. Leota J. Tracey, 2912 Jackson boulevard, and Pvt. Freda A. Schultz, 2728 South Kolin avenue, have begun training with the WACs at Fort Des Moines, Ia.

Pvt. Marie Hackett, 4019 24th street, and Pvt. Helen M. Kukowinski, 2349 South St. Louis avenue, have completed four weeks of basic army training at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., and have been selected for specialist training in the motor transport school.

Miss Elizabeth Adeline Castorguay of Oak Park has been sworn into the WAVES and expects to report soon for general indoctrination at Hunter college, New York City.

Are You Worried About
Wrinkles?
Are deepening lines in your forehead and around your eyes marring your beauty? Then maybe it's your EYES which need attention. Perhaps you've been squinting and don't even know it—and that does dreadful things to even the youngest and smoothest complexions. Protecting your eyes from strain with properly fitted glasses may be just the beauty aid you need as well as a health necessity. Let us check your vision—and we'll frankly tell you whether or not you need glasses.

PLAN TO HONOR IGNATIUS GRADS AT HOMECOMING

Judge Graber Is to Head Annual Fete.

The annual fall festival and homecoming of St. Ignatius High school will be held Saturday night, Oct. 16, in the Ashland Boulevard auditorium, Ashland boulevard and Van Buren street. Judge Joseph A. Graber of Superior court, an alumnus, and whose five sons were also graduated from the school, is festival chairman.

Patrons, alumni, and their parents are expected to attend the homecoming festivities which highlight the beginning of each school year. A total of 16 war bonds, ranging from $25 to $500 will be given as contest prizes.

Assisting Judge Graber are John J. Kenealy, 5106 Fulton street, president of the Fathers' club, and Julius Huffman, 5011 West End avenue, who is in charge of ticket distribution to various section leaders in the city. Tickets are being handled on the west side by Frank von Driska, Cicero; Joseph Gladstone, Oak Park, and Joseph Bates, 3136 Franklin boulevard.

To Honor Service Men.

Tribute will be paid to alumni and faculty now in service. Eighteen alumni and teachers are serving as army and navy chaplains. The most recent of the teachers to leave for chaplain duty is the Rev. George Wallenhorst, S. J., who is attending the school for chaplains at Harvard university. On the school flag, representing 1,100 service men, are 13 gold stars for Ignatians who have lost their lives in the war.

St. Ignatius was founded 74 years ago by the Rev. Arnold Damen, S. J., and has graduated many prominent Chicago business and professional men. Among the alumni is a former mayor of Chicago, a United States district attorney, and several presidents of universities, editors, and authors.

The oldest Catholic high school for boys in the city, it and the nearby Holy Family church are two of the west side landmarks to survive the Chicago fire in 1871. The school was built several years after the Rev. Damen founded the church on the west prairie of Chicago and was only a few blocks from the origin of the fire.

Seven Candles Burn.

Seven candles have burned before the altar of Our Lady of Perpetual Help, in the east transept of the church, since the fire. They are the result of a vow the Rev. Damen made to keep seven tapers burning before the shrine if his school and church were saved from the fire.

Committee Members Listed.

Roy J. Bennish, 4834 Congress street; Ray Devereaus, 1331 North Mayfield avenue; Leonard Filitti, 5035 Adams street; L. J. Francoeur, 1539 North Lockwood avenue; Raymond Hill, 1539 North Lotus avenue; George Kerstein, 2739 South Keeler avenue; William F. McNamara, 1639 North Mason avenue; Matthew Ryan, 5244 Adams street; Eugene Early, 231 North Latrobe avenue; John Shea, 184 North Leamington avenue.

Heads WOWS

CICERO TO OPEN $100,000 DRIVE FOR CHEST FUND

The Cicero Community Chest, thru its board of governors, has worked at high pitch to complete details in preparation for tomorrow's zero hour.

Jerome J. Cerny, chest president, said the goal for Cicero, a member of the National War fund, is $100,000, and from this amount Cicero's own charities, including the Cicero Welfare center and the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, will share in greater proportion than in the past.

Walter D. North, director of the publicity department, has obtained several pictures of the sound movie, "The Last Will of Tom Smith," which will be shown at Cicero theaters during the drive.

Chairman John Steinke has appointed several hundred zone captains who will be in charge of the house to house canvass. Mrs. Matilda Moeller and Mrs. Irene Wilk are co-chairmen for obtaining speakers for service clubs and societies. The Rev. Homer Roberts is in charge of the speakers' bureau.

WHEATON CLASS OF 513 FRESHMEN SETS A RECORD

Wheaton college has another record freshman class. Of the 513 freshmen this year, 381 are women and 132 are men. Some of the men are expected to be called into service within the next two months, but they plan to pursue their college course as long as possible

Total enrollment has reached more than 1,100 to which is added an army contingent of 250 men who are sharing campus facilities.

Illinois again has the largest representation with 237 students. Michigan has sent 86; Pennsylvania, 80; New York, 66, and New Jersey, 62. Only three states are not represented. In addition, there are enrollees from Hawaii, Alaska, Africa, Bermula, Canada, Chili, China, Costa Rica, Iran, Mexico, and Sweden.

W-G-N TO START AIRING OF WORLD SERIES TUESDAY

Open Exclusive Broadcast in Yankee Stadium.

For the fifth consecutive year W-G-N and Mutual will broadcast the play-by-play account of the world series, starting Tuesday, in New York's Yankee stadium. Under an exclusive sponsorship arrangement the $100,000 paid for the broadcast rights will go to the Red Cross and other charity organizations.

Lt. Bob Elson.

Lt. Bob Elson, W-G-N sportscaster before joining the navy last year, who has broadcast world series games for 13 years, has received navy permission to assist Red Barber in handling the report of the sports classic. Bill Corum, sports columnist, will give the highlights and color of the games.

American service men at battle stations thruout the world will not miss hearing the series. Arrangements have been made by MBS and the British Broadcasting corporation to short wave the games to the fighting men. Don Dunphy will be at the microphone for these broadcasts.

The first three games will be played in New York with game time at 12:30 p. m., [Chicago war time] and the remaining games in St. Louis starting on Oct. 10 at 1:30 p. m. The broadcasts will start 15 minutes earlier. There will be no games on Oct. 8 and 9. These two days will be used for traveling.

Silver Theater Story.

'ROBERTA' OPENS OPERA SEASON ON W-G-N SATURDAY

Miss Claire, Thomas Co-Star on Theater.

W-G-N's 1943-'44 season of operettas and operas gets under way on The Chicago Theater of the Air next Saturday with the presentation of Jerome Kern's "Roberta," in which Marion Claire, soprano singer of the series, and Thomas L. Thomas, baritone, will be co-starred.

The program will be broadcast by W-G-N, W59C, and the Mutual network from 8 to 9 p. m.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak. The production will be directed by Jack LaFrande and will feature the music of the W-G-N Symphony orchestra conducted by Henry Weber and the chorus led by Robert Trendler.

LaFrandre's adaptation of the "Roberta" story tells of the romance of a lovely Russian refugee and an All-American football player, set in the luxury of a Parisian gown shop in the early 1930s. Miss Claire will sing the part of Stephanie, the Russian girl, while Thomas will have the rôle of the football player, John Kent.

All the famous music Kern composed for the "Roberta" score will be included in the program. Songs from the operetta will be heard in the following order:

"The Touch of Your Hand," Miss Claire; "Yesterdays," Ruth Slater, contralto; "Madrigal Chorus;" male chorus; "Something Had to Happen," orchestra; "You're Devastating," Thomas and chorus; "Yesterdays," Thomas and chorus; "The Touch of Your Hand," Miss Claire, Thomas, and chorus.

"Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," Miss Claire and chorus; "Let's Begin," Wayne Van Dyne, tenor, and chorus; "You're Devastating," Miss Claire, Thomas, and chorus; and "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," Miss Claire, Thomas, and chorus.

WAC Singer on Air.

Eleanor Person, WAC private, will be the guest singer on the Bob Crosby program at 9:30 o'clock tonight over WMAQ-NBC. This will be her first coast to coast appearance.

Oscar Levant, Bidu Sayao to Be Kostelanetz Guests

Oscar Levant, pianist, and Bidu Sayao, Metropolitan opera soprano, will be the guests of Andre Kostelanetz at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon over WBBM-CBS. Levant will play excerpts from the first movement of the A Minor Piano Concerto by Greig, and Miss Sayao will sing "Para Ninar," by Barroso, and "Mochinha Bemfeitinha," by Berger.

SCHOOLS SHOW A SLIGHT DIP IN PUPIL TOTALS

Puffer Calls Enrollment Satisfactory.

In spite of the attraction of high-pay war jobs enrollment in west side and other Chicago high schools is only 7.65 per cent below last fall's total, George F. Cassell, assistant superintendent in charge of high schools, announced.

The rate of decrease in county and suburban schools is 5 per cent, Noble J. Puffer, county superintendent of schools, said. "In view of the demands of the armed forces and the inducements offered by industry," Puffer said, "I consider the figure highly satisfactory."

Cicero Enrollment Up.

Cassell said that enrollment in Chicago high schools at the end of the first two weeks of the term stood at 113,600, compared with 119,000 at the same point of the February enrollment, and 123,000 at the same point of the 1942 autumn term. Cassell said that the board of education during the summer has urged employers not to retain employes of high school age beyond the beginning of the new school term.

In one west side town, Cicero, elementary school enrollment has increased from 4,023 last fall to 4,180 pupils this fall. Western Springs also has increased from 782 to 850. Brookfield has the same number, 765. In other towns there is a decrease. North Berwyn has slipped from 1,557 to 1,453; South Berwyn, from 2,280 to 2,275; Elmwood from 1,500 to 1,461; Forest Park from 971 to 909; La Grange from 1,565 to 1,517, and from 2? to 238; Lyons from 925 to 850; Maywood from 3,399 to 3,333; Oak Park from 4,663 to 4,382; River Forest from 905 to 813, and Riverside from 1,121 to 1,091.

Less High School Students.

In the township high schools on the west side enrollments have decreased as follows: Lyons township, from 1,550 to 1,5?; Oak Park-River Forest township, ?,450 to ?,219; Proviso township from 3,659 to 3,567; Riverside-Brookfield township from 1,000 to 966, and J. Sterling Morton township from ?267 to 4780.

Puffer said the county elementary school enrollment figures are not yet complete because Brookfield and Berwyn schools set a late opening date and reports have not yet been received from some schools in unincorporated areas. Elementary school enrollment in Chicago also is incomplete because of the infantile paralysis epidemic.

HONOR RAILROAD MAN WHO SAVED LIFE OF FRIEND

He Pulled Co-Worker from Burning Car.

In recognition of his heroic action in rescuing a fellow worker from death beneath a flaming motor car, A. F. Woodrick of Aurora, track supervisor, recently was presented by the Burlington railroad an appropriately engraved gold watch.

On the afternoon of June 19, Woodrick and three station workers were approaching Batavia when an axle housing on their track motor broke, overturning the car and throwing all clear except W. J. Rundle, who was pinned beneath the windshield frame. The upset broke the gasoline line and, just as Woodrick was picking himself up the car became enveloped in flames.

Both Badly Burned.

Woodrick plunged into the flames, lifted the car off Rundle and, with the assistance of one of the other workers, dragged the injured man clear and extinguished his burning clothing. The men carried Rundle to a nearby highway, flagged down a motorist, and within 20 minutes reached a hospital in Aurora.

Rundle sustained severe burns on his head and body and would have died in a few moments except for Woodrick's prompt action. Woodrick was painfully burned on both arms and hands, but returned to work the same day. The other two men aboard the car were not injured.

Pay Tribute to Hero.

The watch was presented at a brief ceremony at the Burlington station in which J. F. Mulroy, trainmaster; P. I. Jones, safety supervisor, and other railroad officials paid tribute to Woodrick's heroic deed.

Woodrick, 36, entered the Burlington service as a section worker at Rochelle in 1925 and was promoted to section foreman in 1929.

J. J. SIRCHIO, DUNCAN Y. M. C. A. INSTRUCTOR, TO TEACH AT STOWE

Joseph J. Sirchio, for many years associated with older boys' work in the Joseph S. Duncan Y. M. C. A., 1515 Monroe street, will conclude his work there this week to give his full time as a gym teacher in the Harriet Beecher Stowe school, 3444 Wabansia avenue.

Joseph J. Sirchio.

Born in the neighborhood of the Duncan center, Sirchio participated in its many activities as a youth before joining the staff in 1935. He has worked with gym classes for younger and older boys, supervised dramatics, handicraft, and square dance groups, taught swimming, conducted tournaments, and originated the "stay at home" camp for boys who could not afford to go to summer camps.

Mr. and Mrs. Sirchio and their two daughters live at 900 North Lorel avenue. Sirchio is also attending Northwestern university, where he is working toward a master's degree in physical education.

Millard Avenue Church Club Resumes Meetings

Members of the Young People's Sunday Evening club of Millard Avenue Presbyterian church will resume their fall meetings at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the church, 1908 South Millard avenue. Wilbur Abramsson will be the leader and Dr. Goodrich Gates will be the guest speaker.

Urge Owners to Adopt Fuel Saving Program.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

The nation-wide mobilization to conserve fuel is gaining momentum. Home owners are asked to "winter condition" their homes in every possible way and here are nine principal factors involved in a winter-proofing job.

Insulate parts of your heating plant, as boilers, furnaces, heating pipes, hot water tanks and hot air chutes need coverings to seal in the heat; insulate attic roof or floor; weatherstrip windows and doors; caulk cracks; put up storm sash and storm doors; install winter vestibules; insulate walls where it it practicable; seal walls and doors which give access to any part of the house which is little used, or not used at all, and insulate ceiling of basement or a cellar which is not heated.

Insulate Behind Radiator.

One simple way of saving heat is to place a piece of insulation board between a radiator and an outside wall. Almost as simple a method to stop heat loss in cold basements is to install panels of ½ inch insulating board into window openings.

Weatherstripping is important because it is said that cracks which run around an average window amount in size to space occupied by a brick. A house with 20 windows has an opening about the size of 20 bricks. Quite some opening in zero weather.

Storm Windows Important.

Tight fitting storm windows are important sealers against loss of heat thru window panes. Caulking of cracks is important since a lot of heat can escape thru those open joints caused by settling of a house.

Attic floors or roofs can be insulated in various ways. If you are not planning to use your attic space you can use dry fills of different types which come in batts or bags. Insulation boards are splendid fuel savers if you are planning to finish one room or the entire attic.

It goes without saying that there's a big loss of heat thru the walls of a house. Heat loss thru an uninsulated wall averages around 27 per cent. Insulate the wall with a 2 per cent thickness of insulation and you can cut heat loss to around 17 per cent. An insulation expert can advise best type of wall insulation, depending on the house structure.

Seal Unused Rooms.

This is the month to close and seal any room or rooms which will be little used this winter—or not used at all. Doors which lead to these unused spaces should be tightly weatherstripped. Basement doors should be weatherstripped and if it is to be used for living purposes, it should have the same attention as the rest of the house. If it is not used for living purposes its ceiling should be heat-sealed to keep first floor rooms warm.

And if you have a home with walls of asbestos cement siding or shingles which are in need of a good cleaning, there are excellent cleaners available, manufactured especially for this type of wall.

THIS WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, October 4.

The home gardener will find the autumn activities quite pressing unless he has completed all preliminary work, which includes taking in all accessories to the protection of a shed, laying in material for giving winter protction to the perennials and spring or late planted stock.

Tuesday, October 5.

Emphasis is placed on the value of clearing all debris from the garden. Especially necessary is the raking up and burning of all weeds not only in one's own yard but on adjoining land if there is such. It is not too late to build up the garden soil, and there are many soils that will stand building up.

Wednesday, October 6.

Gardeners living in sections where animal manures can be obtained are fortunate, for there is nothing better for growing plants. However, some soil may be deficient in a certain element which can be supplied by using commercial fertilizers, usually applied just before planting in spring at intervals during the growing season, and in the amount required for the crop.

Thursday, October 7.

Tulip planting time is here and there is nothing better to furnish brilliant bloom in springtime. A good way to arrange them is in clumps of half a dozen. Planting in rows is never quite as pleasing as planting in clumps. One should study the height the plants will grow and plant accordingly.

Friday, October 8.

The bulbs for indoor flowering include such choice items as the amaryllis, sparaxis, with small flowers of bright colors; calla, with luxuriant foliage and chalk white flowers; oxallis, charming little plants with yellow buttercup blooms; freesias in many colors; and one may try the beautiful Easter lily by starting it now, keeping it cool until well rooted and then placing it in a window.

Saturday, October 9.

Hardwood cuttings may be taken of various shrubs. Mention has been made as to the practicability of sowing hardy annuals in the fall to give early bloom in the spring. These may be sown now, for the seeds in most cases lie in the soil until spring when they start growth.

Prepared in coöperation with Garfield Park conservatory.

COMBINED NEGRO GROUPS TO MEET NEXT SUNDAY

Plans to reduce the cost of living and curb rising food prices affecting Chicago Negroes will be discussed Sunday at the first combined fall meeting of the Chicago Citizen's Committee of 1,000 and the National Negro council at the Metropolitan Community church, 4100 South Park way.

Prominent Negro ministers and laymen, including Edgar G. Brown, director of the National Negro council, will speak at the meeting. Speakers include Dr. W. H. Jackson, pastor of Olivet Baptist church; the Rev. Harold Kingsley, the Rev. W. S. Bradden, the Rev. A. Wayman Ward, and Dr. Joseph Evans, pastor of Metropolitan Community church.

A plan for a large scale educational and volunteer price warden system, with office of price administration branch offices staffed by Negro volunteer workers under supervision of OPA regional and state offices, will be presented.

Do You Make These Mistakes in English?

Sherwin Cody's remarkable invention has enabled more than 100,000 people to correct their mistakes in English. Only 15 minutes a day required to improve your speech and writing.

MANY people use such expressions as "Leave them lay there" and "Mary was invited as well as myself." Still others say "between you and I" instead of "between you and me." It is astonishing how often "who" is used for "whom" and how frequently we hear such glaring mispronunciations as "forMIDable," "aveNOO," and "KEWpon." Few know whether to spell certain words with one or two "c's" or "m's" or "r's" or with "ie" or "ei," and when to use commas in order to make their meaning absolutely clear. Most persons use only common words—colorless, flat, ordinary. Their speech and their letters are lifeless, monotonous, humdrum.

Why Most People Make Mistakes

What is the reason so many of us are deficient in the use of English and find our careers stunted in consequence? Why is it some cannot spell correctly and others cannot punctuate? Why do so many find themselves at a loss for words to express their meaning adequately? The reason for the deficiency is clear. Sherwin Cody discovered it in scientific tests, which he gave thousands of times. Most persons do not write or speak good English simply because they never formed the habit of doing so.

What Cody Did at Gary

The formation of any habit comes only from constant practice. Shakespeare, you may be sure, never studied rules. No one who writes and speaks correctly thinks of rules when he is doing so.

Receives Two Salary Increases

"I can frankly say that my last two increases in salary were largely due to my improvement in English, as influenced by the course."
C. A. P. (Washington)

Great Business and Social Benefits

"I am a secretary and handle a large amount of correspondence. Your course has built up my vocabulary, made me accurate in spelling and punctuation. I now enjoy myself at social functions, knowing that I use proper English and, through your course, can express myself in more colorful language."
Miss L. M. L. (Illinois)

From a Minister

"It has proved most beneficial to me as a minister and public speaker. I can highly recommend it."
Rev. V. B. A. (California)

Gains New Self-Confidence

"My friends have already noticed a marked improvement in my speech and writing. I am feeling a new confidence that puts me at ease in any company.
A. B. (California)

"Has Helped Me—and My Children"

"I wanted to correct my English and thereby help my children acquire correct habits of speech. Your course has not only helped me, but also my children in school."
H. J. H. (Oregon)

Finds Course Fascinating

"I am more grateful than I can say. No teaching could be easier, more practical, more absorbing."
F. W. (New York)

Here is our mother-tongue, a language that has built up our civilization, and without which we should all still be muttering savages! Yet some schools, by wrong methods, have made it a study to be avoided—the hardest of tasks instead of the most fascinating of games! For years this has been a crying disgrace.

In that point lies the real difference between Sherwin Cody and the schools! Here is an illustration: Some years ago Mr. Cody was invited by the author of the famous Gary System of Education to teach English to all upper-grade pupils in Gary, Indiana. By means of unique practice exercises, Mr. Cody secured more improvement in these pupils in five weeks than previously had been obtained by similar pupils in two years under old methods. There was no guesswork about these results. They were proved by scientific comparisons. Amazing as this improvement was, more interesting still was the fact that the children were "wild" about the study. It was like playing a game!

The basic principle of Mr. Cody's new method is habit-forming. Anyone can learn to write and speak correctly by constantly using the correct forms. But how is one to know in each case what is correct? Mr. Cody solves this problem in a simple, unique, sensible way.

100% Self-Correcting Device

Suppose he himself were standing forever at your elbow. Every time you mispronounced or misspelled a word, every time you violated correct grammatical usage, every time you used the wrong word to express what you meant, suppose you could hear him whisper: "That is wrong, it should be thus and so." In a short time you would habitually use the correct form and the right words in speaking and writing.

If you continued to make the same mistakes over and over again, each time patiently he would tell you what was right. He would, as it were, be an everlasting mentor beside you—a mentor who would not laugh at you, but who would, on the contrary, support and help you. The 100% Self-Correcting Device does exactly this thing. It is Mr. Cody's silent voice behind you, ready to speak out whenever you commit an error. It finds your mistakes and concentrates on them. You do not need to study anything you already know. There are no rules to memorize.

Only 15 Minutes a Day

Nor is there very much to learn. In Mr. Cody's years of experimenting he brought to light some highly astounding facts about English.

For instance, statistics show that a list of sixty-nine words (with their repetitions) make up more than half of all our speech and letter-writing. Obviously, if one could learn to spell, use, and pronounce these words correctly, one would go far toward eliminating incorrect spelling and pronunciation.

Similarly, Mr. Cody proved that there were no more than one dozen fundamental principles of punctuation. If we mastered these principles, there would be no bugbear of punctuation to handicap us in our writing.

Finally he discovered that twenty-five typical errors in grammar constitute nine-tenths of our everyday mistakes. When one has learned to avoid these twenty-five pitfalls, how readily one can obtain that facility of speech which denotes the person of breeding and education!

When the study of English is made so simple it becomes clear that progress can be made in a very short time. No more than fifteen minutes a day is required. Fifteen minutes, not of study, but of fascinating practice! Mr. Cody's students do their work in any spare moment they can snatch. They do it riding to work or at home. They take fifteen minutes from the time usually spent in profitless reading or amusement. The results really are phenomenal.

Sherwin Cody has placed an excellent command of the English language within the grasp of everyone. Those who take advantage of his method gain something so priceless that it cannot be measured in terms of money. They gain a mark of breeding that cannot be erased as long as they live. They gain a facility in speech that marks them as educated people in whatever society they find themselves. They gain the self-confidence and self-respect which this ability inspires. As for material reward, certainly the importance of good English in the race for success cannot be overestimated. Surely, no one can advance far without it.

FREE—Book on English

It is impossible, in this brief review, to give more than a suggestion of the range of subjects covered by Mr. Cody's new method and of what his practice exercises consist. But those who are interested can find a detailed description in a fascinating little book called "How You Can Master Good English in 15 Minutes a Day." This is published by the Sherwin Cody School of English in Rochester. It can be had by anyone, free upon request. There is no obligation involved in writing for it. The book is more than a prospectus. Unquestionably, it tells one of the most interesting stories about education in English ever written.

If you are interested in learning more in detail of what Sherwin Cody can do for you, send for the book, "How You Can Master Good English in 15 Minutes a Day."

Merely mail the coupon, a letter or postal card for it now. No agent will call. SHERWIN CODY SCHOOL OF ENGLISH, 16710 Searle Building, Rochester 4, N. Y.

Gertrude Niesen Heads Bright Chez Paree Show

Several Good Acts Support Sultry Singer

By Will Davidson.

Niesen's the reason the present Chez Paree show has the lush, warm color of a tropical sunset. She's the reason, too, that many are finding table room only on the floor. Gertrude has never, to my knowledge, let a Chez Paree crowd down. Instead, she picks them up and holds them, applauding and admiring, in her capable hands.

Gloria Lee.

Miss Niesen's vocal attributes are well known by this time. She has a range that is both remarkable and fascinating. In her lower registers she is sultry, molten, haunting. Her higher notes have a nasal quality that in others might be unpleasant, but in her proves excitingly individual and effective. And Miss Niesen knows how to sell a song. Flamboyant showmanship is as foreign to her as subtlety is to Richman. Understatement, rather, is her forte—that impelling understatement that is the product of vital personality and assured talent.

Why Gertrude Niesen has not been snapped up for many a musical show, I don't know. She's a trouper, a superb ad libber, and she's capable of entrancing variety in mood. It's no wonder Lou Breese and the boys play such a superb show for her.

Crediting Miss Niesen with so much of the show's appeal is in no way disrespectful of the contributions of her supporting acts. This is a very well rounded revue, one of those eminently satisfactory ones that the Chez so often produces. Luis Gomez, who has taught many a Chicagoan the subtleties of the rhumba, and his dark eyed, gorgeous partner, Beatrice, achieve some refreshing effects in their dance routines. They seem to dance in three dimensions, as dancing should be done, instead of the flat two with which so many ballroom teams seem satisfied. With Kenny Edwards singing a rich commentary, they create a number of spectacular pictures.

Dr. Marcus, the double talking magician, is new to me, simply because I haven't been around the same places he has. He's a corking entertainer for the Chez with his delightful idiocy. It is sad that he reverts to unpleasant ribaldry for laughs, for here is a lad who certainly doesn't need dirt, if anybody ever did. He's too good to be blue.

Carol and Sherod, the dancing sisters, hold their own as opening act with a series of rather intricate dance routines. Theirs is not sensational work, but good.

The Adorables do some of their best work in this show, especially in the Harlem finale and the Rogers and Hart medley. And Lou Breese, as mentioned, plays his expected good show. Lou is so good on the shows that we sometimes forget to give him credit for his dance music. The crowds don't forget, tho.

The Colony club continues to do a brave and rewarding job of reviving the Rush street cafe trade. Its current show features singing Bea Kalmus, who's been there for 10 weeks and has practically changed the name of the place to the Kalmus club. With her now are the Radio Ramblers, comedy mimics; Three Sophisticated Ladies, Cy Reeves, comedian and emcee, and Gloria Lee and her dandy little line. Don Chiesta's rhumba band and Henry Manning's orchestra provide the music.

Boswelling the Bistros:

Jerry Wald's return to the Panther room Friday heads the week's openings. Robert Crum and the Canteen show carry on. . . . The Bismarck's Walnut room has added Arthur Nelson, puppeteer, to the Art Kassel revue. . . . Buddy Franklin and Lawrence Welk switch ballrooms Friday for 10 days. While Buddy's at the Trianon [with Lawrence at the Aragon], he'll co-star with Charlie Agnew on Oct. 9 and 10, and with Lew Diamond Oct. 16 and 17. . . . It probably will be Nat Brandywine's band with Hildegarde in the Empire room of the Palmer House Jan. 13.

Carl Ravazza's mail consists of about 90 per cent requests for the meaning of his theme song, "Vieni Su." It's an old Italian lullaby, "Come With Me." . . . A benefit for the Denver sanatorium, to be held Oct. 30 at the Stadium, will feature the music of Russ Morgan and Jack Russell. . . . Fred Joyce, who used to inveigle us into some of the city's best night spots, is p. a.-ing for Movie Man Selznick now. He's out on the coast preparing for a nation-wide tour. . . . One of the musical treats of the town is George Scherban's gypsy tunes at the Yar.

POPULAR RECORDINGS

It's not very often that deliberate corn fates much of a play in the music world, but Spike Jones won a distinction for his particular type of music when he made "Der Fuehrer's Face," and now he's produced something really out of the ordinary in "Hotcha Cornia," a beat up version of the old Russian favorite, "Dark Eyes." It's a rather hideous collection of cacophonies from cowbells, klaxons, and tin cans, but somehow it manages to come out as something contagious. Bluebird has backed it up with a Jones rendition of that oldie, "The Wild, Wild Women." Skip it.

Fugue Birthday Gift for String Orchestra

Benjamin Britten, young British composer who made his American debut in Chicago playing his piano concerto with the Illinois Symphony orchestra, recently wrote a prelude and fugue as a birthday gift for the Boyd Neel String orchestra of London. The fugue is in 18 parts, one for each member of the orchestra. Britten is now at work on an opera commissioned by the Kousevitzky Foundation. The work will be in three acts, with English text based on a Suffolk folk tale.

Music News

Under the musical direction of Leo Kopp, conductor of the Chicago Opera company, the Saint Paul Civic Opera association will present three operettas during its tenth anniversary season. "Rosalinda," the modernized version of Johann Strauss' "The Bat," will be heard on Oct. 14, 15, and 16; "Rio Rita" will be presented on Jan. 27, 28, and 29 and the closing performance will be Victor Herbert's "The Fortune Teller," on May 4, 5, and 6.

Fortune Gallo's San Carlo Opera company will open a New York engagement of 24 performances next Thursday. Following that the group will embark on a transcontinental tour which it is reasonable to suppose, a theater being available, will include Chicago.

Puccini's almost forgotten "Girl of the Golden West," not heard here since 1922, will be revived by the San Francisco Opera company for three performances in October and November. Leading roles will be assigned to Florence Kirk, Frederick Jagel, and Robert Weede.

New York will have a series of Russian operas scattered thru the season, produced by Michael Kachouk. The repertory consists of Tschaikowsky's "Eugen Onégin," Borodin's "Prince Igor," Glinka's "Russlan and Ludmila," Gretchaninoff's "Dobrynia Nikitich," Dargomijsky's "Russalka," Moussorgsky's "Boris Godounoff," Tschaikowsky's "Pique Dame," and Rubinstein's "Demon."

The University of Michigan's annual Choral Union concert series will open on Nov. 7 with the Cleveland orchestra, directed by Erich Leinsdorf. The remainder of the 10 events will be given by Marian Anderson, Yehudi Menuhin, Claudio Arrau, the Boston Symphony orchestra, directed by Serge Koussevitzky, the original Don Cossack choir, Artur Rubinstein, Marjorie Lawrence, Mischa Elman, and Ezio Pinza.

For its 25th anniversary competition the Society for the Publication of American Music is interested in receiving works for the following combinations: Piano trio [piano, violin, and cello]; voice with chamber music accompaniment, not to exceed five instruments; piano quartet [piano, violin, viola, cello]; song settings of long poems or song cycles. Chamber music for other combinations will be considered, but the aforementioned types of composition will receive preference. Two manuscripts will be chosen for publication. The composer will receive 25 per cent royalty on all copies sold after distribution to subscribers.

Columbia university is sponsoring an opera workshop, to be devoted to the study and performance of opera in its relation to the modern theater. It will be under the direction of Herbert Graf, stage director of the Metropolitan Opera, and Nicholas Goldschmidt. The first performance will be an English version of an 18th century opera and the second will be the premiere of a new American opera by Bernard Wagenaar, with libretto by Edward Eager.

Karl Krueger, conductor of the Detroit Symphony orchestra, has written a fanfare dedicated to his fellow Kansan, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, and will perform it at his first concert of the season on Oct. 21. Mr. Krueger, together with Gen. Eisenhower and Ben Hibbs, editor of the Saturday Evening Post, recently was cited by the University of Kansas as one of a group of "distinguished sons of Kansas."

The music libraries of the WPA music projects in the eastern states have been acquired by the New York public library and are being distributed to army and navy organizations on the eastern seaboard thru U. S. O. The library of the Illinois WPA music project was placed in custody of the Newberry library after the discontinuance of the project last February and has been made available for use by military musical groups and for reference by the general public.

Leopold Stokowski's recent highly individual interpretation of Shostakovich's Seventh symphony with the Mexico Symphony orchestra aroused the ire of the Mexican critics. One of them called it the "Seventh of Shostokowski."

Vaudeville

Helsing's Vodvil lounge. Freddie Stritt, described as "a tidal wave of laughs," becomes master of ceremonies and appears in his own comedy act. He co-stars with Harry Cool, the romantic singer who finishes his long engagement this week. Holdovers from last week include the Carol Sisters, singing trio; pianist Chet Robie; Sid Fisher, his banjo, and his New Yorkers.

Oriental theater. Milt Britton, "clown prince of swing," and his orchestra will dominate the stage show. With a routine of musical monkey business set in a background of acrobatic rough house, this group is tuned to lovers of slapstick. Co-headlining will be little Bonnie Baker, of "Oh, Johnny" fame.

Rialto theater. Mary Sunde, the current headliner with spicy ditties and dances, is held over. Patricia Joyce, brunet dancer, joins the show after 13 weeks in New York's Diamond Horseshoe. The happy comic, Red Marshall, also is in the cast as are Nethe de Cruz, Spanish dancer; Dolores Dawn, Hap Hyatt, Dolly Beem, Bob Lee, and Sunny Gray.

Chicago theater. In place of a stage show the special orchestra production in the pit is held over. This consists of a medley of modern and operatic music, featuring Lois Schauer, contralto, winner of the 1943 Chicago Musical Festival, and a mixed octet. Louis Adrian directs the orchestra. Stage shows will be resumed on completion of the run of "This Is the Army."

Rodzinski Will Honor Czech Republic Founding

An all Czech program celebrating the 25th anniversary of the founding of the Czecho-Slovak republic will be presented by Artur Rodzinski and the New York Philharmonic Symphony orchestra at Carnegie hall Thursday evening and Friday afternoon, Oct. 28 and 29. The occasion will mark the world première of Bohuslav Martinu's "Memorial to Lidice," and will feature two Czech soloists. Jarmila Novotna will sing music of Dvorak, and Rudolph Firkusny will play the Dvorak Piano Concerto in G minor. Also on the program is George Szell's orchestration of Smetana's quartet, "From My Life."

INTERVENES

haste had taken her over the sill to the ledge beneath, and from there on to the fire escape. They could see her a yard or two below, going down at a speed which spoke of practice. As Giles threw a leg over the sill to follow her, Frank Abbott caught his arm.

"No need," he said. "They're waiting for her down there."

They watched her drop the last few feet and turn to find herself surrounded.

This time there was no breakaway.

Miss Silver gave a tea party a few days later. She was back in her own flat with "Bubbles," "The Soul's Awakening," "The Black Brunswicker," and "The Monarch of the Glen" gazing from their maple frames upon the scene. They looked down upon Nicholas and Agnes Drake, Meade Underwood, and Giles Armitage, and upon Frank Abbott, off duty and very much at his ease.

Miss Silver beamed kindly upon her guests. She was delighted at the happiness which radiated from the Drakes, and delighted to hear that Meade and Giles were to be married without delay. She received with pleasure the admiring attentions of Sgt. Abbott. Altogether a very pleasant party.

But the dark background against which they had played their parts so short a time before could hardly be ignored. Behind the happiness and the agreeable talk it was still there, like a shadow which has been left behind but cannot be forgotten. At first they did not speak of it at all. The Drakes were leaving Vandeleur House. The lease of his flat was up, and they were looking for something in the country.

"It doesn't really matter where I live, you know," said Nicholas Drake.

Mr. Drake Tells of Good Fortune

Frank Abbott, with his lazy, impudent smile, now put the question which every one wanted to ask.

"Are you really a pork butcher?"

"Selwood's Celebrated Sausages," said Mr. Drake, looking more romantic than ever.

"Lucrative?" said Frank.

"O, very. I'll tell you about it if you like. I was going to the other day, but the roof fell in. I'd like to, because it's a story about some very nice people and some very good friends. I was reading for the bar when the last war started. I hadn't any near relations, and I had quite a reasonable income. By the time I got out of the army in 1919 I hadn't any income at all. My gratuity went west, and by 1921 I hadn't the price of a meal. Then I bumped into Mrs. Selwood. She'd been our cook, and she married Selwood from our house when he had a little shop in a little country town. By the time I met her he had three shops, and the sausages were beginning to take on. She made me go home with her, and they gave me a job. After three years they made me manager of one of the shops. Business boomed — the three shops increased and multiplied many times — the sausages became celebrated. When Selwood died two years ago I was stupefied to find he'd left the whole concern to me. He said I'd been like a son to them, and Mrs. Selwood wouldn't want to be bothered with the business. He'd settled enough to make her comfortable, and he knew I'd look after her."

Miss Silver smiled her kindest smile.

"That is a very nice story, Mr. Drake. It is indeed pleasant to realize how many kind and generous people there are in the world. It is particularly salutary when one has been brought into unwilling contact with crime."

Frank Abbott looked at her with a malicious gleam in his pale blue eyes.

"It was our duty and we did," he murmured. "Now you're going to reward us, aren't you — let us ask questions and tell us all the answers?"

He received an indulgent smile.

"I think, Mr. Abbott, you know the answers already."

He murmured, "Call me Frank," and went on a thought hastily. "I'd love to hear them again. And I don't know them all — at least I don't suppose I do. Every one else is perishing with curiosity, and what they all want to know is, how did you do it?"

Miss Silver coughed.

"When I came into contact with this case I was immediately struck with the fact that blackmail was at the bottom of it. The two people who were being blackmailed were both in a position to furnish the blackmailer with something more important than money. Ship construction, airplane construction — information about these two key industries was what had been aimed at. The money payments were in each case only intended to compromise the persons who were being blackmailed, and to render it impossible for them to break away.

"In the Mayfair blackmail case last spring there was a strong hint of the same procedure. But my memory took me back a great deal farther than that. The most dangerous organization of this kind was that of which the Vulture was the head. This was smashed in 1928, but some years later it revived under a pupil of his, a woman known under the names of Deane, Simpson, and Mannister—the latter being her legal designation. I have taken some interest in her career, and have had the opportunity of talking it over with Col. Garrett, the head of the foreign office intelligence service. He told me that in his opinion Mrs. Simpson was the most dangerous criminal he had ever come across. She was arrested three years ago for the murder of a woman who had been her cook, and who had had the misfortune to recognize her. I refer, of course, to the Spedding case. She shot this poor woman dead in cold blood, and attempted to murder two other people. After her arrest she managed to escape, and knowing her to be at large, the possibility that she might be involved in these cases of blackmail presented itself to my mind. There were other possibilities, but amongst them I considered this one.

"When it transpired that the occasion of one of the blackmailing demands was a trifling incident which occurred a good many years ago at Ledlington, the possibility which I had been vaguely considering became a sharply outlined probability. Mrs. Simpson was, you see, the daughter of a Ledlington clergyman, the Rev. Geoffrey Arthur Deane. She was recently married to Mr. Simpson but still resident in Ledlington at the time of the occurrence I have mentioned. Some of her father's parishioners were involved. The link was too significant to be accidental.

"I have now to consider the possibility that Mrs. Simpson was one of the residents in Vandeleur House. I had studied her history, and found that when hard pressed she had always saved herself by assuming a new identity. She had in turn impersonated her own brother, an old professor, a chorus girl, an exotic medium, a middle-aged secretary, and an eccentric spinster. With this in mind I reviewed everyone in Vandeleur House, and at once discarded Bell and Mrs. Smollett who were well known local characters, Mr. Drake on account of his height, and Mr. Willard whose credentials were quite unimpeachable. Mrs. Willard I rejected for the same reason. Mrs. Underwood and her connections were known personally to friends of my own. Miss Garside and Mrs. Lemming were of a physical type impossible for Mrs. Simpson to imitate, both having the regular features which no amount of make-up can counterfeit. Miss Lemming I did not consider at all."

Here Miss Silver paused for a moment and smiled at Agnes Drake. "Goodness, like classical features, is not to be imitated. I was therefore left with Mrs. Meredith's household, and Ivy Lord. Mrs. Simpson, at forty years of age, would certainly not be able to pass for a girl of eighteen. There remained Mrs. Meredith, her companion, and her maid. When I discovered the connection with Tunbridge Wells, the obvious course was to go down there and make inquiries."

"I hope," said Nicholas Drake, "that I shall never have a secret which you have set yourself to find out."

Miss Silver smiled benignly.

"Happiness is a secret which should be shared, not hidden," she observed.

"What did you find out at Tunbridge Wells?" said Giles Armitage. "The balloon went up before you had time to tell us what you did there."

"It was really very simple," said Miss Silver. "I telephoned to the leading house agent and, having discovered the name of Mrs. Meredith's former residence, I paid one or two calls upon the neighboring houses. A Miss Jenkins who had lived next door for about 15 years was particularly helpful, though I must confess that for the first 20 minutes or so it seemed as if I was to have my journey for nothing. Miss Jenkins, as well as Mrs. Black whom I had already interviewed, spoke in the warmest possible terms about Miss Crane—so kind, so conscientious, so devoted to Mrs. Meredith. When I asked how long the association had lasted, she told me that it was already of long standing 15 years ago when she made their acquaintance.

Real Miss Crane's Fate Is Discovered

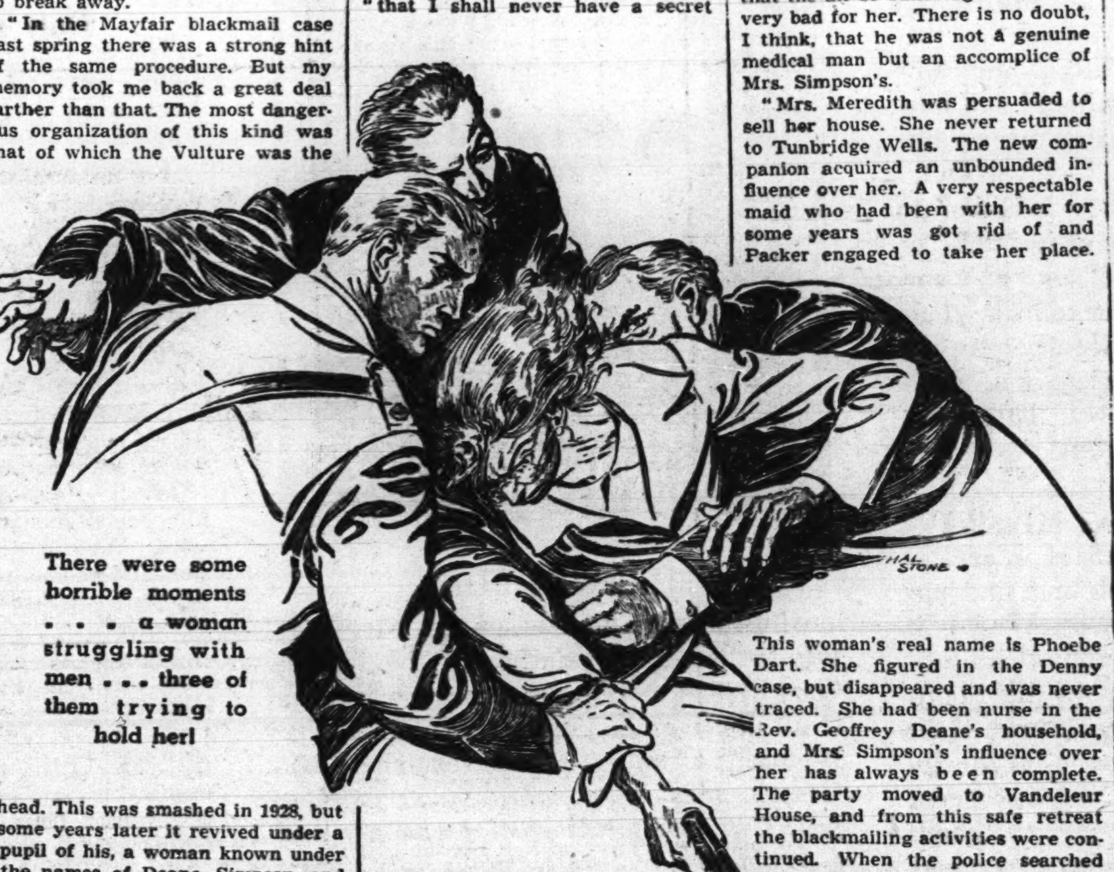
"It was only as I was rising to go that she sighed and said she really did not know what Mrs. Meredith would do without her faithful Miss Crane, and a great pity she had not stayed among her old friends, whose society would have done something to make up for the loss. A few questions brought to light the astonishing fact that the devoted Miss Crane had passed away about six months previously. Mrs. Meredith and she had gone to London on a short visit. They stayed in a family hotel which Mrs. Meredith had patronized for years, and whilst there Miss Crane was found dead in her bed, having taken an overdose of some sleeping mixture. I have not the slightest doubt that she was murdered by Mrs. Simpson, who was in urgent need of a change of identity. It is now quite certain that she was the principal in the Mayfair blackmail case, and that it was necessary for her to disappear. It was by no means the first time that she had done this. The method was very simple. Some middle-aged woman of no importance and without relatives was selected, and removed. There is very little fuss made about the death of such a person, since none of the ordinary motives for foul play are discernible. Mrs. Meredith was naturally in the greatest distress.

"When Mrs. Simpson presented herself as a cousin of her beloved companion she was received with open arms and with no difficulty at all persuaded to take the dead woman's place. What followed is still a little obscure, but Mrs. Meredith speaks of a visit from a doctor who advised a course of treatment which would necessitate her being within reach. He also told her that the air of Tunbridge Wells was very bad for her. There is no doubt, I think, that he was not a genuine medical man but an accomplice of Mrs. Simpson's.

"Mrs. Meredith was persuaded to sell her house. She never returned to Tunbridge Wells. The new companion acquired an unbounded influence over her. A very respectable maid who had been with her for some years was got rid of and Packer engaged to take her place.



There were some horrible moments . . . a woman struggling with men . . . three of them trying to hold her!

This woman's real name is Phoebe Dart. She figured in the Denny case, but disappeared and was never traced. She had been nurse in the Rev. Geoffrey Deane's household, and Mrs. Simpson's influence over her has always been complete. The party moved to Vandeleur House, and from this safe retreat the blackmailing activities were continued. When the police searched the flat they found all the evidence they required."

"What did you really think we were going to find?" said Frank Abbott. "And did you know, or were you gambling?"

Miss Silver gave him a glance of mild reproach.

"This is not an expression which I should choose," she said. "On my return from Tunbridge Wells I saw the Chief Inspector at Scotland Yard. At that time I was tolerably certain that a search of Mrs. Meredith's flat would discover the fair wig and the smart black clothes worn by the woman who visited Miss Garside at tea-time on the day of her death. I thought it more than likely that there would be other disguises, and some compromising papers. On my return to Vandeleur House I confronted Ivy Lord with the evidence which I possessed.

"She then told me what I had already guessed, that, instigated by Miss Roland, she had entered several of the flats at night, using the fire escape and the ledges which run round the house. She said she rather enjoyed doing it, and if she had been seen, there was a genuine history of sleepwalking to get her off. She had not, of course, the least idea that there was anything serious involved. She said Miss Roland told her that some one had been playing a practical joke and she wanted to get even. They quarreled over the letter which Ivy found on her second visit to Mrs. Meredith's flat. She took it from the drawer in which many similar letters were afterward discovered, and she selected this one because she knew the writer. She showed it to Miss Roland, but she did not mean her to keep it. She said she did not think it would be right. In the quarrel that followed, a corner of the letter was torn off. This afterward furnished me with an important clue."

"Why didn't Ivy come upstairs with all the rest of us?" said Meade.

"She was so much upset that suspicion would inevitably have been aroused. Also Mrs. Simpson is an extremely vindictive person, and I was afraid of what she might do if she realized that Ivy Lord was going to be the chief witness against her. As regards the first point, it was highly necessary to keep everything going smoothly until Sgt. Curtis had had time to make a thoro search. Miss Crane having been separated from her accomplice, this search and Packer's subsequent arrest took place without any untoward incident. No resistance was offered. Mrs. Meredith was not alarmed, and the compromising clothes and paper were duly discovered.

"When Sgt. Curtis appeared at the door to say that Anderson was below he was, in fact, notifying the Chief Inspector that the search had produced results which warranted the arrest of Miss Crane."

"The Chief has a good poker face," said Frank Abbott. "The bored official stare when Curtis showed up—good, wasn't it?"

Miss Silver coughed.

"If Miss Crane had been given the slightest warning, the situation might have developed very dangerously. I was quite sure that she would be armed, and Major Armitage had been warned to look out for any movement of her right hand in the direction of that capacious raincoat pocket. He is much to be congratulated on the promptness with which he acted. It would have been impossible to place one of the police officers next to her without putting her on her guard. Well, we have all cause to be grateful that so dangerous a criminal is now under lock and key."

"Do you really think she murdered Miss Garside?" said Agnes Drake in a shrinking voice.

Meade and Giles Plan U. S. Trip

"I think she did," said Miss Silver soberly. "It was, from her point of view, a perfectly logical thing to do. She knew from Mrs. Smollett that the poor woman had exchanged a worthless ring of her own for a valuable one of Miss Roland's. She had also been informed of a conversation between Mrs. Lemming and Miss Garside which made it quite plain that the latter was not in her flat at the time of the murder. And she had herself seen her coming up from the basement just before this time.

"It was perfectly clear that while Miss Garside's continued existence might be extremely dangerous, Miss Garside's death might be extremely useful. If it could be made to look like suicide it would be tantamount to a confession. We do not know how she effected this latest crime. She may have used the sale of the ring to introduce herself. She brought the morphia tablets with her, and found an opportunity of slipping them into Miss Garside's tea. It will not, fortunately, be necessary to prove all this. She will be tried for the murders of Louisa Spedding and Carola Roland, and with Ivy Lord's evidence there should, I think, be no doubt of a conviction."

They talked a little more, and then they said good-by.

Meade and Giles walked slowly down the street. When they had turned the corner, he said:

"They're sending me back to the States. Will you come too?"

She looked up at him, flushing.

"Will they let me?"

"I think so. Will you come if they do?"

Her look was enough. The hand on his arm shook before she could control it. She said:

"When?"

"Next Clipper. But you mustn't tell."

Nicholas and Agnes Drake walked in a companionable silence. They had everything in the world to say, and all the time in the world in which to say it.

Frank Abbott remained alone with his hostess. Miss Silver glanced at him with mild inquiry. She saw a tall young man who could be impudent, but whose demeanor at the moment was modest in the extreme. And then, without any warning at all, he was bowing over her hand and kissing it.

"You're a wonder, Maudie!" he said, and fled.

Miss Silver's eyebrows rose, but she did not appear displeased. She said "Dear me—" and relaxed in an indulgent smile.

THE END.

Ruth Mitchell Tells Epic Tale in Epic Style

"THE SERBS CHOOSE WAR," by Ruth Mitchell. [Doubleday, Doran, $2.75.]

Reviewed by Marcia Winn.

Deep in the Balkans, that age-old corridor from Europe to Asia, there is today one free spot, and only one. It is known as the island of freedom, and its name is Serbia. Almost six centuries ago, in 1389, it stood alone, a tiny race with a tiny land, to prevent the Ottomanizing of Europe. Today, and for the last two years, it again has stood alone, holding open a back door to Europe for the allies.

Since March 25, 1941, when two perfidious ministers of Jugo-Slavia signed a pact with the axis, 1,200,000 Serbians have been butchered or expatriated by the Germans and their fellow Slavs, the Croatians, for on March 27, 1941, the Serbs chose war—the first and only small race in Europe to declare war on Germany before being attacked. They have lost almost a sixth of their eight million people, but they are still fighting.

Theirs is a story of tragic splendor, of incredible valor, and of fiendish horror, and it rings with the authenticity of one who, fighting with them, imprisoned and condemned to death for her part in it, knows it well. Ruth Mitchell, sister of the late Gen. Billy Mitchell, is the first American woman ever to become a member of the Serbian Chetniks, those dauntless guerrillas whose name means "one of the company" or "brotherhood of fighters," and ever since her return to the United States last year as an exchange prisoner from Germany her account has been awaited impatiently.

Miss Mitchell was in Belgrade when the axis pact was signed. She knew in advance of the bloodless revolution which, two days later, swept the pro-axis Prince Paul government out of power and the boy king, Peter II., onto the throne. As a Chetnik she knew details of the fighting plan: how the Jugo-Slav army could hold out for 14 days, perhaps 20, and the Chetniks would then move in, operating from secret airfields with hidden munitions.

What neither she nor any Serbian suspected was the complete betrayal by the Croats, their brothers by grace of the Versailles treaty, who gave Germany the position of every secret airfield, shot their Serbian officers in the back, executed every known and unknown treachery against their fellow Slavs, and began a systematic butchery of Serbian men, women, and children. [She estimates this butchery conservatively at 600,000. It is still going on.] On April 6 the German bombardment of Belgrade began, the airfields were systematically eliminated, and the Chetniks, led by Gen. Draja Mihailovich, withdrew to their mountains.

She says it should have been clear all along that Jugo-Slavia was doomed by its very creators, the Versailles conference, which threw together the heterogeneous peoples of Serbia, Croatia, and Slovenia, alike only in blood and language. The Croats, adjoining what formerly was Austro-Hungary, are Teutonic in culture, experts at intrigue; the Serbs, on the far east, are Byzantine in culture, adepts with the sword. Overrun by the Turks in 1389, the Serbs did not regain their freedom until 1814. It was dearly bought and deeply cherished. Thus began World War I. Thus, its present stand.

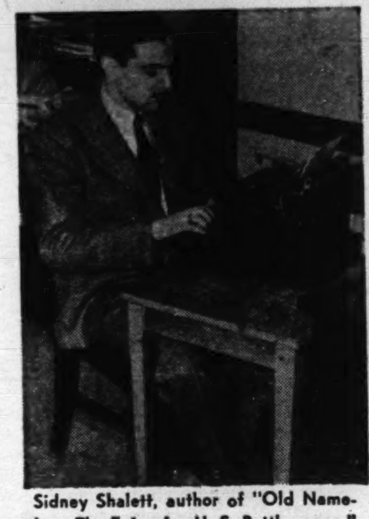
Miss Mitchell's acquaintance with the Balkans began at the same time as its troubles. She went to Albania in 1938 to photograph the wedding of King Zog, who, having jumped eagerly at bribes offered by Italy, already had permitted Mussolini to exert a stranglehold on his country. She was still there, preparing a book on Albanian culture, on Good Friday, 1939, when Italy attacked without the formality of declaring war. She was at once termed a spy and fled to Jugo-Slavia, to Dubrovnik on the Dalmatian coast.



Sidney Shalett, author of "Old Nameless: The Epic of a U. S. Battlewagon." (Appleton-Century.)

Here she set to work translating Serbian epics, only to be again denounced as a spy after England's entrance into the war. "This lady is dangerous," said one ludicrous report. "She writes on her typewriter all day long." She then went to Belgrade, where she was invited to join the Serbian cavalry or act as observer for the flying corps. Instead, she chose to be a Chetnik and on March 3, 1940, became a member, her name written in a book and a line drawn thru it. "Your life," she was told, "is no longer your own; it is given to Serbia."

At this time she was doing various missions for the Jugo-Slavian government and was arrested as a spy so many times in her travels by German "consuls" set up in every region that she soon lost count. When, however, she discovered that two German agents, posing as counter-Nazis, had been assigned to watch her, she and her Chetnik friends set about to confuse them. Even at the height of the bombing of Belgrade, she found them at her side, dodging bombs.

After the signing of the axis pact, the revolt, and the subsequent German blitz, the Chetniks set June 28, the famed Serbian anniversary of the battle of Kossovo, as the date for the Chetnik rising. On May 22, after spending a month in Dubrovnik mapping the location of German gun emplacements, she prepared to join Mihailovich. At this strategic moment two agents of the Gestapo appeared at her door. They ushered her into 13 months of German prisons and concentration camps.

The latter half of "The Serbs Choose War" deals with the unmitigated horror of the prisons, especially the Gestapo prison in Belgrade, with its cellar butchering, and with the tales, told her by fellow prisoners, of the perfidy and sadism of the Croats. Much of the latter is documented in an appendix. It is not pleasant reading. It is hair-raising and blood-curdling. It is a part of life today of which few live to tell.

After four months of the Belgrade prison, from which word emanated that she had been shot, Miss Mitchell was transported to Germany to begin durance in a series of prisons there. "As an American," she says in explanation of that move, "I was seeing too much." She not only saw and heard; she remembered.

She remembered the pitiless butchering of women and children—"The Serbian children have been the most butchered of all in Europe," she writes, "not excepting the Poles or the Jews"—the perversion and brutality of the Nazis, the indescribable filth and pain and starvation. If there is anything she remembered and did not write, it was only to protect whatever stumps remain in the Serbian tree. "And To them," she says, "the word Serb is only another word for courage."

There undoubtedly are many who will attempt to sneer and sneer at "The Serbs Choose War" as they have attempted to smear Mihailovich. It is one of the great books of the war, an epic of valor told in epic style.

A MYSTERY by PATRICIA WENTWORTH —Miss Silver

(Copyright: 1943: By Patricia Wentworth Turnbull.)

CONCLUSION

FRANK ABBOTT shut the door. Pity Curtis couldn't be this side of it—he was going to miss the show. Or was he? So Maudie had done the trick. The things had been found where Maudie had said they would be found. So now what?

Lamb was speaking in his steady, ponderous way.

"Well, we seem to have got a little off the rails. We'd better get back. Was there something more you wished to say, Miss Silver?"

Miss Silver coughed.

"I should just like to complete my time table," she said. "I think I can do so now. We will return to the moment when Miss Roland's friend went down in the lift, leaving her on the landing. This was at 8:30. At 8:35 or thereabouts Miss Garside let herself in with the spare key of No. 8, which she had obtained from the basement. She had reason to believe that Miss Roland had gone out for the evening. She had, in fact, seen her go down in the lift with her sister, Mrs. Jackson, at 20 minutes past 7, and she did not know that Miss Roland had gone no farther than the corner of the road, and that she was back in her flat again by half past 7. Miss Garside remained in the flat for about a quarter of an hour, and during that quarter of an hour Miss Roland was murdered.

"I am going to tell you why she was murdered, and who murdered her. Carola Roland came to this house for a purpose. She was being blackmailed, and she was determined to discover her blackmailer, and to turn the tables. Mrs. Jackson will tell you that her sister believed the person who was blackmailing her to be resident in one of these flats. She did not disclose this person's identity, but she was determined not only to free herself but to punish the blackmailer. With this end in view she secured a post in one of the flats for a girl with whom she had been friendly in the past, and who was peculiarly qualified to assist her. I refer to Mrs. Underwood's maid, Ivy Lord. This girl had been an acrobat, she was devoted to Carola Roland, and she had a useful reputation for walking in her sleep. At Miss Roland's instigation Ivy got out of her window at night and pursued certain investigations."

Miss Crane said, "Dear, dear—how unpleasant!"

"One day Ivy brought Miss Roland a letter which gave her the evidence she required. It was the answer from one of the blackmailers' victims to a demand for money. With Ivy's testimony as to where it had been found, it afforded conclusive proof of the blackmailer's identity. But Carola Roland had no idea of prosecuting. She thought she could make a good bargain for herself and get the upper hand. She communicated with the blackmailer, and a meeting was arranged for Wednesday evening at approximately 8:45.

"It will be remembered that Miss Garside was still somewhere in the flat at this time—probably in the bathroom, as a ring belonging to her was subsequently found there. She did not wish to be seen, and was waiting for a chance to get away unobserved. Miss Roland, awaiting her visitor in some excitement, probably had the sitting room door ajar, if not wide open. She might have walked to and fro between the sitting room and the hall. She might have been expecting that the bell would ring. Or she might have known that her visitor would come by another way."

"What way?" Giles Armitage asked the question which was in every one's mind.

"By the fire escape, and the window," said Miss Silver. "And that, I believe, was in fact the way by which the murderer came. The sash was lifted, the blackmailer admitted, some talk perhaps followed. After which Miss Roland turned toward the table which stood on the window side of the room. She may have been going to produce the compromising letter. We do not know, but that is a reasonable conjecture. As soon as her back was turned the blackmailer caught up that little silver figure which you see on the mantelpiece and struck the fatal blow. It makes a very dangerous weapon. The head and bust are easy to grip, the pointed foot is sharp, and the blow would have the weight of the base behind it."

"Dropping the figure upon the couch, the murderer went to the door of the flat and set it ajar, as widening the field of suspicion. Miss Garside, I think, had already gone. She may have heard the blow and the fall, or she may have slipped away as soon as the sitting room door was shut. There is an uncertainty upon this point which can never be cleared up. This uncertainty was shared by the murderer—and murderers cannot afford this kind of uncertainty. Miss Garside was found dead last night after having received a visit from a smartly dressed woman with conspicuous fair hair. This woman was seen coming out of Miss Garside's flat and her appearance noticed and described. There is reason to suppose that Miss Garside was having tea when her visitor arrived. I do not know how she explained herself, but I am convinced that she found an opportunity of introducing strong morphia tablets into Miss Garside's tea. The affair was very cleverly planned, and arranged to look like a suicide, but circumstantial evidence pointing to murder is now forthcoming."

Meade and Giles walked slowly down the street.

Miss Crane Makes a Move to Leave

As she spoke, Lamb sat with an elbow on the arm of his chair, a big hand propping his chin, his face heavy and expressionless.

Miss Crane said, "Dear me!" in a very interested manner. Then she heaved a sigh and got to her feet. "You make it so very interesting—you do indeed," she said in the husky voice which always seemed a little short of breath. "You must come and have tea with me and tell me all about it. But I must go now. Packer will be busy with the evening meal, and we do not like to leave Mrs. Meredith alone."

"Just a moment," said Miss Silver. "I was going to ask you a question about Tunbridge Wells. Mrs. Meredith used to live there, did she not?"

Miss Crane had her foolish smile.

"Now who could have told you that?"

"She used to talk about the Pantiles and the Toad Rock when she first came here, did she not—and about her house on Mount Pleasant? To any one who has ever been in Tunbridge Wells——"

Miss Crane laughed her giggling laugh.

"O dear—how clever you are! I should never have thought of that!"

"No," said Miss Silver. "You were not with Mrs. Meredith then, I think? You have not in fact been with her for very long, have you?"

Miss Crane stopped laughing. She looked puzzled and concerned.

"I don't understand. No, really. There is no secret about it all. O, none at all. A very dear cousin of mine was with Mrs. Meredith for many, many years. When she died I was only too pleased to take her place. I am sure I have tried to make up for her loss in every way. You will not ask me to neglect her now, will you? I really must be going."

She began to move toward the door. She still had the large white handkerchief in her hand. Giles Armitage, who had risen when she did, walked beside her. She lifted the handkerchief to her eyes for a moment, and then, still holding it, her hand went down into the pocket of the drab raincoat and there remained, gripped and held by Giles.

In a flash she twisted to free herself, and with such a sudden trick of the muscles that she was almost out of his grip.

It was Miss Silver who caught the other wrist and held on to it till Frank Abbott got there. There were some horrible moments. Meade sickened and shut her eyes. A woman struggling with men—three of them trying to hold her—horrible!

Fierce panting breath. The men's feet scuffing on Carola's blue carpet. And then the sound of a shot.

Meade opened terrified eyes, got to her feet, and felt the floor tilt under them. Giles—the shot—Giles! And then what had been a swaying, struggling group resolved itself, and she saw him.

Giles was still holding Miss Crane by the wrist, but she was falling back, limp and pale, between Sgt. Abbott and the chief inspector. A small automatic pistol lay where it had fallen at Giles' feet. As Meade looked, he hooked it dexterously and kicked it away. Mrs. Underwood screamed on a high, shrill note, but whether this came first or next, Meade never was quite sure, because at the time everything seemed to happen together—Mr. Willard saying in a horrified voice, "She has shot herself"; Miss Crane sagging against the two men, her head hanging, her eyes fixed, her pale mouth horribly open; Mabel Underwood's scream; and then Miss Crane suddenly, galvanically in action again.

There was a yelp from Lamb as the hand which was holding her was bitten almost to the bone. With a violent twist she was free and with a single spring had reached the open window.

Giles and Sgt. Abbott reached it too, but not in time. Desperate

on the Aisle

by Claudia Cassidy

ACCORDING to Désiré Defauw, who is in town to take over the 53d season of Chicago Symphony orchestra concerts, the conductor spent the late summer in the Canadian north woods, taking long walks and composing for us programs which he classifies as fireworks, pyramids, and bouquets. Mr. Defauw explains, and he certainly had to clear things up for me, that "the fireworks are programs made up of opposites; the pyramids, of works of towering grandeur, such as Beethoven, Bach, and Brahms; the bouquets, a blending of harmony." Considering that the first program holds Handel, Beethoven, and Strauss, plus the Stock transcription of the Schubert String Quintet, just how do you describe it? Handel and Beethoven might constitute a pyramid, but Strauss turns them into fireworks, and surely Schubert mixes the whole thing into a bouquet.

Conductor Prepares for Orchestra Season

But Mr. Defauw puts his trust in our understanding, and gravely goes on to say why: "After the concerts which I have conducted in Chicago and at Ravinia, I already feel a link with Chicago audiences. They have musical backbone and immense appreciation. The programs which are planned for them during the 53d season are each symphonies in themselves. Each work has an inspired place for itself on the program. This has meant much thought and will mean a great deal of hard work, but I feel that nothing is too good for Chicago audiences, just as nothing is too good for a close friend."

Now I may be wrong about this, Mr. Defauw, but I suspect that you misunderstand us. I might even go so far as to say you underestimate us. We have taken the best for granted for a good many years, and we need no reassurance about our taste or our deserts. We need to be reassured, quickly, about what we are going to get.

"Dark Eyes" Brings Out the Russian.

"Dark Eyes" is bringing out the Russian in me, as I brood over the other notices and wish I could have had as much fun at the Selwyn as my chivalrous friends, the critics, who plastered it with enviable adjectives and seemed not to notice what to me were vast stretches, not of Russian steppes, but American boredom, nor to share my terrible fear that any minute now the whole farce was going to fall flat on its face. Somehow, I had made up my mind in advance that this highly touted prank was going to be a kind of "The Three Sisters" spoofed in the style of "You Can't Take It With You," and brushed with the sheen of "Tovarich." Nice going, if you could get it.

And another thing is preying on my mind. Elena Miramova, a delightful actress and a not quite so alluring co-author, says that writing plays is easy for her because she can act out a scene and tell if it will go on the stage. "Because I had acted so many scenes on the stage in other authors' plays," she explains, "I had gained a sense of how to build up suspense, how to write a scene that would lead to an exciting climax. In almost every case, too, I could tell what lines would be funny to an audience. How other playwrights manage without stage experience, I can't imagine."

Well, Miss Miramova, you take Shaw and Sherwood, and O'Neill and Behrman, or maybe Lonsdale and Hellman, as samples. Miss Miramova, they get along fine.

Ask for the Big House.

Strange as that billing looks, it's right. When Paul Draper and Larry Adler come back to town next Sunday afternoon, they will be at the Civic Opera house, not at the little Civic, their accustomed abode. When I first heard of this, I thought it might be because of conflict with the now postponed "Janie," but Harry Zelzer said no, the boys asked for the big house. Must be in on a percentage. Probably you know all about these two, with their unique flair for invading the classics with strange instruments, namely Mr. Draper's tap dancing feet and Mr. Adler's harmonica. They work separately and together, and they are quite a lot of fun, in addition to being remarkable. Mr. Adler, lately a correspondent from the war zones, scrambled into show business by two routes. He won a harmonica contest playing a Beethoven minuet, and he got a job in a show because he looks like Eddie Cantor. Since those days he has made the mouth organ a luxurious instrument.

Paul Draper.

Mr. Draper was a redhaired boy who stuttered in what must have been uncommonly articulate surroundings. His father was Paul Draper, the lieder singer; his mother, Muriel Draper, the writer. His aunt is Ruth Draper, a theater in herself. He developed his own style, which blends acrobatic taps with the classic ballet, and the years have found him as likely to dance Bach in a supper club as to tackle Scarlatti at a concert.

Miss Barrymore Has Clear Field.

Remember, months ago, when Bette Davis was supposed to film "The Corn Is Green" right after "Watch On the Rhine"? Warner's had a Nov. 26, 1943, release date for the picture, which indicated that Ethel Barrymore had better get her touring done before she struck competition at lower prices. But it turns out now that the picture hasn't even been scheduled for production, and Miss Barrymore has a clear field in her greatest hit in more years than most playgoers remember. This season she will play 90 cities, including, of course, our return engagement of four Studebaker weeks, opening Nov. 8. The 1942 engagement of eight weeks closed in the face of capacity business, to complete the season's tour.

A German Anecdote.

Did you happen to see, in last week's news columns, the anecdote about Furtwängler and Field Marshal Von Bock, quoted from Fredborg's book, "Behind the Steel Wall"? The conductor asked the field marshal, "Why were you dismissed?" and the field marshal replied, "My dear Furtwängler, if the feuhrer had been able to play the harmonica you would have been dismissed as conductor." No offense, Mr. Adler.

'The Girl from Sandjak' Billed at Blackstone

Alexander Savine's Serbian-American opera, "The Girl from Sandjak," will be given its world premiere this afternoon at the Blackstone theater at 3. Mr. Savine has written the text as well as the music and the lyrics are by Lillian Blauvelt, who is Mme. Savine in private life. The work is said to be the first Serbian music drama produced in the United States. The background of the opera is the fate of the Serbs and other inhabitants of the province of Sandjak under Turkish rule in 1890. The love of a young American engineer for a native girl forms the basis of the plot and the music freely employs Serbian and Macedonian folk songs. The cast consists of Valerie Glowacki, soprano; Helen Beatty, contralto; Manuel Baroumis, tenor, and Algerd Brazis, baritone. Rudolph Ganz will be the conductor.

Anne Kaskas, contralto of the Metropolitan opera, and Ralph Jusko, bass, will give a recital in the Civic Opera house today at 3:30. Miss Kaskas will sing an aria from Gluck's "Orfeo," songs by Poulenc, Fauré, Georges, Tschaikowsky, Russel, Paxson, and Hageman, as well as a group of Lithuanian songs. Mr. Jusko will be heard in two Handel arias, songs by Brahms and Wolf, a Lithuanian group, and will join Miss Kaskas in the duet from the third act of "La Gioconda." The performance is for the benefit of the Marian Fathers.

The musical portion of the Four Freedoms Rally, to be held at Orchestra hall this afternoon at 3 under the sponsorship of the Chicago Urban league, will be presented by Aubrey Pankey, Negro baritone, and Marienne Jeffrey, organist. Mr. Pankey recently returned from an eight months' good will tour of South America, said to be the first of its kind to be undertaken by a Negro. Miss Jeffrey is the organist at Monumental Baptist church.

Bertha Ott will open her season with a recital by Vivian Abell, soprano, at Kimball hall on Sunday, Oct. 17. This will be followed by the first of a series of Brahms recitals by Laura Stroud Bartsch, pianist, on Nov. 28. Other events will include the Roth String Quartet on Jan. 23 and recitals by winners of the Society of American Musicians' contests.

Notes of Music and Musicians

By Albert Goldberg

"Music for You" is the title of a series of four discussion programs to be sponsored by the Abraham Lincoln school. Rudolph Ganz will act as moderator of the first program, a symposium on "Music in Our Changing Society," to be held at Thorne hall on Oct. 25. Other participants in this program will be Olga Samaroff-Stokowski, pianist and educator, and Lehman Engel, musician 1st class, USNR, director of the Great Lakes Naval Training Station band and former choral conductor and composer. Remaining events will consist of a program of "Music of Free European Composers," with Remi Gassman as chairman, and programs of American and Russian music, with Cecil Smith and Hans Rosenwald as discussion leaders. Performing artists will include Ida Krehm, Thaddeus Kozuch, and Wanda Paul, pianists; David Moll, violinist; Shepherd Lehnhoff, violist; Jenska Slebos, and Karl Fruh, cellists; Hans Alten, baritone, and Napoleon Reed, tenor. Proceeds will be devoted to the Armed Forces Master Record fund and the music section of the Abraham Lincoln school.

The Chicago Woman's Aid will open its 61st season's activities with a concert by the Russian Trio in the 5th floor auditorium of the Medical and Dental Arts building on Tuesday at 2. Jan Tomasow, South American violinist, replaces Michael Wilkomirski in the trio, with Nina Mesirow-Minchin and Ennio Bolognini continuing as pianist and cellist. The program will consist of Schubert's Trio in B-flat, Opus 99, and the Trio by Gaspar Cassado. Désiré Defauw, conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, will be guest of honor.

The Chicago Sunday Evening club will open its 37th season tonight in Orchestra hall. The choir of 125 will be under the direction of Edgar Nelson and the soloists will be Elizabeth Brown, contralto; Charles Sears, tenor, and Mark Love, bass.

The South Side Symphony orchestra is resuming rehearsals on Monday evenings in the gymnasium of St. Paul's Episcopal church in preparation for its second season. Public concerts will be presented at various community centers as invitational events or as benefits for war service organizations and welfare agencies. Now composed only of strings, the orchestra plans to augment the personnel to symphonic proportions. Irwin Fischer continues as conductor.

Frieda Hempel, one time Metropolitan Opera soprano, will emerge from a two year retirement to give a New York recital next week.

IN 'RODEO'

'The Student Prince' Opens at Erlanger Tomorrow

Ninth Chicago Production Has a New Kathie

By Claudia Cassidy.

Possibly there is no crafty connection, but the Erlanger booking of "The Student Prince" right on the echo of Sigmund Romberg's concerts suggests a neat nudge in the direction of royalties. One of the most persuasive of all the composer's melodious gestures was the reminiscent ramble thru the lovely score he lavished on the tale of the prince who tried to be a boy at Heidelberg, and on the way out of Orchestra hall I heard a man say, "That settles it. I'll have to see 'The Student Prince.'"

You wouldn't think he could have missed it all these years, would you? Because, as I figure it, this will be at least the ninth Chicago engagement, and the first one lasted 59 weeks at the Great Northern in the days when the sturdy old house was no theatrical backstreet, but a fragrant thorofare of melody. Some of the productions since then have gone pretty sadly downhill, and just a few weeks ago the Shuberts barred a New York critic who referred to a recent "Student Prince" as a "shoddy revival." That may have been the truth, but it was scarcely news. Many of the revivals have been shoddy, down at heel versions of an indestructible operetta that deserves better treatment. "The Student Prince" is worth the meticulous brilliance bestowed by Ziegfeld on "Show Boat."

Yet tho the owners too often have taken a valuable property carelessly for granted, while critics fulminate in vain, the musical keeps right on trading Romberg's melodies for the coin of the realm. The production, which comes to the Erlanger theater tomorrow night, opened last Oct. 12 in Cleveland and is booked solidly thru the last week in May. Several cast changes have been made since its February sojourn at the Selwyn, notably the newcomer, Laurel Hurley, as Kathie, replacing Barbara Scully, the delightful youngster now singing "Blossom Time" in New York with Alexander Gray and Roy Cropper, the latter the original "Prince" in Chicago. There also is a pretty new princess, Gloria Hope, who sang for a time with Ray Heatherton's orchestra, and the list no longer holds Ann Pennington, once the town's toast of the dimpled knees, who had bobbed up embarrassingly as Gretchen.

Meanwhile, this is a vintage year for Romberg, whose concerts are riding as high at the box office as his operettas. The story is that the major bookers were afraid to touch his venture, and now wish they had. If my ears were accurately tuned in on the Romberg accent, the composer has played 142 concerts since January, and has 125 to go. "Music in the middle register," he calls these curious programs whose only criterion is melody, and he defines that as music the jazz orchestras would consider highbrow, and the symphony orchestras, lowbrow. Corny is more nearly the word in both cases, but no one denies the vast popular appeal of such lush lingering over tunes, even when much of it is handicapped by appallingly rococo arrangements.

Just two more things—an inquiry and an apology—before we leave the Romberg front. The inquiry is this: Just how, Mr. Romberg, did you get by with leaving Franz Schubert's name out of the "Blossom Time" credits? Didn't he have something to do with the score? The apology is this: I reported at the opening concert that I saw Marthe Errolle duck in the stage door with a tulle dress clutched in her hand. That was no dress, that was a petticoat. A ruffled one, very chic, that made its sole public appearance of the evening when Miss Errolle swirled the wide white satin skirt of her picture gown. It must have been the way she looked in that dress that made puckish Mr. Romberg remark, "I know a good voice when I see one."

IN ROMBERG OPERETTA

Everett Marshall, Laurel Hurley and Frank Hornaday (left to right) who will be singing the leading roles when "The Student Prince" opens at the Erlanger tomorrow night. The two men are veterans of Romberg operettas, but Miss Hurley is a brand new Kathie—in fact, a brand new actress just trying on Cinderella's slipper.

Drama Notes

More or less recently added to the old Chicago families resident in the Blackstone's "Good Night Ladies" is handsome Gloria Humphries, who deserves a minor niche in the hall of fame for extraordinary behavior in the face of winning a beauty contest. In fact, three beauty contests. Miss Humphries did not at once embark for Hollywood, but joined a Massachusetts stock company, hoping to learn her acting trade. True, she backslid long enough to pose for fashion magazines and to submit to gargantuan glamorization at the hands of Billy Rose, but those are things only to be expected of a girl who is both "Miss Massachusetts" and the owner of the most beautiful hands discovered in a modeling contest.

The return of Tamara Geva, not here since the nights of "Three's A Crowd," is one of the gayer facts about the Selwyn's "Dark Eyes," despite the determination of the faithful to mourn the loss of Leontovich, who inexplicably deserted her beloved Chicago to return to Hollywood where she is less a brilliant actress than the wife of Gregory Ratoff. Miss Geva has had one of those careers you could write a novel about. Born in Leningrad, she studied ballet on famous Theater street, and soon was dancing with Danilova in a company organized by Balanchine, whom she married. Briefly with Diaghileff—"it did not agree with me," she reports cryptically—she came to this country with lamented Nikita Balieff in his "Chauve Souris." Florenz Ziegfeld captured her for "Whoopee," starring Eddie Cantor, and then as her English improved she added speaking to dancing in "Three's A Crowd," "Flying Colors," and "On Your Toes." Before "Dark Eyes," her major nondancing engagement was in the London production of "Idiot's Delight," playing the Lynn Fontanne role opposite Raymond Massey. Her last motion picture was "Night Plane to Chungking." Just before France was invaded, Miss Geva had sold Courtney Burr an adaptation of Sacha Guitry's play, "The Illusionist," which was shelved. She hopes it can be done after the war, and in the meantime she is making notes for another play.

So many ambitious amateurs turned out for tryouts with the Actors Company's creative theater that an additional audition date has been set for Wednesday evening, starting at 7 o'clock, room 931, Kimball building. The training group under the direction of Minnie Galatzer will stage its first production at Forester theater Nov. 10 when it offers "Weep for the Virgins," by Nellise Child. The play was originally staged by the Group theater with John Garfield.

Novel Breathes Grim Drama of Donners' Fate in Sierras

"THE MOTHERS," by Vardis Fisher. [Vanguard, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Paul Engle.

In the summer of 1846 several emigrant families crossing the plains to California decided to attempt a short cut south of the main route to Fort Hall, by way of the Wasatch mountains, Salt Lake, and the sinks and sands of Nevada. They were delayed so long in the unmarked Utah mountains that it was late autumn before they reached the Sierras. As they began the rough ascent up the Truckee, snow began to fall and within a few miles of the crest they were trapped.

The 80-odd people, from tiny children to old men, dug into the snow, erected frail shelters, and waited with unskilled efforts and desperate hope for relief. That relief could only come from one of their number whom they had banished on the desert for killing a man who had attacked him. Because the most numerous family was named Donner, the whole expedition came to be called the Donner party.

The history of the suffering of those who organized parties to fight thru the great drifts to Sutter's fort on the Sacramento, and of those who remained to rot and starve in the foul cabins under the marvelous white snow, is one of the great memorials of our western history. It is so impressive in its recital of human courage, so dark with its admission of human fear and meanness, so shining with the hope and fortitude of children, so full of the absolute variety of human character, that it should either be left alone or treated only with the care and sympathy and power and clarity of actions tragic to the utmost.

This novel is NOT such a treatment. It gives an air of haste, as if the historical material had been too rapidly absorbed and too casually written. It begins shakily, as if floundering for a narrative direction. Only when it begins recounting the efforts of the first party to leave Donner lake and cross over the mountains does it improve in directness and interest. And there all the writer need do is tell the plain fact plainly. The material is so dramatic and so appalling that it sustains itself.

Vardis Fisher.

The author has not intruded a false rhetoric on the story, but he has certainly not enriched it. The conversation of the people in particular is dull, forced, unreal, inadequate. Did two people in 1846 in the middle of the desert really talk like this?

"When we cross the Sierras we'll both fill our notebooks."

"The Sierras! They'll be a botanist's playground."

"In the fall! They'll be glorious when we cross."

"I'll botanize and you can paint."

Fisher never makes an attempt to build up suspense. From the first he warns about the danger of being caught in the snow and inserts remarks as unimpressive and flat as "Never had a group of frightened emigrants, lost upon the broad face of a continent, stood in such dire need of an able and resourceful leader."

Yet no feebleness of narrative can corrupt the vigor and violence of this winter's tale. The spectacle of men and women and children living on a few ox hides high in the immense peaks, with the snow gripping them like a strange animal of deceptive softness and staggering size, pushes thru the writing. Toward the end, when you can smell desperation rising with the rotten air of the shelters, the book does accumulate power. It is to Fisher's credit that, for the most part, he lets the story tell itself without attempting elaboration.

There is an earlier account of the Donner party by George Stewart [1936], the author of "Storm," which begins with the crossing of the Wasatch mountains and includes the rescue efforts from the California side. It is, on the whole, a more interesting book because less sentimental, more filled with fact, more full of excitement as the reader watches the men from California working east over the snow. In Fisher's book the rescue parties receive little attention and it is a loss, for the taking out of the children on the backs of men, most of them strangers, is one of the emotionally powerful aspects of the whole story.

Yet for those who do not know the Stewart book, I can recommend this one. The hush of the thin mountain air, Eddy's fight with the grizzly, Tamsen Donner's incredible loyalty to her husband, all are here. And Fisher has properly taken the faith and force of the women as the one most completely effective moral of the history. Men went into the mountains to rescue others, knowing that their own wife and children were dead. But it was the women who fought with bare and shriveled hands against the rock and cold and snow and the white death for the sake of the little forms half alive in the stinking pits under the grim drifts.

'Red Raskall' Glowing Tale of Adventure

"RED RASKALL" by Clark McMeekin. [Appleton-Century, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Arthur Frederic Otis.

Two talented women of the bluegrass country have turned out a workmanlike job in "Red Raskall." Or didn't you know that Clark McMeekin is the pen name of two collaborators, Dorothy Park Clark and Isabel McLennan McMeekin, whose first novel, "Show Me a Land," rode high in the best seller lists in 1940?

Red Raskall was a horse—and what a horse! In 1816 this horse was shipped on the barkentine Tempora, out of Liverpool for Norfolk, Virginia, America.

On the same ship rode Lark Shannon, 18, lovely, and orphaned, to join David North, the man of her choice, in the New World. But the Tempora was wrecked in a storm off the coast of Maryland, and Lark and Red Raskall were washed up on the shore of Ghost Island.

Lark's rescue by Galt Withe, a bound boy, her terrifying experience with the captain of a "blackbirder," and her escape, with Galt and the horse, to Norfolk, make grand reading. There's choking suspense in generous measure, and a realistic handling of background detail which indicates painstaking research.

And maybe this is an old-fashioned thought, but it's gratifying to this reviewer to find a story that can be passed on to a 15 year old daughter for reading. So few novels can be, these days. "Red Raskall" is clean as a hound's tooth.

Twice Changed.

The Henry Holt company has announced that Ernie Pyle's book, first entitled "With the Yanks in Africa," then changed to "I Wish You Could Have Been There," has been changed again to the final title of "Here Is Your War."

AMONG THE AUTHORS

By Frederic Babcock.

AT LAST a book editor is going to have an opportunity to say what he thinks about authors, instead of vice versa. . . . Ferris Greenslet, recently retired as editor of Houghton Mifflin, has written his autobiography under the title, "Under the Bridge," and the sub-title is, "With Many Authors and Few Fish." . . . The book is reported to be full of pithy comments on outstanding figures in American and English publishing and writing in the last 30 years. . . . It includes stories about such divergent personalities as Viscount Grey, Henry Adams, Willa Cather, Amy Lowell, and John Buchan. . . . A long-time angler, Mr. Greenslet has fished, often with literary companionship, all over Europe and America. . . . His life story will be published this fall. . . . Another Houghton Mifflin author, Lloyd C. Douglas, in Chicago to address the Sunday Evening club tonight, lets it be known that his next novel probably will be about Simon Peter—another great fisherman.

Every once in a while somebody makes a literary discovery—or thinks he does. . . . Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review of Literature, is currently enthusing over Cleo Dawson's "She Came to the Valley," to be published this week by William Morrow. . . . Miss Dawson [her real name is Mrs. Cleo Dawson Smith] was reared in Mission, Tex., and most of her novel is laid in that Rio Grande valley town. . . . She is now working on her doctor's degree at the University of Kentucky. . . . Mr. Cousins has sent her this message: "Please believe me when I say that you have written an important American novel—something that comes as close to being an American 'Good Earth' as anything I have ever read. It is the type of thing that is written with such sincerity and feeling that the reader identifies himself with the characters long after he has put down the book. . . . I don't know when I have been so impressed. . . . I have taken the liberty of blowing a big trumpet for the book to such critics as Harry Hansen, Orville Prescott, and Lewis Gannett. I know you won't let them down."

Of course you know that the largest single steel producing unit in the British commonwealth is in India [neither did we]. . . . It is the Tata Steel and Iron company of Bombay. . . . John L. Keenan, an American who has been a Tata executive for 25 years, has written, in collaboration with Lenore Sorsby, a lusty story of his experiences there. . . . It's called "A Steel Man in India," and it will be published this month by Duell, Sloan and Pearce. . . . In his introduction to the book Louis Bromfield relates: "Lustiest of all the engineers was Keenan. A big Irishman, he liked people and whiskey and horse racing, and, most important of all, he liked Indians. . . . He could talk a mile a minute and was a great story teller. He told stories better than any one I ever met."

Have you ever laid aside a book with the announcement: "I wasn't able to read more than a dozen pages"? . . . That's what Max Mann hopes you will say about his "Put Yourself to Sleep," to be issued tomorrow by the Garden City Publishing company. . . . As you might guess, it's a practical, tested way of combatting insomnia. . . . Mr. Mann, business man and psychologist, for years has experimented with methods for conquering the sleeplessness which tortures thousands of persons. . . . He claims he has found the right one—and it doesn't involve the use of drugs. . . . As you might also guess, this slumber specialist's book was designed for reading in bed. . . . Pleasant dreams!

Critic Makes His Pick for History Prize

"THE GROWTH OF AMERICAN THOUGHT," by Merle Curti. [Harpers, $5.].

"THE REPUBLIC," by Charles A. Beard. [Viking, $3.]

Reviewed by Tremaine McDowell.

For the next Pulitzer prize in American history, I nominate "The Growth of American Thought." It has been 16 years since a book of this stature has appeared. In 1927 Charles and Mary Beard published that American classic, "The Rise of American Civilization," and Vernon Parrington simultaneously published the first volume of a second classic, "Main Currents in American Thought." Now Merle Curti has written a third.

Charles A. Beard.

As the Beards were then concerned with all aspects of social history, their scattered chapters on American thought were mere preliminary sketches for Curti's monumental work. Even tho Parrington analyzed general trends with great brilliance, he gave even more attention to the ideas of individual Americans. Curti, therefore, is the first historian adequately to record the whole broad pattern of the American mind.

An account of "The Growth of American Thought" is an account of difficult problems solved by a skilful author. Succinctly he enumerates the cultural bequests of the old world to the new and then charts thru three centuries the development of those ideas which we call American—how they were nurtured and how repressed, how they have shaped our way of life. With a fine sense of proportion and perspective, he analyzes the beliefs and doctrines which in turn dominated the successive periods of our national history, from Jamestown to the present World war. The total result is a magnificent collection of separate histories [histories of religion and education, liberty and nationalism, aristocracy and democracy, pragmatism and naturalism, and that multitude of "isms" which together make the American way] integrated in one great whole.

Mr. Curti, it should now be evident, has an uncommon gift for organization. No one can marshal facts and opinions as he does without a prodigious and well disciplined card file of data and an equally well disciplined memory. He likewise has an unusual capacity for choosing appropriate particulars to illuminate his generalizations—particulars which save his book from becoming a catalog of abstractions and make it a vivid human document. He chooses quotations with equal skill—and never quotes so frequently that the reader falls into the evil habit of skipping. Mr. Curti, finally, writes with simplicity and clarity.

A. E. Lloyd, whose novel, "This Was Their Land," was published recently by Harper.

Specialists, it is possible, may discover a few minor errors of fact in a work which covers as much territory as does this history. And laymen, particularly those of the conservative persuasion, will not always agree with interpretations of fact. Such criticisms are beside the point. What matters is the essential accuracy of the book as an all-inclusive panorama of American thought.

Mr. Curti in the main takes an impersonal attitude toward American thinkers. It eventually becomes clear, however, that his approval goes to those who live in an open, not a closed, universe and who interpret America in the terms of an unfinished experiment rather than an accomplished fact. Implicit in the whole book is a sober confidence that the American mind, even tho it may veer and tack from right to left and back again like a ship driven by passing gales, has moved slowly yet appreciably toward a more complete and literal acceptance of democracy and all its implications.

The restrained tone and resolute avoidance of emotion and rhetoric are well exemplified in the last paragraph. There, with the detachment of the scholar, he admits that our faith in democracy may not survive in a world torn by the problem of power, a world in which reason and force are struggling for victory or at least for equilibrium. The strength of totalitarianism must be recognized both in its fully developed form abroad and in its incipient form at home. And yet, he adds, the American people, when they recall the pressing issues with which they have dealt successfully in their long past, are justified in entertaining hope, if not optimism, in the midst of global war.

In "The Republic" Charles Beard participates in more or less Socratic dialogs with Mr. Smyth, Dr. Blyn, Sen. Tessell, and further imaginary friends. They debate such questions as these: Is the United States in truth one nation? How free is speech? Can and should the Supreme court make laws? How far should government invade the domain of business?

For certain readers this type of popularization will have its appeal. Others will conclude that the dean of American historians takes on too heavy an assignment when he sets out simultaneously to create characters, write dialog, and interpret the affairs of the republic. Perhaps this is the book for some one with whom you play golf or bridge. As for yourself, read Curti on American thought.

Provocative Prose on the United States

against man's physical suffering. In it are the beginnings of the American Revolution, a revolution which, Mr. Peattie says, did not end with Yorktown, but has gone on to this day, will go on; a revolution which was made by "a new kind of man in the world." For, says the author, even "those of us who came to this country began to be Americans before they got here, or they wouldn't have come in the first place."

Here are the great scouts of American history who opened up the way to the west. "With us, the scout is more beloved than the purely military hero," he says; "you praise a man heartily when you dub him a good scout. That means he'll stand by you if you're in trouble. . . . It means he sees his way ahead, and will lead those who depend on him. It means he'll fight it out only if that's what it has come to, and fight clean."

Here are boys from every part of today's great United States whose forbears were 13 separate little states which it took a radical political dreamer named Tom Paine to think of as the United States of America. "Here is Sgt. Giuseppe Cimini, from Assisi and Joysey City, who earnestly will tell you that nobody born in this country can really appreciate it."

Mr. Peattie appreciates America, makes you appreciate it too. And he makes you think about it as well as appreciate it. "I've said that there were three great movements in American history," he writes almost at the end of the book, which purportedly was written to make his friend, an anti-Nazi German whom he may never see again, understand a country and a people that that unhappy man has never seen.

Those three great movements are "our westward push, our democratic revolution, our melting of many races into one nation," he says, but "we are beginning to be conscious of a fourth. It is the movement in which those service men are marching toward the future. . . . This fourth and most titanic movement in our history is that which convulses the world, but, because of the standard we raised when we raised our nation, we cannot escape a leader's role in it. For we are the people who declared that all men are created equal."

"I have always believed in writing the shortest, rather than the longest, book into which one's subject will go," says Mr. Peattie. His big subject fits, like a mailed fist in a velvet glove, into 276 pages of provocative prose.

Card Shark.

Mickey MacDougall, author of "Danger in the Cards," to be released by Ziff-Davis Nov. 18, has been working for naval intelligence in exposing sharpers among inductees. The procedure is for him to report for "induction," make the trip to the camp, and keep his eyes and ears open, joining whatever games spring up and reporting any instances of cheating. He says the number of such instances is negligible.

BOOKMAN'S HOLIDAY

By Charles Collins.

"The historic city of Melfi, birthplace of Horace, also fell." [Dispatch from allied headquarters.]

THIS column's books say that Horace, Latin literature's gift to journalists and parliamentarians, was born in a town named Venusia, now Venosa, which seems to be right around the corner from Melfi. Both places are on the slopes of the same mountain; both are described briefly in the Britannica; both boast of Norman ruins. There is a fat handful of references to the region in Horace's poems.

We bring up this matter because of the Horace cult that flourished among American columnists before they began to peek thru keyholes in New York and eavesdrop in the marble halls of Washington. In the good old days the best columnist was the man who could turn out the most amusing rhymed paraphrase of a Horatian ode in the shortest space of time. Eugene Field was much given to such paraphrases, often in the vulgar speech of the streets and town. Bert Leston Taylor [B. L. T. of the Line o' Type column] followed Field's example, but there is reason to believe that he could not conjugate amo, amas, amat. He probably based his work on earlier paraphrasers. He had a contributor named Payson Sibley Wild, however, who was a first degree classical scholar, and whenever "Ferus," as he signed himself, converted Horace into the vernacular, THE TRIBUNE's readers could be sure that the stuff came fresh from the Bandusian spring. Franklin P. Adams has carried this tradition up to the present, and many excellent renderings of Horace into English can be found in the books of verse that have been compiled from his columns. He can read the odes in the original, and thus is a credit to the Latin teachers at the old South Division High school of Chicago.

Several weeks ago or more we spoke of the famous book fairs at Leipzig, the publishing center of Germany, and expressed a hope that Chicago, the printing center of the United States, would eventually achieve such an exhibition. We have discovered that there has been one book fair in Chicago and, curiously enough, it was German. It was held in office space in the Burnham building, then new, as a side show to the annual meeting of the American Library association, headquartered one block distant in the Hotel Sherman. The time: Jan. 1 to 15, 1925.

This exhibition of 10,000 volumes was a good will affair of the German Publishers' association, and in its organization Dr. Edmund Schueler of the German republic's foreign office played a leading role. The committee of Chicago patrons included: Theodore W. Koch, chairman; Clement W. Andrews, Carl Beck, Karl Eitel, Louis Guenzel, Herman Hachmeister, J. C. M. Hanson, James Taft Hatfield, Adolph Kroch, Walter Lichtenstein, Carl H. Milam, Paul F. Mueller, Carl B. Roden, Lessing Rosenthal, George L. Scherger, Ferdinand Schevill, Otto L. Schmidt, Martin Schuetze, and George B. Utley. A brochure called "Notes on the German Book Exhibit" was written by Koch and privately printed for presentation to the various exhibitors as a souvenir.

The Chicago chapter of the international brotherhood of Sherlock Holmes cultists, as yet unnamed, but employing a secret recognition gesture called "the sign of four," is grooming itself for another annual meeting. Its grand hierophant announces:

"There are many pleasant things to discuss: Christopher Morley's forthcoming textbook on Sherlock Holmes, Ellery Queen's anthology of the 'Misadventures,' and the newly discovered Sherlock Holmes story, which is quoted briefly but directly in the August number of the Strand magazine."

A Chicago auctioneer recently ran into a large private library in the course of his professional adventures. He was not familiar with the manias of book collectors, but he proved to be a quick pupil. Here is a stenographic report of his comment on that sale:

"The boys were taking papers and letters and things out of the books and throwing them into a waste basket. It must have been half full when I thought, 'Gee, those may have some value!' So I had them saved. One item was a letter torn in half, and, come to find out, one author had been sore at another author, and had written him this letter, and the second author got so sore that he tore it across after he had read it. Well, it seems that people who know about books know about all such incidents, and I ran that letter up to $46."

How large does a batch of household books have to be before it can be spoken of ceremoniously as "a private library?" Well, to be arbitrary, we would say 1,000 volumes. Anything less than that is merely a flock of books for the little woman to nag about and to threaten with abolition as a dust trap. But if you have only 10 books, and call them "my library," go ahead with this column's blessing. Of such is the Kingdom of Literature.

A trend toward compilations may be noted among the new books. We have grabbed three for inspection: "About Women," containing 21 short stories that reveal aspects of the Eternal Feminine [Tower Fiction]; "Box Office," containing 12 short stories that have had impressive movie versions [Ziff-Davis], and "The Torch of Freedom," dealing with 20 famous exiles, from Ovid to Stefan Zweig [Farrar & Rinehart].

The Gay Cartoons of J. R. Williams

"OUT OUR WAY," by J. R. Williams. [Scribners, $2.50.]

The rustic, amiable humor of the west that has made J. R. Williams' cowboy cartoons so popular is caught in this little collection. All the familiar ranch characters are there—even the dudes who make life unhappy for the buckaroos.

N. Y. Stage Suffers Acute Real Estate Shortage

Reviewer Also Notes a Dearth of Good Shows

By John Chapman.

NEW YORK—[Special].—The local stage is at the moment in a state of paradox. There are not enough good new shows, not for me, anyway, and there are not enough theaters to put them in if there were any. Particularly lacking are big houses for musical productions, and men like Billy Rose are running around with a wild look in the eye because they have no place to settle down. The only calm and happy people are the landlords, because the OPA hasn't got around to putting any ceiling on playhouse rentals.

Willie Howard.

Yet, as I say, there are not enough good new shows. Plays and musicals which would quickly die in ordinary times are making so much money that no stop-clause can force them out of a theater; so they stay on, even tho they may be preventing the showing of something that might be better. Ticket speculators are in clover and will continue to be, altho Paul Moss, the diligent license commissioner, has threatened to revoke brokers' licenses if they don't stick to their 75 cent advance. Current quotations on a $4.40 ducat to "Oklahoma!" range from $8.80 to $11.

In a second night curtain speech Albert Bein, co-author with his wife, Mary, of "Land of Fame," said that the critics had "missed the boat" in their not too praiseful estimates of the melodrama; he lugubriously added that the play might have to leave the Belasco theater at the end of its first week.

A similar fight is being waged by Willie Howard's "My Dear Public," which got one of the three worst critical pastings of the new season ["Try and Get It" and "The Snark Was a Boojum" being the other two] when it made its debut at the 46th Street theater.

The "My Dear Public" struggle is an interesting and courageous one. It involves trying to make a show good where it was bad before, bit by bit, from performance to performance; and this is almost as difficult a trick as repairing a flat tire at 35 miles an hour.

It also involves great hunks of money, which Producer Author Irving Caesar's backers are cheerfully putting up. I am informed that the plot and lines of "My Dear Public" have already been tightened and improved, and that the resourceful and wonderful clown, Willie Howard, has experimented with routines until he now has a set of stuff which causes his audiences to cheer him. And business is on the increase to such an extent that landlords can't invoke a stop-clause, as they were reported to be intending to do.

All of this is interesting, courageous and pleasing, but it doesn't prove I was wrong when I said I didn't like the show the opening night.

Broadway's real estate problem is illustrated in the plight Billy Rose sets forth in a letter to this desk, part of which will be quoted.

Billy Rose.

Mr. Rose has in rehearsal "Carmen Jones," a Negro adaptation of Bizet's "Carmen." The lineup for this production promises a fascinating show, for Oscar Hammerstein has done book and lyrics and Robert Russell Bennett the carpenter work on the Bizet score.

"I am," writes Billy Rose, "deliberately embarking on a theatrical venture which is not a good financial risk. For the first time in my life I am about to toss a couple of hundred thousand dollars into the air with the gesture of a man who doesn't care what happens to it. I am about to produce 'Carmen Jones' in as honest and sincere a production as I am capable of managing.

"And what happens? I can't find a theater.

"The theaters catering to city slickers simply refuse to let an old carnival man in. There is no free date in a good-sized Broadway house until a year come Michaelmas, and my show is already in rehearsal and a Philadelphia tryout is already booked.

"I called up the theater owners. They were very pleasant about it all. 'We will be delighted to do business with you,' they said.

"As an old time medicine man I am always suspicious of a pleasant reception. What, I wondered, was the gimmick? I soon found out.

"Under normal conditions, theater rentals for a large production are 30 per cent of the first $15,000, 25 per cent between $15,000 and $25,000, and a straight 25 per cent over $25,000. Those, for instance, are the terms that Buddy De Sylva paid on 'Panama Hattie' and 'Du Barry Was a Lady,' and that sum included the services of 21 stage hands and 16 musicians.

"Today, theater owners want 30 per cent of the gross up to $20,000, and 25 per cent over that. And they supply only 15 stage hands and 10 musicians. That makes a difference, to them, of about $1,500 a week. A tidy sum. One show not too long ago had to rent a house on a straight 50-50 basis, and one large musical due soon will pay 35 per cent up to $30,000.

"Well, I objected, I struggled, I writhed and I groaned over such terms. Finally I said, 'It's murder, but I'll pay it. What theater can I have?'

"And they told me I couldn't have any. Not yet. Not now. Leave my name and address.

Billy has even thought of keeping "Carmen Jones" on the road for an indefinite period until it can alight here, but in other cities the theater shortage is also acute. He tells me he'd like to try Chicago but can't find a home there.

Rose and others have thought of reclaiming the houses along 42d street, such fine places as the Great New Amsterdam, the Times Square, or the Apollo. But the operators who now have these theaters and are using them for 15 cent, tenth-run movies are not interested. The 15 cent movie business is just dandy, thank you, and goes on from year to year. Why risk losing a clientele, why risk losing a film-buying franchise, for a legitimate show? At best, it could only run a year.

MAESTRO

Art Kassel is the perennial favorite with the patrons at the New Walnut room in the Bismarck hotel, where his band is now playing for the umpteenth time.

Soloists Are Announced by Dayton Orchestra

The Dayton Philharmonic orchestra, under the direction of Paul Katz, announces its 11th season of seven concerts, to open Oct. 28 with Lawrence Tibbett, baritone, as soloist. Subsequent soloists are Sgt. Eugene List, pianist, Nov. 17; Margot Rebeil, soprano, Jan. 20; Nathan Milstein, violinist, Feb. 10, and Jose Echaniz, pianist, March. 2.

Notes of the Theater

One of the more elusive games played by a drama editor is the business of trying to find out what comes where, and when. Time was when Chicago had a handsome array of available theaters and plenty of shows to pack them. Now we face a theater famine, and we seldom know very far in advance what will be filling the theaters we possess. The way the picture looks now, "Kiss and Tell" and "Good Night Ladies" will continue in full possession of the Harris and the Blackstone. "Dark Eyes" will continue at the Selwyn thru Nov. 6, and will be replaced Nov. 7 or 8 by "Tomorrow the World."

"The Student Prince" will spend three weeks at the Erlanger until it is ousted Oct. 25 by the arrival of Constance Bennett in "Without Love," which in turn gives way Nov. 15 to "Oklahoma!" The Romberg operetta moves to the Studebaker for two additional weeks, until the arrival Nov. 8 of Ethel Barrymore in the return engagement of "The Corn Is Green."

"Janie" will delay its Civic theater opening a bit, perhaps until Oct. 16 or later, while Brook Pemberton gets the cast in shape. "The Waltz King" is almost a certainty for the Civic Opera house Nov. 1. At last word, contracts were shooting back and forth between the local management and the owners of the show, now in California.

"Maid, in the Ozarks" lists its last two weeks, but as yet has given out no plans for the Great Northern's next production. The addition of Harry Minturn to the staff suggested a revival of "The Swing Mikado," but it seems that many of the Negro cast are in service or in war plants. Meanwhile, several New York producers have been eyeing the spacious theater as a possible solution to their problem of booking shows in a crowded schedule.

"The Patriots," "Sons o' Fun," and the "Ziegfeld Follies" are lurking on the early 1944 horizon. The expected visit of "The Skin of Our Teeth" hangs on suitable replacement of Gladys George, third Sabina to succumb during the run of the play. John Golden is waiting for a theater before he makes any more plans about a Chicago showing of "Three's a Family." Many another New York and west coast producer is eying us speculatively with precisely the same idea.

Add to the proverbial generosity of actors the gesture just made in New York by the casts of 13 leading shows, which have volunteered a series of night-off dates to entertain men in service during the winter. This is an arrangement between U. S. O. camp shows and the theatrical unions, which will outline a program of entertainment to be presented in the eastern military area.

Nothing if not forehanded in its dealings with potential customers, "Kiss and Tell" presents its schedule of Harris performances for the holidays. There will be a matinée Thanksgiving day, but the Wednesday matinée of that week will be canceled. As both Christmas and New Year's day fall on Saturday this season, no extra matinées will be given, nor will there be a midnight show to welcome the New Year. The reason for all this reticence, as advanced by George Abbott, the producer, is the desire to preserve Clay Clement for posterity, as represented by future audiences. Mr. Clement, as you know, plays the proud papa of Corliss, the heroine, and is reduced to near apoplexy at least once at each performance.

Audrey Christie, who won special Chicago affection as sister Ruth in the original visit of "My Sister Eileen," will be the third of John Van Druten's characters in "The Voice of the Turtle." The others, signed long ago, are Margaret Sullavan and Elliott Nugent.

'HEAVEN CAN WAIT'

"Heaven Can Wait" is unreeling on the United Artists' screen. Gene Tierney and Don Ameche play the leads. Here they are.

"Dance Suite" to Get World Premiere Nov. 3

At the opening program of the National Symphony orchestra of Washington, D. C., on Nov. 3, Hans Kindler will conduct the world premiere of a "Dance Suite," by the Chicago composer, John Alden Carpenter. The season of the National Symphony will consist of eight Wednesday night subscription concerts, a Sunday afternoon series of 10 concerts, and five "15-30" concerts for young persons between 15 and 30 years of age. The orchestra also will give three joint performances with Ballet theater.

Mme. Nijinska to Create Another New Ballet

Bronislava Nijinska who choreographed "Vision" for the début of the Chicago Ballet company, has been engaged to create another ballet for the new group and to remain here to supervise performances. The company now plans to stage about four ballets around the first of Decmber and, if encouraged by public response, to reopen in February or March with an extended repertory.

Good Morning!

September! Now THERE was a month for us, fans! Going to the movies was a pleasure for the most part. And there have been months when digging ditches would have been more fun!

"This Is the Army" was a rare treat. "A great, gorgeous [it's in technicolor] screen version of the Irving Berlin stage show . . . one grand spectacle. . . . Such acting! Such singing! SUCH direction! Such FUN! . . ." George Murphy, Lt. Ronald Reagan and Joan Leslie in key roles. Also 350 soldiers and 150 men from the 174th infantry.

"Watch on the Rhine"—"Thought and skill went into the screen adaptation of Lillian Hellman's successful stage play and the result is a fine and engrossing picture. . . . a story of great love, great ideals and great heroism . . . inspires the slogan—'fewer and better pictures'." With Bette Davis, Paul Lukas and Lucille Watson.

"Holy Matrimony"—"Loved every minute of it. . . . Gracie Fields and Monty Wooley ARE a pair! May they team again and soon! . . ." Adapted from Arnold Bennett's story.

"Appointment in Berlin"—With George Sanders and Marguerite Chapman. . . . "A most exciting espionage melodrama. . . ."

"Mr. Lucky." With Laraine Day and Cary Grant. . . . "Romance, racketeering and war form this movie's foundation. . . . Miss Day and Mr. Grant are as ingratiating a team as you'll meet in a month of Sundays. . . . Action is fast, dialog pat and direction smart. . . ."

"Presenting Lily Mars." "Judy Garland and Van Heflin in an adaptation of the Booth Tarkington story. . . . All in all you'll like the film. Indeed you will!"

"For Whom the Bell Tolls"—"Observation proved a unique and engrossing experience . . . beautiful interpretations by Ingrid Bergman and Katina Paxinou. . . . Gary Cooper never did anything finer . . . film holds much that is spectacular, much that is moving, some that is humorous. . . ."

"Bataan"—"This picture is not 'Hollywood.' It IS Bataan . . . a monument not alone to the gallant defenders of the island but, to my way of thinking, a memorial to the consecrated efforts of players and a director who were selfless in their determination to perpetuate remembrance of some of the greatest heroism the world has ever known. . . ." With Robert Taylor, George Murphy, Robert Walker, Lloyd Nolan, Thomas Mitchell.

"Harrigan's Kid"—Debut of a grand young actor in a swell little drama of the turf. Bobbie Readick is the new star's name."

THE LITERARY SPOTLIGHT

by Fanny Butcher

TWO Chicago members of the Society of Midland Authors [not two of the kind that made one member call it the Society of Middling Authors, but two of Chicago's well known writers] made last week a Chicago week in the publishing business.

Louis Zara, who started his career with "Blessed Is the Man," the story of an immigrant who found how a man could be blessed in the land which Mr. Zara wrote of later in "This Land Is Ours" [and whose Jake Krakauer in that first book is a Chicago hero of our own time], has chosen a far time and a man whom most of us have never had much knowledge of before, Charles V., for background and hero of "Against This Rock," out last Monday. . . . It is a long, fictional biography of a man who spent his life fighting wars in the vain hope of bringing peace to Europe. . . . "Always I dreamed that I would leave my people in peace," Charles says as he is abdicating his emperorship and kingship to retire to a monastic life in Spain. . . . "Upon this rock—the peace of Europe—I hoped to build my kingdom; against this rock I broke my staff and spilled my blood."

Implications for Today.

Readers are supposed to see in the life of the luckless Charles, who ruled more land and more people than any one man from Charlemagne to Napoleon, some deeply important implications for us today: That no man, even one of good will, can make peace by war? or perhaps that Charles dealt too gently with his enemies? or that Charles believed too blindly in the good word of those from whom he might have taken life, rather than their word of honor? . . . Which reminds me of something Thornton Wilder once said. . . . It was when he had made that new translation and adaptation of Ibsen's "The Doll's House," and it was put on by a famous producer of whom Thornton was a tremendous admirer—so great an admirer that he had made no written contract with the gentleman, altho every one told him that he had better watch his step. . . . After many weeks of a highly successful tour, during which time Thornton had never had one cent of the big pile of box office receipts, he admitted sadly one day: "We had a gentleman's agreement. I have learned that when you make a gentleman's agreement with some one you should be sure he's a gentleman."

Museum Pieces.

Does "Against This Rock" imply that Charles V. made too many gentleman's agreements with people who weren't gentlemen? . . . Well, trying to read something more into the book than its story seems to me to be like painting a layer of gilt onto a perfectly satisfactory lily.

Here is an interesting historical novel about a period and a way of thought and of life which seem to most of us as much museum pieces as the cannon balls which Charles V. used against Metz. For the 16th century was a day of dynasts, not of democrats, and if Charles V. did not slaughter the Protestants in Germany it was not because he thought that common people had a right to their religious choices any more than to their political freedom. . . . If he did not conquer the world it was not because he didn't want to or try to. . . . If I were you I'd read "Against This Rock" as a good historical character study and let it go at that. . . . You'll know a great deal about Charles V. when you've finished, and much about European politics of the 16th century, but not so much as you'll expect to know about the life of men and women like ourselves today.

Murder Replaces Meter.

Our other Chicago literary luminary of the week was Marion Strobel [Mrs. James Herbert Mitchell], editor of Poetry magazine and a distinguished poet in her own right, who has renounced meter for murder in "Ice Before Killing," a mystery with the ice skating arena as a background for some fancy figure skating on the thin ice of death. . . . One dead body in a locker at the arena, another of a famous pro in an apartment on the Drive, and an 18 year old figure skater as major suspect and minor detective make the tale live up to its title. . . . Mrs. Mitchell's younger daughter was a famous figure skater before she went east to college. . . . They're all authentic, the descriptions of those Immelman rolls or whatever they call the fancy dippings and twirlings [well, if you must be accurate, "Axel Paulsens," the author calls them].

An Eccentric Story.

There's some not too pleasant family life in "Ice Before Killing," but for sheer and utterly cuckoo family didoes "My Family, Right or Wrong," by John Philip Sousa III., takes the gold plated souffle. . . . It was published last Friday. . . . The famous march king's grandson has a tale to tell of life with father and mother and little sister Nancy—a story which for eccentricity and guffaws has any of the "life with" tales topped. . . . An older sister and a brother and John himself, tho also a little "teched," in comparison to the others seem almost dull in their normality.

It's Irresistible.

Happily crazy, too, but also as irresistible as a good deep breath of laughing gas, is "You're Sitting on My Eyelashes," an album of cartoons by Whitney Darrow Jr., which will be published tomorrow and is sure to become immediately a popular brand of pictorial vitamin B. . . . It is guaranteed to stimulate the verves.

Whitney Darrow Jr. is, as all great humorists are supposed to be, as solemn looking as a stage process server. . . . He is the son of a famous publisher, Whitney Darrow, of Charles Scribner's Sons. . . . Scribner's didn't publish Jr.'s picture book; Random House did. . . . One of the Random partners, Bennett Cerf, is one of the busiest men in the publishing business. . . . He writes that inimitably funny column, "Trade Winds," in the Saturday Review of Literature, and will take over in December the literary department in Esquire, formerly conducted by the late William Lyon Phelps. . . . Who will take over Clifton Fadiman's job on the New Yorker is as yet undetermined, but it is rumored that he resigned as of Dec. 1, "or until you can find another maid." . . . Bennett Cerf also edits, every three or four months, an anthology of mystery tales, laughs for the boys in service or what have you in the way of good literature. . . . His latest, with the help of Van H. Cartmell [altho he usually operates alone] is "Sixteen Famous British Plays," a Modern Library Giant—as indeed Mr. Cerf may prove to be himself.

Exciting Prose Gives Quality to Two Novels

"IT IS STILL THE MORNING," by Louis Danz. [Morrow, $2.50.]
"TANGLEWOOD," by George Willis. [Doubleday, Doran, $2.]

Reviewed by Kenneth Horan.

Suspense in Louis Danz's story is twofold. Georgie, and how he got to be a painter is a grand story, written by a man who knows all about the business, but due to eccentricities of style, the real suspense lies in how the sentences are going to end. E. E. Cummings, had he written prose instead of poetry, might have adopted the fearful and wonderful method which manages to tell Georgie's story, a method so picturesque that it absorbs the reader's attention, and gets in the way of the story itself. It's not the wit of the novel but the wit of the style that keeps one convulsed with anticipation.

If you're looking for basic English, here it is. Only it's boiled down from Mr. Churchill's variety, to about half the number of words, and these are so manipulated that they form a happy noun-adverb-verb combination, that thru some alchemy of its own manages to imply subtle intangibles that give meaning to the whole. This is stream-of-consciousness simplified, each word packed with meaning, all quite breezy and frank, a combination of G. K. Chesterton and Mother Goose. Georgie is only 6 when the story opens, one of those entrancingly original youngsters who follow their own wishes despite warnings from father, stepmother, grandpa, and grandpa's new wife, who used to be Auntie.

The essential fact about all this is that Georgie is funny. He has certain intellectual peculiarities, and he's perfectly frank with himself and his betters. It gets him into all kinds of trouble. A persistent little codger, he finally learns to be a painter. Reduced to the lowest terms, Georgie's thoughts are original, but not nearly as original as the way in which they are presented.

"Tanglewood" is something else again. Brilliantly the life of the jazz player is interpreted in this story of how the music itself mastered the lives of the players. It is a Frankenstein, and they eat, drink, sleep, syncopation.

It's considerable of an accomplishment to interpret one art thru the medium of another. The classic example, "Young Man with a Horn" seems written in a quiet rhythm, compared to this book. Rusty, the drum player, tried to get back to a normal life, but his vocation and his avocation defeated him. Here again the story is not as unusual as the exciting, highly keyed prose in which it is told.

Tough School Has Built a Real Marine

"THEY MADE ME A LEATHERNECK," by Rowland Vance. [W. W. Norton, $2.]

Of the numerous new books dealing with personal experiences in G. I. training, this belongs to that class whose primary purpose is to inform rather than to entertain. With good taste and good humor, Rowland Vance tells what it felt like to go thru the marine corps' grueling reserve officers' candidates course at Quantico, Va. On the last page he emerges after graduationa as a typically proud and respectful member of this tough service.

Vance writes in a spare, economical, straightforward style. He does not try to be clever. Yet some passages are downright witty. Any one who has witnessed close order drill should appreciate his description of the execution of the hazardous maneuver: "To the rear march!" The command of execution, "march," he says, is pronounced as "harch," "harck," "hawk," "awk," "arch," and "ckkh," and inflections on it vary from grunts, groans, and guttural growls up to a nasal "honch" but always with much punch.

The book should be a handy reference work for marine officers candidates' families. Vance expressly does not recommend it as a guide for potential marine officers' candidates who want to know what to do when they get to Quantico. "They'll tell you," he remarks drily.

Unhappy Tale of Negro Life and Struggle

"THE DARKER BROTHER," by Bucklin Moon. [Doubleday, Doran, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Walter Havighurst.

The hard, unhappy theme of this outspoken novel is that a Negro must struggle for survival in America, and for survival only. Young Ben Johnson as a boy in Florida has the high spirits of any 12 year old, but he also has a swift dejection. He has already realized the color of his skin. The next 10 years in his story show the bitter steps in that full realization.

After the death of his father Ben is taken north to live with his uncle in the promised land of Harlem. On that journey, at the Mason-Dixon line, the widowed mother takes her two children from the Jim Crow car to the other part of the train.

To Ben that is a startling experience, and he seems suddenly to have entered a new world of equality and freedom. But in the streets, schools, and playgrounds of New York he soon learns that he has not left the color line behind. It is a Jim Crow country, and a Jim Crow world. And it is a Jim Crow army that Ben finally joins to play his part in a world at war.

Here, of course, is one of the somber concerns of our time, and this story handles it in terms which dramatize but do not clarify and enlighten the problem. There is more anger in the novel than pity and understanding.

The poignant incident of transfer from a Jim Crow coach is more memorable than the melodrama of Ben's Uncle Lafe who is murdered by rivals in the policy racket, and the violent end that comes to the petty career in crime of Slick Adams, Ben's best friend.

The most affecting characters in the novel are the two women who bolster Ben's life. There is Essie Mae, his mother, alien and confused in the Promised Land of the north, turning with hope and trust to the religious cult of Father Gabriel. And there is Birdie, Ben's young wife, whose courage and integrity are the most hopeful notes in this grim, unhappy book.

Charles V. Comes to Life Again Under Able Pen of Louis Zara

"AGAINST THIS ROCK," by Louis Zara. [Creative Age Press, $2.75.]

Reviewed by Kenneth C. Kaufman.

Charles V. is a figure to attract and dismay the novelist. He was born, at the very turn of the 16th century, the great-grandson of Charles the Bold of Burgundy, hereditary ruler of the lower countries, and grandson of Emperor Maximilian on the one side and of Ferdinand and Isabella of Spain on the other. It would seem that fate purposely brushed obstacles, in the form of brothers, parents, and uncles, out of his way. His mother, Juana, went mad from jealousy of her Hapsburg husband, Philip the Handsome; his grandfather, Ferdinand, died three or four months before succeeding in his plan to set Charles' brother, Ferdinand, on the throne of Spain; and Maximilian, believing in some integrity he divined in the boy, taught him and trained him to become archduke of Austria in his stead.

He was brought up in The Netherlands, but French was his native tongue. He set himself to learn languages, and when he succeeded Ferdinand he made himself a Spaniard of the Spaniards. Bribery was the key to all that could not be won by force of arms, and it was bribery that made him emperor of the Holy Roman empire. But he had a holy zeal for his divine mission to rule, and he believed that the dynastic system would prove the net to hold Europe in one happy family of nations.

To this end he married one sister to the king of Denmark, another to Portugal, another to Hungary; set his brother, Ferdinand, on the archducal throne of Austria, and himself married Isabella of Portugal for her dowery of a million ducats, only to find himself madly and permanently in love with her, from the first glance.

Francis of France was his perpetual enemy; he fought five wars against him in spite of his own sincere desire to keep the peace. He inflicted a terrific defeat on his French brother at Pavia, trounced the pirates at Tunis, captured Rome, and scattered the Lutheran armies like chaff at Muehlberg. His only two defeats, if they can be called such, were caused by storms—portent of the invincible armada's catastrophe. He had two great ambitions: to put down the Lutheran heresy, in which aim he was foiled [perhaps by the selfish political policies of the pope and temporal rules alike], and to drive the Turks from Europe, which he might have done if Francis and Henry VIII. had helped him.

He became the father of Philip II. and of the illegitimate Don John of Austria, who was to crush the naval power of the Turks at Lepanto. And he renounced his three crowns, retired to a monastery on a sterile hillside in Extremadura, and spent his last years in meditation and prayer.

What Louis Zara has done is to take the facts of his dazzling, fantastic career, add flesh and blood and emotions to the skeletons of history, and make it come to life. The ruling passion of the emperor is motivated by causing him, at the age of 7, to have a vision of a city of peace, in which all the inhabitants were happy, in which there were no arms and no armor, and in which he saw himself as king. The device is plausible and effective.

What is still more effective is the accuracy of detail in geography, history, lore, costume, custom, and psychology. The amount of research back of the book is amazing, as is the skill in massing armies, analyzing the intrigues of cardinals and courtiers, and understanding the social-economic problems involved. There are passages in which this accuracy is overdone, passages which read a bit too much like a Baedeker, others which resemble fashion notes from the society page, and quite a few too many quotations from Charles' speeches and letters. But on the whole it is a grand pageant, sweeping along full of light and color, the tramp of marching armies, the thunder of guns, and all around the overtones and undertones of souls tormented by the eternal struggle between good and evil.

Rostov Battle Is Setting for Thrilling Story

"RETREAT FROM ROSTOV," by Paul Hughes. [Random House, $2.75.]

"THE NIGHT OF THE SUMMER SOLSTICE" and Other Stories of the Russian War. [Holt, $2.50.]

Reviewed by James E. Sloan.

Rostov, great Russian city near the mouth of the storied Don river, has suffered and survived invasions by many a would-be conqueror. In November, 1941, the German battered at the gates where once had stood the Tartar, the Lithuanian, and the Pole. He found entrance, but he marched into so bloody an abattoir that his tenure there was no more than one nightmarish week, and he fled to make good the prophecy that "the age of the German would pass, and there would still be, with the soul heaven gave it at birth and the quiet waters of the Don for a pulse—there would be triumphant, long suffering Rostov, the eternal."

The 34 tumultuous days required for the Germans to seize Rostov and for the Red army to hurl them out form the fiery setting for this first epic novel of the Russian war, a sort of soviet "Gone With the Wind." Bulging with the characters of a fantasy, the thrills of a melodrama, the colors of a royal pageant, and the battles of a history, it is a brilliant and gripping story of the little people who did the fighting and the dying and the living on.

Vividly it tells of Russian and German soldiers, of the people of Rostov, of soviet guerrillas, of the women who serve the Nazi troops, of officers and lovers, of marshals and privates—of so many persons that, like a wheel within a wheel, their stories sometimes tend to cast too confusing a pattern.

Always thru young Mr. Hughes' dramatic work an ominous shadow of great tragedy colors every emotion of the gigantic cast, leading ever thru to the climactic terror that stalked the streets of Rostov when the Nazi had beaten his way inside. Here it was that the German army suffered its first defeat—and "Retreat from Rostov," fiction tho it be, makes every terrifying minute of the Nazi downfall flame into horrible and inspiring realism.

"Retreat from Rostov" has shortcomings, to be sure, but taken in the long view it is a fine portrayal of the war in Russia, a much neglected fiction battlefront.

In the footsteps of "Retreat from Rostov" appears a compilation of stories of their war which are being read by the Russians who are fighting it. Grim and uncompromising, horrible and heroic, these 20 short stories selected by Mark Van Doren form an interesting companion piece to Mr. Hughes' lengthy thriller.

Augustus Takes Care of Nearly Everybody

Altho Augustus' technique for trapping spies is by now pretty familiar, this book will no doubt prove as popular to devotees of the series as have previous stories of the ingenious youngster and his family who get around from one part of the country to another. If it appeared less exciting to this reviewer, undoubtedly the fault lies with her age, for her two test readers pronounced it quite up to par. Hezekiah, the mule, provides a fresh angle—and, yes, Augustus rises once to a kind feeling for his kid sister, Glorianna. Wonder whom Augustus can help next, now that he's taken care of the army, the navy, and the marines? F. D. H.

This Town Called Hollywood - - - - - - By Philip Scheuer

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. [Special].—The old songs are back; a revival spirit is sweeping the studios. The fact that "old" may mean any musical composition from Shakespeare's "Hey, Nonny Nonny" to the No. 1 hit parader of a year ago makes no difference. If, hearing it, you say to yourself, "I remember . . ." Then it's old—and 10 to 1, as Hollywood now knows, you're a pushover for it.

Probably at no time in recent history have so many influences conspired to bring about such a revival as we are enjoying at present. First there are the intangibles; the return of the convivial spirit that came with repeal [and nostalgia along with both]; the instinctive drawing-together of a people at war and a tightening of bonds with the past, when that past is threatened as much as the future; the periodic surfeit with, and reaction to, "new" jazz and swing. [Yet that same "new" swing will be "old" a year from now, and we shall sigh over it as we never do today!]

The greatest single factor in this melodic resurgence is, however, no intangible. It—or he—is James C. Petrillo, the music czar, who on Aug. 1, 1942, forbade the A. F. M. to record any new music. The ban was partly lifted Sept. 19 last—but by then it was too late. The thing had happened. With records and transcriptions "frozen," bands, radio stations, juke boxes, and even the film studios—which depend on all these outlets to "plug" new scores into profits—were forced to dig deep into the files for the tunes they had to have, if a musical was to be a musical and not just a name.

Cinematically the trend had started even earlier. It became noticeable in 1938, when 20th Century-Fox threw a lot of old Irving Berlin songs together and called the surprisingly felicitous result "Alexander's Ragtime Band." Until then Hollywood had looked askance at anything not composed to order the previous afternoon; people were sick of the old tunes, and what are we paying our song writers for, anyhow? But Zanuck's gamble on "Alexander" has been reaping dividends ever since, a whole succession of repeats [some of them, it must be admitted, mere carbon copies of the original] having sung and danced their technicolored way across the endless screens of the land.

Universal was the first lot to capitalize on the juke box fad. A former music man named Milton Schwarzwald conceived the idea of taking a bunch of old "pop" tune titles and "building" a soundie around each one. One of the earliest was "Ma, He's Making Eyes at Me." They've been coming along steadily for three years now; like Jimmy Durante, Schwarzwald has a million of 'em. Which is lucky for the Andrews sisters, Allan Jones, Donald O'Connor, et al., who are assured practically permanent jobs.

Warners really came to life with "Yankee Doodle Dandy," the George M. Cohan musical profile, following it with "This Is the Army," which contained more Berlin hits, old and new. They had had two previous experiences which must have done plenty to shock them into a realization of the potency of familiar melodies—once when the brief rendition of Tschaikowsky's piano concerto [in a serious drama, "The Great Lie"] proved enough to zoom that classic into national popularity, and again when a 12 year old ballad, "As Time Goes By," was exhumed by Authors Julius J. and Philip G. Epstein and used thematically in another drama, "Casablanca"—with an effect that stunned its once discouraged composer, Herman Hupfield, as much as it did people who normally like to turn on the radio.

Not yet reached is the saturation point for such persistent repeaters as "I Can't Give You Anything but Love, Baby," "By the Light of the Silv'ry Moon," "I'm Just Wild About Harry," "Pretty Baby," "Darktown Strutters' Ball," and a few others. But at the rate they're going they'll soon be run into the ground.

Meanwhile, you'll be listening to dozens of other hummable oldies, including [the film title is in parenthesis]: "Embraceable You" and "I Got Rhythm" [Girl Crazy]; "Three O'Clock in the Morning" [A Guy Named Joe]; "Honeysuckle Rose" and "Daybreak" [As Thousands Cheer]; "Beyond the Blue Horizon," introduced by Jeannette MacDonald in "Monte Carlo" and revived by her, 13 years later, in "Three Cheers for the Boys;" "One Alone" and "The Riff Song" [The Desert Song]; "Sunny Side of the Street," "Am I Blue?" and "Chinatown" [Is Everybody Happy?]; "I'm Sorry, Dear," "Oh, By Gosh, By Jingo," "Row, Row," and "Waiting for the Robert E. Lee" [Incendiary Blonde], and—for a change of pace — "Silent Night," "Adeste Fideles," "Santa Lucia," and Gounod's "Ave Maria" [in Bing Crosby's "Going My Way?"].

Our report would not be complete without the final intelligence that Master J. Durante, after 14 frustrated years, off and on, in Hollywood, will get to sing the complete, unexpurgated version of "Who Will Be With You When I'm Far Away?" in "Two Sisters and a Sailor," and that in Columbia's "Curly," the sprightly air known as "Yes, Sir, That's My Baby" will be danced by a caterpillar—presumably a very old and sentimental one. But aren't we all?

Philadelphia Orchestra Announces Its Deficits

The Philadelphia orchestra has announced a net deficit of $8,974 and a gross deficit of $67,073, which was reduced thru income from the Philadelphia Orchestra Endowment fund and contrbutions. Cancellation of a southern and midwestern tour because of transportation difficulties incurred a loss of approximately $100,000. The ban on recordings also curtailed the annual income. Attendance at the orchestra's 116 concerts averaged about 93 per cent of capacity. A special drive to interest members of labor unions in next season's concerts is expected to add new subscribers to the rolls.

Committee Searching for New War Songs

Writers of war songs are invited by the music war committee of the American theater wing, 730 5th avenue, New York, to submit manuscripts. Only unpublished copyrighted songs will be accepted. The purpose of the committee is to fill requests for songs from government agencies and the services, and to create and exploit good war songs. After going thru a sifting committee, a judging committee of 40 will pass upon the manuscripts. The final committee includes Robert Bagar and Irving Kolodin, music critics; Franklin P. Adams, writer; Alfred McCosker of Mutual Broadcasting System, Paul Robeson, and Barry Wood.

Pocket Size Best Sellers on Their Way to Best Fighters

By Harry Hansen.

NEW YORK.

THE first books of the armed services editions are on their way to our forces overseas. I have seen them and can testify that they are an achievement in printing and publishing. Books that used to weigh their usual one to two pounds and take up big space in your library have been printed in pocket size, paper bound booklets that any private can slip into his pocket without feeling any extra weight. The type is completely legible. The cost is probably the lowest ever reached for books and to attain it 50,000 books of each title have to be printed. The first lot contains 1,500,000 copies and goes to the army and the navy.

As a member of the committee that chooses the titles, I can testify that they are both current and traditional. On the list are classics and books published only yesterday. The book that reaches best-seller popularity next week will be on next month's list for the armed services. But you won't see the books. They are intended solely for the soldiers and sailors and will not be distributed in the United States. They will be a godsend to the boys out there. All titles suggested by our committee go to Washington where a special bureau submits them to the army and the navy. These authorities act on them. The executive who starts the wheels in New York is a man with wide publishing experience, Philip Van Doren Stern, author of "Drums of the Morning" and other books.

Invitation to New Writers.

This is the cheapest of all cheap editions. In the meantime many good books are on low priced lists. Demand for books is growing by leaps and bounds. Already there is great scarcity of good manuscript material. Good books, scenarios, plays are wanted everywhere. Never has the market been so hospitable to the new writer. But many manuscripts are not worth reading. A producer who is constantly reading them tells me the crop is discouraging. "Practically anybody can write a first act," he says, "but give me somebody who can write three."

The publishers have been trying for months to get the government to admit that book publishing is an essential business. The war committee of the book publishers' bureau, headed by Melville Minton, president of Putnam's, has just made a statement to the government to prove the far-flung activities of the trade.

The committee in charge included also Norman V. Donaldson of Yale University Press, Laurence Saunders of W. B. Saunders company, and Edward M. Crane of D. Van Nostrand company. Its announcement says that the number of books manufactured and sold in the United States in 1942 is estimated, on the basis of the census of manufacturers of the United States census bureau, to reach 225,000,000. How books have increased is shown by comparing the figures with 1939, when the total reached 182,000,000.

General Literature Shows Big Gain.

Figures are deadly, but it may be interesting to know that general literature has increased from 46,500,000 to 60,000,000, that juvenile books are only slightly ahead at 35,000,000, that religious books and Bibles also have increased but slightly at 15,000,000, but that the increase in the use of technical and scientific books has been so great, because of the war work, that the number has jumped from 5,400,000 in 1939 to 20,000,000 in 1942, not counting textbooks, which reached a total of 75,000,000 and must contain many technical books also. There are actually 1,142 publishers, but "274 publishing firms and university presses that each publish five or more books a year are responsible for 90% of American book production."

Mrs. Schulberg a Book Scout.

Virginia Schulberg, an attractive young woman who knows her way around the editorial offices of Hollywood, came to New York last week to confer with E. P. Dutton & Co., her new employer. Mrs. Schulberg will be their west coast book scout. Every publisher has to keep his eye on the writers in Hollywood these days, for between scenarios they are likely to toss off articles and books. John Macrae Jr., found her on his recent western trip and lured her away from M-G-M, where she was employed as a reader. She is the wife of Budd Schulberg, author of that extraordinary picture of Hollywood life, "What Makes Sammy Run."

Mrs. Schulberg told me that her husband is now an ensign in the navy but ill at ease because he is stationed in Washington. Like many other young men in inside jobs he is eager to get to the combat zone. He has another novel in preparation, but its completion will have to wait until the war ends. The Schulbergs have a 3 year old daughter and live in Bel-Air.

Some Reprints Fail to Revive.

In the 1920s James Branch Cabell's "Jurgen" became a sensation, discussed in whispers. An attempt to suppress it in New York made it a subject of national debate. Leading writers—H. L. Mencken, Carl Van Doren, Sinclair Lewis, and others—became its champions. The Bookfellows of Chicago published a symposium, "In Defense of Jurgen." Collectors paid $20 for the first edition. Recently the Modern Library dropped it from its reprint list: too few sales.

In the 1930s John Strachey's "The Coming Struggle for Power," a prophecy of the rise of the political proletariat, became a sensation. Intellectuals who favored communism, even if not members of the party, welcomed it. In some New York stores it became a best seller. Malcolm Cowley once said in a lecture that Wall street bankers bought it to find out what the future would be like. Recently the Modern Library dropped it from its reprint list: too few sales.

Mother Collects for Corporal.

These are days when parents come in for attention because they have gifted sons. Since Corp. St. George, author of "C/O Postmaster" is busy "down under" and can't make public appearances, the publishers have arranged for his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John St. George of Simpson, Minn., to come to New York in his place. They were booked to appear on three radio programs, including Thanks to the Yanks and one television broadcast. Mrs. St. George is collecting the corporal's royalties for him.

The eagerly awaited new novel by the author of — HOW GREEN WAS MY VALLEY

Just Published!

None But the Lonely Heart

By Richard Llewellyn

Praise for a GREAT Book!

"ONE OF THE MOST REMARKABLE NOVELS I have ever read. It took a second book to make certain that Llewellyn is a novelist of genius."—Ted Robinson, Cleveland Plain Dealer

"GREATER THAN LLEWELLYN'S FIRST NOVEL, as a work of creative art."—Rose Feld, New York Times Book Review

"A MASTERPIECE of shattering realism. It is timeless, like the humanity it presents and portrays." —Katherine Woods in Tomorrow

"I AM OVERWHELMED with the power and depth of Llewellyn's new book. It is a near-masterpiece in our time."—Sterling North, N. Y. Post

"CERTAIN TO BE A BEST SELLER— one of the great novels of all time." — Henry Hornsby, Lexington Herald-Leader

"CHARACTERS ARE SUPERB! It is nothing at all like 'How Green Was My Valley,' but to the present reviewer it seems a much superior work."—Howard Taylor, Philadelphia Inquirer

Here is a book which reveals a depth of humanity rarely found in modern fiction. It is a story which looks life straight in the eyes and blinks at nothing — one which many will rate as a greater book than How Green Was My Valley.

But it is vastly different from its predecessor. For here is a new Llewellyn, portraying a new scene, and writing in a style that is entirely his own, a smashing, virile style that brings his book alive. Here is Richard Llewellyn, ready to stand among the the finest novelists of our time.

A Strong, Superior Novel

In this thrilling story Llewellyn looks at life through the eyes of Ernie Mott, an intensely interesting London cockney. He has got under the skin of this young nobody who so longed to be somebody, and has made him live—as one of the most unforgettable characters in modern fiction. $2.75

Expert Book About Your Well-being

"HYPERTENSION," by Irvine S. Page, M. D. [Charles C. Thomas, $1.50.]

Reviewed by Dr. Irving S. Cutter.

Dr. Page has prepared an excellent brochure for the layman, explaining the factors concerned with high blood pressure. The language is clear and understandable. The most important chapter, that on management, is worth the price of the volume. Common sense suggestions are included on how to live with the condition. In addition, modern methods of treatment, which the physician may wish to employ, are outlined.

As one of the distinguished research workers deeply interested in the development of an antidote against the forces which destroy blood vessels, Dr. Page speaks with authority. He points out that damage to the blood vessels will, in time, involve the heart. In other words, the malady is a combination of narrowed conduits and kidney degeneration—with mounting strain upon the heart.

The text can be read in an hour and will well repay one who is obliged to carry on with the disorder.

Cover design for "You're Sitting on My Eyelashes," an album of cartoons of Whitney Darrow Jr. The book will be published by Random House tomorrow.

Unusual Tale of Paris in '40 Is 'Kathrine'

"KATHRINE," by Hans Habe; translated by Harry Hansen. [Viking, $2.75.]

Reviewed by Richard Sullivan.

One of the chief distinctions of this new novel is its fine sustained objectivity. "Kathrine" is a study of the extremely complex interrelationships of a group of extremely complex persons in a highly complicated time.

Hans Habe.

To say that it is the story of a man whose mistress arranges a marriage between his son and her own daughter is surely a crude and almost inaccurate simplification; but at least such a simplification suggests how easily the basic material would lend itself to a treatment either sensational or sentimental.

Hans Habe's treatment of this material never drops to either of these false levels; it is always a straight, scrupulous recording, and the book achieves a kind of dignity of tone from the author's own objectivity toward his characters and their actions.

The place of this story is Paris and the time roughly that between the Munich conference and the early winter of what was once called the "phony war."

A writer less concerned about the integrity of his material might have made of this book simply another volume in that already prolonged series explaining the fall of France. Habe doesn't explain; he sticks to his characters and to his story. And in doing so, in scrupulously rendering the intricate human relationships which concern him and in refusing to be tempted away from them by other issues, however important, he actually throws, as it were by accident, on the way along, a most penetrating and strong sidelight on the moral confusion of the times.

He illuminates that confusion of brutality and decay, of frivolity and awful passive indifference, by his steady and certain treatment of the people who live their lives in it.

These people are always real but never ordinary—Kathrine herself, dominant, beautiful, and wrongheaded; the sturdy peasant millionaire Bertrand Lacoste; his pathetically ingrown son Andre; the girl Manuela. And as they are real without being ordinary, so the events thru which they move are completely convincing but never common experiences. To treat the uncommon and the extraordinary with authenticity, to render moral confusion with clarity, is this novel's significant achievement.

Finally, it is but simple justice to pay tribute to the good easy strength of the translation by Harry Hansen [whose column appears regularly in this section]. To say of a translation that it reads like a work conceived and written in English is high praise and usually impossible; but it is surely true of "Kathrine."

Biographer Tells of Navy in Time of the Civil War

Reviewed by John Abbot Clark.

Prof. West has written a life of the secretary of the navy during the Lincoln and Johnson administrations that in all probability will remain a standard work for many years to come. There were certainly more colorful and striking characters in Lincoln's cabinet than Welles, but none who did a more efficient and conscientious job than this Jacksonian Democrat from Connecticut.

Prior to the Civil war, his career was pretty commonplace and pedestrian, reading much as if it had been both lived thru and written up by some one bearing a close resemblance to Calvin Coolidge. It is to be regretted that the author did not compress the first 100 pages into about 30, because Welles as a person, whether cast in the role of lover, editorial writer, or small town politician half-piously on the make, is just too, too stuffy and mediocre to make good biographical copy.

But after becoming secretary of the navy, Welles takes on stature and significance, and the author's style snaps out of its Horatio Alger doldrums, becoming almost at once a lithe, clean-cut, often brilliant narrative and expository instrument.

Altho this book is primarily concerned with the part played by Secretary Welles during the Civil war, it amounts in substance to a fairly complete, if necessarily general and circumscribed, account of Union and Confederate naval operations.

The story of the ironclads makes particularly absorbing reading. There are many revealing extracts from Welles' famous diary or, more accurately, "Journal with Interpolations and Post-War Memoirs."

There are also many interesting sidelights on Lincoln, Seward, Stanton, et al., and on many situations—cabinet connivings and palace guard ruckuses—that are sure to remind the reader of Washington now and to come.

One begins this book with the feeling that Gid Welles is insufferable; one finishes it with the conviction that "The Old Man of the Sea" was absolutely indispensable.

World's Important Religious Beliefs

"THE SACRED WRITINGS OF THE WORLD'S GREAT RELIGIONS," edited by S. E. Frost Jr., B. D., Ph. D. [Garden City, 69c.]

The New Home Library has done a good service in offering this comparative outline of the great religions. Each religion has a section, with a brief survey of its origin, size, etc., and generous selections from its most significant writings. A topical index makes possible quick comparisons of many specific phases of religious thought. W. D.

U. of I. Bulletin Gives Pertinent Facts on Illinois

Each Average Citizen Worth $2,668, It Says

By the Rev. John Evans.

Should you have a question on what has happened to the state of Illinois during the last five years in the field of business activity, the answer probably can be found in a 76 page bulletin just issued by the University of Illinois bureau of economic and business research under the title, "Illinois Business Activity, 1937-'42."

Florence L. White, statistician of the bureau, compiled the bulletin. Here is the kind of facts the bulletin contains:

Thirteen thousand six hundred twenty-six new automobiles were registered in Illinois last year as against 274,142 in 1941.

Illinois oil production was 7,426,000 barrels five years ago, but reached a peak in 1940 of 147,647,000 barrels. In 1942 the number of barrels dropped to 106,590,000.

Ordinary life insurance sales totaled $607,447,000 five years ago, but this dropped to 475,268,000 in 1942.

The following item may be one of the reasons for food shortages: Illinois residents spent $900,000,000 dollars last year for food as against a little over a half a billion dollars five years ago. Also, total retail sales in 1938 were in excess of $2,639,766,000. This figure was nearly doubled in 1942.

Farms in Illinois are getting larger. In 1910 the average farm was just under 130 acres. Thirty years later the average was 145 acres. This also is borne out by the fact that in 1940 83 per cent of the state's citizens lived in towns and cities.

If you are the average Illinois citizen you are worth $2,668, and as the average Illinois citizen you are 14½ per cent richer than the average person in the United States, but you are way below the wealthy average citizen of Nevada. He is worth $6,173.

Resident students of Milwaukee-Downer college, Milwaukee, Wis., will clean their own rooms, do dining room service, and answer door bells and telephones for the duration. War time labor shortage reaches as deeply into college dormitories as into the family home, with the result that college authorities, like homemakers, must call upon the family for help. Dr. Lucia R. Briggs, president, announced the new plan.

The Very Rev. Joseph M. Egan, S. J., president of Loyola university, announced the establishment of a department of government in both the university college and the college of arts and sciences. The new department will have the professional goal of educating men and women for foreign and domestic public service. Tibor Payzs is the acting chairman of the department.

Boston Symphony Opens Its 63rd Season Friday

The Boston Symphony orchestra will open its 63d season on Friday and Serge Koussevitzky will begin his 20th year as conductor of the organization. The Boston season will be supplemented by 10 concerts in New York and a western tour in December. Among the novelties will be three newly completed symphonies by American composers: Samuel Barber's Second, Roy Harris' Fifth and William Schuman's Fifth symphony for strings. Igor Stravinsky will conduct one pair of concerts, including his new "Ode" on the program. Other guest conductors will be Vladimir Golschmann and Andre Kostelanetz.

"THE DESIRE TO PLEASE," by Harold Nicolson. [Harcourt, Brace, $3.50].

Reviewed by John Frederick Nims.

The name of Hamilton Rowan, one of the founders of the United Irishmen and the subject of Mr. Nicolson's latest book, will not be familiar to many. Readers of Joyce may remember that Stephen Dedalus paused in the hall "where Hamilton Rowan had passed and the marks of the soldiers' slugs were there"; students of Shelley may remember the letter of 1812 that Rowan failed to answer; but most of us will know little about the strange and headlong figure who "endured long and bitter suffering for the rights of a religion and a race which were not his own."

Tho quietly described, Rowan's life was far from quiet. As a young man he became interested in doctrines of freedom and the rights of man then considered radical. In danger of his life because of revolutionary activities in Ireland, he tricked his jailer and escaped to France, where he was arrested as an English spy.

For several years he lived in poverty in America, was finally pardoned, and returned in triumph to his ancestral estates in Ireland, where he led a quietly nonpolitical life—tho at the age of 74 he went to England for the purpose of fighting a duel.

Rowan lived in a period of agitation for equality, a period of great revolutions in France and America. England had long considered Ireland a base for conspiracy or invasion, and had tried to protect herself by creating there a Protestant ascendancy: the Irish were excluded from any voice in the government of their country. Agitation from 1760 onward resulted in the constitution of 1782 that gave Ireland her own parliament—which represented, however, only one-tenth of the population. Influenced by revolution abroad, Irish liberals formed, in 1791, the "Society of United Irishmen" under the leadership of such men as Wolfe Tone, Drennan, and Rowan.

Their desire was to achieve actual independence with the help, if necessary, of revolutionary France, then at war with England. Much of their correspondence, from an English point of view seditious, was intercepted; within a few years most of the leaders met their death.

In Nicolson's fine account, the enigma of Rowan's character is not perfectly resolved, the narrative is impeded with local and genealogical reference, events are editorialized in accordance with the politics of the author. But readers should be grateful for this dignified biography that owes nothing to the circus methods of the "historical" novelists.

Tales of Friendliness for Young Daughters

"NEVER TO BE FORGOTTEN," edited by Frances Ullmann. [Dodd, Mead, $2.]

As real as a first date, as the snobbish new girl at high school, as geometry equations, is this collection of the best stories that have appeared in the magazine, Calling All Girls, during the last two years. Readers from twelve to fifteen will read them with a smile and a tear, and a quickening of friendliness and aspiration. The book includes some poems by teen-age girls. F. D. H.

JOURNEYS WITH PHOTOGRAPHIC EYE

Painted by Lynd Ward for Donald Culross Peattie's "Journey into America," reviewed on this page by Fanny Butcher. The author's mother, Elia W. Peattie, was once literary editor of The Tribune; his father was chief editorial writer of this paper.

Peattie's Provocative Prose on the Greatness of America

Reviewed by Fanny Butcher.

"On my wall I have hung a picture. Familiar as it is, I cannot grow tired of looking at it, any more than a man can grow tired of his mother's face. You might call it a portrait of greatness. It's a chart, too, of a mighty and unfinished adventure. It's a grand, over-all view of home, yours and mine—a map of America," writes Donald Culross Peattie in one of the 20 chapters of a book which tries to describe the spirit which sat for that portrait; a book which succeeds in creating that portrait in as roundabout, unorthodox, but as convincing a manner as you've known.

"Journey Into America" is a slightly misleading title. There is, in the literal sense of the word, practically no journeying in the book, altho Mr. Peattie does describe some of the small towns which he has journeyed to. But those journeyings have been more truly into the spirit of those towns, into their births, their moments of high adventure, their backgrounding of people and events which gave the United States its being and its future, than they are journeyings with the photographic eye.

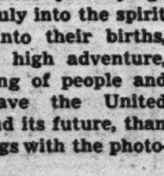
You will know much less about how they look—Marblehead, Mass.; New Harmony, Ind.; Harrodsburg, Ky.; Santa Barbara, Cal.; Emporia, Kas., and Fredericksburg, Va. [to name some of his favorite towns]—than you will know when you have finished his book how those towns, and cities like Philadelphia, have been American and have helped make Americans. And that despite the fact that Mr. Peattie is one of our great stylists. When he wants to make a reader see a picture he can do it with the same deftness and vividness that a hot summer afternoon can give a western sky its sunset flames.



Donald Culross Peattie.

When Donald Peattie wants really to describe something, he does it as if he had two sets of eyes: physical ones which see every nuance of form and color and light, and some special lenses of the spirit which see that form and color and light given reason.

It is with that second sight that he makes this journey into America, into the past of our country, and gathers bits which illumine our present. This is in no sense a history book, altho in its pages you find much of the history of our way of life, and many of the men who made that history. In it are the Liberty bell, and Washington at Valley Forge, and Lincoln and Douglas debating the future, and Lee fighting for it, after his surrender, as a teacher in an impoverished college with 40 pupils. And white men fighting the savages, and the descendants of those same savages fighting beside the descendants of the few who escaped the scalping knives of those early days, their savage language ironically used as the only communication to outwit today's savages—worse than any the world has known, for they have had a chance to know better.

In it are Daniel Boone's daughter, Jemima, who was brave as a girl of 14; Clara Barton, who at 40 went into the carnage of the Civil war and won a battle against prejudice almost as violent as her battle

Fantasy with Suggestions of Ruskin, Cabell

"FORTRESS IN THE SKIES," by Peter Mendelssohn. [Doubleday, Doran, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Arthur Frederic Otis.

Did you ever read John Ruskin's "King of the Golden River," 'way back when you were in the grades? And, after you had supposedly attained years of discretion, did you chance upon James Branch Cabell's "Jurgen"? Well, Peter Mendelssohn is no John Ruskin, and he certainly isn't another Cabell. But the complete wooziness of his grotesque fantasy, "Fortress in the Skies," carries a suggestion of both.

First, you think perhaps you have picked up a tale of the middle ages. Then you encounter a gnome straight out of a fairy tale. And, before you can get adjusted, there is mention of Mussolini, and presently a flyer crashes in an airplane, and you learn that he comes from the Spanish civil war.

Ghosts of 400 years before stalk in and out of the story, and their affairs become distressingly involved with the lives of present day wanderers who have taken over a deserted village in southern France. There are love affairs and battles, festivals and tragedies, and if you can make head or tail out of the whole business you rate a prize.

There is one beautiful paragraph which begins: "In the alleyways, under the vaults and porches, behind the corners of houses and blind windows of deserted rooms, darkness had been waiting its hour. Now it began to slip out. It crept around street corners; it stalked forward with caution from the arches. . . ." The author must have been conscious of its fineness, because he used it twice—once on page 22, and again, verbatim, on page 280.

You may like "Fortress in the Skies." Tastes differ.

Man Outlasts the Sea: Two Tales of Valor

"83 DAYS: The Survival of Seaman Izzi," by Mark Murphy. [Dutton, $1.75.]

"LOG BOOK," by Frank Laskier. [Scribners, $1.25.]

Reviewed by Walter Simmons.

To a shipwrecked landsman, friendless and alone, the sea is the very bosom of terror. Water stretches endlessly, but there is no drop to relieve his thirst. The sun is a molten and furious enemy. Food is tantalizingly near, but it is no more available than water.

With its recurring mystery, its gloom, and its indifference to the fate of man, the sea has been responsible for a vast number of books since James Fenimore Cooper showed that it could be the focus of important work. The war has given us more sea books. Many are within the philosophy of Joseph Conrad, who viewed his people as puny beings, striving in vain against the brooding and remorseless forces of the cosmos. If man happened to win, it was an accident, and of no significance.

There is something of Conrad's grandeur in the story of Seaman Basil Dominic Izzi, but it was no accident that he won. Izzi endured 83 terrible days afloat and won home again to South Barre, Mass., because he was tough and had faith.

After the torpedoing, Izzi spent two days in the water before climbing onto a heavy wooden raft. Four other men were already aboard. One was the ensign of his gun crew. There was another American sailor and two Dutch seamen.

The raft drifted 2,400 miles. Three times ships passed close. The officer and the other American sailor died. Izzi and the Dutchmen were nearly dead when the day of rescue finally came. Afterward, so tense had the raft's atmosphere been, they never wanted to see each other again.

It is a story of terror and valor; engrossing to the end. Mr. Murphy has stuck to his raft and resisted the temptation to go overboard. The result is a tightly written little epic of the war.

Laskier is a British merchant seaman who lost his leg in a torpedoing. Here, in obvious autobiographical vein, he tells the story of a fictional sailor who underwent experiences much like his own.

The boy didn't mean to ever do anything bad, but he had a stubborn and wayward mind. Without conscious volition he committed himself to the sea. Later he couldn't break away.

He could have stayed ashore when war came, but he stuck grimly to the job he knew best. Such gallantry cost him his leg, but not his fighting philosophy.

Both rough and sensitive, Mr. Laskier turns out to be a writer of great natural ability. Like Seaman Izzi's story, this is not pretty stuff, but it is a good sort of reading for sheltered landlubbers in war time.

Mineral Collecting Hobby for All Ages

"MINERALS," by Herbert S. Zim and Elizabeth K. Cooper. [Harcourt, Brace, $3.]

"A hobby of infinite scientific and cultural possibilities opens to the person of youthful mind from 15 years old to 75 if he follows thru on "Minerals: Their Identifications, Uses, and How to Collect Them." It is a how-to-do-it book written with the presumption that you know nothing about geology and mineralogy but would like a hobby that means fun and intellectual profit from the day you start it—and which you can start adequately at a cost no greater than the price of the book. L. T. H.

BOOKS ALIVE

by Vincent Starrett

CHRISTOPHER MORLEY once told me the story of his queerest adventure. On a rainy autumn evening, along the upper reaches of New York's Broadway, he collided with a young man who, after the usual apologies, begged a pipeful of tobacco. There's a fellow-feeling among pipe smokers, and at once they stepped into a sheltered doorway to consummate the camaraderie. In the conversation that followed, names were exchanged and the young man was excited to know he had met the famous novelist.

He asked many intelligent questions about collectors' "points" in the Morley bibliography, some of which the author couldn't answer himself, and ultimately confessed he was a book thief who had "rather specialized" in Morley's stuff. He even invited the writer to follow him down the street a bit and watch him work, an invitation that was declined. The two men parted amicably and the man of letters went on his way a little dazed, I think he told me.

Not a Lover of Books.

Unfortunately for the story, the fellow was not a traditional biblioklept, stealing books he loved because he could not afford to buy them; he stole them, he admitted frankly, for their resale value. He made no call on the novelist's sympathies and need make none on ours. What is interesting in the story is the extraordinary coincidence of the encounter.

A Priest Who Hoarded.

Traditionally, the biblioklept is not always a bad man or even a vulgarian. But even so amiable a weakness as a covetous passion for books can lead to regrettable excesses. The great pattern of bibliophiles who have loved not wisely but too well, thinks Andrew Lang, was the Spanish priest, Don Vincente of the convent of Pobla in Aragon, who operated a little bookshop in Barcelona a century or so ago. Revolution had looted the convent libraries and Don Vincente acquired and stored away a horde of treasures that he could not bring himself to sell. He attended all the auctions, and one day he was outbid in competition for a book he believed to be unique.

Some nights afterward the successful bidder for the rare book was burned to death in the destruction of his house and shop; and thereafter, for a number of weeks, a reign of terror descended on the city. The police were baffled and driven frantic by a succession of mysterious murders, as day after day the bodies of slain men were found in the streets and ditches, and in the river, with their purses and jewelry intact. The victims were of all ages and all had been blameless and inoffensive in their lives. They had only one thing in common: all, it was ultimately noted, had been bibliophiles.

In the organized search that followed this revelation, the unique volume that should have perished in the flames was found in a hidden recess of Don Vincente's shop, and the bibliophile confessed. He had strangled his rival, stolen the book, and burned the house. The epidemic of dead men also was explained: they were collectors who had bought books he could not bear to part with, so he had followed them and retrieved his treasures with a dagger.

Undoubtedly this is carrying bibliolatry too far. It is comfortable to reflect that the madness seldom goes beyond a mild haggling with sad-eyed dealers, whose prices are too high anyway.

Tale of a Great Reader.

On the subject of reading under difficulties, to which this department reverts whenever opportunity offers, here is a fascinating paragraph from a curious volume, "Recollections of a Parisian," by a French physician, Poumiès de la Siboutie, whose name alone should be sufficient to save him from oblivion. Dr. Siboutie lived in Paris in the confused years that followed Waterloo, and saw the revolutions that ended the reigns of the two puppet rulers, Charles X. and Louis Philippe. He practiced his profession at the barricades and once attended the lady known as the "Widow Marat." But his best story is about a man and a book.

Charles' Swiss guards were making their last stand on the terraces of the Louvre and shooting at everything in sight, when suddenly "a well-dressed, middle-aged man came slowly on to the Quai Voltaire, from the Rue de Beaune, reading a book. He strolled leisurely across the road, stepped on to the pavement, and continued his way toward the Pont des Arts, without once raising his eyes. Of course he was instantly made the target of the Suisses, who fired at least a couple of hundred shots at him. Nothing diverted his attention from his book; he was as deaf to the warning shouts of the crowd as to the bullets spattering 'round him. We watched him breathlessly as he made his slow way along, turning the corner into the Rue de Seine, and disappeared unharmed from our view."

It would be interesting to know this reader's name and what book he was reading, but that is all there is to the story. As far as I know, the incident is unnoted elsewhere in history.

Benet Stories Reprinted.

This is a day of admirable reprints, in spite of paper shortage, or possibly because of it. One of the best I have seen, "Twenty-Five Short Stories by Stephen Vincent Benét" [Sun Dial Press], brings together a remarkable group of tales by this favorite American author, including "The Devil and Daniel Webster," perhaps the best known and best liked of his prose writings. The book also contains William Rose Benét's fine tribute, "My Brother, Steve," first published in the Saturday Review of Literature, with its delightful revelations of the poet's boyhood, and its notable opening lines: "The life of a writer is a constant fight for his integrity, for his best and most honest expression. The more successful one becomes, the more pitfalls present themselves, the more false lures attract. I have watched my brother become a first rate writing man, support a wife and three children, and at the same time save his own soul."

"What Is Music?"

John Erskine, whose new novel, "The Voyage of Capt. Bart," has gone into a second printing, is at work on another book. "What Is Music?" is scheduled to appear about Nov. 10 under the Lippincott imprint.

Mysterious Rays.

Dr. Alan L. Hart of Boise, Idaho, entered the army medical corps as a roentgenologist soon after he delivered to Harper and Brothers the manuscript of his book, "These Mysterious Rays." This is Dr. Hart's first book on nonfiction, but he is the author of a number of novels.

Far East Viewed as White Man's Reponsibility

Reviewed by Dr. Melchior Palyi.

Mr. Greenbie is a prolific writer, a man with a great deal of imagination, and a student-connoisseur of the far east. His first hand acquaintance with the common man of the orient, from Corea and Japan to Burma, Siam, and Java, enables him to paint an interesting picture of every day life in those countries, and to trace their political ideas backed by their history. It is all very entertaining, but leaves the reader somewhat uncertain: just where do the facts end, and where does pure imagination enter the picture?

Mr. Greenbie is an idealistic crusader as well. To him, the far east is more or less unfit for self-government, and it is the white man's burden to provide it with peace, prosperity, and occidental wisdom. In practice, he propagates the type of international policies represented by Vice President Wallace.

Finishing Touches.

Fannie Hurst is reading proof on her new novel, "Hallelujah," to be published by Harper late in October.

Women's Clubs Plan Gala Fall Openings

By Irene Steyskal.

October swings back to a bright curtain this week on the fall club pageant to reveal an opening scene alive with promise of a varied and stimulating season.

Wednesday will find the Chicago Woman's club festive with autumn foliage and flowers for the traditional president's reception and tea. A gala turnout of the membership is anticipated, Mrs. Henry Barrett Chamberlin's popularity being a sure magnet to rally her many well wishers for the meeting which signifies her presidential inaugural. Mrs. Chamberlin assumes the presidency of the club against a notable background of service on the board of managers. The day will recall to many of the members the dedicatory program of the formal opening of the club at which Mrs. Chamberlin read the prize winning poem she had composed for the occasion. The poem is a treasured memento which, framed, hangs in the president's office.

With Mrs. Chamberlin in the receiving line Wednesday will be members of her staff, Mrs. Fred W. Waterman, Mrs. Stanley Gibson, Miss Frances E. Schmidt, Miss Elaine A. Blackman, and Mrs. Charles D. Tidholm, and her predecessors in the office of president, Mrs. Burnett Dewey Warner, Mrs. Willett H. Cornwell, Mrs. Ralph W. Webster, Mrs. Ozora S. Davis, Mrs. Henry Hoyt Hilton, Mrs. Andrew MacLeish, Mrs. Harlan Ward Cooley, Mrs. George Bass, Mrs. John O'Connor, Mrs. Harvey Fox, Mrs. Clayton D. Eulette, and Miss Grace E. Temple.

Heading the program committee at the club for a second season is Mrs. Frederick E. Hutchins. Mrs. Hutchins is credited with a major triumph in the first of her new program series. She has arranged for Dr. C. J. Hambro, the eminent Norwegian statesman, to lecture in the club auditorium on the following Wednesday afternoon. Dr. Hambro is in London, but he is expected to return to this country late in the week.

The 1943-'44 season of the conference of club presidents and program chairmen will be off to a sprightly start Thursday with a comedy skit harking back to the day of the suffragette. A group of J. Bradley Griffin's Uptown Players are to give a cutting of a new one act play written by Herma Clark of The Tribune in collaboration with Marie G. Merrill. The conference's meeting place is Fullerton hall of the Art institute.

Three talented young musicians who have won honors in the Chicago Music Festival contests will be presented—Jean Gralow, pianist; Lois Schauer, mezzo soprano, and Frances Erandt, accordionist. The Knox college trio also will be heard. Highlighting the program

Correspondent Finds War Time New York Seething with People

By Cousin Eve.

We like to be in Manhattan for a few days, skipping deliriously to theater and restaurants, not to mention modistes, milliners, and charming friends.

But this season the adventure almost palled on us, there was so much drudgery about it. First, in these times you travel down from Washington de luxe or else stand up. Then Manhattan is seething with humans, and hotels and theaters are overcrowded, largely by foreigners. You hear as much French in New York as the vernacular, and not a little Cockney, too.

On Saturday and Sunday, however, the scene changes and the entire population vanishes, leaving the streets and avenues of Manhattan empty as an eggshell and a silence quite divine. New York has become a city of gardens and high-flung terraces, beautiful as Babylon, where citizens take their ease in fantastic towers of steel and granite piercing the sky. But the very wealthy Americans, like the British, are inveterate week-enders and think it most bourgeois to spend Sunday in town, almost declasse.

One's first act in New York is to prepare to leave. That, however, is another story, a long and boring one of crowded trains, where passengers are lucky to get sleeping accommodations and sometimes pass a night in the lounge car.

There were two women in New York I really wanted to see, and saw neither of them in spite of well laid plans. One was that fascinating piece of white and black porcelain, Mme. Wellington Koo, wife of the Chinese ambassador to Britain. She has an apartment in upper Fifth avenue facing Central park. China's No. 1 glamor girl has two sons at school here and is a great belle in the amusing society of Manhattan. But all of a sudden Ambassador Koo had come over from London to collect his exotic wife and flown her back to London some weeks before. So we were not only out of luck, but somewhat frustrated. The other glamorous lady was Countess Cardelli, who expected to be cozily installed in her new home in East 57th street near the East river. She counted, tho, without Brenda Frazier, who lingers on in Cuba and hasn't come up to vacate her Gotham establishment. So Ruth Cardelli marks time in the Berkshires at Stockbridge, but maybe she likes it, as the leaves are already turning red and the frosty air is, they say, like pre-war champagne.

I met Giovanni Cardelli one night at Le Pavillon (the smart restaurant of the hour) and hardly knew the lad in his steel rimmed spectacles. He looked like a species of young raven with that shock of black hair and those handsome black eyes. The Pavillon is opposite the St. Regis and has a most spectacular clientele. It is a long narrow restaurant, upholstered gaily in Chinese red leather and staffed entirely from Armenonville, Cafe de Paris, and other Parisian high class places. The maitre d'hotel remembered us (or made believe he did) and soon, under his direction, we were eating veal, which we never, never eat except in France, and it was really excellent. The whole dinner had a

A Paint Brush Can Transform Old Furniture

By Edith Weigle.

White elephants in old furniture, pieces that perhaps are now just collecting dust in the attic, can be entirely changed and made into useful and attractive articles by painting them and by applying hand decorations. If you provide yourself with the proper enamels, oil paints, varnishes, brushes, and the always necessary bottle of turpentine plus a lot of old rags you'll find the job can be quite simple and is sure to be interesting.

One manufacturer of paints has recently printed a pamphlet illustrated in photographs [some of them in color] which shows the amateur exactly how to make over and paint old furniture. A clumsy old golden oak buffet becomes a useful kitchen work table and cabinet by having its feet sawed off so that it rests flat on the floor.

The top surface is painted Chinese red, as are the wooden drawer pulls and the large lower drawer in which linens used to be kept. The rest of the piece is painted white enamel. And a shallow top drawer was simply taken out and inverted, thus furnishing extra surface space for cutting bread or doing other kitchen jobs.

An ugly Victorian dresser with an attached mirror can be made to look really presentable by cutting off the legs so that it rests on the floor and by removing the mirror and its support. This gives you a plain chest which you can proceed to paint any color you wish. Detach the mirror from its support and paint its frame, then hang it above the chest, and there you are!

A homely old dresser was changed into a charming little buffet by removing the brass drawer pulls and replacing them with ordinary wood dowel pins, the whole being given a coat of white enamel trimmed in turquoise blue, and the drawers enlivened by free hand Pennsylvania Dutch painted decorations. Or you could apply the popular decalcomania motifs sold so inexpensively in the stores, if you don't trust your ability as an artist.

special tang and was well served in the casual French way.

A friend of mine, Mrs. J. Lorimer Worden, had a Red Cross booth there a while ago and, noting an acquaintance, a vastly rich war refugee making his way into the Pavilion with a party, she asked him for a contribution for Europe's starving children. The foreigner replied, smiling blandly, that he would see her on the way out. This man, however, on the way out, breezed by Mrs. Worden at top speed and tried to escape, but she flew after him. His excuse, presented with a courtly bow, was that he had only 10 cents left for Europe's starving populations.

The summer garden of the Ritz has had great vogue this year. We went there one Sunday and were highly peeved to find it closed for the time owing to a cold snap. But patrons of the open air garden all had crowded into the grill, and it was lively enough. There was Emil Mathis, French millionaire motor car maker, and his tall, temperamental wife. The story at Hot Springs was that Mathis had had something to do with building the Maginot line. Also the Bernon Prentices, who are part owners of the vast Homestead hotel in the Alleghenies, and the Hayden Harrises, no longer now of Chicago but permanently settled in a top floor apartment at the Ritz-Carlton where we went to see them another day. The handsome high ceiled establishment leased by Mr. Harris was occupied for 24 years by the late Richard F. Howe and for five years before that by Whitney Warren, architect of the Ritz and many other of Gotham's landmarks.

The Harrises had salvaged a few of their possessions from the ruins of their burned African farmstead at Leesburg, just enough to make the new home seem homelike. Their dining room furniture, a beautiful tapestry and some handsome family portraits adorn the Ritz apartment, and Mr. Harris has already had replicas made of his African animal paintings which now line the walls of his "den." These studies include a herd of elephants on the march, a fascinating giraffe nibbling daintily at a treetop, a water buffalo, some graceful elands, and a flock of monkeys in a coconut grove. All of these animals were either seen by the Harris party from a treetop at Nairobi where they spent a wakeful night, or during a four month stay in Central Africa. One of their greatest losses in the fire that destroyed their country house was the entire moving picture record in color of their African journey.

Huntington Harris, younger son of Lena and Hayden, has recently been in a hospital in East Africa with acute appendicitis, but is on the mend, so says the war department in Washington.

Mrs. Paul Healy talked me into seeing the New York museum. She had never been there and, trying to recapture something of the atmosphere of Manhattan's past, we taxied Sunday afternoon to 103d street at Fifth avenue. The early American brick building, facing Central park, has two wings and is very handsome. The collections on three floors are largely gifts and souvenirs from old New York families and include portraits and silver, costumes over 200 years old, and several rooms furnished in period. One I found quite macabre was early Victorian with much carved rosewood furniture, while another in the style of Adam was elegant and beautiful. The Robert Livingston and De Peyster families had given freely of their treasures, and upstairs in the Navy room Harry Culver had presented several of the early day ship models from his famous collection. There were uniforms of men who had fought in all our wars, and a very complete department of children's toys, beautifully installed and very quaint.

There are fine old engravings and handsome pieces of furniture, jewels of the past and costumes by Worth as worn by Mrs. Astor and other social dragons 75 years ago. Taken all in all we were edified by the New York museum, which has a longer past to tap than our own Chicago Historical museum in Lincoln park, but in no way surpasses it.

The Cordon Bleu is a little luncheon place which has blossomed out at 117 East 60th street, and has such success that you can't always get in. At least I couldn't. The Cordon Bleu was simply bulging with the young smart set that day.

TO BE WED IN NOVEMBER

Miss Betty Marie Kennedy will be married in November to Staff Sgt. Edward H. Pippin, who is stationed at Tampa, Fla. Miss Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald J. Kennedy of North Natchez avenue, attended Barat college. Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pippin of Kentucky and Virginia, attended the University of Kentucky.

A lovely young widow, Loretta Hines Howard, formerly of Chicago, then Dayton, is the angel of the place. Loretta is the sister of Lt. Comdr. Ralph Hines and Charles Hines and has never ceased to mourn the tragedy of Howell Howard's death in a polo accident. We remember well their magnificent wedding here in the cathedral, with Archbishop Mundelein to bless them. But these are the vanished glories of yesterday. Loretta has backed a French woman chef, apparently the only one in existence, a graduate of Cordon Bleu of Paris, and pushed her into prosperity. The food is exquisite, and the former Chicago heiress lends a hand at everything, dishwashing, waitressing, and the cash register.

We dropped in one day at our former pet "Hamburg Heaven" and it, too, was much crowded. And when we paid for our hamburger in its toasted roll [wondering all the time what was in it] we found we might as well have lunched at the St. Regis. Sitting next us on a stool was a handsome creature. We each eyed the other covertly until suddenly our eyes met. It was Frances McCoy, wife of the dashing, doughty general, Frank McCoy, who was away on war duty. So we women went to a movie. The McCoys still love Chicago, it seems.

Katrina Spaulding gave me a choice of lunch at the Colony club or the Cosmopolitan. We took the latter on account of the garden and lunching on the veranda overhanging it. The Cosmopolitan club has moved up from 40th street to East 66th street and is an agglomeration of fashionable highbrows. The building itself is beautiful with a black and white entrance foyer and a graceful double stair circling up. The main dining room has a soundproof ceiling and the usual roar of feminine conversation hovering over lunch conclaves is missing. The vista from the dining room veranda was a pleasure. New York has gone haywire on gardens, and all these New York "back yards" had been converted into lovely little Chinese, Persian, English, and Dutch gardens with little shimmering poplar trees, wisteria vines and highly ornamental trellises and arbors. The whole interior of the city block seemed to be a bower of delicate green and there were evidences of outdoor lunching and dining.

Later we strolled down into the club garden and found Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Williams and Mrs. Walter Ayer. Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Ayer are the former Henrietta and Phoebe McCormick of Chicago, who now live in Manhattan. My hostess, Mrs. William S. Spaulding of Boston, was agitated that day about her beautiful, youngest girl, Countess Lorenzo Paolozzi, the wife of the valiant young papal chamberlain, who is in attendance at the Vatican.

Alice Paolozzi and her two little girls have been in Italian Switzerland for over a year, nicely installed in a charming villa not a great distance from Cortina d'Ampezzo. Also living in the same region with her family of little children is the crown princess of Italy, Marie Jose, who sends her infants to school with the other youngsters of the district. Many Belgian children have been sent to this school to escape the rigors of the Belgian winter.

While in New York we saw Mrs. Harry Hamlin, lately home from England where her only daughter, Judy, is married to a Londoner. After helping to fight the battle of Britain, Mrs. Hamlin managed to return to her East Hampton, New York, farm, and is hard at it again as a woman model farmer. Mary Paxton Hamlin was a daughter of Manhattan's greatest pulpit orator, the Rev. John R. Paxton, whose Presbyterian church at the turn of the century was called "Church of the Millionaires." Russel Sage, Jay Gould, the Harrimans, Heber Bishops, Flaglers, Duncans, Paynes, Ladews, and scores of others worshiped regularly in his congregations.

It was wonderful to find Chicago up to its eyebrows in good deeds again! My traveling hat was still on my head when St. Luke's Fashion show and its latest bulletins were poured into my consciousness: Orchestra hall at 2:30, Oct. 6, and that same evening again. Boxes all sold, some of them twice over, patrons clamored for seats, exhibitors more generous than ever, everything quite divine. Later lunching one day at 1500 Lake Shore drive with Mrs. Charles Renshaw and some young matrons who will put over the "feature," we heard exciting details of the show. A bevy of beauties will tread the gangway at Orchestra hall dressed in Chicago newspapers. Mrs. Michael Cudahy will model The Chicago Tribune, and Mrs. Louis Sudler and Mrs. Watson McLallen are on the list of a dozen newsprint mannequins.

Then there is the Yankee Doodle ball at the Drake Oct. 9—Arden Shore's masterpiece this year with Stewart Warner for its sponsor. Mrs. Maynard Fessenden is chairman of the Yankee Doodle ball and Mrs. Thomas Fleming its gifted publicist. The ball is a dinner-dance with a breath taking floor show at 11 o'clock and Lew Diamond's orchestra for the dancing. The Gold Coast room in all its splendor and the Blue ballroom will stage the patriotic dance, where girls and men in uniform will be among the dancers.

Arden Shore is a great charity, founded 40 years ago by Mrs. Robert Gregory and caring yearly for 2,000 underfed children in its summer camps, and a smaller group in winter. Vive the Yankee Doodle ball!

Midwesterners Enjoy Summer at Watch Hill

WATCH HILL, R. I.

Many midwesterners made their accustomed migration to the surf-beaten shores of New England this summer, despite hazards of transportation and the uncertainties of food supply. Chicago, St. Louis, Cleveland, Cincinnati, and Detroit all were represented as usual at Watch Hill, that favorite old seashore colony down at the southwestern corner of Rhode Island where the broad sweep of the Atlantic spreads out before the delighted gaze of summer pilgrims from the prairies.

The season was far from dull at Watch Hill even with the ration book enthroned as social arbiter. Entertaining on a modest scale survived at the smart little Beach club, which is fortunately within walking distance of most of the cottages and hotels. Its daily buffet luncheons were popular for families, and on Saturdays there was a general rally of the colony with men up from New York and Washington and a scattering of college boys from summer training at Yale, Brown, and Dartmouth.

To this social assembly the midwesterners contributed their quota. From Chicago there were Mrs. George R. Nichols and her two popular sons, George and Frank, and the latter's attractive wife; Mrs. Louise deKoven Phelps and her son, Coxswain Hubbard Phelps, United States coast guard, and his wife and their little baby for whom a special christening party was given in the Watch Hill chapel; Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell Forgan and their vivacious young daughters, Joan and Florence. The Forgans had the cottage of Mrs. Forgan's sister, Mrs. Bradford Shinkle of St. Louis, for the season.

Later to arrive were Mr. and Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift, who had leased their own cottage, Westwater, early in the season to the Stacy Lloyds of Philadelphia, and were obliged to find another for their sojourn. Their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift Jr., also their daughter, Mrs. Richard A. Morse, the former Jane Swift, were with the Swifts during their stay. Oren E. Taft, both of whose grandsons, Stewart and Phil Peck, are in the services, was one of the earliest arrivals in the cottage colony.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Clifford Shinkle of Cincinnati and their daughters, the Misses Frances and Kate Shinkle, opened their cottage early in June and were prominent in social and war activities. Mr. Shinkle was reelected for the fourth year to the presidency of the Watch Hill chapel, one of the community's most highly regarded organizations. Miss Frances and Miss Kate were vice chairmen of the Watch Hill volunteer defense committee and indispensable to its success.

Watch Hill felt keenly the loss of Mrs. Truman H. Newberry of Detroit, whose death early in January took one of the community's most prominent social leaders for the last 25 years. Mr. Newberry came to the Hill for a short visit at the Ocean house, not opening his summer residence, and was welcomed by a host of friends.

Watch Hill did not lack for ingenuity in beating the ration bogey. The problem of getting around was answered principally by the bicycle, which early appeared in squadrons. Racks were set up quickly at the Beach club and the chapel. Some mothers and nurses carried their little charges to the beach in baskets attached to their bikes. One of those little miniature cars run by battery and known as "red bugs" which long have been standard equipment at Jekyl Island was brought by Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Hope of New York to the covetous envy of everybody.

The Misquamicut Golf club, too far out to walk, was saved from being a total casualty by a few indomitables headed by Mrs. Louise deKoven Phelps who biked their way to the course and persevered in puting on the women's annual tournament and spurred the men to do likewise. The matches were stretched out over three week-ends to accommodate everybody. Mrs. Phelps, who has been club champion for 10 years, took medalist honors but was vanquished in the semi-finals by Miss Muriel McKaig of Pittsburgh, who in turn lost the tournament to Mrs. Reginald H. Fullerton of New York.

Despite early pessimism that the half-billion dollar recreation industry of New England was doomed because of the ban on pleasure driving, the outcome was amazingly the reverse. At Watch Hill, as elsewhere, the hotels were filled to capacity all summer and the Ocean House turned away scores daily. The phenomenon was explained by experts as an escape from rationed housekeeping. The shortage of hotel help was endured good naturedly, and some of the guests sympathetically helped out with various odd jobs. They mowed grass, weeded the vegetable garden, and even painted chairs.

One shortage which threatened to make the summer dull for the girls was the absence of young men in service. This situation was remedied with glamorous results, however, by inviting the officers of nearby army and navy bases to a series of dances. Mrs. Forgan, Mrs. Phelps, Mrs. W. King White, Miss Frances Shinkle, and Mrs. Eugene F. Williams were among the patronesses, and Joan and Florence Forgan, Georgia and Marie Williams, Florence Shinkle and Eleanor White were members of the girls' committee. The officers in their smart uniforms went far to compensate for the absence of the Watch Hill boys.

An amusing scavenger hunt organized by George Nichols for the benefit of the American Merchant Marine Association Library fund had such requisitions as a "zoot suit," "something you hate most," and "the freshest thing you can find." The hunt raised over $400 thru the auction of the teams.

Watch Hill made an outstanding record in its volunteer defense activities, carrying on a program which included air raid protection, motor corps, casualty station, messenger corps which collected fats, scrap and stockings, knitting, sending 36 donors to the blood bank, maintaining a full time personnel at its sector post and topping its quota of 10,000 surgical dressings with an extra 5,000.

The third war loan drive gave the Watch Hill colony a final opportunity to show its patriotism. No quota had been assigned to the resort, as it had been expected that the summer guests would make their subscriptions in their home cities. Nevertheless, a table was set up at the Beach club by Miss Kate Shinkle and a group of women, and they persuaded their friends to buy $22,000 in bonds so that Watch Hill could make a showing. Meanwhile, the air wardens went around to the back doors of the cottages and got pledges and sales from cooks, maids, butlers, chauffeurs amounting to $3,500, a neat total of $27,500 which Uncle Sam might not have had if it were not for the patriotic spirit of the summer colony.

When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, Oct. 5, 1895.

Dear Julia: Will came home with an echo of the past in the shape of a description of an interview he had had with the Countess Magri, Tom Thumb's widow, now married to an Italian dwarf.

Will was just taking his departure from a client in a hotel lobby when a reporter who had come to interview the tiny woman came along and suggested that he be present, thinking that she might talk more freely to someone not of the Fourth Estate. Will was nothing loth, of course, and when he told the small countess that he had seen Gen. Tom Thumb several times, she was very communicative. I hadn't thought of her for years. After Tom Thumb died—in 1883, I believe—she did not appear in public and I had supposed her dead. "Alas!" said Rip, "how soon we are forgotten!" With her husband she is touring the country in the Parisian circus, which is showing here.

Mrs. Tom Thumb.

She talked very well and sensibly, Will says, on topics of the day. She was asked, of course, her opinion on women's rights, and replied that she believes in women's rights, to an extent. Women should be allowed to serve on school boards. "But," said she, "I do not think woman suffrage will be established in your lifetime or mine. In the northwestern part of the United States I have found the doctrine has a strong foothold, but the people of the midwest and the east are not ready for it.

"Sometimes I wonder," she added, "what would be the result if we women should come into full possession of our rights. I am afraid we might neglect our homes and that would be a loss, for there is certainly no life so beautiful as home life." Will said he had to repress a smile at this comment on domestic felicity from one whose waking moments have been spent as a museum attraction. I presume it is because of this that she longs for the chance to live a settled life in a quiet home.

She is wearing deep mourning because of the recent death of her mother, and Will said her somber costume looked odd on her pudgy form. Do you remember what a fuss was made over her marriage to Tom Thumb at Grace church, New York, in the '60s? The nation forgot the Civil war for a day and the whole city turned out for the occasion. President and Mrs. Lincoln sent a gift, as did most of the dignitaries of the country. I wonder what has become of all the treasures. Tom Thumb died in straitened circumstances, I know. Perhaps some of these gifts were sacrificed, at the last, to pay bills. I think his widow, now the Countess Magri, is doing pretty well by appearing in museums and circuses, but it is nothing to the success she had when Barnum did the managing.

We are having some fine theatrical performances here this week. Julia Marlowe Taber and her husband, Robert Taber, are offering Shakespearean drama, and Ada Rehan, with the Daly company, is presenting "As You Like It," Miss Rehan taking the part of Rosalind.

Mr. James L. Houghteling called this evening and we enjoyed seeing him. He has just returned from Louisville, where he attended the annual meeting of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, which he was largely instrumental in founding in 1883 when a group of Episcopal laymen gathered in St. James church and organized for work among young men. The Brotherhood has now about 1,200 chapters thruout the country. Mr. Houghteling is an able business man, but puts his work for the church before his business. St. James church may well be proud of him. And now, I must say good night. Your loving friend,

Martha Freeman Esmond.

FOOTNOTES.

James L. Houghteling Jr., like his father, has been president of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, his term of office including the years 1938-1940. He is assistant secretary of the treasury and his home is in Washington, D. C.

Reminding You.

Readers of this column are urged to save either Oct. 15 or Oct. 16 for the play, "Port of Chicago," to be given by the Uptown Players, at their theater, 1219 North La Salle street. These two nights are dedicated to the "When Chicago Was Young" column, and it is expected that many readers will be present. Which side of the city will have the best representation? You will not want to miss seeing this drama of Chicago, in this year which marks the 50th anniversary of the World's Columbian exposition.

Netherwood Hall.

We had no idea that this building held so many memories, but readers continue to tell us of these. Mrs. George Belanger, 9108 Grant avenue, Brookfield, Ill., writes of pleasant times she had there. She tells, too, of skating parties at Douglas park every Wednesday, while after church on Sundays their "crowd" went to Ressick's Grove for a picnic. "Boys and girls in those days," writes Mrs. Belanger, "had very good times without taverns. We went to good dramatic shows instead."

All right, renew the past by attending "Port of Chicago."

Victorian Keepsake.

Almost every day some reader writes that "The Keepsake" has been read and re-read. Why not order your copy now, at Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, or Tribune Tower? Price, 50 cents. By mail, 55 cents.

Poem of the Week.

The Days Grow Shorter.

If you'd like this poem, sent in by F. E. Bonney of Evanston, send stamped, addressed envelope to Herma Clark, care Chicago Tribune, Tribune Tower.

ENGAGED

Miss Margaret Lou Wilder, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Bidwell Wilder of Clyde avenue, are announcing her engagement to Sgt. James W. Troup, son of Mr. and Mrs. William N. Troup of South University avenue. Miss Wilder attended DePauw university. Sgt. Troup is stationed with the army air forces in England.

English Opera Star Sings at Missouri Spa

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo.

Mme. Maude Runyan, formerly of Chicago, sang at three concerts here last week. Mme. Runyan, who is resting here briefly after several army camp appearances, did not forget the boys at the Veterans' hospital on the hill. They had their slice of opera, comic opera, too, on Sunday afternoon. In her youth Mme. Runyan sang in Covent Garden, London, England.

She is marooned in America for the time being, but the fighting English family to which she belongs marches forward in the ranks of Great Britain's services. Two brothers are reported missing in action, while a third is flight commander in the British air forces. A brother-in-law occupies the same position. Mme. Runyan's sister, Nellie, is engaged in ferrying planes up and down the coast of England and only recently accompanied Anthony Eden to this country. The remaining sister is matron of the famous Charing Cross hospital on the outskirts of London. Men of the American Legion, who recently convened in Omaha, had the pleasure of hearing the "Star Spangled Banner" as sung by their sister from Britain.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. Bates have organized a "Cheer for Chicago" club. Among others belonging are Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Scheidecker, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin O. Schiewe, and Robert Elling.

The F. W. Ferstals and the Clarence S. Pattingales should return to Chicago, each with the strength of 10 men, for all thru their stay at Excelsior Springs they have partaken of iron-manganese waters, direct from the only iron-manganese spring in this country.

Walking down Excelsior Springs streets the other day one heard the strains of a good old Missouri hoe down and noticed Mr. and Mrs. Otto E. Stroebel and Mr. and Mrs. John Pollock, all of Chicago, completely surrounding a bona fide Missouri hill billy fiddler. All feet were tapping, all hands were clapping.

Lookers-on at the navy cadet ball the other evening were Mr. and Mrs. Urban Lelli. Flaxen haired Barbara Ann Lelli, aged 4, was nearly as popular with the cadets as were the pretty misses whom they escorted to the dance.

Ruth Sondel Is Bride of William Dickerson Todd

The marriage on Sept. 8 of Miss Ruth Sondel to William Dickerson Todd of the navy, son of Mrs. Robert T. Todd of Wolcott avenue, has been announced by the bride's mother, Mrs. Louis Carl Sondel of North Damen avenue and Lake Geneva, Wis. The marriage took place in the Breezy Point chapel at the naval air station, Norfolk, Va. The bride has resumed her studies at the Lake Forest college, and after her graduation in January, she plans to rejoin her husband in the east. Mr. Todd attended the University of Kentucky before his enlistment in the navy.

The American Opera society will gather at 11 o'clock Wednesday in the Arts club for its opening luncheon meeting, which will bring Mme. Elaine De Sellme actively in office as president. Betty Browning Marshall, former Tribune writer, will show for the first time a new series of motion pictures in color to which she has given the title "The Land We're Fighting For." They are the pictorial record of a trip across America. Sharing the program with Mrs. Marshall will be Dr. William Lester, composer and pianist, who will provide a musical prolog of typical American music.

Mrs. Esther Turkington is program chairman for the society this season.

The opening program of the Chicago Woman's Musical club Thursday afternoon in the Fine Arts building will bring as special guests Désiré Defauw, conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and Mrs. Albert H. Ullrich, president of the Chicago Women's Symphony Orchestra association. Mrs. Cornelius J. Peeples will preside. Inez Hubbard Hicks, soprano, and Edith Martin, pianist, will be heard as soloists, and the lyric, violin, cello, and piano ensemble, whose members are Irene Weller, Valberg Goddard, and Ella Furholmen, also will perform.

Two other fine arts groups resuming meetings this week are Chicago chapter of the Catholic Poetry Society of America, of which Miss Mary Agnes Ryan is president, and the Daughters of the Renaissance, whose president is Mrs. Winfield N. Macqueen.

The poetry group will gather tomorrow evening in room 1009 of the Fine Arts building to hear a lecture by the Rev. Emmett T. Regan of Holy Name cathedral on "The Apostolate of Letters."

Father Regan is the director of the Cathedral Book club, one of the foremost Catholic literary groups in the city. He also is the director of noted Cathedral choristers.

Continuing a practice begun last season, the club's verse study group will gather before the regular meeting for a round table discussion on poetry techniques with Mrs. Adele Jordan Tarr.

The Daughters of the Renaissance meeting, a luncheon and program, will be held at 1 o'clock Tuesday in the Wedgewood room at Marshall Field's.

Women in War Work

By Kate Massee

Another appeal for day time guides at the Chicago Service Men's Centers has been made by Mrs. Berthold A. Cronson, chairman of the guide service. Fifty more women are needed to work either from 10:30 a. m. to 2 p. m., or from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m. Enthusiasm and interest are primary requisites, Mrs. Cronson said, and she suggested that women whose husbands are in the services should find the work stimulating.

Mrs. Berthold A. Cronson. [Paul Stone-Raymor photo.]

Guides now actively engaged in this war work total 400, and this number includes business and professional women, club members and college students. Organizations represented include 80 members of the La Salle Street women's organizations, and 30 from the Junior League and the Service club. Graduates from 41 colleges and universities also are on the roster, as well as members of the Renaissance Society of the University of Chicago, the Chicago College club, the Council on Foreign Relations and the Tall Girls' club. Doctors, lawyers, teachers and housewives also are active.

Women interested in enrolling for this highly interesting service to soldiers and sailors should apply to Mrs. Cronson at Service Men's Center No. 1, 176 West Washington street.

Mrs. Albert C. Read, wife of Rear Adm. A. C. Read, officer in charge of naval aviation training for the 9th naval district, has been appointed senior Gray Lady at Passavant hospital, Mrs. John S. Miller, acting chairman of the Gray Ladies' hospital and recreation corps of the Red Cross, announced recently.

Mrs. Read has been a volunteer Gray Lady for eight years, and received her Red Cross training in Washington, D. C. While Adm. Read was stationed at Pensacola, Fla., Mrs. Read was chairman of the Gray Lady corps there.

At present there are 19 Gray Ladies assigned to Passavant hospital, where they supervise games and handicrafts suited to the skills of convalescent patients. All Gray Ladies are chosen after careful consideration of their temperamental suitability for hospital work and their knowledge of recreational therapy.

Classes in handicrafts for Gray Ladies are in progress now, under the direction of the Chicago Board of Education art department. A beginners' handicraft class for accredited Gray Ladies on the north shore will begin tomorrow, and will be conducted by Miss Catherine Murphy, art director of the New Trier High school in Winnetka.

The home service department of the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross performs a three fold service: To the service man, to his family, and to the community. Mrs. Edwin W. Eisendrath, chairman of the volunteer corps, reports that stranded wives and children, who have followed fighting men to Chicago, turn to the Red Cross, which helps them to find temporary lodging and then arrange for money to return them to their homes.

The Red Cross urges families of service men to stay at home, rather than follow husbands and fathers from one camp to another, but when families do leave their home towns and come to the city, the home service corps alleviates the situation.

The Red Cross home service worked out a plan to enable the family to return to the southern home of the wife's parents, where the navy husband's allotment would suffice to keep the wife and children in health and security.

Another typical case is that of the army wife with a sick child, stranded in Chicago. The home service corps arranged medical care and hospitalization for the baby, notified the soldier, thru the Red Cross field director at his camp, of his wife's plight, and worked out plans for the wife's return to her home state upon recovery of the child from his illness.

State Eastern Star Chapter Plans Session

The 69th annual convention of the Illinois grand chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star, which is to be held on Tuesday and Wednesday in the Medinah temple, will be preluded by a dinner dance tomorrow night at the Palmer House in compliment to Mrs. Esther Gielow of Chicago, worthy grand matron, and Arthur L. Johnson of Rockford, worthy grand patron.

Mrs. Esther Gielow. [Walinger Photo.]

The tribute to the executive officers, who will preside on Tuesday and Wednesday over the assemblage of delegates representing 130,000 members in the state, is particularly in recognition of Mrs. Gielow's leadership in the order's unusual war service and philanthropic program of the last year. In addition to charitable projects for two homes for aged and indigent at Rockford and Macon, members have totaled $15,000,000 in war bond and stamp sales, and $8,151 has been raised for the American Red Cross. Volunteer workers have given 1,259,000 hours of service to the Red Cross, and at the Masonic service men's center, 11,922 uniformed men have been served refreshments and suppers by the Eastern Star members.

Dr. Preston Bradley will give the address of welcome at the opening convention meeting at 10 o'clock on Tuesday morning, and Herbert Gielow will assume the role of master of ceremonies at tomorrow night's party. Gov. Dwight Green and the Hon. Edgar A. Jonas are expected as special guests, as are the following national officers: Mrs. Effie Easton of California, most worthy grand matron; Charles H. Townsend of Casper, Wyo., most worthy grand patron; Mrs. Minnie Keyes of Washington, D. C., right worthy grand secretary, and Mrs. Eva Hamilton of Chicago, right worthy grand trustee.

Election of officers will be held at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, with installation services scheduled that evening. Mrs. Agnes MacMeekin and Alex Ruxton are slated to head the organization during the coming year.

A.A.U.W. to Hold All-Day Round Table

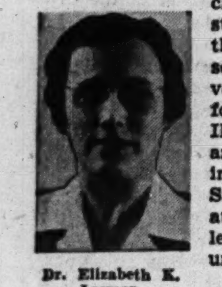
Priority interest in college alumnae activities this week may be claimed by the state division of the American Association of University Women for its Northern Illinois workshop, an all-day meeting to be held Saturday in Irion at Elmhurst college in that suburb.



Dr. Elizabeth K. Lawson.

Particularly planned for branch leaders, the workshop of leaders' conferences and lectures will have "Evaluating A. A. U. W.'s Priorities" for its general theme. Dr. Elizabeth K. Lawson, dean of women and professor of education at Eastern Illinois State Teachers college, Charleston, who recently assumed the presidency of Illinois division of the association, will conduct the meeting and also will give the introductory talk at the opening session.

Scheduled for the principal address at the morning session is Mrs. A. W. Clevenger of Urbana, division education chairman, whose talk will carry the title, "Revolution by Round Table or Riot."

Dean Genevieve Staudt of Elmhurst college will speak to the women at a luncheon session in St. Peter's church. The afternoon will be devoted to a series of round tables for branch officers conducted by members of the state staff.

Elmhurst branch of the association will be the hostess group, Mrs. Vernon L. Orton, its president, serving as chairman of hostesses, and Mrs. John M. Nicoll as general chairman. Others active on the workshop committee are Mrs. W. C. Selden, Miss Ida Lane Settle, Mrs. R. H. Eaton, Mrs. Edgar T. Thoma, Mrs. Ralph Baier, Miss Edith Thompson, Mrs. H. R. Winemiller, Miss Eleanor Davis, and Mrs. Cyril Baker.

With new victory and home fund and U. S. O. and Red Cross projects already under way, chapter A, Illinois, of the P. E. O. sisterhood will open the fall season at a luncheon meeting at 12:45 o'clock tomorrow in the Palmer House. Mrs. Gail P. Swartz presiding. For entertainment, Gladys Bazazan will be presented at 2 o'clock in a lecture program on the dance.

The Oberlin clubs of Chicago and Oak Park will entertain women students of Oberlin college who reside in this vicinity at a tea Saturday afternoon in the College club, 30 North Michigan avenue.

Builders Find Many New Uses for Asbestos

By Louise Bergelt.

Except for a few war workers, new homes are out for the duration, but a recent revision of WPB construction regulations has extended the home owners' opportunities for making permanent roofing and siding improvements where these are needed.

Modern repair materials are available and run down homes are being given a new lease on life. Sometimes all that is necessary is a few coats of good paint. Again, a house may need new sidewalls or a new roof.

Asbestos cement materials are coming to the fore along the entire home building and repair front. Asbestos roofing and siding shingles have great durability and fire protection value. They are made of asbestos fibers and portland cement, permanently combined under tremendous pressure. These abestos cement materials are fabricated into many different products.

There are roofing shingles which give protection against flames and the spread of fire. Then there are siding shingles which require no preservative treatment, and there are boards which can be used for general utility purposes in city and country dwellings alike.

Boards of this type can be employed as a lining for recreation rooms, furnace or boiler rooms, garages and work rooms, and for the building of fire retardent partitions, store rooms and closets. These asbestos cement boards are formed into flexible and semi-flexible sheets. Both asbestos and cement, it is said, are available in ample quantities to permit the manufacture of these boards on a large scale. And because they are plentiful their use is being encouraged to conserve vital war materials.

Boards of this type are being found to be especially useful for farm buildings. They have a smooth, dense surface which can be hosed and scrubbed at regular intervals, and they do not rot, corrode, or burn. Among the farm uses for this type of board are linings for grain bins and machine sheds, brooder houses, cow barns, milk houses, and feed rooms.

Clothes chutes offer a ready path to carry flames from one floor of a house to another, and for the sake of safety, chutes made of a fire proof material such as asbestos board are a sensible investment.

Lockers for plants and factories are now being built of asbestos sheathing, thus saving wood and metal. Asbestos is a mineral product, but is not the name of a distinct mineral species. It is, instead, more a cemmercial name given to several minerals from which soft, silky fibers can be extracted. It is mined like iron ore and the fibers which are extracted have literally hundreds of uses. The United States has several important deposits, notably in Vermont and Arizona, but asbestos is mined principally in Canada, Russia, Southern Rhodesia, and the Union of South Africa.

Parent-Teacher Week to Initiate Membership Drive

Taking for its slogan "Protection of Youth on the Home Front," the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers will observe this as Illinois Parent-Teacher week. The observance will initiate the membership enrollment campaign of the state organization for the new club year, with a goal of 200,000 members set by Mrs. George W. Nold of Belleville, state membership chairman.

Mrs. Theodore Gleichman of Moline, state president, recently pointed out to local units, in discussing the objectives of the slogan: "If we are to come thru this great national crisis successfully, it will be because of the united effort of all right thinking people. It will not be enough to guard the children in our own families; we must be concerned with the children of those parents who, for any reason, do not provide the proper background for wholesome development."

RECENT BRIDE

Mrs. Robert Mack David has joined Sgt. David at Alpine, Tex., near his army air force post at Marfa, Tex. She is the former Elizabeth Madeline Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick F. # New England Women Plan to Meet Here

The directors' board of the National Society of New England Women will gather in Chicago Tuesday for a two day meeting, concurrent with a regional conference, in the Palmer House. Chicago and Pilgrim colonies, the two local groups of the society, headed respectively by Mrs. Bert Crissey and Mrs. Howard W. Evans, are assuming the hostess role and arranging for the dinner and luncheon sessions and special programs.

At a dinner Tuesday, following the opening board conference in the afternoon, the women will hear a talk on "Japan and the Near East" by Henry Hugh Thomas of the British consulate.

A tea will be given for the visitors Wednesday afternoon at the Woman's Athletic club. The contingent of special guests will include Mrs. Leon E. Bushnell of Syracuse, N. Y., president general of the society; Mrs. Raymond D. MacCart of Marminster, Pa., the recording secretary; Miss Florence Morrison Spofford of Chicago, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. George P. Truitt of Kansas City, Mo., chaplain general.

A musical program has been arranged for the first fall meeting of the Daughters of Indiana, called for 2 o'clock Tuesday at Curtiss hall in the Fine Arts building. The gathering will mark the 30th anniversary of the organization. Mrs. John E. Condran, vice president in charge of programs, will present Helen Bickerton, soprano, and Raymond Koch, baritone. Mrs. Clifford R. Rogers will preside.

Lamp Shades Very Easily Made at Home

By Claire Winslow.

You can design and make your own lamp shades, using dress materials or drapery fabrics, and achieving very smart effects, if you combine a striped and plain chintz, or a plaid and plain cotton taffeta. Use one of your old frames and fit the new one over it.

At your sewing machine center you'll be given simple instructions that will enable you to make professional looking finishes of ruffling, pleating, hemstitching, cording, and binding by using the attachments on your machine. Even intricate looking rows of shirring will not require much time if you use the gathering foot attachment.

The attractive lamp shade shown in the sketch has smart cartridge pleats that are cylindrical in shape. They're given a stiffened effect by filling them with cotton. These pleats are made of a plain, solid toned cotton taffeta, while the rest of the shade is of plaid of the same fabric.

The base of the lamp is cream white pottery, one of those inexpensive table models that you can find in any good department store.

Association for Family Living to Hold Study Series

The Association for Family Living is offering a refresher course on "The Art of Leadership," with weekly classes on six consecutive Wednesday mornings from 10 until 11:30 a. m., beginning next Wednesday at association headquarters in suite 1426, 209 South State street.

The classes, which will be under the direction of Mrs. Sora Barth Loeb, educational coördinator for the organization, are designed particularly to assist staff members and volunteers in group work agencies and churches, leaders of study groups and women's clubs, OCD morale leaders, and parent teacher associations.

"The war has increased the use of group discussion as the democratic means of thinking thru current problems," Mrs. Loeb pointed out in announcing the course. "Whether informal discussion is constructive or becomes mere argument rests with the leader." Wednesday's opening class discussion will be devoted to 3 topics: "What Makes a Good Leader?" "Where Will Leadership Be Needed?" and "What Preparation and What Resources Will Leaders Need in Order to Make Leadership Meaningful?"

Their lovely mellow colors, traditional designs, and great variety of weaves and textures are the final touch of rightness to an Early American room. # Gyro-Compass Recommended to Art Lovers

By Eleanor Jewett.

Beyond the shadow of a doubt the most beautiful exhibit to be found in Chicago at present is the Sperry gyro-compass in operation, the crowning achievement of the interesting navy show installed in the lobby of Tribune Tower. No matter how small your affection for mechanical items may be, no matter how much you may dread the word "machinery," do not miss the Sperry gyro-compass. It is beautiful to look at and beautiful to watch [in operation it simulates the motion of a ship]; it is so shiningly perfect in color and composition and line that as an objet d'art it far surpasses the things which we are often caused to inspect and comment upon in an exhibit. A beautiful piece of mechanism is as stirring as the finest paintihg or sculpture. Test the statement by looking in the lobby of the Tribune Tower at the Sperry gyro-compass; it is an amazingly beautiful device and the adjective should be written in large letters: BEAUTIFUL.

The first exhibition this fall offered by the All-Illinois Society of Fine Arts is the 17th annual exhibition of paintings by members. It is hanging in the west mezzanine gallery, Drake hotel. Mrs. Edwin N. Johnson, president of the organization, is in Texas and during her absence Mrs. Nelly Deachman is in charge of activities. This year the fees of the society have been limited to a hanging fee of 50 cents, which seems both modest and fair.

The current exhibit will continue to January 1. It is in two parts. Oil paintings are hanging in the west mezzanine and water colors in the east mezzanine. The range in painting runs much as usual with several pictures of unusual merit and an average of pleasant painting that while not exciting is satisfactory. Mrs. Deachman has sold several pictures for members of the society and as the all-Illinois slogan still is "A Painting by an Illinois Artist in Every Home in Illinois" she is fulfilling nobly the obligations of her position as acting head.

Adam Emory Albright offers "The Meadow," a charming landscape with two little children, handled in the sensitive manner that has made him famous with a large public. "Orchids" by Benjamin J. Beck is decorative, an unusually stunning flower piece. Alice Ross Brening shows a delightful "Magnolias" and "Lake Reflections" by E. G. Dannhausen is charming. The "Portrait of Mr. Saunders" by Nan Rice is one of the finest pictures in the show. Mr. Saunders has died since the exhibit opened and his portrait is a timely reminder of the great interest he always took in art and the great help he was for many years to the South Side Art association. His son, Theodore R. Saunders, is an artist and is represented in the exhibit by a very well handled western scene, "Mountain Landscape." Carl Tolpo is represented by an unusually good bit of painting, a portrait of a young woman, "Marlo Dwyer," with an intriguing color scheme and charming detail; the little vase is particularly nice. Mrs. Tolpo [Lily Tolpo] has a strong, brusque, sturdy venture in "Hold That Pose."

Among the water colors there are a number of most attractive and craftsmanlike pieces. "The Chinese Lady" by Nelly Deachman is immensely intriguing; "Mexican Farmyard" and "Gladiolus" by Myrtle E. Frankovitz are both outstanding; "With Luck or Not" by Laura Anderson is amusing; "Gaspé Shore" by Harry A. Sheckles is well done; "Blossom Time" by Florence White Williams carries the breath of spring and "June Bouquet" by Leo R. Weeks is lovely and delicate in color. Nina K. Griffin shows "Cineraria," stately and stunning; Frances Longshore has a fine water color in "Shacks in the Rain"; Dorothy Helmuth shows "To See a Fair Lady," a cunning story book adventure; and "The Old Landmark" by Lydia D. Pohl is an effective painting of an immense old tree. Sarah Ellen White offers a delightful "Spring Bouquet" [Mrs. White used to paint on china and her technique still has the exquisite preciseness of that craft].

All in all, the show is well worth seeing; it has infinite variety of subject matter and a steady level of pleasant achievement to commend it.

The first international photographic exhibit of the Field Museum of Natural History is on view and will hang to November 15. One hundred and fifty-two pictures are in the show, which is entitled "Lenses on Nature." All sorts of subjects have been submitted to the camera in assembling these portholes on natural life. Flowers, weeds, birds, animals, geological formations, forests, and reptiles all have stood on their best behavior for the camera artists and the result is an interesting and fine collection of impressions.

The Art institute is opening next Friday a comprehensive exhibit of prints by James Ensor and Edvard Munch. The two men are said to have exerted a considerable influence upon European art, but have remained practically unknown here. The 138 prints by Ensor which will be shown make up at least three-fourths of his total graphic work. There will be 65 prints by Munch, by far the largest showing he has ever received in the United States. Ensor, who died last year, was a Belgian and never in the course of his life left Belgium. Munch, born in Norway in 1863, is one of the oldest living modern painters. Until 1908 he lived alternately in Germany, Paris, and Norway. Since 1908 he has lived chiefly in Norway.

Both men work in much the same vein, sadonic and nervously fine. Both use imagery and fantastic creatures to help out their conceptions and both enjoy the brighter side of gloom. Those who can get pleasure from an owl's call and the mewing of a banshee will relish to the full the psychological subject matter on which Munch plays and the diabolical moods which hold sway over many of Ensor's more effective prints. Ensor is considered one of the strong sources of present day Surrealism.

The Art institute is starting a series of free motion pictures in Fullerton hall on Saturday afternoons at 2:30 o'clock. The first was given yesterday and four pictures were run off under the heading of "The United States." The series is entitled "Nations United for War and Peace" and subsequent Saturdays will find Great Britain, Canada, China, and South America before the lens. Each program lasts about an hour and a quarter and each sounds attractive. The series will be continued in November.

"A GENTLEMAN OF FLORENCE"

Ridolfo Ghirlandaio, a great Italian painter, lived between 1483 and 1561. His dignified portrait of a substantial Florentine of that period is one of the finest examples of the best of the Italian Renaissance. It has been selected as the Masterpiece of the Month at the Art institute. The portrait came to the museum thru the bequest of Mr. and Mrs. Martin A. Ryerson.

Make Up Bib Protects Clothing from Powder

Save your dresses from a snowfall of face powder by wearing a makeup bib when you apply your cosmetics. One pretty style is made of synthetic material that looks like silk and that has a printed design. It goes around the neck like a cape and ties, and the material won't crack or harden with age. In a number of colors and styles, it's $1.50.

Women Voters Schedule Two Group Sessions

The Illinois League of Women Voters have two departmental meetings scheduled this week. The department of government and its operation will meet at 10:30 o'clock on Tuesday at headquarters, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Marc A. Law, and at 10 o'clock on Friday members of the department of government and education will hear committee reports on findings in regard to child labor and truancy at school, and on the formation of local "school community" groups. Mrs. Philip Ringer will preside at the latter meeting, and committee chairmen of this group will remain for a 1 o'clock session devoted to city school problems.

Mrs. George Fairweather will open her Barrington home on Friday afternoon to members and guests of the Barrington League of Women Voters, who will be gathering for their opening meeting of the season. Mrs. Walter T. Fisher of Winnetka, state war chairman, will be the afternoon speaker and Mrs. Russell Johnson, president, will introduce her local chairmen, who will present plans for the coming year's activities.

Mrs. William H. Spencer, state chairman of government and foreign policy of the Illinois league, will discuss "Whose Foreign Policy?" with members of the Professional League of Women Voters at a 7:30 o'clock general meeting on Friday at the league offices. A preliminary foreign policy study class will be conducted by Miss Elsa Stunzi.

History Professor to Give Lecture at Sheil School

The book and author clinic of the Sheil School of Social Studies, presided over by Rousseau Van Voorhies, will have the Rev. H. C. Koenig, librarian and professor of church history at St. Mary of the Lake seminary, Mundelein, as guest speaker at its 8:15 o'clock session tomorrow night in the C. Y. O. center, 31 East Congress street. Father Koenig will lecture on "Principles of Peace."

Dedicated to Pope Pius XII., the 894 page volume is the first comprehensive study to be published giving the official Catholic peace viewpoints. Catholic scholars thruout the country collaborated on the vast research program involved in its preparation. Father Koenig directed the compilation of the book under the direction of an Episcopal committee headed by Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch.

DOING THE TOWN

Comes the ever feminine question, "What shall I wear?" Something beautiful, and satisfying, something that adds to your pleasure. Thoroughbred tweeds wrap you in warmth and admiration under the floodlights and stars of a night football game. Quick-tempo black for the concert weaves a web of symphonic grace about you.

And when you hit the neon trail, go all out for enticement. In a devastating evening dress that's cut low, and cut short. These clothes are conscious of your engagement book, your transportation, your audience,—these clothes are from Carson's.

Eastern Legion Post to Stage a Horse Show

For Chicagoans who are enjoying the glories of north shore autumn came a cheerful bit of news today that the Hamilton Legion post would stage a horse show and gymkhana on the old Myopia schooling field next Saturday afternoon.

MASS. BEVERLY;

With the Labor day show, a 50 year old institution of the Myopia Hunt club abandoned this year, the Legion show will be a bright lettered event for all of the colonies, with the pick of the stables in the Myopia district entered in competition for the cups and ribbons. Coming on Saturday, there will be much entertaining, and a dinner dance at the Myopia Hunt club will prove one of the happiest affairs of the early fall season. The north shore season, lengthening every year, finds few shuttered cottages along the shore, and with the hunting season soon to start at Myopia there will be comparatively few closings until Thanksgiving.

An event of north shore interest this week was the new book, "Naturalist at Large," by Dr. Thomas H. Barbour of Liberty Hill, Beverly Farms, famed head of the Harvard Museum of Comparative Zoology. Dr. and Mrs. Barbour will be at the Farms until Thanksgiving. Their daughter, Julia Barbour, is chairman of the entertainment committee at the Trinity Place Officers' club in Boston, while Louisa Barbour is an aid at the Beverly hospital and the third daughter, Mrs. Alfred Kidder II. [Mary Barbour], who accompanied her father on many of his scientific expeditions, is now in Washington, where her husband, Capt. Kidder, is stationed.

The Edward Windsors may be among the late autumn visitors to the north shore, coming from the Bahamas for the hunting season at the famed Myopia Hunt Club in Hamilton.

The John Clays, who have been at their summer home out on Eastern point in Gloucester, have returned to their Chicago home. The Clays were among the early comers to Cape Ann this season. The younger Clays were prominent in yachting affairs this summer and carried home with them several trophies which were won in the Eastern Point Yacht club and other race meets.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Henderson have announced the engagement of their daughter, Lillian, to Lt. Charles J. Tiapa, U. S. A., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tiapa of Chicago. Lt. Tiapa received his commission at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and is now stationed in New Mexico.

Richard W. Mechem, son of Col. and Mrs. John C. Mechem of Chicago and Annisquam, has been elected vice president of the Harvard Varsity club. Mechem won his letters as a member of the 1942-'43 hockey team at Harvard, where he was one of the stars in the intercollegiate matches. He summers at Annisquam and there made a reputation as a clever yachtsman, skippering his craft to many wins in Cape Ann races.

Mrs. William K. Kenley, who has been on the north shore for the long season, has returned to her Chicago home. Her summer residence was at West Manchester.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Moore have returned to their home in Convent, N. J., after a pleasant late season stay with Mr. Moore's mother, Mrs. William H. Moore of Chicago, at her Rockmarge estate at Pride's Crossing. Mrs. Moore plans to be at her Pride's Crossing home until late in November.

Jan Ciechanowski, ambassador from Poland to the United States, and family have returned to Washington after spending the summer on the north shore. They were at the Davidson cottage, Smith's point, Manchester, for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lanser of 1913 Belmont avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Grace, to Lt. George Hessel McEwen, son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. McEwen of Escanaba, Mich. The wedding took place on Aug. 14 in the San Carlos Mission in Carmel-by-the-Sea, Cal. The bride was given in marriage by Maj. Charles Gwynne, commanding officer of her husband's battalion. Lt. McEwen formerly practiced law in Chicago.

Lillian Rosenfeld Wed to Pvt. M. A. Goldman

The marriage of Miss Lillian Rosenfeld, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Rosenfeld of 622 Waveland avenue, to Pvt. Morton A. Goldman took place on Sept. 19 at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Pvt. Goldman and his bride both were graduated from the University of Illinois, and at present they are attending the university's school of medicine. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Goldman of 545 Briar place.

Fashions as I See Them

By Judith Cass

There was not a sign of a "leftover" summer dress when members of the Service club gathered for tea recently at the Racquet club to hear plans for their fall benefit, the opening of the "Ice Follies of 1944" on Nov. 5 at the Chicago Arena. Straw hats and light print dresses had been put away, and the guests who met around the tea table definitely were dressed for fall. Mrs. Edwin W. Sims Jr., spiced her black Chesterfield suit bound in black faille braid with touches of fuchsia, one of the season's highlight colors. Fuchsia and black satin stripes were combined in her blouse, tied at the neckline with a dressmaker bow and pinned with a large amethyst brooch. A large wing of fuchsia feathers slanted across her small black skullcap. Mrs. John Quincy Adams Jr., came to tea in a saucer hat held across the back of her blonde hair by a narrow strap, a hat shape that is particularly becoming to her. This one was of pistachio green felt trimmed with rows of pinked felt, and the exotic blossoms crowning it were fuchsia feather gladioli. The collar and buttonholes of her black wool suit were scrolled in braid. Mrs. D. Wendell Fentress was all in brown save for the large chartreuse cabbage roses atop her hat. Large amber-toned stones resembling topaz served as buttons and studded the belt of her crepe dress. Mrs. Henry Sincere chose a soft brown suit. Her brown saucer hat held a froth of pale blue ostrich plumes, just the color of her tucked crepe blouse. Also in a suit was Mrs. William Spurgeon, whose costume was of gray pin-striped material. Her high-crowned yellow felt hat had a swirl of yellow feathers curling down in front of one eye at a jaunty angle. Carrying out the two-toned color scheme were a good looking yellow lizard bag, yellow gloves and a twisted choker of yellow and gray pearls.

Mrs. Bert L. Atwater's soft brown fur jacket, flung over the back of her chair at luncheon the other day in the Mayfair room during one of Florence Bourke Ellis's Wednesday book reviews, was a definite sign that fall is here. Mrs. Atwater wore her wrap over a black crepe dress with a turquoise collar and vest winking with brilliants, and shades of fuchsia and purple were blended in her hat. Lunching at the same table was Mrs. James C. Thompson, with a redingote of thin plum colored crepe unbuttoned at the hem and collar to reveal a print combining the blue-purple shade with dubonnet and white. Her little hat was concocted of plum-colored crepe, veiling and a drove of little butterflies with dubonnet spangles on their wings. Across the lobby in the Balinese room, which will celebrate its fifth birthday anniversary this fall, was Mrs. Paul Butler, lunching with her husband and friends. She wore a suit of soft cocoa plaid, a matching silk blouse and a saucy little postillion hat with a curl of ecru-toned feathers down the back. Schiaparelli, whose name is known the fashion world over, passed thru Chicago a few days ago, gowned in the inevitable smart black, and bangled and necklaced in gold and pearls. Her dress, which had short sleeves and a low square neckline, had a matching box cut jacket, with a shocking pink—a color that is synonymous with Schiaparelli—hanky tucked in one pocket. Her short hair was held in its upswept lines by gold and pearl studded combs. Several strands of pearls about her neck supported a heavy tassel of pearls, and about her wrists were huge gold bracelets of various shapes and designs. Having cocktails with Mme. Schiaparelli was Mrs. Waldemar Armfelt, also in black. Her dress was unadorned, and her hat was a huge pancake beret of black felt, which tilted well forward. Her blonde hair was drawn smoothly up to the top of her head.

Illinois Woman's Republican Club Plans Card Party

Under the chairmanship of Mrs. Frieda G. Koch of Oak Park, the Woman's Republican Club of Illinois will entertain with a card party at 1:30 p. m. on Saturday, Oct. 23, in the Chicago room of the Hotel La Salle. Mrs. Koch, who is active in political, civic, and social affairs both of her state and her community, will be assisted in party arrangements by Mrs. Ethyl G. Kennedy of Evanston, club president; Mrs. Sarah Delano, Mrs. Ruby Speakman, and Mrs. Mabel H. Montgomery.

Mrs. Frieda Koch.

Members of Mrs. Koch's reception committee include Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. Arthur C. Lueder, Mrs. Delano, Mrs. Gerald McDonnell, Mrs. Jane Hoff, Mrs. Audree Rankin, Mrs. William K. Jonas, Mrs. Alice McVeigh, and Mrs. Herbert G. Immemhausen.

Frozen Food Tip.

Pack foods to be frozen in a size container that fits the needs of the family; left overs should never be refrozen.

Lady of the House

John and Abigail Adams.

More than 200 years ago [Oct. 3, 1735] there was born into the fourth generation of a family of hard working, thrifty, sober Massachusetts farmers the first of a line of illustrious men of that family taking a notable part in the shaping of the philosophy that led to the revolution and the country's later political policies. You all know him—John Adams.

But it is his wife, Abigail, I want to talk about. My hat is off to her, that first vivid lady of the White House, the "wiry little figure with the piquant face and snapping eyes framed in a cap of exquisite lace."

When Abigail Smith married John Adams her father's parishioners thought it a "mighty poor union." Indeed, her married life seems to have called for all the fortitude of her cheery young soul. Those, too, were rough and troubled times for women. Abigail stuck with her little brood, while she saw John risk his head in opposition to the British government; and neither the desolation of war nor pestilence and famine could break her buoyant spirit. "I am distressed but not dismayed," she wrote to John.

I try to imagine what it meant, nearly a century and a half ago, to move her family from Philadelphia [then the capital] to the unfinished mansion in Washington, the Federal City, set in the midst of a wilderness of forest and bog, with its streets and avenues yet to be opened.

I often wonder if, as she hung the family washing in the great, cold, damp, unfinished east room, in the days before even matches to light the candles and the fires were made, she sometimes felt a wee inclination to self-pity.

In 1801 Mrs. Adams held the first New Year's reception in the White House, and in her brief four months of occupancy left upon the executive mansion the impress of her "quiet heroism and simple dignity of soul."

October.

You spread the quiet aftermath
Of summer's joyous days,
October, of the leafy path,
So drenched with autumn maze;
But when your golden hours are thru,
We know you came to say:
"Ah! Soon this year will fade into Eternity's weird bay."

For the Little Lady of the House.

Goodness me, it's nearly two!
And I have so much to do.
Two or three mud pies to bake,
Floors to sweep and beds to make.

Clothes to wash, and mend, besides;
Dollies to take for a ride;
But that horrid sandman's here

Into dollie's eyes and mine!

Appreciating the general friendliness of people, a correspondent mentions this incident on a crowded bus. The driver stopped for a woman passenger, who looked at the full bus and hesitated. Instead of shouting "Step on it!" as they usually do, he smiled, opened the door wider and said, "Come on in. Don't be afraid, it's only us."

Federation to Hold Seminar in City Today

Special significance attaches to a regional conference here today of member groups of the Illinois Federation of Music Clubs in the northern part of the state. A music seminar, the northern regional conference is the first sectional meeting ever held within the Illinois federation. Its leader will be Mrs. Charles A. Pardee, state vice president, who will convene the meeting at 2:30 o'clock in the Hotel La Salle.

The seminar is concurrent with the fall state board meeting of the federation today and tomorrow, arrangements for which are under the direction of Mrs. James Allen Young, 1st district executive chairman. Mrs. Young also is war service chairman of the state federation, and she is to explain details of a $2,000 war bonds contest for federated music groups presenting, with the next seven months, musical programs to build up war morale. Maj. M. W. Aldrich, chief of special service branch of the army 6th service command, will speak.

Junior departmental work of the federation will figure in the regional seminar with Miss Alma E. Grambauer, state junior counselor having charge of that part of the program. Participating will be Mrs. Anamay Wales, chairman of junior extension; Miss Beulah Walker, junior choral chairman, and Mrs. L. H. Bruce, chairman of junior competitive festivals.

Publicity chairmen will hear a talk by Rita Fitzpatrick, Tribune writer, at a press meeting over which Mrs. E. W. Crane, state publicity chairman, will preside. Mrs. Royden J. Keith, state president of the music clubs, will give a report on the recent national board meeting, held in Minneapolis, Minn. Entertainment highlights of the board meeting tomorrow will be a luncheon party and a musical. Miss Lulu Raben will present Lilias Sims, soprano, and the Ella Surholmen quartet, playing ancient Norwegian instruments.

N. Hampshire Guests Enjoy Fall Scenery

WHITE MOUNTAINS, N. H.

The beauty of the autumn foliage in the White mountains is responsible for the most active season in years, and all resorts now open are thronged. The usual programs for entertainment keep up during early October, and those who have cars drive thru the scenic Nitches and to the hill-top resorts to revel in the wonderful scene.

House parties are being held thruout the hills, and one of these is being given by Mr. and Mrs. Hubert L. Carter at their lovely home at Jefferson Highlands. Their guests include Mr. and Mrs. Ernest M. Parsons of Boston, and on Monday night the quartet drove over Knot Hole road from Jefferson to dine with Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Miller of Chicago, who remain thru autumn at the Mountain View.

Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Parsons are sisters and with another sister, Mrs. Charles A. Proctor of the fashionable north shore were known in Boston society years ago, as "the beautiful Hopkins sisters." They still retain that beauty and their reunion here was a significant one. Following dinner, they all attended a lecture of the Dartmouth college series in the hotel ballroom.

Mrs. J. G. M. Glessner, who remained nearly all of last winter at The Ledge, Littleton, N. H., was so comfortable and happy there that she now is thinking of another winter on the heights overlooking the Ammonoosuc valley. One daughter, Mrs. Rene Mathey, who was with her during the summer, has returned with her children to New York.

Another daughter, Mrs. Robert W. Edge, with her family, is back at her country home in Westchester county, N. Y. Miss Emily F. Glessner has occupied herself with war relief work ever since the Germans marched into France, but has been located in Boston, near enough home for occasional visits. Mrs. Glessner's war gardens have been among the finest and largest gardens in this region, and even now, her flower gardens still hold traces of their former lush beauty, with chrysanthemums, azure frost flowers and other late blooms rioting in color.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Cooper of Chicago, who spent the summer at Cooper's Corner, their house at the corner of Mountain View road, Whitefield, have closed it and returned to Chicago.

Mrs. Robert Macdougal still lingers at Spalding inn in Whitefield.

At Crawford House, Crawford Notch, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus La Saiti and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Epstein of Chicago have been spending some time and now are leaving for a leisurely journey home via Boston, where they will visit some of the scenic shrines. The La Saitis observed their wedding anniversary there this week.

Mrs. George S. Rasmussen Jr., of Evanston, who had planned to visit at the Mountain View house this autumn with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Watt Jr., of Palm B each, Fla., never arrived, as en route, Mr. Watt was taken seriously ill in New York, where he still remains in a hospital. Mr. Rasmussen is absent in service.

Church Women Attend Session in Cleveland

Four gatherings of interest appear this week on the Protestant church woman's calendar. Largest of these is the national triennial meeting of Episcopal church women, which opened last Saturday for a week's session in Cleveland, O.

Mrs. Rollin T. Chamberlin of South Pleasant street, president of the woman's auxiliary of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago, heads the Chicago delegation comprised of Mrs. Frederick C. Seymour and Miss Mary Brown of Evanston, Mrs. C. A. Grier of Oak Park, and Mrs. Robert V. Merrill of Chicago. Alternates are Mrs. Clayburn E. Jones and Mrs. George A. Mason of Highland Park. Women from points thruout the country will be in attendance, and their discussions of the church woman's role in current world-wide affairs will largely determine the policies and programs followed by the local parishes during the next three years.

Dr. Wu Yifang, president of Ginling college and one of the three women attending a recent Federal Council of Churches conference at Princeton on post-war reconstruction, will be one of the principal speakers at the assemblage, and others on the program include Charles P. Taft; Mrs. Stephen K. Mahon, national director of the Girls' Friendly society; Henry P. Van Dusen, educator and author; Samuel McCrea Cavert, general secretary of the Federal Council of Churches, and Stephen Bayne, chaplain at Columbia university.

The Business Woman's club of the Fourth Presbyterian will observe its 36th anniversity with a 6 o'clock dinner on Tuesday in the church dining room. Hostesses will dress to represent the years 1907 to 1930, and following the dinner there will be a style parade depicting business women of long ago. The Rev. Harrison Ray Anderson, church pastor, will speak.

On Friday the Woman's Society of Christian Service, Rock River conference of the Methodist church, will have Miss Oscie Sanders as guest speaker at a 1:30 o'clock meeting in the Chicago temple.

Fall activities will be resumed by the Protestant Women's Service Club of Chicago with a meeting on Wednesday in the Wedgwood room of Marshall Field's, at which Miss Gladys Welge will present a musical program. The club's annual benefit bazar and card party is scheduled for Nov. 12 at the Medinah club. Mrs. Earle Lind is chairman for this event and she will be assisted by Mrs. W. L. Greg and Mrs. Lottie Marshall.

Dallwig to Begin Lectures Today at the Field Museum

Paul G. Dallwig, layman lecturer, will begin his seventh season of dramatized programs today at the Field museum. Open free to the public, the lectures are presented each Sunday afternoon from 2 to 4:30 o'clock, the period being broken by a half hour intermission.

During October, Mr. Dallwig's theme will be "Nature's March of Time!" In three sequences, covering a span of 600 million years, the principal stages of animal life will be shown, from the first fishes and reptiles to mammals and man.

On Sunday afternoons in November Mr. Dallwig's subject will be "War Reveals Interesting Races in Strange Place," a lecture clarifying popular misconceptions of race and the Aryan myth and showing the effect of the war on the more remote and primitive civilizations.

The December lecture, "Caveman Clubs His Way to Culture," will trace the physical evolution of man and his cultural development thru the old and new stone ages, prehistoric art being given special attention. Subsequent programs will be on "Romance of Diamonds from Mine to Man," "Who's Who in the Mounted Zoo," and "Mysterious Night Riders of the Sky," the last dealing with comets, meteors, and meteorites.

Lake Geneva Club Boasts Long History

By Rose Cour.

LAKE GENEVA, WIS.

It has been a matter of discussion, if not argument, for many years which Lake Geneva community club is the oldest, but recent discoveries would indicate that the Elgin club was not only actually the first of these pleasant cottage-clubhouse groupings to be instituted at the lake but that parties of Elginites discovered the beauties of Lake Geneva as a vacation spot long before that more distant city, Chicago, began to send quotas of summer visitors to the lake.

While shortly after the Civil war young male members of the Crane, Rumsey-Wheeler, Sturges, and Fairbank families of Chicago made horseback journeys to the lake to hunt and fish, fully 11 years before, leading families of Elgin and Dundee were visiting the lake. This fact is disclosed by items found in an old Lake Geneva newspaper, The Geneva Express and Anti-Slavery Churchman, for July 5, 1856, which describes a party of 60 couples from Elgin and environs arriving at the lake with a large sailboat for a "Pic-Nic."

The group arrived via the new railroad, Wisconsin Central, which had only the month before completed the section from Elgin to the village of Geneva. The railroad was a branch of the Chicago & Galena railroad and had but a brief span of life, passing out of existence in 1860.

With the aid of stagecoach connections Geneva managed to survive without a railroad for the next 10 years when the Chicago and North Western came thru and with it an influx of summer colonists from all over the middle west.

Early in the 1870s a group of Elgin's first families purchased for the extravagant sum of $400 a tract of 16 acres of virgin forest on the north shore of the lake with 1,500 feet of lake shore. The first clubhouse at Lakeside, as the club was called, in addition to its facilities for cooking and serving food, also boasted bunks built in along the walls for accommodation of members who spurned the tents that were set up on the grounds, along the gurgling brooks that still are features of the Elgin club.

The first cottage was built by Judson Gifford, son of James T. Gifford, one of the founders of the city of Elgin, Ill., and father of Harry N. Gifford, who with Mrs. Gifford and Harry Jr. still summer at the Elgin club. The present Gifford summer home, an attractive pale yellow rambling house with pleasant porches looking out on lake and garden, is not located on the same site, since the original Gifford cottage was incorporated in the John L. MacNeil house close by and is now the MacNeil kitchen.

One of the most delightful things about the Elgin club is the fact that the majority of the original houses are still there altho they have been comfortably modernized and brought up to date.

The Alfred W. Craven cottage is one of these, a large white frame house almost surrounded by glazed and open verandas with an interior vista of cool rooms in pale cream, aqua, and green tones. The house was built by Col. Delmont E. Wood, founder of the Elgin Board of Trade, for his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Wood and has been occupied by five generations of the family. Mrs. Craven was formerly Fanny Wood. At present her grandchildren, Win and Martha Craven, are visiting her at Lake Geneva while their parents, Capt. and Mrs. Alfred W. Craven Jr. are in California where the captain is stationed at Orronville airfield. The captain's sister, Ruth, Mrs. Lloyd Myers, also was a guest at the Craven home in the Elgin club earlier in the season.

Another of the "five generation" houses is the one occupied by Mrs. Eugene Bosworth and her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest H. Redeker. This was built in the '70s by Mrs. Redeker's grandfather who had the fascinating name of Increase Child Bosworth.

Mr. Bosworth was also the grandfather of Mrs. William Levering of Glencoe and Mrs. Frederick C. Test, both of whom have delightful old four and five generation houses at the club.

Mrs. Levering's house, Liberty Hall, has been enlarged and modernized but has retained much of the old fashioned charm of 70 years ago. Many of the lovely old pieces of furniture were brought from the east in covered wagons by ancestors of Mrs. Levering who were among the group who settled Elgin. One of the antiques is a handsome cherry chest, others are a mahogany Napolean bed, a cherry spool bed, and a black walnut escritoire. A piece that has unusual interest for the Robert Louis Stevenson enthusiast is a quaint little arm chair of dark stained elm wood which belonged to Cummy, Stevenson's beloved old nurse, to whom he dedicated his "Child's Garden of Verses." Mr. and Mrs. Levering discovered the chair while on a trip thru Scotland.

Bide-a-Wee is the name of the attractive Swiss chalet type cottage owned by Mrs. Test and her sister, Mrs. Howard MacNeil. The narrow gothic windows with sections of colored glass, the elaborate filigree woodwork in the multitudinous gables and the rosy pine matched board walls are all typical of the first cottages built at Lake Geneva. Mrs. Test recalls when this type of wall was the vogue the builder especially designated that the pine boards be knotless. Bide-a-Wee was built by J. Angelo Carpenter, who founded Carpentersville, Ill. Mrs. Test and Mrs. MacNeil are nieces of Mr. Carpenter.

Where the old clubhouse once stood is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony G. Zulfer Jr. and their son, Tony IV. The house, completed only last year, is strikingly unlike the other cottages at Elgin club and is as ultra-modern as they are old fashioned. Yet, with its Cape Cod shutters, southern plantation breezeway and California patio, it is as wholly and delightfully American as the broad porched cottage next door belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Z. G. Peck and the colonial columned structure close by, summer home of the George P. Rinns. The Zulfer house is low and rambling; one story except for 15 year old Tony's second floor suite, and is of year 'round construction.

The Zulfers are newcomers at Elgin club, but they are well known at Lake Geneva, as Mrs. Zulfer was Harriett Mogg, whose father, Millard Mogg, built one of the first summer homes on the bluffs at the west end of the lake. This is now the James L. Beckwith's Angel's Flight, a house well named for the many steep flights of stone steps that lead to its portals from the lake shore.

Another unusual house at Elgin club is the one built by the late George E. Hunter and now owned by Mrs. Frank Rayner. Mrs. Rayner's son, Lawrence who, with his wife and son, Larry Jr., also spend their summers at the Rayner house, is president of the Elgin club.

One look at the ramparts of giant faced fieldstones topped with red granite that form the lower walls of the house and jut out in great semi-circle formations to protect the rounded verandas, and it is easily understood why Elgin clubbers refer to the place as Fort Hunter. The high turrets and cupolas also bear a resemblance to an old time fortress. The interior is equally intriguing with enormous gray granite fireplaces, winding staircases, mosaic glass windows, and a most original floor plan, especially the second floor which has two cross halls instead of a main hall and all bedrooms laid out in suites of two.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Pope have built a charming modern house on the site where one of the first cottages was erected by the A. B. Church family of Elgin. The Church cottage was moved to the next lot and is now part of the house owned by Mr. and Mrs. William Perrigo.

Among the first families at the club were the Morris C. Townes and their descendants, the John A. Hamlins and the Lysander B. Hamlins. John was famous as the owner of the old Grand Opera house in Chicago. Lysander's two sons, Lawrence and Harold, still are residents at the lake. Harold and his family now have the house at the club formerly owned by the George Chisolms. The original Hamlin house was destroyed by fire and the handsome rebuilt structure is the property of the Z. G. Pecks. The Lawrence Hamlins' estate, Tarry On, while not in the Elgin club, is not far away, near Cedar Point park.

Almost all the residents in the 20 cottages are related to each other and this has resulted in the pleasant affairs, known as Elgin club "cousin parties," at least one of which is held each summer. Labor day was the date set for this last gathering of the clans, and Mr. and Mrs. Edwards were the hosts. Reminiscing, undoubtedly, was one of the popular features of the day and among other events of a former century recalled was the occasion when Elbert Hubbard was the guest of honor and another was the club's amateur theatrical performance given for the benefit of the Charleston, S. C., yellow fever victims.

THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE

Visitors Find Fun, Health at Missouri Spa

By Bob Becker.

Autumn in Missouri is such a delightful time for a vacation in that state that many midwest outdoor fans, especially fishermen, for many years have been visiting Missouri after the foliage has turned and the Indian summer days are inviting.

In recent years, however, new thousands of vacationists have discovered that Missouri is likewise the home of Excelsior Springs, a health spa which offers much to the tired war worker as well as to those who are ill.

The program of entertainment at the Springs includes golf, horseback riding, mineral water bathing, tennis, and all the appurtenances and facilities the modern resort now boasts. Golfers will find a sporty golf course at the Excelsior Springs golf club. The course, located 750 feet above the city, is studded with natural hazards. And the 19th hole combines solace and history revolving around the 125 year old log cabin that served as a bastion for guerilla bands during the Civil war.

Facilities for mineral water bathing include the pool in the million dollar Hall of Waters, focal point in the Excelsior Springs health regime. Salt water makes swimming easy and healthful in the world's largest indoor mineral water swimming pool while at Maurer lake, a mile south of town, an outdoor mineral salt pool is available to bathers.

Horseback riding is another favorite sport. But fundamental in the scheme of Excelsior Springs' popularity are the facilities of the Hall of Waters, financed by the United States government in recognition of the value of the health giving mineral waters. It boasts the mineral water bar, largest bar in the world devoted exclusively to dispensing mineral waters by the glass, jug or carboy; a mineral water swimming pool, therapeutic bath departments for both men and women, assembly hall and mineral water and beverage bottling departments.

Excelsior Springs is a short distance northeast of Kansas City. It's in a part of Missouri that is rich in Civil war history and legends. This influence reaches back to the days of guerilla warfare of Civil war age and trenches still slit the hills of Clay county. A cannonball still remains lodged in the towering white pillars of the Lafayette county courthouse at nearby Lexington as toxin for the military minded. In the old Watkins Woolen mills, a relic of pre-Civil war days, strands of wool still cling to the looms that have been idle nearly 60 years when Virginia born Cyrus Watkins, annoyed by the competitive inroads of eastern textile development, stopped his spinning overnight and left the mill intact for future generations to gauge the advance of civilization.

All this and hundreds more examples of Excelsior Springs legend, tradition, and folklore provide a fitting background to the more prosaic but important reason for its existence. The fact that nature has placed in Excelsior Springs one of the greatest groups of mineral waters is the lure that brings upwards of 500,000 visitors annually.

They come from all walks of life and from every section of the United States. Analyzing a typical list of 100 visitors to this nationally famous shrine of health, one finds that 43 are just ordinary citizens—men and women who work for a living in offices, plants, and factories, but who want to care for their health for the future. They know that here are 10 of the most famous mineral springs in all the world, providing the medicinal waters of all known types including [1] ferro-manganese, [2] saline-laxative. [3] soda-bicarbonate, and [4] calcium bicarbonate lithia. Of the other 57 out of a typical 100, 13 were doctors and other professional men, nine prominent figures in state and national life, eight owners of individual businesses, five owners of manufacturing plants, four ministers and social workers, eight company executives, six railway officials, and four cattle and stock men.

Steeped as it is in historical legend and tradition, Excelsior Springs is not amiss at having cradled the notorious Jesse James whose birthplace is only a few miles away and whose exploits as recanted for the edification of visitors are regarded something akin to the imaginative visions of a lusty fictioneer.

Benefit League Plans to Hold 36th Tag Day

More than 10,000 volunteer women taggers working under the guidance of the Chicago Children's Benefit league, will be soliciting funds on the streets of Chicago tomorrow for the benefit of 50 children's charities, each of which is indorsed by the Chicago association of commerce. This is the league's 36th annual tag day, with the goal this year set at $100,000.

Taggers receive no compensation for their services, and all proceeds go to the underprivileged and handicapped children in orphanages, day nurseries, crippled children's homes, and children's hospital wards.

Mrs. Harry L. Starkey of 421 Melrose street, league president, finds that one of the most pressing problems facing children's agencies today is the care of youngsters whose parents, and sometimes older brothers and sisters, are working in factories and shops. These children, who are being left to get their own meals and provide their own amusements, comprise a large group of those the league is seeking to aid.

Officers assisting Mrs. Starkey in the tag day program include Mrs. Henry W. Bernhardt, Mrs. Royal D. Dwight, Mrs. Peter J. Doretti, Mrs. William Hazlett, Mrs. Paul B. Smithson, and Mrs. William Raiser Jr. The league's charter provides that tag day be held on the first Monday in October, and ever since 1908 the organization has gathered its force of taggers to work on that one day.

The league was incorporated in 1910 by its then president Mrs. W. Scott Thurber, and two other officers, Mrs. Robert L. Grant and Mrs. Cushman Gifford.

Worn sheets can be used to make ironing board covers, press cloths, under covers for pillows, and covers for coats and dresses.

Fashions - - - - By Angela

One of the best suit buys for fall is the smart group which has the skirt and jacket priced separately.

If brown is your color, you can choose the brown and beige striped suit, sketched at top. It is smoothly tailored with a three button jacket closing, patch pockets, and stitching around the lapels and collar. The skirt has three plaits front and back and a smooth fitting waistband. This is also available in oxford with a white stripe and in sizes from 12 to 20.

Ideal for city as well as for country wear is the brown, green and white checked suit, sketched second. The clear quarter inch checks are striking in their beauty. Brown buttons mark the jacket front, and patch pockets, lapels and collar are stitched around the edges. This also is available in a soft blue combination in sizes from 12 to 20.

Wine red wool serves as a background for multicolored stripes of nubby wool in the third suit. Forming an interesting plaid design, this suit may be worn with a variety of colored accessories matching each wool stripe. It is also available with a black or brown background.

A youthful, four button dressmaker suit, sketched fourth, is tailored of green herringbone. The high front closing, patch pockets and collar of the jacket have stitched edges which serve as an accent to the weave of the wool.

Blazer jackets and plaid skirts are the newest additions to suit wardrobes. The navy jacket is bound with red plaid skirt material. The soft wool skirt has one broad box plait and two small side plaits. It also is available in hunter's green and red plaid.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

For some unaccountable reason when a player opens with one no trump his partner defers to him in the selection of the final contract. This is an absurd policy. Consider the following typical case:

East, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ A 7 5 4 3 2
♥ 8 4 2
♦ A
♣ 9 6 5

WEST
♠ Q 6
♥ K 7
♦ K J 9 5 3 2
♣ 10 4 2

EAST
♠ J 8
♥ J 10 9 5 3
♦ 7 6 4
♣ A J 8

SOUTH
♠ K 10 9
♥ A Q 6
♦ Q 10 8
♣ K Q 7 3

The bidding:

| East | South | West | North |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | 1 no trump | Pass | 3 spades |
| Pass | 3 no trump | Pass | Pass [!] |
| Pass | | | |

The three no trump contract ran into an embarrassing snag. West opened his fourth highest diamond and dummy's outside entry was abruptly removed. Now the fact that South's spades were higher than any of North's, except the ace, meant that even if South found a two-two break of the adverse spades, he could not take advantage of it but would have to concede a spade trick in order to run the suit. [Otherwise he would be irrevocably blocked.]

Making the best of the situation, and in order to keep East off lead and prevent a diamond return thru the queen, declarer led a low spade from dummy and put in his own 10 spot. Thus the lead was thrown to the nondanger hand, but West adroitly countered this measure. He shifted to a low club. East won and returned a diamond, and declarer was helpless to avoid the loss of no fewer than five diamond tricks!

It was North who was almost entirely to blame for this sorry result. His initial response, three spades, had been eminently correct, but his follow-up of that action proved that he lacked either imagination or decisiveness. It is quite obvious that North originally felt the combined hands should play in spades—otherwise he would have raised the no trump. What happened to change his mind? Surely the fact that South had not raised spades was no real denial of spade support, because the opening no trump in itself had implied support for any and all suits. South could not see the singleton diamond in North's hand; South could not envisage the potential blockade in spades due to the low spots in North's suit; these were matters that only North could know about and fully appreciate. Thus it was up to North to protect himself and the partnership by firmly announcing, via a four spade bid, that the combined hands would almost surely play better in the major suit than in no trump.

Many of my readers, no doubt, will object that South deserved a full share of the guilt for failing to raise the three spade takeout to four spades. Apropos of this, however, let me point out one salient fact: a three no trump contract can be taken out to a different game contract at four spades, but a four spade contract cannot be taken out to three no trump. Experts keep this fact in mind and, when they are in doubt over the best final selection, they reflect that a three no trump bid, under circumstances such as described, is not final, in that it can be altered to four spades, whereas a four spade bid is final because the partnership can no longer return to a mere game in no trump.

Consider our actual deal above. South was not quite sure whether he should bid three no trump or four spades, hence he logically relied on his partner to make this decision. North, in the light of his own distribution, specifically the singleton diamond, should have voted for four spades, which contract would have been easy to fulfill because, with spades as trump, full advantage could be taken of the two-two break in the spade suit itself.

Crocheted Luncheon Doily

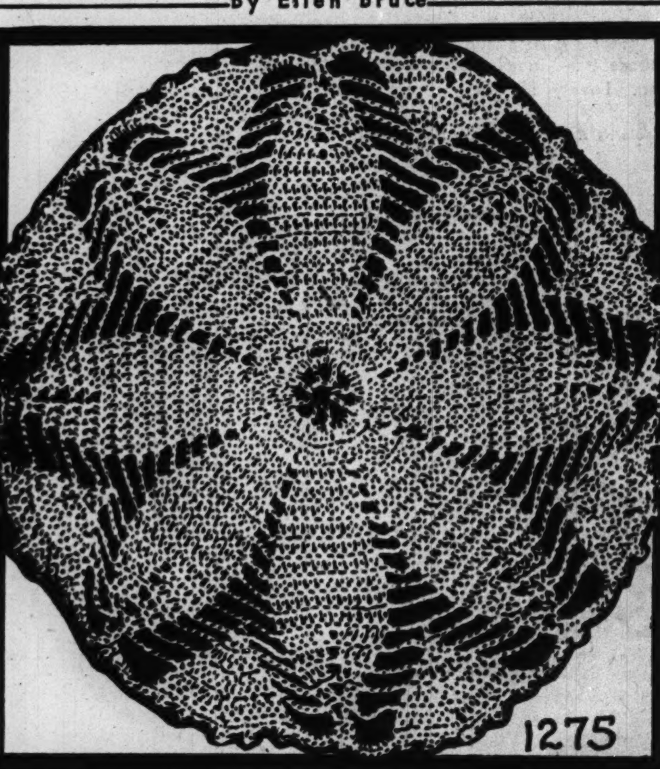
By Ellen Bruce



A crocheted, circular luncheon doily in an eight pointed floral design is a wise choice for luncheon sets. It is easy to create, and a complete set may be made in a short time. Each doily measures approximately 11 inches in diameter. Either a mercerized crochet cotton or carpet warp may be used.

For instructions in crocheting the circular luncheon doily, No. 1275, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Start Making Christmas Gift Jellies Now

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1943: By the New York News.]

One of the most welcome Christmas gifts, next to a war bond, will be a jar of home canned peaches or several small glasses of home made jelly. If you have the sugar for them, it's fun to make three or four unusual kinds of jelly, just for special occasions and Christmas gifts.

Mint jelly may be made from the dried mint leaves from your garden, but it's best of all when made from the fresh sprigs.

Mint Jelly.
[Ten 6 ounce glasses.]

1 cup mint leaves
1½ cups water
1 cup vinegar
1 cup liquid pectin
Few drops green coloring
6½ cups sugar

Mix water and vinegar with mint leaves, add enough coloring to give desired green shade and stir in sugar. Bring to boiling point and add pectin. Boil hard for 1 minute. Remove from heat immediately, strain out mint leaves and pour into sterile glasses. Seal with paraffin.

Mint flavored apple jelly is delicious, and if wild crabapples can be used to furnish the jellying properties, you'll have an epicurean treat.

Mint Apple Jelly.

1 cup finely chopped mint leaves
1 cup boiling water
8 cups apple juice
7 cups sugar
Green coloring

Pour boiling water over mint leaves and let steep for an hour. Crush some of the leaves and stems slightly so that strong mint flavor will be extracted. Strain out leaves and add mint to apple juice. Heat to boiling point and add sugar. When sugar has dissolved, divide sirup in two parts, unless you are using a wide pan for cooking. Evaporation takes place more rapidly when small quantities of sirup are used at one time, and when a wide surface of boiling sirup is exposed. Boil sirup until two drops will hang for a few seconds at the edge of a spoon before dropping. Stir in a few drops of green coloring, pour into sterile jars and seal, using paraffin. The recipe may be divided with good results.

To prepare the apple juice for the mint apple jelly and for the following apple and port wine jelly use firm, tart green apples or crabapples. Wash and quarter them, and cook until soft in just enough water to keep them from sticking. Do not pare or core, for peelings and cores are rich in pectin. Strain overnight in a jelly bag.

Apple and Port Wine Jelly.

1½ cups apple juice
1½ cups sugar
½ cup domestic port wine

Measure apple juice into saucepan or kettle, bring to a boil, add sugar and boil 1 minute. Add wine and boil rapidly until jelly falls in slow, thick drops from edge of a spoon. Pour into clean, hot jars and seal with paraffin.

When cranberries come to market we can make this beautiful "paradise" jelly.

Paradise Jelly.

6 quinces
10 apples [tart, green]
2 cups cranberries
Sugar

Wash quinces and apples and cut into pieces. Do not core. Place in a kettle with cranberries and add water to barely cover fruit. Boil until soft and let drain overnight in a jelly bag. Measure juice, bring to boiling point, and add 1 cup sugar for each cup of juice. Boil until sirup falls in a "sheet" from the edge of a spoon. A few drops may be tested on a cold plate to help determine jellying point. Beware of overcooking this or any jelly, or flavor and texture will be spoiled. Pour and seal jelly as soon as jelly test has been reached.

Claret Jelly.

2 cups claret
3 cups sugar
½ bottle fruit pectin

Bring sugar and wine to boil in a saucepan. Add pectin, stirring constantly. Bring to hard boil, boil ½ minute and immediately remove from heat. Turn into jelly glasses and seal with paraffin. This jelly is good with meats or as a spread.

If your jellies are intended for Christmas gifts, label them prettily and tie them with ribbons.

Jellies should be covered after the paraffin has hardened. If your glasses haven't covers of their own, tie wax paper over the tops to protect them from dust.

Settlement Affiliate Plans Sunday Meeting

The Mary McDowell group, an affiliate of the University of Chicago Settlement, will hear a presentation of Gershwin and Shostakovitch recordings next Sunday evening, when members gather for their regular meeting at 7 o'clock at the settlement house, 4630 McDowell avenue. Miss Virginia Hopkins will preside.

A. . . . Chinese vermilion wool coat copied from officer's greatcoat is streamlined to hug the figure and boasts a regulation half-belt over soft folds at back. Ocelot forms wide revers. • B. . . . Black wool dress parade model features slightly flared skirt and softly bloused top. Mink bands accent collar, cuffs, and hem line. • C. . . . Tightly curled brown lamb blouse provides suave contrast to the simply cut skirt of all-purpose coat. Sleeves are loose and have new wide cuffs. • D. . . . Another officer's greatcoat model of soft green wool has flattering collar and revers of Australian opossum. Waistline is nipped in, and pockets add necessary accents. • E. . . . Dull black casual coat boasts Persian lamb collar and cuffs, which are outlined vividly with scarlet wool piping.

Home Owners' Queries

Chicago.—[To the Home Owners' Editor—I have heard of some odor dispelling unit which can be used to get rid of disinfectant odors, varnishes, etc. It also can be used in a refrigerator to absorb odors of strongly flavored foods. Is it expensive? K. S.

Answer: There's an odor remover of type you mention which is a harmless neutral substance possessing absorbent qualities. This material—in powdered form—comes packed in bags and sifter containers. Available in two sizes, one costing 50 cents and the larger size $2.50. Send to this department for manufacturer's name and retail outlets here.

Aurora, Ill—[To the Home Owners' Editor]—We have moved into an old house and from what we learn the water pipes have a way of bursting in severe cold snaps. Should we invest in a blow torch, or what should we do? K. A.

Answer: Don't use a blow torch on a frozen pipe. Apply cloths soaked in hot water. Call in a plumber before winter starts and have him check over pipes. He may be able to give them some added protection.

Jacqueline Katz to Wed Cadet Hirsh J. Kravit

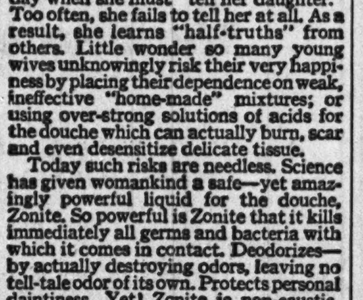
Dorothy Dailey to Wed George R. Pierce Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edward Dailey of 6571 Glenwood avenue announce the marriage yesterday of their daughter, Dorothy Ann, to George Robert Pearce Jr. of Wilmington, Del. The bride, who attended the Professional Art school on the near north side, is soloist at St. Ignatius Catholic church. Mr. Pearce was graduated from the University of Delaware and attended the Harvard school of business administration.

Miriam Springer to Wed Midshipman Friedman

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Springer of 4435 North Laporte avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Miriam, to Midshipman Harvey Friedman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Friedman of 4500 North Sawyer avenue.



MUST YOUR DAUGHTER RISK HAPPY MARRIAGE ON HALF-TRUTHS?

Many a mother herself, reared in an atmosphere of false modesty, dreads the day when she must "tell her daughter." Too often, she fails to tell her at all. As a result, she learns "half-truths" from others. Little wonder so many young wives unknowingly risk their very happiness by placing their dependence on weak, ineffective "home-made" mixtures; or using over-strong solutions of acids for the douche which can actually burn, scar and even desensitize delicate tissue.

Today such risks are needless. Science has given womankind a safe—yet amazingly powerful liquid for the douche, Zonite. So powerful is Zonite that it kills immediately all germs and bacteria with which it comes in contact. Deodorizes—by actually destroying odors, leaving no tell-tale odor of its own. Protects personal daintiness. Yet! Zonite is non-caustic, non-poisonous, safe for delicate tissues. Over 20,000,000 bottles already bought. For modern hygienic protection you may never have known before, get Zonite at your druggist today.

Distinguished Fur Trimmed Coats Shown

BY REA SEEGER.

Coat makers combining fur and fabric limited by L-85 rulings as to width and length have launched this season some of the most unusual and beautiful winter coats of fashion history. In the current showings there will be found coats that are individual, distinctive, and distinguished, all because the challenge of war time manufacturing has spurred on the designers.

Furs have been used as suavely as velvet or thick fabric. As a result, the coats feature such details as double shirrings and folds. Silhouettes are extremely flattering and feminine; warmth is assured without bulk, and all manner of models are shown, from casual day time affairs to models for the most gala occasion.

Fur is attached with artistry and finesse, there are no more meaningless blobs of fur fastened at unreasonable places, no more fur collars that cause trouble when wearing a brimmed hat, no more bands of too wide or too luxurious width around the lower edges.

Black fabric coats trimmed with brown fur lead the lists. Nothing equals this unusual combine of colors as an all-purpose coat for any wardrobe. For with a black coat accentuated with brown fur, accessories of brown gloves, bag, and hat can be alternated with black costume accessories. Likewise, the black coat combined with brown fur becomes the ideal choice of the woman who wears brown and beige dresses.

Another combine is the gray with brown. All tones of gray from silver to dark steel gray, all brown furs from beaver, mink, nutria, caracul, brown Persian, and the dyed brown pelts are used. Gray with brown is unquestionably one of the most subtle of contrasts, and the gray coats trimmed with brown furs are not only high fashion but are plentiful.

New finds this year among the fur trimmed collections are many coats with collar, lapels, and cuffs of fur. They are dramatic with unusual furs to contrast with strong and unusual fabric colors. These are the greatcoat models copied from the officers' topcoats and are as smart as the originals. They have fitted lines, pockets, half belts, or belts cinched in at the waistline, wide revers and those wonderful winter protectors, high, huge collars. Both short and full length coats of this military streamline are available with a wide choice of colors and contrasts of fur and fabric.

Among the soft dressmaker coats are the new bloused affairs, coats with simple skirts attached to slightly bloused tops which help to slenderize a waistline. Another new idea is the coat with color introduced in narrow pipings along cuffs, collar, or pockets. Scarlet or green pipings of wool on a black coat trimmed with Persian lamb cuffs and collar create a striking effect. The piping is a clever new highlight for comparatively dull coats and also allows for the repeating of the red or green in costume accessories if desired.

Sketched are five new 1943 models ready for the winter to come. All will be found in a complete showing of new winter coats in a Chicago store. For further information, call Superior 0200.

The Stamp Collector

By Richard McP. Cabeen

Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps, but not value. The column in this page contains offers to buy and sell. Include a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

The eighth stamp of the "Overrun Nations" series will honor Greece and will be placed on sale at the post office in Washington, D. C., on Oct. 12 and at other postoffices thruout the United States as soon as production and distribution will permit.

The frame design corresponds to that used for the seven stamps which have been issued and the central subject is a reproduction of the flag of Greece in natural colors—blue and white—with the name of the country beneath the flag.

Collectors who desire postmarks dated October 12 on covers bearing the new stamp may send not to exceed 10 addressed envelopes, together with a cash or postal money order remittance to Postmaster, Washington 13, D. C. The remittance should cover the exact cost of stamps to be affixed. Unused stamps should not be ordered from the postmaster at Washington, but may be had from the Philatelic agency, postoffice department, Washington 25, D. C., where they will be placed on sale at face value plus postage on October 12. The Philatelic agency does not service first day covers.

To avoid mixups confine your requests for first day service to a single issue, and to save time order each new issue separately from the Philatelic agency.

Altho stamp collectors always have looked upon the Pony Express as strictly a mail carrying proposition an examination of the advertisments and news dispatches of the first week in May, 1860, reveals that particular attention was directed to the telegraph message features of the service.

At this time the transcontinental telegraph line was being pushed forward from both east and west. The eastern section had crossed the Missouri river and the western section ended in the silver mining region of western Nevada, then Utah Territory. On March 30, 1860, the managers of the principal telegraph lines agreed upon prices for dispatches between the eastern part of the United States and California. These dispatches were to be transmitted by wire whenever that service was available and by Pony Express between the telegraph terminals.

The rate as announced on March 31, 1860, was $6.90 for a message of ten words from any Atlantic seaboard city to any California city, with a charge of 20 cents for each additional ten words for the entire distance. The whole sum was broken up as follows: From the Atlantic seaboard to St. Joseph, Mo., $2.45; from the first California telegraph line station to any part of California, $2, and the expressing charge via Pony Express between the telegraph lines, $2.45, this latter charge applying to any length message.

The telegraph companies agreed to refund the entire cost of a message which failed to reach its destination in advance of any other route, also to return any money paid for dispatches filed in season to overtake the Pony Express at St. Joseph, which thru any reason failed to make the connection there.

Evidently the charge for additional words mentioned above was in error for a correction was soon given in which it was stated that the charge for additional words would be 30 cents per word for the entire distanct. The rate from St. Louis was quoted as $5.30 for a ten word message to any point in California, with an additional charge of 10 cents for each additional word.

In the St. Louis announcement it was stated that the messages coming off the wire in St. Joseph were to be numbered and when delivered in Carson Valley by the express rider will be transmitted in numerical order. Messages were sent in triplicate by the express riders and every precaution against "destruction by water, wear, and tear" was promised. The St. Louis office also announced that messages would be received up to 5 p. m. Tuesday, April 2, 1860.

The first express was scheduled to leave St. Joseph at 5 p. m., April 3, but the schedule of future departures was changed so that expresses would leave St. Joseph every Friday at 9 a. m., with the second express leaving April 13, 1860. The time schedule stated that the pony would reach Fort Kearney in 36 hours; Great Salt Lake in 124 hours, Carson Valley in 188 hours, Placerville in 226 hours, Sacramento City in 234 hours, and San Francisco in 240 hours. The time required for a message to reach its destination by this route was estimated at 205 hours, or about eight and a half days. Altho the carrying of mail was mentioned in passing none of the announcements quote the rates or conditions under which letters were accepted for transmission.

Parents Need Understanding to Guide Child

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"My sister and brother-in-law are proud of their little 3 year old son," writes a loving but troubled aunt, "but they think they must pounce on him and stop immediately everything he says or does of which they disapprove.

"They want him to be perfect, their own idea of perfection, and in trying to gain their goal they aren't thinking about the child at all. They are riding rough shod over his natural tendencies, and I'm afraid they'll ruin his disposition. It seems to me that a child can be brought up satisfactorily without the tension that exists in that household.

"Would it be too much to ask you to write an article which might possibly show them that Dickie will turn out to be all they hope for if they're more flexible in their management?"

These parents may have the best intentions in the world but they lack understanding. Understanding is the beginning of wisdom. It isn't all of the wisdom that a mother or father needs, but it is a vitally important beginning.

There are two kinds of understanding they'll need to gain if wise action is to follow.

There is, first, the understanding that concerns itself with the general nature of childhood, that finds out how children in general grow and develop physically, mentally, and emotionally. This kind of understanding gives an explanation of why they act as they do and leads their parents to know what to expect of their children in the months and years ahead.

Second, there's the kind of understanding that concerns itself with the individual child who is the product not only of nature, but of his parents, grandparents, and great-grandparents, played upon by the influences in which the circumstances of life have set him.

These two kinds of understanding which parents will find fascinating to achieve are the first steps on the way to a wise management of that complex, plastic, and precious thing which is their child.

As soon as these parents understand, shall they follow up with action? Shall they at once get busy and do something about every one of these qualities and behaviors that they have learned to interpret? Shall they direct, mold, change to a pattern or ideal of their own? No!

When once they get some sort of working understanding of their little son's nature as it manifests itself, any one of the following three lines of action may be called wise handling, depending upon what it is they are aiming to achieve:

[1] Parents may, where a condition is pronounced, need to change entirely their child's state of mind or behavior; [2] they may need to modify it only slightly; [3] they may need to do nothing at all except to stand by until the seemingly rough going is over.

So, altho understanding is not enough in itself and must be followed by action, that action may have to take different forms. As parents, our aim should be to accept the individuality and personality of our children and with patience, tact, and understanding to mold their characters to their best possible advantage. Unless we are perfect ourselves, we cannot demand perfection in our children.

Patterns by Clotilde

By Clotilde.

These three patterns achieve for the home dressmaker a basic wardrobe for the autumn season, a collection of wearable togs which may be donned during the winter, too.

One of the designs makes a jumper frock with contrasting blouse. The second creates distinction in the tried-and-true shirtwaist, and the third does interesting things with buttons and shirring for a "date" frock.

Style No. 2094 is designed for sizes 10 to 20. Size 16 requires, for blouse, 1⅝ yards of 39 inch fabric; jumper, 1¾ yards of 54 inch.

Style No. 2733 is designed for sizes 12 to 20, 36 to 40. Size 16 requires 3½ yards of 35 inch material.

Style No. 3295 is designed for sizes 10 to 20. Size 16 requires 3 yards of 39 inch material.

Jewish Clubs Plan to Meet During Week

Several Jewish philanthropic groups have meetings scheduled this week, with most of the gatherings marking the opening of 1943-'44 activities.

The Unique club of Rest Haven will conduct installation services for recently elected officers at 12:30 p. m. on Wednesday at the Covenant club. Mrs. Isadore Motel is new president, and Mrs. Jacob Pohn, installing officer. Friends and members of the Isadore Chern chapter of Rest Haven will gather at the same hour on Wednesday at the Milk foundation, 75 East Wacker drive, for the first fall luncheon and social meeting of the season.

The Kaye E. Geman Memorial club of the Chicago Consumptive Aid society has invited service men and women as guests at a benefit dance on Saturday in the Mural room of the Morrison hotel. Harold Geman and Morris Mann are cochairmen for the affair, which opens the year's fund raising project on behalf of the Fox River sanitarium.

The autumn program for the Service club of the Fox River sanitarium, will begin with a noon luncheon on Monday, Oct. 11, at the Standard club. This group furnishes milk for patients and maintains the sanitarium's operating room.

Thru the Looking Glass

By Eleanor Nangle

The college girls, who love a woodsey perfume that is fetching as well, are among those most enthused about the introduction of fine powder sachet in the same scent. Using the powder makes perfume go farther. It's an economy measure, and an artful perfuming trick, too.

Necessity has, to some extent, mothered the reappearance of a fine, old fashioned aid to charm—the sachet.

Perfumes are not to be wasted these days. They're to be used, of course, but wisely, and you'd be surprised how far you can make your fine perfume go if you supplement its use by sachet in the same scent. The need to conserve alcohol makes it necessary for the perfumers, as well as the users of their fine scents, to conserve the concentrated alcohol essence to the utmost.

The sachet powder is important. Your grandmother used it and loved it; when you learn to use it artfully you'll agree that she was a wise woman. Of course grandmother's fragrances were not the ones you might choose to use today. But it's entirely likely that the maker of your sophisticated favorite now makes a matching sachet, too.

There are, for example, five new sachets come to market, each an intensely concentrated replica of a fine and famous perfume. Their maker suggests that the powder sachet be used directly on the flesh, rubbed into the skin at the inside of the elbows, the nape and hollow of the neck, behind the knees. The natural body warmth intensifies its fragrance and spreads it artfully. Of your perfume proper you need use less when you supplement it in this way.

The new sachets are fine, fine powder, in frosted flacons that are well sealed. The perfumes they echo are exquisite. One perfume in particular is an autumn favorite, woodsey but feminine, too. It's a great pet with the college girls. There are four others, tho, each quite different from the other and each lovely in its own right. One is ultra-sophisticated, one light and summery, one sultry, and the other spicily piquant.

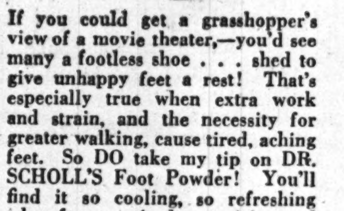
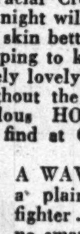
What IS a flavor extract? It's the modern way of magic flavoring—with all the trouble removed . . . for what but magic could take essential oils, esters, solvents, and give us pure taste delight? That's why it seems to me that BURNETT'S Flavor Extracts are more "magic" than a fairy godmother's wand or Aladdin with his lamp . . . because the handy BURNETT bottles hold the flavors of the world in handy form for your pantry shelf! Ask your Grocer for them...ways to make every dish you serve excitingly different and taste-appealing! BURNETT'S Flavor Extracts are a MUST for menus these days when war shortages call on extra cooking ingenuity for tempting meals!

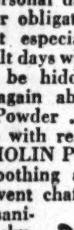


If you could get a grasshopper's view of a movie theater,—you'd see many a footless shoe . . . shed to give unhappy feet a rest! That's especially true when extra work and strain, and the necessity for greater walking, cause tired, aching feet. So DO take my tip on DR. SCHOLL'S Foot Powder! You'll find it so cooling, so refreshing when feet are tired, perspiring and sore. DR. SCHOLL'S Foot Powder is deodorizing, too, and gives protection against Athlete's Foot. Why not try it...and be foot happy this Fall? Just ask your Drug, Shoe or Department Store for it . . . sprinkle its pleasant white powder directly on your feet and right into your shoes. You'll walk in greater comfort, and at the same time, give your precious shoe-linings helpful protection against sweaty, smelly stains that come from perspiring feet!

Wouldn't it be grand if we could all have that Queen-of-the-May look in Autumn, too . . . faces radiant with youth, complexions as fresh and petal-smooth as May blossoms? And there IS something any woman can do to help retain this Springtime look of youth,—use EDNA WALLACE HOPPER'S Homogenized Facial Cream! Faithful use every night will lubricate face and throat skin better and more evenly ...helping to keep fresh, firm, exquisitely lovely complexion-beauty throughout the years! Try it,—a marvelous HOME facial cream you'll find at Cosmetic Counters!



A WAVE, a WAC or just a plain ordinary citizen fighter...there's one thing no smart American woman forgets. It's personal daintiness,—and her obligation to maintain it especially on those difficult days when feminine secrets must be hidden. That's why I speak again about AMOLIN Deodorant Powder . . . such a marvelous help with ready sanitary protection. AMOLIN Powder is fine-textured, soothing and cooling . . . helps prevent chafing and won't clog fine sanitary mesh or feel sticky. And best of all, it helps bring that poised feeling, possible only when you KNOW that deodorizing protection is yours on even the most difficult days! Ask Druggists for AMOLIN!



Just a reminder that "Deep Peach" by YARDLEY is a wonderful Face Powder shade to film your face with mist-blown delicacy now that you're wearing the deeper shades of Autumn. "Deep Peach" is a tender blend of peach-ochre tones... neither too heavy nor too light for Fall. Cost is just $1 a box at fine shops everywhere. Ask for this famous English Complexion Powder by YARDLEY . . . you'll enjoy using YARDLEY'S Powder NOW!

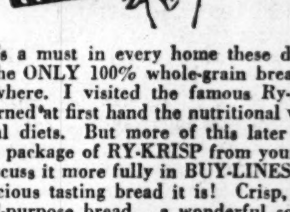
It's wonderful to know, in these days of so many disappointments, that the original nineteen exquisite shades of CHEN YU Nail Lacquer are still to be had . . . unchanged . . . still breathtakingly beautiful and as scornful of chipping as ever. All good stores have them (75c) or you can get two very generous trial bottles by sending 25c to Chen Yu, Dept. N.S., Chicago, with a note indicating your choice of shades. I am printing them here for your convenience: * * * MANDARIN RED (almost black), CANTON RED (deep garnet), BURMA RED (true red-red), DRAGON'S BLOOD (darkly glowing), TEMPLE FIRE (flashing red), BROWN CORAL (deep rose, slightly bronzed), OPIUM POPPY (deep garnet), COOLIE (dramatic red brown), FLOWERING PLUM (vivid cyclamen), WISTARIA (deepish orchid), WEEPING WILLOW (reddish-brown), BLUE MOSS (smoky taupe), CHINA DOLL (very fragile), GREEN DRAGON, MING YELLOW, BLACK LUSTER, BLUE DRAGON, ROYAL PLUM, HEAVENLY MAUVE.

A New Food Buy-Line



for All the Family!

Here's a BUY-LINE that's a must in every home these days! It's RY-KRISP . . . probably the ONLY 100% whole-grain bread that can be bought just about everywhere. I visited the famous Ry-Krisp Laboratories in St. Louis and learned at first hand the nutritional value of whole rye in normal and special diets. But more of this later . . . for I'm going to ask you to buy a package of RY-KRISP from your Grocer's this week, so that when we discuss it more fully in BUY-LINES from now on, you'll realize what a delicious tasting bread it is! Crisp, crunchy, delicately flavored, it's an all-purpose bread...a wonderful source of nutrition. RY-KRISP, you know, is a very popular bread in reducing diets because each slice has only 23 calories. And it's exactly "what the doctor orders" for wheat-free diets. because it contains no other grain but rye. Get RY-KRISP from your Grocer's this week . . . flaked whole rye, water and salt made in the famous Scandinavian manner.

★★ "Brighten Up" ★★

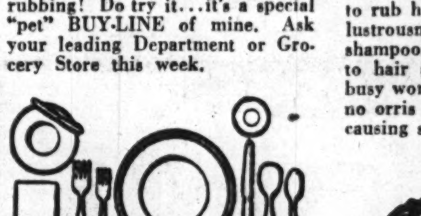
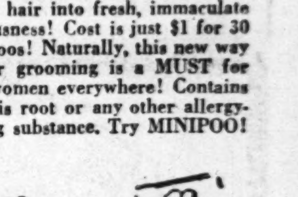
If you want to reflect the radiance of Fall brightness INSIDE your home . . . give special attention to the silver articles you have in your rooms! Why not have a special "brighten-up" day this week? Ask your Department or Grocery store for that wonderful SILVO Liquid Silver Polish that makes ONE rub do the work of three! Cost is but 25c . . . yet it's the same polish used on the priceless silver and gold services of the King of England! SILVO is a liquid . . . gets right down into crevices and then comes right out with the lightest rubbing! Do try it...it's a special "pet" BUY-LINE of mine. Ask your leading Department or Grocery Store this week.

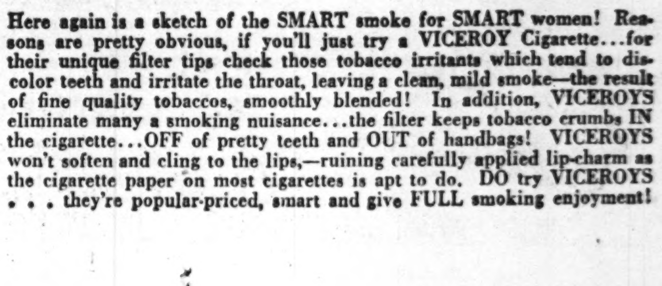
Women in war work find that MINIPOO is one of their greatest beauty allies! Dust, grit, grease and grime in the air settle in their hair . . . bring need for freshening even between regular shampoos. And that's where MINIPOO is invaluable . . . cleansing hair of dirt, but leaving the precious wave intact, in 10 minutes flat, with no soap, water or drying time-out! Ask your Department or Drug Store for MINIPOO,—fragrant powder and a terry-cloth mitt with which to rub hair into fresh, immaculate lustrousness! Cost is just $1 for 30 shampoos! Naturally, this new way to hair grooming is a MUST for busy women everywhere! Contains no orris root or any other allergy-causing substance. Try MINIPOO!



"Craftsman", "Candlelight", "Old Mirror", "Silver Flutes" . . . how these lovely, heart-warming words conjure up pictures of gracious living! They're the names of TOWLE Sterling patterns . . . and they, along with others as lovely, are a bride's dream-come-true! The grace of TOWLE patterns and the superb craftsmanship of TOWLE silversmiths have brought beauty into homes of brides since 1690 . . . through other wars and years of peace. And even though TOWLE has gone to war, with the rest of us today, you can still start your OWN TOWLE Sterling now! 12 of the most popular patterns are still being made in 7 essential pieces...and after the war you'll be able to get EVERYTHING in your chosen pattern! Here's how to do it with the least possible waiting . . . ask your Jeweler about the TOWLE War Bond Plan . . . with a "priority number" for quicker post-war delivery of your precious OWN TOWLE Silver!



If you were a portrait painter, you wouldn't picture a charming woman with hands old as Methuselah, would you? Of course not—for a young and lovely face deserves smooth. soft feminine hands! So why not let PACQUINS Hand Cream help guard YOUR hands against the effect housework, war production jobs and service tasks of today bring to your hands? PACQUINS is a cream that's dainty and fragrant—spreads right on your handskin to help keep it satin-smooth. It was first created for doctors and nurses, whose hands are in water from 30 to 40 times a day ...but for years past has been one of America's greatest beauty-boons to women who realize that young alluringly lovely hands are IMPORTANT! You'll find PACQUINS Hand Cream in Drug, Department and 10c stores!



Here again is a sketch of the SMART smoke for SMART women! Reasons are pretty obvious, if you'll just try a VICEROY Cigarette...for their unique filter tips check those tobacco irritants which tend to discolor teeth and irritate the throat, leaving a clean, mild smoke—the result of fine quality tobaccos, smoothly blended! In addition, VICEROYS eliminate many a smoking nuisance...the filter keeps tobacco crumbs IN the cigarette...OFF of pretty teeth and OUT of handbags! VICEROYS won't soften and cling to the lips,—ruining carefully applied lip-charm as the cigarette paper on most cigarettes is apt to do. DO try VICEROYS . . . they're popular-priced, smart and give FULL smoking enjoyment!
